Toronto, October 31.—Another collision occurred on the Grand Trunk Railway this morning, about two and a half miles west of the city, near the Dundas bridge. A special freight train from Stratford was given the order to go ahead at Carlton about 4 o'clock this morning, the operator apparently forgetting that the regular freight train, No. 16, was due to cross there about that time. The consequence was that the two trains met and came into collision with terrible force. The driver of the regular train saw the special turning the curve, but the Toronto, Grey & Bruce runs parallel with the Grand Trunk track at this point and he thought it was an engine on that line that was approaching. The engineer of the special was William Nye, and the conductor James Dorsh, both of whom escaped with comparatively slight injuries. The conductor of No. 16 was named Jackson, and the engineer, William Rutherford. They also suffered but little injury, but the brakesman of this train, Frederick Still, it is feared, was fatally hurt. He was horribly scalded the skin peeling off from the flesh from head to foot. His left arm is broken in two places and there is a hole in the small of his back several inches deep, from which he has lost a fearful quantity of blood. He was carried to the general hospital, where he now lies unconscious and able to speak, but the doctor does not entertain the slightest hope of his recovery. He is a native of Stratford, and is nineteen years of age. The damage to the rolling stock is heavy. Both engines are completely wrecked, the collision having been so forcible as to turn them both round in the opposite direction to which they were going. Seven cars are entirely destroyed, and most of the remainder of the eighteen forming the two trains are more or less damaged. The loss is estimated at fully thirty thousand dollars. Traffic was entirely stopped, and was not resumed till this afternoon. The line is now clear, and trains will run as usual.

Sneezing.

Among the ancient Greeks and Romans the act of sneezing was regarded as a portent of good or evil, according to circumstances, and was consequently looked on with superstitious awe. Modern science has changed all that, and given a ridiculously simple explanation of the phenomenon which all can understand, as follows:—Sneezing is a phenomenon provoked either by an excitation brought to bear on the nasal mucuous membrane or by a sudden shock of the sun's rays or the membranes of the eye. This peri-buccal irritation is transmitted by the trifacial nerve to the Gasserian ganglion, whence it passes by a commissure to an agglomeration of ganglions in the medulla oblongata or in the protuberance; from this point by a series of numerous reflex and complicated acts, it is transformed by the mediation of the spinal cord into a centrifugal excitation which radiates outwards by means of the spinal nerves to the expiratory muscles. —Boston Advertiser.

JOY AMONG THE CHILDREN

COPELAND'S SWEET CASTOR OIL, equally suitable for children and adults. Endorsed by over 6 0 doctors in Canada. The difficulty of administering nauseous medicines and the desirability of having them pleasant to the taste, induced T. Copeland to undertake researches, which resulted in the discovery of a Sweet Castor Oil, perfectly palatable, of the same strength and medical qualities as the ordinary Castor Oil; and which equally safe and harmless yet acting with more certainty, and producing neither nausea nor griping. Some children say it is honey; others call it syrup—they all say they like it. One parent says—"My children drink it like water;" another—"We had to hide the bottle or they would have finished it right off;" another—"My little girl has taken it twice without any trouble, and does not know what it is, though she hates the ordinary Castor Oil, and we never could get her to take it without a fight;" yet another—"I wish you success of your Sweet Castor Oil; it is a splendid thing—sure to take the place of all common oil."

The extraordinary demand for this improvement of a staple household medicine has brought fraudulent imitations into the market, but the public can guard themselves against substitutes (which unprincipled parties are attempting to sell on the reputation of this article) by seeing that the name, COPELAND'S SWEET CASTOR OIL, is on both wrapper and direction label.

The undersigned having purchased Messrs T. Copeland & Co's interest in the above preparation, are now manufacturing it from the original recipe.

THE WANDERER.

A FAVOURITE GERMAN SONG, TRANSLATED FROM THE GERMAN.

O'er the wide world all lonely I roam,
Far, far away from my own native home;
O'er the wild mountains my footsteps is fleet,
Fearful abysses yawn wide at my feet;—
Still, my beloved, where'er I may be,
Thy gentle presence is ever with me.

High in the cloud-land winds my wild course,
Whence the stream dashes with dizzying force
From the white glacier's cold bosom of snow
I gaze on the world in the realms below;—
Here, even here, my beloved, I see
Thy gentle spirit still present with me.

Far in the depths of the solemn ravine,
Where the lake gleams in its silvery sheen,—
Over the desert's hot glittering sand,—
Hearing my steps o'er a strange distant land;—
Still, while I carried, I never could see
Thy gentle spirit still present with me.

So must I wander, the wide world o'er,
On many an ocean, on many a shore;
Still, while I tarry, wherever I roam,—
Faithful I am to my love and my home;—
Still my beloved, where'er I may be,
Thy gentle presence is ever with me.

A SAD STORY.

WHAT BECAME OF A MONTREAL BANKRUPT JEWELLER—TRAGIC END OF HIS HANDSOME SISTER—THE NEMESIS OF FATE.

Many of our readers were made fully acquainted through these columns in the Fall of 1876, with the brief and startling career in this city of Eugene G. Mellor, at one time a prosperous and well-known jeweller of Notre Dame street. How he wooed and won a pretty little French girl; how he gradually acquired a love for drink and deserted his wife for one Helen Bastien, a notorious profligate; how his business fell away from him by reason of his negligence, and he was at last compelled to flee from his creditors, first melting down all his valuable stock of jewellery into bars for convenience of transit; how his sisters and wife were arrested as accomplices, charged with secreting the effects of the estate; how the poor females were subjected to a preliminary criminal trial and were discharged out of charity, and how they were arrested at Prescott and again at Ogdensburg, and each time found to have secreted in the woodwork of their trunks a portion of the melted valuables, and how his aged mother, his sisters, wife and sick children were cast adrift, by the indignant creditors penniless upon the world, are all facts, doubtless fresh in the minds of readers

Latterly, an article appeared in the Staats Zeitung, of New York, which gives the beginning, and the end of this very sad story:

About twenty years ago there stood on Woodward Avenue, Detroit, in place of the stately brick building occupied by the dry goods firm of H. Groening & Co., a weather-beaten frame house, on the ground floor of which Mr. Mellor, a well known German, carried on the business of jeweller. The store was small, consisting only of one little room, but the stock of genuine jewellery it contained excelled in value and variety that of many an establishment of higher standing and more pretentious appearance. Mr. Mellor was known as a jeweller of high skill, and was aided in his business by his children—a son and two daughters—the girls being as proficient in their father's art as they were beautiful in appearance.

Mellor was born in Sweden. When quite young he settled in Teplitz, Bohemia, and married in that place. He emigrated to the United States in 1850 and settled in Cleveland, afterwards removing to Detroit, where resided until his death, in prosperity and happiness. The business was carried on by the family until the war broke out, when the widow decided to settle in Canada and came to Montreal, where she started a jewellery store in partnership with her son. The business prospered, and the son being an exceedingly able man gained an enormous credit. Soon, alas! he contracted bad habits, got into bad company, and neglected his business. Things became worse and worse, creditors pressed for payment, and one fine morning the city was startled by the news that E. G. Mellor had absconded with his favorite mistress, taking with him the whole of his stock in trade which it afterwards proved he had melted down for the purpose. His family, including his aged mother, were left penniless. Nothing was heard of him for some time, but at last it was reported that he was leading a dissipated life down South with his mistress. Shortly afterwards his insane career was suddenly checked. He was arrested in St Louis, and sentenced to a term of years in the penitentiary, from which he succeeded in making his escape some two years ago, and has never been heard of since. Meanwhile his aged mother, his two sisters, wife and two children, lived in the greatest poverty for some time, until finally they decided, if possible, to find him out and endeavour to effect his reclamation. They left Montreal and went no one knew whither until lately, when we heard of the sad fate of the eldest sister Emily. After many reverses she obtained a situation as a nurse in a hospital for women in St. Louis, and there, by some mistake, administered a deadly poison to one of the patients in mistake for medicine. On learning what she had done she was driven to despair, and decided on expiating the offence by ending her own life in the same way, and a few hours later saw her lying peacefully dead beside her poor patient. The mental suffering of the poor girl will be seen from the following letter, which she wrote shortly before her tragic death;

"Since I made the unfortunate mistake I am driven to despair! Oh! It is horrible to witness such misery caused by my own hand. It was God's will that the poor creature had to die, and I must follow now. I only request you to place me by the side of my victim when I am gone. Do not refuse me this, my last prayer. Death will soon unite us. Through night to light."

EMILIE MELLOR.

Her wish was granted, for both were interred side by side in the city cemetery of St. Louis.—Montreal Herald.

A church 2 ft. high of Gibraltar was established at Montreal on Thursday, in the office of Mr. Justice Ball of Mount Royal Lodge. It was manufactured and will strongly resemble the original. It was given to Bishop Oxenden and Ball were given to Archbishop Dr. Campbell of London, who had been deposed to perform the opening ceremonies.

THE SECRETS OF THE NORTH POLE.

AN OLD WHALER'S VIEWS—SUBTERRANEAN ICE.

Captain Tripp, a well-known whaling captain who has made several voyages to the Arctic Ocean is a disbeliever in an open Polar sea. His trip to the world of ice this present year has but confirmed his experiences in the past. In a conversation with him a Chronicle reporter procured some interesting facts on this somewhat mystified subject. No vessels have been able to get farther than 63° north this year, and all captains report heavy ice in the Arctic. In one of his voyages, while Capt. Tripp was master of the barque Arctic, he reached as high as latitude 73°. In 1870 Wrangel's Land was clear of ice, and in 1871 his ship was within a mile of the shore of that land which no human being has ever stepped upon, so far as history tells us. With the aid of a splendid glass, he got a good view of the entire bay of the land, but he was unable to see any human habitation, or evidence thereof. No animal life was visible save sea birds that flitted in mid-air along the shore. The earth was green, no snow being visible anywhere. A coast range is visible from the ocean which resembles coast regions farther south, extending as far as California. Shrubs were plainly visible but Captain Tripp was unable to discover any large trees or forests.

Wrangle's Land runs north-west, and, so far as known, extends indefinitely into regions never penetrated by the white man. The Indians inhabiting that portion of Alaska bordering on the North Pole have no traditions that any people have ever been seen on Wrangle's Land, though they state that deer of a variety unknown to Alaska have been found on Herald Island, in the heart of the Arctic, and from which the land named can be distinctly seen. It is supposed that the animals made their way across the ice from the mainland of Wrangle to the Island. No canoes, clothing, or relics of any kind have drifted from Wrangle's Land to Alaska, as an indication that a new race of human beings existed in the unexplored regions of the Arctic. Still, it is believed by those sea captains who have taken close observations that the mysterious country alluded to is habitable. The fact that no snow was to be seen, that vegetation looked green and vigorous, and that mountains loomed up in the distance, as sheltering fortresses for the valleys, are many proofs that humanity could find a foothold there. It seems that no whaling captains ever attempted to land on Wrangle's Land, but it must be remembered that they visit the Arctic regions as business men, not as explorers.

Captain Tripp says that if the North Pole exists and it is ever to be discovered the discovery will be made from the Pacific side, as navigators can reach many degrees further north on the Pacific without suffering the least inconvenience from climatic rigour, than on the Atlantic. At Kotzebue Sound at the mouth of Buckland River, Captain Tripp saw land seven hundred feet high, beneath which a stratum of ice was distinctly visible. At Point Barron the land is only six feet above the ice, all beneath being a stratum of congealed water. How deep the stratum is remains unknown, but it is certain that the earth has gradually formed itself on the ice. There is reason to believe that Wrangle's Land is of like formation, at least along the shore. There is no telling how far the ice body extends inland as a substratum. If a body of earth seven hundred feet high can rest on a mass of ice along the shore, there is no reason why a mountain seven thousand feet high can not have ice as a basis in the interior.—San Francisco Chronicle

LOW-NECKED SERMONS.

From the New York Herald.

Mr. Talmage has been telling us for some weeks past how he went one night as far as the gates of hell and flirted with Beelzebub. If he had gone just a little further he might have lost some pungent sermons, but we do not know that we should have put on mourning; for he could continue his work to great advantage on the deacons and elders of the Everlasting Sulpher Springs, and might even have frightened the pastor himself out of his boots and made him tremble with remorse to the end of his tail. That would be a great gain to the world. We have no doubt Mr. Talmage believes in his modest heart that if any style of oratory could get the better of Old Nick it is that unique kind which bellows and cavorts in the Brooklyn Tabernacle. It is not quite so edifying to find him coming before a gaping congregation, his holy hook baited with choice bits of male devil fish and the wings of the poor, soiled butterflies of the world of vice. He denounces low-necked dresses, but he preaches low-necked sermons. It is not given to every man to see infamous depths of prurient suggestion in the ball dress of a lady, but Tartuffe looking through his fingers, can tell you things about it you do not dream of with your untrained eyes. To see a minister buzzing like a bumble bee around a woman's clothing and alighting on her graceful neck with a particularly loud QUEK, saying, "Beware! this is not God-given beauty, this is accursed flesh," is revolting. In this style of sermon a gaiter is not a gaiter, but a temptation. Not only what we have but what we have not is dragged in. "I am told," says Mr. Talmage, "that there is coming from Paris a fashion that is shocking beyond compare." Here is the low-knocked sermon at its worst, tickling vile appetites by anticipation. The simplest thing of soul being are given strange meanings, until the fiery exhortation at the end sounds like chop-track designed to tone the fleshy vestures of what has gone before—a little bit of disturbed ribbon around the [illegible] accident. As the Staten Island mystery deepens other colossal mysteries to light as Mr. Talmage has brought forth other low-necked sermons. One reverend gentleman, indeed, has undertaken to describe the sins of London as Talmage has that of New York, for which purpose and to heighten the contrast he puts the late Argyll rooms next door to St. Paul's Cathedral! We guess shall have subsistence giving "Night Horrors of Paris" and "Vice in Vienna" for the all this time will true religion be advanced a peg, or will vice, thus exploited by clergy and paraded in the pulpit, gain or lose in victims? We think it would be better for the youth of Brooklyn if Mr. Talmage had opened his ponderous and marble jaws a month ago and swallowed himself rather than shown them, as he has, how easy it is even for a clergyman to go grimacing to the gates of hell. Does he think they will take his word for what he has seen?

THE WANDERER.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A man who has no enemies is seldom good for anything. He is made of that kind of material which is so easily worked that every one tries a hand in it. A sterling character—one who speaks for himself and speaks what he thinks—is always sure to have enemies; they are as necessary to him as fresh air; they keep him active and alive. A celebrated person who was surrounded by enemies, used to say:—"They are sparks which if you do not blow them they go out themselves." Let this be your feeling while endeavoring to live down the scandal of those who are bitter against you. If you stop to dispute, you do but as they desire, and open the way for more pluse. Let the poor fellows talk. There will be a reaction if you do but perform your duty; and hundreds, who were once alienated from you, will look to you and acknowledge their error.

A genuine man of business must combine in his character many excellent and rare qualities. He must have in a high degree that virtue which men have always found the least pleasant of virtues—prudence. His prudence however, will not be merely of a cautious and quiescent order, but that which, being ever actively engaged, is more fully called discretion than prudence. Such a man must have almost ignominious lack of details, blended (and this is a rare combination) with a high power of imagination, enabling him to look along long extended lines of possible action, and put there details in their right place. He requires a great knowledge of character, with that exquisite tact which feels unerringly the right moment when to act. A discreet rapidity must pervade all the movements of his thought and action. He must be singularly free from vanity, and is generally found to be an enthusiast who has the art to conceal his enthusiasm. The consumate business business man is a rare character.

The Majority—How Obtained.

(From the Stratford Beacon.)

Mr. Cattwright shows that no less than 30 of the constituencies lost by the Reformers were carried by majorities ranging from 10 to 100—many of them nearer the former than the latter figure. In these 30 constituencies a change of 1500 votes would have made all the difference between defeat and victory. Now no man of common sense will deny that there are in many of the 30 constituencies more than 50 voters who have no political principles and never pretended to have any. The fact is that in most constituencies the entire Reform party stood by the Government, but all the greedy, unprincipled salable voters in the community sided with the National Policyists, and for the time being bribery and numbers have carried the day. All right. But wait until the poor dupes who acted from the basest and most sordid motives—who bartered their franchise for prospective gain—find that Sir John Macdonald has sold them, and the reaction will be swift and sure. The majority is not a majority of Tories, and there is no man in Canada who knows it better than the Tory leader.

Public Accounts of Ontario.

The Tory organs are busy just now in trying by gross misrepresentation and base insinuation, to poison the public mind in reference to the Ontario Government, in the hope that Torydom may seize the Departments at Toronto as it has succeeded in doing at Ottawa. The chief portion of their energies is spent upon the Public Accounts of the Province, and with true Tory unfairness they are comparing the annual expenditure of later years with that of 1871, with an implied, if not expressed idea that there should have been no increase, notwithstanding that largely increased necessities for the outlay of money in the interests of the Province. It is manifestly unjust to compare the outlay of one year with that of another without also considering the demands and circumstances of the expenditure in both cases. Especially in the matter of money should criticism be fairly made on the merits of the case, for a loose discussion of this sort involves an accusation of dishonesty, such as should only be made on sure grounds, and backed by indubitable proofs. The man or journal that would make such allusions to persons as the Tory papers are just now making in regard to the Ontario Ministry would be speedily denounced by all, and probably become defendants in an action for slander and libel. This latter remedy is scarcely practicable in the case under discussion, but the deserved popular condemnation is quite in order, and likely to be given. The utter meanness of covert insinuations regarding the expenditure of money, does not at all accord with the thorough idea of fair play possessed by the Canadian people. If there be anything to complain of, it is plainly the right of the electors that the matter be clearly laid before them, divested of all misleading wordiness, and freed from every unnecessary remark, whether for personal or party purposes. The expenditure of public money is in the end as in the beginning, the people's business, and less than any other matter should it be converted into a party shuttlecock. On the floor of the House and in the proper committee the items of Provincial expenditure are pretty fully dealt with. Thus any matter that may require explanation is opened for investigation, and the way is cleared for such fair discussion as is needful. Parliament is, or should be, made fully cognizant of the details of expenditure through the Pasific Accounts Committee, and the people's representatives pass judgment as in duty bound. If it be necessary to carry the discussion outside the House, either on the political platform or into the newspapers, the very nature of transactions with money demands discreet dealing, with the particularity of statement so advisable in ordinary matters of financial character. Those who neglect such one in the treatment of so delicate, yet serious matter, are either grossly ignorant, or have some rascally purpose to serve by a departure from all rules of business prudence and decency.

Of the reprehensible style of discussion is an article in the local Tory journal last week, in which contemptible innuendo and cowardly insinuation are interwoven with all the skill of a mind trained to such species of low cunning. Disclaiming with characteristic hypocrisy, any judgment on the honesty and integrity of the Mowat Government, it makes that government and its supporters in the House the objects of malicious misrepresentation. It is held that the public accounts committee is not a sufficient check on expenditure, and that the Report is not published as early as it might be. There are both excellent subjects for the calm and candid erutiny of the members of the Provincial Parliament. Indeed these gentlemen have had them under discussion and subsequently has been a decision in favor of the present system of audit, and the presentation of the public accounts to Parliament. The parable is to pervert the public accounts of the past parliamentary year as soon as possible after the opening of the next ensuing session. This sometimes involves a considerable delay in the issue of the full Report, but sufficiently full through more disjointed statements of the finances are principally given to the House. It may be fairly agreed that the full accounts might and should be in the hands of the people sooner, but while they are presented as an address to the Lieutenant-Governor, it clearly would be a branch of the privileges of the crown were they published before formal presentation to the Queen's representative. At least this was the decision of the House when the matter was brought before it last session by a somewhat pragmatical and irrepressible member. The great majority of the members, both Reform and Conservative then voted in defence of the Royal privilege. Such being the case, it is hardly news to now bring the matter up outside the House, without at least suggesting some way in which a reform of procedure may be made. The insinuation that the Public Accounts Committe cannot properly perform the work entrusted to it is rather rough on the members of that Committe, some of which are Conservatives undeserving of such severity from one of their own journals. Though we could name some of them, we deem it unnecessary to particularize in the present instance. We will merely say that if the Committee in question did not last session properly fulfil its functions, the omission was largely owing to the seemingly studied absence from its sittings of Conservative members. If the local Tory journal would but stir up its friends to faithful attention to their public duties it would be better engaged than in making mean insinuations against a committee which has the consideration of finance imposed upon it. It surely cannot be that Mr. Scott was consulted by his organ before the publication of such covert accusations against the members of the Public Accounts Committee. If so the member for Peterborough in the Ontario Assembly must indeed be degenerating by reason of evil communications.

CHAMELEON-LIKE POLITICIANS.

The galvanized Pacific Scandal Ministry is encouraging, through journals devoted to it, those who want changes in the tariff to prefer their demands. This encouragement has certainly been caused by a defence of the persistent manufacturers against the criticisms of the Opposition press upon their somewhat arrogant and exclusive assertion of their peculiar wishes. It appears from the discussion thus raised that the Government intends to consult with the manufacturers, and to listen to the suggestions of such interested outsiders on the framing of "the coming tariff." Men engaged in a certain business when thus set in the way of obtaining an advantage, will not hesitate to make the most of their opportunity. Being practically educated in a special sphere they know what is wanted by them. But equally are they ignorant of the claims and rights of other people. These then, they are soon to exclude from the calculation, which will therefore be an excessively selfish one. The expert understands not only the strong but the weak points of his case; and will take care to put these in the background, the while those are being buttressed in every way imaginable. Those to whom he represents his case, knowing little or nothing of either his trade or its tricks, are not likely to detect his craft, and are easily taken in by specious or even false representations. They are plainly not able to judge fairly of the evidence of a witness personally interested in what they virtually can know nothing about. They must then either reject his representations as unreliable, or take them as a factor in their figuring. This acceptance of too-careful testimony is the rather to be expected in a case in which it has been asked for by those anxious to make a decision. This principle being admitted, the country at once is in danger of being governed, not by responsible ministers, but by the extraneous influence on Ministers of rings of speculators, who use the government as a help to their trade gambling. Such a result we already see in the United States, where the legislation is controlled from the lobbies, and not from the floor of the House.

We are told that "the coming tariff" is to foster and encourage every branch of business, except the importers. But if every branch of business is to be fostered at the expense of the importer, and he, poor fellow, crushed, what is to become of those almost innumerable branches of business which depend on the importer for their supplies, and their very existence? In this very town for instance, nearly all men in business, even the advertisers in the Protectionist journal, depend largely on the importer. What therefore hurts the importer hurts them. And where are they going to get compensation? Certainly not by having to pay tribute to the manufacturers' League! It is about time that our merchants, artizans, —aye, and farmers and laboring men, were forming leagues, if for no more than to defend their interests. Buyers and consumers have certainly as much right to consideration in the framing of "the coming tariff," as have sellers and manufacturers.

The hopeful feature of the present position of "the coming tariff" is, that not only will precipitation into Protection be promoted by getting "the fullest information," but Mr. Tilley's visit to England will further put a damper on the hopes of Protectionists. By the time the "fullest information" is obtained it will be found that the conflicting interests will not admit of any change of fiscal policy; and Mr. Tilley will discover that British and Colonial connection must preclude a Protectionist policy. It will probably be said then that Sir John did what he considered in the general interests of the country. But that is just what the Hon. Alex. Mackenzie did, and without any nonsense and trickery about it either. In no case can the present Ministers do right. If they adopt a Protectionist policy they wrong the whole country; if not they wrong those whom they led to expect it. The latter is the less evil.

The preparations for the departure of the Marquis of Lorne and the Princess Louise from England are now complete. They have taken their leave of the Prince and Princess of Wales; some of the other members of the Royal Family will accompany them to Liverpool. That city will be en fete on the occasion, and the farewell ceremonies promise to be very imposing. The arrangements for the welcome of the Vice-Regal pair on their arrival of the Atlantic are also extensive. Most of the other anti-monopoly and other societies in the Dominion will present addresses of welcome. The Duke of Edinburgh will meet the Marquis and Princess at Halifax.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

By the death of Chief-Justice Harrison, Mr. Moss's judicial title will be Chief-Justice of Ontario, and Mr. Harrison successor will be styled the Chief-Justice of the Court of Queen's Bench.

Lord Salisbury's reply to Secretary Evarts protests against the Halifax award has reached Washington. A despatch from that city says the American Government will pay the award by November 23rd under protest.

About 1 o'clock yesterday morning a fire broke out in the yard of the Central Prison, Toronto, and destroyed the paint shop, the drying kiln, the engine-room, and the store-room, together with their contents, consisting of machinery and wooden material. The loss has not been definitely ascertained, but is estimated at between $75,000 and $100,000, which is covered by insurance.

A FREE TRADE LEAGUE has been formed in Germany to combat the assertion of Protectionist doctrines. Why not form such a league in Canada? It is about time some systematic opposition was instituted to meet the danger that threatens the Dominion by the enunciation of protectionist fallacies by a class of reckless politicians, only intent on their own ambitious schemes.

One of many contrasts between Hon. Mr. Mackenzie and Sir John Macdonald is seen in their formation of a Cabinet. When Mr. Mackenzie was called to office he had his Ministry announced within twenty-four hours; but Sir John with as large a majority has taken weeks to get a government together, and still it is not officially complete. The one acted promptly on patriotic principle, the other is hampered by considerations of party expediency and personal preferment.

The news regarding the relations between Britain and Russia continue to be re-assuring. Confirmatory despatches have been received of the Czar's professed intention to respect the treaty, and Schouvaloff has gone to conciliate Austria. He had a long interview with Count Andrassy at Pesth yesterday. The Greek frontier difficulty, too, is likely to be peacefully settled, the Porte having accepted the principle of its ratification. There are some disquieting rumors of Russian forces being in Afghanistan, and of the concentration of 30,000 native troops at Ghizni, but letters from Cabul represent war as unpopular among the natives.

The Halifax Herald has the unenviable character of having exceeded all its contemporaries in violence of partisanship, indecency of language, slanderous allegations—formal and political—and shameless misrepresentation. It is Dr. Tupper's organ especially devoted to his interests and those of Mr. James Macdonald, now Minister of Justice. Its conductor a man of annexationist reputation, was the person who so far forgot what was due to ordinary propriety as to make a bodily affliction of a member of the House of Commons, who happened to be obnoxious to him, the subject of his course scurility. He has his reward, having been appointed Private Secretary to his patron, Mr. James Macdonald. This means, probably that the Halifax Herald in future will be virtually "run" from Ottawa, the public treasury providing the salary of its editor.

Most of the Dominion Ministers who had to appeal to the country, have been elected by acclamation. Reformers adopting the British theory, that members of the Cabinet, seeking re-election as such should not be opposed. This is in striking contrast to the contests waged by the Conservatives against Ministers going back to their constituents as such. There can be no complaint either that the Tory government is not given every chance to bring on speedily the policy formed by those comprising it, which policy was to quickly chase away hard times and bring certain prosperity. But the delay against which the Tories cried out before the change of Government is still continued by their own leaders. Now, too, the case is worse than before; for while the Mackenzie government remained in power there was a certainty that the tariff would remain as it was for a somewhat definite period, whereas now all are in the dark both as to the changes to be wrought and the time they will be made. It is this uncertainty that kills business of all kinds. The case of the merchants is put plaintively in another column, and "Traders" letter only expresses for his class what is felt by all other classes in greater or less degree.

The Ottawa correspondent of the Globe writes: "The Conservative Government is about to suffer for the folly of its friends who last winter gathered a mob in Parliament House Square to demand bread or work. While Mr. Mackenzie at that time was not in a position to meet their demands upon the public treasury, yet such cases as were really deserving were alleviated from the funds in his own slender private purse. Astonished by the success under the leadership of their quondam friends, the Tory organizers, the worst characters in Lower Town, are preparing for a series of Communistic meetings to be held in this city. Several messages of a seemingly innocent character have been telegraphed here from Chicago, and the outcome is that two or three weeks before the meeting of Parliament, a Communist orator from Chicago will arrive in Ottawa for the purpose of addressing public gatherings. In Lower Town as the present time there are elements of a most inflammable character, and the speeches no doubt will be applauded, as similar speeches were applauded last winter. A Conservative holding an official position is said to be on the committee of management, and is using the agitation as a means to secure his return as an alderman. The series of public meetings referred to are to be closed with a Communistic demonstration in Parliament House Square."

The Tory organs generally are endorsing a remark of the Chatham Planet, to the effect that the Government plan now being pursued is to get positive information on which to base the alterations of the tariff. So this is the present result of all the high-sounding Tory speeches and Tory writings on the necessity of immediate Protection to native industries! The distress of the people has been so little sympathized with or to be made a party catching-feature in an election campaign. Only this, and nothing more! The late Government unanimously and ostensibly went through a collection of information from manufacturers concerning which complaint had been made, had it found a change of fiscal policy justifiable. The present Ministry, going to an election on a platform as utterly void of any pledge as to a change of tariff, and then going about to seek a base for such alterations. If the Tory leaders had no information on which to base their views, how did they come to demand a change of tariff policy at all? Their views must have been purely visionary if not founded on indubitable information. If then they had a basis for their contentions—and promises too—before the election why not act on that basis now? Or if they had not such basis as their organs seem to now admit, is it not evident that they with cold-blooded hypocrisy deceived sufferers from the hard times, all the time laughing in their sleeves at their distressed and destitute dupes! These are the men, forsooth, who are said to have expiated the sin of the Pacific Scandal! Political morality must be at a low ebb in a party that can follow such men and such practices!

Keep Him to His Promises.

Mr. Hilliard is in the same box as Mr. McQuade, except that the latter promised to vote bodily against Sir John A. Macdonald, if he did not give the farmers protection on their oats and wheat and barley and corn—also particularly on sheep. In fact it was the sheep coming in duty free that helped very largely to elect Mr. McQuade, for did not our versatile contemporary the Warder go out to the unsophisticated elector and pose in the character of a "frightful example." It is well to keep Mr. Hilliard up to his promises; and so also must Mr. McQuade be kept up to his pledge to make Sir John "toe the mark"—Lindsay Post.

Mr. Hilliard, the honest yeomanry of this county have their eye upon you, and are anxiously awaiting the advent of the National Policy, so hurry up and don't keep them in suspense.

The New Telegraphic Pool.

IT IS TO TAKE EFFECT NEXT YEAR.

The telegraphic pooling arrangement is an accomplished fact. Capt. Mayne, who was appointed arbitrator, entered upon the task of determining what percentage of receipts should fall to each company. He rendered his decision in writing to Sir Hugh Allan and Mr. Thos. Swinyard, Managing Director of the Dominion Telegraph Co. The pool may be considered as a settled fact, and will come into operation on January 1st. The intention of the Companies is to continue the tariff at present. Indeed the Dominion Company decline to enter into any arrangement which had for its object the increase of rates, but a considerable reduction will be brought about in working expenses. It is understood that the per centage agreed upon under the pooling arrangement is 70 per cent. for the Montreal and 30 per cent for the Dominion Line.

MASSACRES BY INDIANS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—A letter from Denver gives a detailed account of an awful raid of Cheyenne Indians in Apps Valley on September the 29th and 30th. During that time they massacred fourteen men and left twenty families in utter destitution by burning ranches and crops, stealing horses and cattle. Outrages were committed on young girls and women too horrible to recount. After devastating Appa-Valley they went to Beaver River and Republican Valley, where they killed sixteen more men and committed more awful outrages on women and girls. The settlers state that Capt. Mauck, with his troops, comprising a pursuing party, encamped on the night of October 1st only three miles from the camp of the Indians and he allowed the fiends to escape. The military authorities there, the correspondent says, have denied the outrages by Indians, but the correspondent has seen several eye witnesses and some of the victims.

FRIGHTFUL ACCIDENT.

Four Men Dropped Down a Mine Shaft.

At Boyerton, a small borough located on the Colebrookdale branch of the Philadelphia & Reading Railroad, seven miles northwest of Pottstown, Pa., an accident occured at the iron mine of Henry and Jacob Gobel. of Pottstown, which resulted in the death of three men and fatally injuring the fourth. Shortly before noon while Keely Hogg, John Quick, Casper Klabe and Isaac Gehris were being lowered in a bucket to the bottom of a shaft 350 feet deep, the rope around the drum became displaced. When the engineer reversed the engine one of the teeth in the cog wheel broke, and in a second tore from the other wheel all the cogs. This accident occurred when the bucket had proceeded one-half the distance down the shaft, and, having no support at the surface, the buckett, with its human freight, was dashed to the bottom. The excitement when the news of the disaster became known was intense, and hundreds gathered around the mouth of the mine. Ropes were procured and men lowered to the bottom.

LIFTING OUT THE VICTIMS.

The four miners were found alive, but all badly injured. Each was surrounded by a network of ropes and with a long, stout cord drawn to the surface. Hogg, aged 30, survived but a few minutes after the accident, having sustained a fracture of the pubic bone and the leg, besides receiving severe internal injuries. Quick had his shoulder bone and two bones of the left leg broken and was injured about the heart. He lingered in great agony until 6 o'clock, when he died. He was aged 50 years and leaves a wife and four children. Casper Klabe, a German, aged about 40 years, had his pelvis fractured, and died about 7 o'clock of internal hemorrhages. He leaves a wife and six children. Isaac Gehris had one leg broken and was otherwise seriously injured. When the Herald correspondent left him, at 8 o'clock, the physicians despaired of his life.—New York Herald.

HANLAN V. HAWDON.

The Champion Matched with the Great Tynesside Sculler.—The Race to be Rowed on the Tyne Next May.

The following despatch was received per cable yesterday afternoon:

LONDON, Nov. 12.—After the boat race on the Tyne yesterday between Lumsden and Hawdon, Hawdon was matched to row Hanlan, the Canadian oarsman, over the Tyne course, next May, for $1,000 a side. This match was not wholly unexpected among Hanlan's more intimate friends here. It was known that Col. Shaw was expected to be present at the Hawdon-Lumsden match on the Tyne on the 11th inst., and it was thought quite possible that the President of the Hanlan Club might throw down the gauntlet to the winner on behalf of Canada's champion. Many expected that Hanlan's first contest would be with either Higgins or Elliott, but Colonel Shaw was quite prudent to fix his bird at such notable game to begin with. He has preferred rather to feel his way, and let Hanlan measure oars with some of the lesser lights to begin with. Though Hawdon has hitherto been considered one of the latter class, it is difficult to say what relative position he may hold by the time the proposed race with Hanlan comes off. He has for some time been regarded as a rising sculler, latterly winning his mess with a comparative ease that promises extremely well for his future. In fact there are now very many who regard him as the prospective champion of England, despite the brilliant reputation of Higgins and Elliott, who are now popularly regarded as the friends of the aspirant. Hanlan's prospective antagonist is, like the champion himself, a mere stripling in years, and of very modest and unassuming personality, being both a little younger and a few pounds lighter than the Canadian. But rumor has spoken highly of his powers, and many consider him a foeman worthy of the steel even of the third sculler of note whom he has disposed of successfully.

Peck was money no object in Chicago to-day. It is just more than you can afford to bet on the Richmond Rabbit to keep ahead of Chicago peck out of Canada.

LAKEFIELD.

Wm. Watson can ship a 20-pound muskinonge a few days. Mem.

The two retiring members of the School Board are Messrs. Graham and Clarke, both of whom have been good men in the right place.

Mr. Hall has shipped 22 car loads of wheaten flour during the interval of about two months.

We are creditably informed that Lakefield has 107 marriageable ladies now on hand. Won't some one introduce a few marriageable young gentlemen.

On Saturday last Dr. Fraser had a narrow escape from drowning in Rice Lake. In company with a teacher from Keene, he went duck-shooting, and having shot a duck the school teacher in haste to secure it fell out of the boat, and both had to swim to shore. Dr. Fraser attempted to carry his gun between his feet but had to drop it, and when he reached the bank was exhausted and numbed with the cold.—News.

APSLEY.

(From our own Correspondent.)

IMPROVEMENTS.—There is begining to be a little more of a "snug village" look about this place in spite of the hard times and scarcity of money. During the past summer the Messrs. McIlmoyle's have added a large wing to their hotel, which makes it now present a respectable appearance, and I believe it is as well conducted as any hotel in the county.

TEMPERANCE HALL.—Your readers are already aware of the splendid Temperance Hall lately put up by the Maple Leaf Lodge I. O. of G. T.

NEW BLACKSMITH SHOP.—Mr. Eastland is building a blacksmith's shop. He evidently believes in the old adage, "opposition is the life of trade," for there is already a good blacksmith's shop in the village, in full blast.

(OH DIT,) that the following buildings are to be put up very shortly. A large store with dwelling attached by Mr. D. Anderson, Crown Land Agent, another large store and dwelling by Mr. P. Shaven, and residence by Mr. R. D. Booth, late of Lakefield, who is now residing here, of course the property around the village is rising in value in consequence.

GOOD TEMPLARS.—The following are the Officers installed for the ensuing quarter of Maple Leaf Temple No. 373:—Bro. D. Anderson, W. C. T.; Sist. E. Anderson, W. V. T.; Bro. J. Lously, W. S.; Bro. R. M. Anderson, W. F. S.; Bro. J. Young, W. C.; Bro. T. Wilson, W. T.; Bro. R. Edgar, W. M.; Sist. Isabella Bullied, W. I. G.; Bro. Wm. Bullied, W. O. G.; Sist. M. M. Hales, W. D. M.; J. Lously, Lodge Deputy.

In my next communication I will endeavor to give your readers some information concerning our future prospects as a settlement, and of our crops in the past summer.

HARVEY.

HARVEY COUNCIL.—The Harvey Council met at the Town Hall, Nov. 7th. Reeve and Councillors all present. Minutes read and confirmed. Communications read from Dennistoun Bros. & Hall, requesting a further grant of $38, to settle costs on the Parker arbitrator's award. From William Ventress, requesting the Council to open concession road allowance adjoining his land, as he cannot, under present circumstances, keep the old road across his land open for the public another year. From W. H. Robertson & Co., account for advertising. An agreement was entered into between the corporation and George Brummel, to grant that part of the old Squaw River road on lot 19 to G. Brummel, in lieu of and in compensation for the newly opened road on lot 19, concession 13, Harvey. On motion, the Clerk was instructed to notify John Wood, Pathmaster, that complaints are entered against him for not completing the statute labour on his road beat. On motion, the time was extended ten days for James Calvert to have the statute labor on his road beat. The Reeve was instructed to grant orders on the Treasurer as follows: John Flynn, $2.02, error in assessing his property in the wrong school section, in the year 1877. Frank Crow, $29.00 for contract on new road. W. H. Robertson & Co., $5.16 for advertising. Parker Davis, for provisions furnished by order of Council to F. Pero and Robert Johnston, $10.15. Also, instructed to notify James Dickson, P.L.S., to survey and locate the new road on lot 19, concession 13, on the proper astronomical bearing. On motion, the Council adjourned, to meet at the Clerk's office on the 30th day of November, 1878.—COM.

POLITICAL NOTES.

REBELLION.—The Irish Canadian is in open revolt against the Conservative party, and advocates the formation of a new party, with Sir Francis Hincks at its head, and Hon. Edward Blake as his Lieutenant in Ontario, and Hon M. Laurier in Quebec. It argues that a descent should first be made on the local Houses, for which Mr. Blake should be a candidate at the next general election.

A CLEAN RECORD.—Not one member of the Mackenzie Cabinet is provided for; not one has received a Governorship, or a Judgeship, or any other high or lucrative position. Having done what was absolutely necessary, they withdrew from the position to which the voice of a deluded people has called other men, and, in so withdrawing, carry with them the respect of all whose good opinion is of the slightest value. There may be room to doubt whether they have done their whole duty to their friends. It is certain that, acting strictly within their constitutional right and following the highest precedents they might have done much more for their party and their friends than they have done, but in the last days of their administration as throughout their whole term of office, they have set an example of purity, self-denial, regard for principle and respect for public opinion of which the Liberal party by all the provinces must feel proud, and which even their bitterest enemies must admire, even through party consideration prevent the expression of that admiration.—St. John Freeman (Irish Catholic.)

THE BALLOT BOX STUFFING CASE.—All the defendants in the ballot-box stuffing case made their appearance in the Court room early this morning. Mr. Christie looked a little more careworn and anxious than he was at the beginning of the trial. Forget hopped about the court room as if there was no judgment hanging over him, at one moment chatting with Christie, and at another with Lemarche or Pilon. The learned Judge took his seat on the Bench at 10.15. After a short address, in which the Court threw out the first count of the indictment, His Honor proceeded to sentence the four defendants, Christie, Forget, Lemarche and Pilon. Mr. Forget was the first to receive sentence. He was fined $200 or one year's imprisonment without hard labor; if he had taken the oath. His Honor said he would have fined him $1,000. Christie was fined $100 or forty-five days; and Pilon $50 or thirty days. Our white Blankets are going out of the store almost as fast as they can take it. They are selling four or five pairs of a time. A great many of them are bought to be sent to friends at a distance.

THE NEWS SPREADING.

It is news for the people of Peterborough and surrounding country to hear that we sell Wrapa BLANKETS by the single pair at a lower price than most wholesale houses sell them at by the bale.

THE CASH DOES IT.

Our system of selling for Cash only and giving no credit enables us to sell goods at prices quite as low as credit houses have to pay for them.

A PROOF.

We are now selling a large lot, very superior at least Canadian grey flannel plain and twilled at 9cts per yard, which we guarantee equal to what credit stores sell at 12cts.

IF YOU DOUBT IT.

Then call and buy a yard of our 9cts grey flannel and be convinced that it is equal to what other stores sell at 12cts we sell it still cheaper by the piece.

Bargains Extraordinary.

We commence a clean sale of winter Dress Goods on Saturday the 16th November.

NOVEMBER MONTH.

November will be the month to buy cheap Dry Goods and cheap Dress Goods in particular.

Our store for Winter Dress Goods—must decidedly go.

WHERE.

It is the wisest plan to keep clear of credit stores however and not give them a chance of making up for losses sustained during the Christmas and New Years holidays by sending great long bills and then bothering poultry called "Dues" also collector.

Teach the rising Canadians never to wear anything until it is paid for, and Canada will soon be every country in the world in all that is good.

THE ONLY FAIR.

Especially fair and right that credit stores put all the credit customers. We don't wish to interfere with either them or their customers. But the cash customers belong to us.

That is we consider that we are entitled to them as long as we can sell goods as much cheaper than credit stores, and on no other grounds do we claim them.

NOTE.

Buy your Dry Goods where you can get the best variety, and best value for ready money, and we are sure of your custom.

Not an Aspirant.—The New York Mail say's one why it should be a sign of ill-breeding or a man to walk with his hands in his trousers' pockets. It is not. It is simply a sign that he is not a candidate for office and don't want to shake hands.

Gilmour & Co., lumbermen, on their limits near Bobcaygeon, while working in the woods was instantly killed by a falling tree. His remains were brought home on Saturday night, and interred on Tuesday in the Methodist Cemetery. He leaves a wife and child to mourn his untimely end.

W. W. Johnston & Co.—This firm, in their fall circular, issued a few days ago, announce a full stock in every department, which will be found attractive in style, good in quality, and lower in price than ever. From a perusal of the stock list we would infer that their patrons will experience no difficulty in suiting themselves, either in variety or price, and we ask for the firm the inspection of intending purchasers.

Personals.—John Walton, Esq., returned home from Kansas on Friday last.....The examinations for teachers certificates in Manitoba, which are being held at Winnipeg and Portage La Prairie, are being conducted by the Rev. J. W. Bell, M.A., formerly of Smith.....There are upwards of fifty candidates.....Mr Bell is another of our Collegiate Institute young men who are holding important positions throughout the Dominion.

Advertising vs. Travelling.—A wholesale grocery house in Chicago some time ago discharged 16 commercial travellers, when it had maintained at a cost of $40,000 a year, doing a profitless business. Last year this house spent $24,000 in advertising and not only was the business increased, but the net profits added to the house for the year were $120,000. Moral: If you would reach customers in the cheapest, best and most direct way—Advertise.

Continuing in Business.—We are requested to state that the business carried on by the late William Mercer, as tailor and gents outfitter, will be continued in the old stand, corner of George and Hunter streets, by the executors of the estate. These gentlemen intend to do all kinds of custom work themselves, or entrust them, in a manner they will be satisfactory both as regards price and quality of work. If you want any article of clothing, call and see them before purchasing elsewhere.

Gem's Pictorial Almanac.—Mr. G. G. Green, of Woodbury, N. J., manufacturer of Green's August Flower and German Syrup, being a thorough believer in advertising, has this year expended about $40,000 in the publication of a very handsome illustrated almanac, which although principally issued for the purpose of bringing to the notice of the people the merits of his celebrated remedies, is a publication of considerable merit. Besides information, and will be eagerly sought for by every household. In addition to the almanac proper, Mr. Green's pamphlet [illegible] and possesses considerable value. 1m.

Severed a Rib.—Cool Burgess appeared at St. James' Hall, London, Eng., on Monday. Hot air, and severed a great concern, being caused several times for his song and dances. "Nicodemus Johnston," which brought several cachinnays to the verge of the grave with laughter. "The Great Canadian Comedian," as the playbill terms him, a correspondent writes, "Ought to be voted a medal by the Humane Society for his efforts in saving life by declining his final encore."

Y. M. P. A.—The Young Men's Presbyterian Association held its first meeting this season, last Monday evening, in the St. Andrew's School Room. The following is the programme for next three meetings. Cheap Goods.—Mr. H. Lelievre has this week received fifty pieces of first quality tufted cloth which he is selling at fifty cents per yard, having bought it at a very great bargain for cash. He has also received a large lot of shirts and drawers. Lumbermen are requested to call and see these goods made up, as such bargains have never been offered them before. Farmers and country merchants are also requested to examine them as they will be found the cheapest goods ever offered in Peterborough.

Drowning Accident.—A lamentable case of drowning occurred on Wednesday night last, 6th instant, in the Indian River, near Keene, whereby a young man named Duncan Cowie, son of Mr. W. Cowie, of Otonabee, lost his life. Deceased in company with three others had been camping on Sugar Island, Rice Lake, where they had been spending a few days shooting, and on returning home Wednesday the 6th inst. capsized and Cowie being unable to reach the shore, perished. We have not heard whether the body has yet been found.

A Good Idea.—The cartoon of Grip this week represents Hon. Mr. Cartwright springing up as a "Jack-in-the-Box," armed with the truncheon blade of a "Revenue Tariff." In the foreground John A. strides his National Policy elephant, which is showing its best paces as it endeavours to get out of the way, while the terror depicted on John A.'s face shows clearly that he is afraid that the elephant will prove too slow. John Jay Hawkins crushes his ears under his beaver as he grasps his grip-sack and departs for Brantford; and other members of the N. P. party look on with infinite disgust as Mackenzie and Brown indulge in a genteel embrace, and Mowat dances a jig for joy. The conception is laughable, and well carried out.

Poultry Association.—The annual meeting of the Midland Central Poultry Association was held on Tue. lay evening last in the Police Court Room. The report of the retiring Secretary showed the Association to be in a satisfactory condition—financial and otherwise—the balance of cash on hand being $26.76. The following are the officers for the ensuing year:—

President.—Robert Hall.
Vice-President.—James McWilliams.
Secretary-Treasurer.—James Saulter.
Directors.—John Taylor, F. E. Bell, John McClelland, C. P. Henderson, R. Hordon, Millbrook and Isaac Dormer.

A [illegible] meeting [illegible] on the meeting adjourned till Thursday, 28th instant.

Poisoned Himself.—The following paragraph appeared in the Mail's telegraphic news on Tuesday:—

PAISLEY, Nov. 11.—A man named John Armstrong, who sometime ago was working here at his trade, shoemaking, but has of late been living with his brother-in-law, James Hall, a farmer out in the country about nine miles from here, poisoned himself this morning. He had been drinking most of last week, and told his friends he was going to take strychnine, but she did not believe him. It seems he took a small dose yesterday, which made him sick, and took a large dose about nine o'clock this morning, and died shortly after ten, sometime before the arrival of a doctor. The coroner will hold an inquest over his body to-morrow.

It is supposed this is the same John Armstrong, who some years ago worked in this town and vicinity, and was well known to many of our readers.

How to Judge the Weather.—The colors of the sky at different times are a wonderful guidance. Not only does a clear sunset presage fair weather, but there are other hints which also speak with clearness and accuracy. A bright yellow in the evening indicates wind; a pale yellow, wet; a neutral grey color constitutes a favorable sign in the morning—an unfavorable one in the evening. The clouds are full of meaning in themselves. If they are soft, undefined and feathery, the weather will fine; if the edges are hard, sharp and definite, it will be foul. Generally speaking, any deep, unusual hues betoken wind and rain, while more quiet and moderate tints bespeak fair weather. Simple as these maxims are, the British Board of Trade has thought fit to publish them for the use of seafaring men.

Personal.—The Methodist Church of Peterborough has been greatly favored in the visit of the Rev. Edward Wilson, D. D., of New Jersey, father of Mrs. (Rev.) J. W. Wallace of this town, an eminent minister of the Reformed Episcopal Church. This reverend gentleman being on a general tour throughout Ontario and Quebec, in order to visit some of the principal churches of his denomination, [illegible] preaching a week in [illegible] town, with which he expresses himself as highly pleased. He preached last Friday night in the Charlotte Street Methodist Church, and on Sunday last in the George Street Church in the morning, and in the Charlotte Street Church in the evening. His original and powerful discourses were highly appreciated, and many kind wishes will follow him on his journey to Ottawa, Montreal and New York.

Helga Blye.—Miss Helga Blye, the young American actress, has been drawing crowded houses this week at Bradburn's Hall. On Monday evening "Camille" was played; on Tuesday evening "Romeo and Juliet"; and last evening the "Lady of Lyons." Miss Blye is a young actress of real merit, and her delineation of the several very difficult characters assigned her with such approval that each evening she was repeatedly called before the curtain. Mr. Brian, the principal male character, in his representations ably seconded Miss Blye's efforts. The admirable execution of his parts showed careful study, and his efforts were fully appreciated by the many customers of appliances from the audience. The minor parts of the plays each evening were well taken by other members of the company. If this company should ever return to Peterborough again they will, no doubt, meet with crowded houses.

O.G.T., held in their Hall, on Thursday evening of last week, the following officers were duly installed for the ensuing quarter by Bro. Another Drowning Accident.—On Monday evening last, about 9 o'clock, the melancholy news reached town that Cornelius Crowley, of Bonaro, had been drowned in the Otonabee river, near the Nassau Mills. From the information received it appears that deceased, who had been in town during the day, on his way home from the store at the mills, had [illegible] or in endeavoring to turn around on the ice-road over the embankment. As there are several versions of the way in which the accident happened, the last mentioned the coroner in the inquest held on the body will no doubt be able to ascertain which the happy ones there found. The poor man very shortly by the river's edge at the place, and it is supposed that [illegible] the act of hauling they had run the waggon over the bank and that the papers, wrapper and man were thrown into the river. As soon as the accident became known different search for the body were instituted, but up to latest accounts it had not been found.

Anniversary Services.—The anniversary services in connection with the R. C. Church, Ashburnham, were a decided success. On the Sabbath the congregations were very good, and were highly delighted with the excellent sermons preached by the pastor, Rev. Father Tevenal, Westside and Bell. On Monday evening the concert was not so favorably attended as it should have been, considering the many excellent selections that were rendered by those present. The tea, which was in connection, was a great credit on the ladies under whose management it was conducted. The proceeds, amounted by the children added much to the interest of the occasion. The pieces rendered by Miss Blye, a Western lassie, Dominie and Jessy, a Scotch sketch, entitled "All About Tom Duke," the Yankee evening [illegible] were well taken by other members of the company. If this company should ever return to Peterborough again they will, no doubt, meet with crowded houses.

Advertisements.—While other parts of the paper may be of more interest to the general reader, there is no part of a real, live newspaper which is of more value to a vast proportion of its subscribers than the advertisements. A glance at the advertising columns of a paper will give a tolerably correct idea of the position which it occupies in the public esteem as well as a tolerably correct information as to who the live business men of the district really are. By reference to the advertising columns of a good newspaper people can find out where to buy almost anything that they require, and in this way a paper is often worth to one year to a subscriber many times the amount of the subscription. The value of live newspapers in this respect is by often not thought of, but it requires only a little consideration to see the force of what we say. We may refer our readers in illustration to our own columns, [illegible] with all kinds of new advertisements, from brief important notices to large business announcements. This is due, of course, to our circulation, which makes the Examiner the medium through which the people of the County can be effectively reached. Like some papers which publish only a few hundred copies—in which advertisements would scarcely pay if inserted gratis—we do not need to stuff our columns with small matter, which no one does or would pay for, in order to fill up our space. Although our columns are crowded every issue, our rates are for many classes of advertisements no higher than other papers and this is the reason people seek the Examiner. To all readers we say, read over advertisements.

TOWN COUNCIL.

Council met on Monday evening last, pursuant to adjournment. Present—His Worship the Mayor and Councillors Cahill, Paterson, Hughes, Douglas, Sutherland and Dunne. Minutes of last meeting read and confirmed.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From the Treasurer, a statement of the receipts and expenditure of the town for the month of October.

Councillor Carlisle entered and took his seat.

ACCOUNTS.

An account from R. Hingston, for five yards of chain amounting to 60 cents, was ordered to be paid.

Councillors Rapith and Osmond entered and took their seats.

FIRE, WATER AND GAS.

Councillor Paterson, Chairman of the Fire, Water and Gas Committee presented the following report, which on motion was adopted:—

Your Committee having considered the various matters referred to them report as follows:

1. We recommend that six water proof coats be purchased for the use of the branchmen, and one scaling ladder and two axes at a cost not to exceed $60.

2. As to Mr. Rogers' communication asking for a gas lamp at the new post-office recommend that the lamp on the opposite corner be removed to the post-office corner, provided the office be kept open till eight o'clock in the evening for the accommodation of mechanics and laboring men.

3. We recommend that this Committee dispense of the old leather and rubber hose to the best advantage to assist in buying rubber coats, &c.

All of which is respectfully submitted.
W. PATERSON, Chairman.

MEMORIALIZING THE ATTORNEY-GENERAL.

In the absence of Councillor Smith, Councillor Cahill moved, seconded by Councillor Paterson, That the petition to the Attorney-General in reference to the number of Councillors, be referred to a Special Committee, consisting of Messrs. Dunne, Rutherford, Paterson and Smith, with instructions to report as to the advisability of the change suggested in the said petition; and also, as to such other changes in the Municipal Act as to the said Committee shall seem of advantage to the best interests of the town.

In moving this resolution, Councillor Cahill said he did not believe in reducing the number of Councillors to four. We hear a good deal sometimes about rings being formed in the Council, and, if this was possible with twelve Councillors, how much more likely was it to be feared if there were only four! Much was being said about the Council spending the people's money, but he dared to say that but few of the ratepayers knew what a small amount of the expenditure each year the Council had control over. Take, for instance, this year the amount on the Collector's Roll was $84,784. Out of this about two-thirds was expenditure which the Council had no control over, the items of such expenditure being as follows:

Administration of Justice	$2,000 00
Town Commissioners	7,282 00
Police Court	60 00
Police Magistrate's Salary	1,500 00
Schools, Public	7,750 00
Schools, High	2,200 00
Schools, Separate	1,500 00
Cost on Collecting	800 00
	$23,612 00

It would thus be seen that the Council had direct control over about one-third of the expenditures of the Town—in the remainder of the expenditures they were merely used as cats-paws.

The motion was then put and carried.

FINANCE REPORT.

Councillor Cahill, Chairman of the Finance Committee read the following report:—

The Finance Committee beg leave to report:

1st. They recommend the payment of the following accounts, viz:

Tobar & Co., printing	$21 24
Agnes Comstock, coffins	14 00

2nd. They recommend that Frederick Pengelly be paid the sum of $1.50 per week, during the pleasure of this Council, as night watchman, provided his services can at the disposal of the Chief Constable

3rd. That F. H. Scobell be relieved of the payment of $11.31 taxes, the same property being assessed twice. That Henry Northcotte's taxes $11.31, be struck off, the same property being assessed to another person.

4th. That taxes be received from John Lacy on same assessment as last year, viz, $200; also from Patrick Redkins on $750; John Brown on $200; and Robert Johnston on $2,000, and that William Geddes taxes be adjusted according to the schedule.

5th. That Alfred Keogh be relieved of payment of taxes, the same being payable by Andrew Macfarlane; and that John Adam's name be struck off, the same property being assessed twice; also that Charles LeDuke and Dolidy's name be struck off and taxes collected on same property from Richard Cook, upon an assessment of $200; and also that Wm. Robinson be relieved of the payment of taxes upon an assessment of $200; Matthew Regan relieved of the payment of $8.32, and John Lavelette of taxes on Lot 7, north of Perry and west of George street, the properties being assessed twice.

6th. That Stephen Payne be relieved of the payment of $4.48 the taxes being payable by John MacKeon. That Patrick Cassidy's name be added upon payment by him at cost of assessing to 75 cents.

7th. That the application of the Peterborough Mechanics' Institute for the usual annual grant of $200 be granted.

8th. In the matter of T. H. McFadden's petition to the Oddfellows Hall, your committee recommend the Council to interfere on the happy-go-lucky local question between landlord and tenant.

9th. In the matter of the petition of William Collins asking to be relieved of the payment of a dog tax, your committee cannot recommend the same, but beg to call the attention of the Council to the fact that Mr. Collins had not a dog.

10th. In reference to the petition of Thomas Lambert, asking to be relieved of the payment of certain taxes for 1875, your committee find upon reference to the books that the amount complained of appears only against one property, and your committee recommend the granting of the application if C. M. Boyer is relieved of the payment of the taxes.

11th. Your committee cannot recommend the payment of the account of Messrs. Gladstone against Lapierre for loss of sheep killed by dogs until proof is furnished of loss and value of sheep.

12th. Your committee recommend that the matter in dispute about culvert at the Lock No. 1 be referred to the Engineer and Mayor to arbitrate between the parties, and that the Corporation be relieved from any further responsibility in the matter.

13th. Your committee recommend that the account of Mr. Osmond, for [illegible] be referred to the Finance Committee with power to act.

All of which is respectfully submitted.
THOS. CAHILL, Chairman.

Moved by Councillor Cahill, seconded by Councillor Paterson,—That the report be received and adopted.

Councillor [illegible] objected to the clause relating to the weekly allowance to a night watchman. Although the account was not much, still the principle was wrong, as other parts of the town had no right to pay for the protection of the merchants.

Councillor Paterson supported it, and on the motion being put it was declared carried.

PAYMENT OF TAXES.

Councillor Hughes asked if anything had been done in reference to the petitions regarding the payment of taxes on the property on the corner of George and Hunter streets, destroyed by fire last winter?

The Mayor stated that the matter had been referred to the Court of Revision and that nothing had been reported as yet.

TENDERS FOR WOOD.

Moved by Councillor Paterson, seconded by Councillor Hughes,—That the Clerk ask tenders for twenty-five cords of dry, and twenty-five cords of green tamarac, and fifty cords of green hardwood. Dry tamarac to be delivered as soon as possible; that the tenders be received by noon on 20th instant, and the contract be awarded by the Charity Committee, and that in the meantime Mr. Beavis be authorized to purchase what wood is required.—Carried.

The Council then adjourned for three weeks.

A Sudden Death.

There is something terrible in the thought of having our friends stricken down at our side, without a parting word of encouragement, or consolation—one moment at your side in the flush of vigorous life, and the next summoned to the eternity; the next

THE DEAD WIFE.

There is a ghostly silence in every room,
Nor music nor footsteps flood the gloom;
Nor lithesome step of woman's feet,
Nor woman's voice breathes low and sweet,

Nor sound of rustling garments fall—
Reigns nowhere quiet over all:
No dainty figure in snowy dress
Awaits to-night your fond caress.

No tender hand to clasp your own,
No arm, soft, o'er your shoulder thrown;
No pleading face with earnest light,
Looks unto yours for a smile to-night.

Only the chill of the silent room
Is filling your soul with its ghostly gloom—
Is filling your soul with a dumb despair,
A longing for something which is not there.

A thousand trifles remain to tell
Of the beautiful things she loved so well;
An open book—its pages graced
With a secret thought her hand has traced.

A tiny flower, half-pressed, half-dead,
Lies 'tween the pages she last had read;
And many trifles to her once dear,
Breathe low of a spirit that is not here.

Till, half-forgetting, is listened again
For the merry step—yet listening is vain!
She cannot come, for Death's embrace
Forever has hidden dear form, sweet face.

THE STATE OF IOWA.

Richness of the Valley of the Missouri—A Splendid Farming and Stock-raising Country.

Mr. John Shaver sends us some interesting notes regarding the State of Iowa, to which section he "emigrated" in June last. He is located at Sloan, in the County of Woodbury. Sloan is twenty-one miles from Sioux City, on the line of the S. C. and P. R. R., in the famed valley of the Missouri. It is six miles from the river, and fourteen miles from the Bluffs, on the east side, making it twenty miles wide here. The country is nearly level, with sufficient gravel bed to be self-draining. The soil is an alluvial deposit, being from five to fourteen feet deep, and as rich as any to be found anywhere. There is

AS ABUNDANCE OF TIMBER,

and lumber is consequently cheap—it sells at $10 per thousand. Wood rules at $2 a cord delivered. The supply of water is unlimited. The country is rapidly becoming settled, and there are good schools in the towns and settlements. Mr. Shaver was agreeably surprised at the condition of the State, and favorably impressed with the people. The principal crops raised are corn and oats. Corn yields on an average sixty bushels to the acre, minus the cobs of course; and oats about forty bushels to the acre. Iowa is undoubtedly the great corn-growing State of the Union—it is the last valley in the west and north in

THE CORN RAISING BELT.

This is fast becoming a great stock-raising section. Pasturage and hay costs nothing, while corn for hogs as well as cattle is cheap. He says there are a number of Canadians engaged in stock-raising, and are doing well. From 35 to 50 per cent. can be netted on cattle and hogs. The method of farming there is quite different to what it is in this country. A man and team tends from fifty to sixty acres of corn and does it well, busking over 2,000 bushels. The produce raised is sent up the river to feed the standing army and Indians or also shipped to Chicago, both of which form good markets.

IMPROVED LAND

sells at $20 per acre, but there is very little offering; new land can be bought for $5 per acre. As a rule it is much cheaper to buy improved land. Taxes are low, about ten cents an acre. The climate is most salubrious and pleasant; old settlers state that it can't be better. There is very little snow during the winter season, the roads being dry and dusty all the year round, as a general thing. No sleighs are used. Near Sloan there is a French settlement, and the "Canadians" are doing well. Mr. Gus. Christy, formerly of this city, is located near the town named, and is engaged at his

PET BUSINESS—BEE RAISING,

and by the sale of the honey coins money. He has over 400 stands, and will take out this season over twenty tons of the liquid sweetener. Honey is worth fifteen cents per pound, so that if any one is anxious to know what the returns will be can go to work and figure it up for themselves. To young men who are casting around for a home location, and capital and labor to invest, the State of Iowa offers good inducements, at least that is Mr. Shaver's opinion, but he would like them to go and see for themselves. The very State speaks out in stentorian tones to the oppressed of the world, "Come all living to every honest son of toil who seeks to gain a competence from the soil and resources of mother earth!" In the State mentioned men have to work if they ever expect to do anything for themselves. There is no success without labor.—Ottawa Free Press.

Winter Care of Cattle.

Too many farmers wait until the first snow storm before looking to their cattle with a view of preparing the for the winter. If an animal is in good condition before "cold weather sets in, it is as good as half wintered already." This is the opinion of a good stock-raiser, and he advises farmers in the matter of food that as the pastures begin to grow bare they should feed newly cured corn-stalks, cut and mixed with chopped roots and apri led with middlings. Ground corn and oats may also be given. In changing from green to dry food, there is always great danger of loss of appetite, and the process should be gradual. Be careful about feeding the fresh leaves of mangolds and beets. A day or two after cutting they may be safely fed. The small turnips which are usually pulled from crowded rows make profitable fodder for cows, provided they are fed at milking time. In the case of young cattle particular care should be taken that their transfer from the pasture to the barn should be gradual. In their growing condition they need to be protected from early cold spells, and by giving dry food early in the fall their stomachs will be better prepared for their first winter diet.

One bushel each of corn and oats and 100 lbs. of wheat middlings ground together make a good feed for cattle. The amount and manner of giving food differs with the kind of stock. An ordinary Jersey giving 10 quarts of milk will daily consume 12 pounds of cut corn fodder, 6 quarts of mixed bran and heavy middlings, and one peck of roots sprinkled with a quart of middlings; hay according to judgment. In our best dairies the amount of fodder given each cow and the amount of milk also is carefully noted, and as soon as the returns are unfavorable in the case of any one cow, she is sold and replaced by another. Corn-stalks are valued much more for fodder now than formerly, and they often bring $6 a ton when hay is $10.

Farmers often neglect their cattle in little things as they think. Soon loss of appetite ocoues, and the herdsman is at a loss to account for it. It may result from several causes. Digestion cannot go on without water and plenty of it. Carelessness in supplying water regularly, and water which is pure, will quickly make its impression on the flock. People are beginning to avoid drawing water for family use from shallow wells filled with surface water, but few hesitate to drive their cattle down to a swamp to nose among slimy lily-pads for a drink. A loss of appetite, or a morbid appetite showing itself by the eating of bones, leather, wood etc., indicates a lack of phosphate of lime. This latter is necessary to supply bone material and a certain amount for milk. Bone flour may be fed in grain at the rate of a teaspoonful per day. A more radical preventive is to top-dress the pastures with superphosphate or bone meal, and thus stimulate the grass and plants needing this ingredient.

Another point in which farmers are sadly deficient is in the providing of proper light and warmth in cattle-barns. Many a man has seen his dairy deteriorate on his hands with the best of feeding, and all because he shut out the sun from the stables. Light is as necessary for a cow as a cabbage, and if ample windows are provided, and the barn-yard has open sheds where on warm days in winter the cattle may be driven, a marked improvement in the quantity and quality of the milk will be the result. Whether it will pay to keep an extra hand to carry the cows perhaps is an open question; but certainly an occasional rubbing down in winter, when the farm hands are not very busy, will keep the skin healthy and free from a "foreign population."

HINTS FOR HOUSEKEEPERS.

Saratoga Potatoes.—Take the number of potatoes required, peel them, and cut in very thin slices; wash and wipe as dry as possible, fry them the same as you would crullers; when well browned place into a colander with a skimmer, and sprinkle a little salt on them while hot.

Indian Griddle Cakes.—Two cupfuls white corn-meal, one cupful flour, one-half cupful yeast, one teaspoonful salt; milk added to make a stiff batter; put in a warm place to rise over night as sponge for bread.

Gems.—One pint milk, two eggs, one pinch salt, flour enough to make a good batter; bake in little pans in hot oven.

Rice Pancakes.—Two large cups rice well washed; boil in one quart water; when the water boils off, add one quart milk, one cup wheat flour, one egg.

To Boil Rice Properly.—To every cup of rice, one quart of water; salt to taste. Let the water boil hard, then throw in rice previously well washed; when it begins to boil do not allow it to be stirred, and boil 20 minutes, not touching it; pour off any water remaining; place the saucepan on back of range partially covered, for a few minutes; when turned out into the dish for table each grain will be found separate. The rice should steam on back of range until it appears dry on top, then shaken out into the dish, not removed with the spoon.

Pumpkin Pie.—Boil and strain (through colander) your pumpkin; then, to two quarts of pumpkin, two quarts of milk, four eggs, five teaspoonfuls vanilla, three of cinnamon, one of allspice, half teaspoonful of mace, half a nutmeg; the spices must all be fine; add sugar and salt to taste. Bake with only under-crust.

Wines.—Half pound of butter, two pounds of flour, one pint of milk, six eggs, three tablespoonfuls of yeast; if liked sweet, half pound of sugar, stirred in when they rise; a little salt. Bake in patty-pans.

Silver Cake.—Two cups sugar, one-half cup butter, one cup water, whites of four eggs; after they are well combined stir in three cups flour, and two teaspoonfuls royal baking powder, one tablespoonful vanilla.

Cruellers.—One pint sour buttermilk, nearly the same white sugar, half pint butter and lard mixed, three eggs, one tablespoonful soda, flour to make a light dough; warm in ingredients.

Mock Mince Pie.—Five Boston crackers, one cup of molasses, one cup of sugar, two cups of water, half a cup of melted butter; half a cup of vinegar one cup of chopped raisins, cloves cinnamon, pepper, salt and one nutmeg.

Frosting.—White of an egg, six heaping tablespoonfuls powdered sugar, one teaspoonful lemon-juice; beat one spoonful of sugar with white three minutes: then another, and so on; lastly, add lemon-juice, and beat until the froth stands up stiff, and can be cut with a knife.

Preserved Citron.—Peel and core the citrons; cut into fancy shapes or small pieces boil until tender, placing the peels in the pot while boiling; to add a green tint to the fruit when done, place the melons into a pan of cold water, and let them remain there until ready to weigh the sugar; then add pound for pound; make a rich syrup; when nearly done, place the melons in the syrup, adding at the same time the juice of two or three lemons; boil about 15 minutes, then place in the jars; when the citron is first put down add the rinds of the lemons, also ground ginger to taste.

Paragraphs of All Sorts.

Alum dissolved in hot water will destroy bed-bugs, moths, and other vermin. Apply a strong solution to furniture and crevices with a paint brush. Wet the edges of the carpets.

Pits for roots must be made where water will not stand on the bottom. The roots should be covered lightly with soil at first; but when cold weather comes, about two feet, is needed.

Rochester, N. Y., is shipping apples and tomatoes to London. Each apple and tomato is carefully wrapped in tissue paper, in the same manner that oranges are prepared for exportation.

Cornstalks are worth the cost of putting in the crop, if well saved and cured. A reasonable estimate of their value for feed is about three-fifths as much as hay. Let the stalks be thoroughly cured before being stacked.

Common rock salt, dried in an oven and pulverized, mixed with an equal part of spirits of turpentine, will kill a felon in twenty-four hours. Keep a rag constantly wet with the preparation on the felon during that time.

A correspondent writes to the Scientific American that the worst toothache, or neuralgia coming from the teeth, may be speedily ended by the application of a bit of clean cotton saturated in a solution of ammonia to the defective tooth.

To prepare bees for out-door wintering, each hive should contain at least 25 lbs. of honey. About one-third of the way from the top, a three-fourth inch hole should be made through each comb, to allow the bees to pass through freely. The honey-board of each hive should be removed, and a quilt placed over the top of the frames.

In answer to the question, "Why are farmers so liable to rheumatism?" the Science of Health says: If farmers would avoid and dearly cooling the body after great exertion if they would be careful not to go with wet clothing and wet feet, and if they would not over-eat when in an exhausted condition, and bathe daily, using much friction, they would have little or no rheumatism.

Apples should be dried as soon as possible after they are cut, to have them light colored; stoves and kilns should be used in preference to putting them out on a scaffold. As soon as they are dried they should be boxed up tight to keep them from the insects which deposit their eggs among them and produce the worms which spoil so many of them. In this way they may be kept good for years.

Families of farmers engaged in drying fruits are reminded that the sulor heat is not sufficiently intense to destroy insect eggs that may have been deposited in the fruit when green or during the process of drying. If put in a moderately warm oven for ten minutes all parasites and their eggs would be destroyed. In countries where fruits are extensively dried this treatment is practiced generally.

The gold of apples, says the Prairie Farmer, is among the most healthful of substances taken into the human stomach. It rouses the action of the liver when torpid, and then enables it to eliminate and throw off the germs of billious disorders, and those of other diseases arising from slow blood-poison. They must also be classed as among the most important and valuable of the vegetable growths, especially for that class who work with the brain.

Leave turnips in the ground until hard frosts come. The tops may be fed to cows. Carrots beets and parsnips must be dug before very cold weather. Store in trenches or pits in a dry place, from which water will run off. If put in a root-cellar pack in earth in boxes or barrels or bins, according to the quantity. If a new dairy is to be started it should be made in fall. Plow up that part of the garden put in use before the ground freezes. Gather and burn all the weeds and rubbish.

The Western Rural says: "A very simple process employed for freeing woodland from the stumps of trees, is a hole about two inches in diameter and eighteen inches in depth bored into the stump about autumn, and filled with a concentrated solution of saltpetre, and closed with a plug. In the spring a pint or so of petroleum is poured into the same hole and set on fire. During the spring the saltpetre solution has penetrated every portion of the stump, so that not only this but also the roots are thoroughly burnt out."

Thrilling Adventure of Miners.

Climbing 330 Feet Through Burning Brands.

About 5 o'clock last Sunday morning, the fine hoisting works of the Lady Bryan Mining Company took fire and burned down in an incredibly short space of time. At the moment that the fire was discovered the engineer received a signal from the bottom of the shaft to hoist to the second section, 330 feet below the surface. He hoisted the car to the surface at once. The station-tender proved to be on board. He was asked to descend to the bottom of the shaft, which is 630 feet deep, and tell the men working in the drift from the 600 level of their danger, but refused to take the chances being safe on the surface and the building wrapped in flames. The men below were thus left to their fate, and it was felt that there was little hope of those who were working in the drift at the bottom of the shaft ever reaching the surface alive.

There were six men in this drift, and their position was one of great peril. The first notice they had of the fire was when the cage, almost red-hot, came thundering down to the bottom, followed by falling coals and burning brands. All they knew that they must climb for their lives to the 330 feet level—320 feet above. They instantly broke to the ladder-way and made their way up through a shower of falling brands and burning coals. A man who was at the head of the line of climbers was struck by the ball rope, which, in falling, wound about his neck and threatened to pull him down. He called to the men below, telling them that the rope was about his neck and might pull him down; therefore all would do well to hold on as firmly as possible, as in falling he might knock them from their places. They moved up to where he was and soon succeeded in disentangling him from the rope. All eventually reached the 330 level in safety, and on landing there they were all right, as all that remained for them to do was to pass through a drift to the shaft at the old works, when they could easily ascend to the surface. Seven men who were at work on the 330 also passed out through the old works.—[Virginia City (Nev.) Enterprise.

Will the Farmers Heed This?

The Golden Rule tells the simple truth in what follows, and good will it be for the farmer that heeds it and puts it in practice:

"Many of our farms are being dreadfully maltreated—absolutely robbed and starved to death. Some of the existing societies for the encouragement of horse trots, side shows and jim-cracks, would do well to reorganize as Societies for the Prevention of Abuse to Farm Lands. Even in the old States, where we ought to know better, we are stinting the land or fussing with so-called chemical 'fertilizers' of which we know nothing. Where we make one load of manure now, we ought to make and might make at least three. November is the best of all the months in which to help to do this. These are some of the multitude ways: The cattle are to be stabled at an early day. The liquid waste is as valuable for manure as the solid portions; and yet on seven-eighths of the farms it is nearly all lost. It can be saved by storing a supply of muck or common loam under the stable where the oxen and cows and horses are to stand, and putting a fresh coating upon the pile often enough to keep it free from foul odors; or better yet—for few men can be trusted to manage a barn-basement—make a shed or pit for the compost, and convey the liquids away from the stable by suitable drains, which should be provided in every decent barn. One hundred loads of saturated earth will be worth next May, to any farmer, one hundred and fifty dollars, putting it at the least. Now is the time to put the absorbents where they will do the most good.

One other thing: leaves of the forest are wasted when they should be saved. They make most excellent bedding, and most excellent manure; and a few of the coming November days given to transporting them from the woods where they are not wanted, to the barn where they are, will pay.

A RICH POOR MAN.

(From the Kingston Whig.)

During the five years that Sir John shivered in the cold shades of Opposition much ado was made about his poverty. Queer thing, this latter, to make "capital" out of anyway, but it was done—political capital we mean. He had spent and been spent for his country. To indulge his patriotic ambition he had denied himself of the competency which he could so easily have amassed at his profession. With all his corruptions he had grabbed nothing for his own personal use and benefit. In short, his hands were clean, and his pockets in a like condition, no filthy lucre adhering to their linings. And so Sir John, on account of his voluntary poverty, was the object of general admiration and sympathy. True, this "poor man" was in receipt of at least $10,000 a year from his hundred thousand testimonial, his law firm, and other sources, but he was a poor man "for a' that." Under these distressing circumstances it should be a cause of congratulation to his heart-bleeding friends the country over, to think that the starvation pittance we have mentioned will now be supplemented at least by his official salary. Not "another ten thousand" exactly, but $7,000 a year will at any rate be added to his personal revenue. This, with other unconsidered trifles, such as ordinance land fees, etc., which may now come in his way, will in all probability round up his income to close upon $20,000 per annum. We sincerely pope this amount will for the present keep the wolf from the door of the Chieftain until something can be done for him more worthy of the man and his self-denying and truly patriotic career in other words, it is quite high time that the "poor man" cry as applied to Sir John A. Macdonald was thoroughly played out. His public rewards both in honor and in fees have far exceeded the value of his public services—to say nothing of the heavy discount which should have been computed in consideration of the indelible dishonor which his rank corruptions have left upon the national record.

Cartwright's Victory in Centre Huron.

(From the Guelph Mercury.)

We congratulate Mr. Cartwright on his signal triumph. In the altered state of affairs he was, in a sense, a necessity in the house, just as Mr. Mackenzie is. There is one other man whom we cannot do without, and he is the Hon. Edward Blake. Steps must be taken to provide a seat for him, for in the work which the Opposition will have to perform in pressence in the House is as much a necessity as Mr. Mackenzie or Cartwright. With three such men we would have full faith in their power and influence against the new Government, and that before long they would break up the present nobody combination which has secured place and power on false pretenses. We look to the Reform party to find a place for Edward Blake at the earliest possible moment.

Canadian Lumber for the Canadians.

(From the Lindsay Post.)

An addition of $3 a thousand would be looked upon as a trifling matter by Congress; but it would exclude our lumber altogether from the American market; and then we should have "Canadian lumber for the Canadians" only with a vengeance. Not only would this prompt exclusion from our only large market destroy our lumber industry, but it would strain to the utmost tension many of our banking institutions that have been "carrying" lumberers during this prolonged period of depression—carrying them longer than perhaps they ought to have done, or than they would have done, but that they were hoping each year for the return of better times and for the improvement of the demand in the States. There is not, we venture to say, a banking institution in the country but will make most strenuous exertions to have its lumber accounts placed in a position to meet the worst; and the banking interest is the only interest in the country that will be thankful for the delay occasioned by the unreadiness of the new Administration to go on at once with their promised benefactions in the guise of the National Policy.

The Salary Grab Heard From.

(From the Oshawa Reformer.)

The only real point of attack of Conservatives upon the Mowat Government is the "salary-grab." They coolly ignore the fact that it was assented to by every member of the Opposition. We learn as a fact, which we were not aware of before, from a speech of Dr. Wilson, M.P.P., for East Elgin, that the salary grab originated with the Conservatives, and that Mr. Mowat was personally opposed to it. Mr. Wilson further stated that "were it honorable he could name Conservative the who wrote the round robin and circulated it for signature." Now that the Conservatives are making use of this act of their own party to attack Mr. Mowat, we think no code of honor would bind Mr Wilson to secrecy in the matter. It would be highly interesting to hear the name of the originator of the "salary-grab." If he has not himself come out and defend it against the attack of his party, his name should certainly be made public.

A Kind Word to the Unemployed.

(From the Montreal Witness.)

The workingmen of Canada would learn a lesson if they would notice the direction in which the unemployed are pointed if they would really be relieved. Is it toward manufactures? No; for the most are fully supplied with labor and the rest are closed; most running with short hands and the others empty and silent. They are pointed to the idle acres which are only awaiting cultivation to supply a bountiful living. This is the only real source of great countries with immense agricultural possibilities like the United States and Canada; and the sooner they recognise it the better, and also the fact that the fewer the obstacles placed in the way of the trade relations of countries the better for agricultural tarists.

JOY AMONG THE CHILDREN

Copeland's Sweet Castor Oil, equally suitable for children and adults. Endorsed by over 600 doctors in Canada. The difficulty of administering nauseous medicines and the desirability of having them pleasant to the taste, induced T. Copeland to undertake researches, which resulted in the discovery of a Sweet Castor Oil, perfectly palatable, of the same strength and medical qualities as the ordinary Castor Oil; and while equally safe and harmless yet acting with more certainty, and producing neither nausea nor griping. Some children say it is boxer: others call it syrup—they all say they like it. One parent says—My children drink it like water;" another—"We had to hide the bottle or they would have finished it right off;" another—"My little girl has taken it twice without any trouble, and does not know what it is, though she hates the ordinary Castor Oil, and we never could get her to take it without a fight;" yet another—"I wish you success of your Sweet Castor Oil; it is a splendid thing—sure to take the place of all common oil."

The extraordinary demand for this improvement of a staple household medicine has brought fraudulent imitations into the market, but the public can guard themselves against substitutes (which unprincipled parties are attempting to sell on the reputation of this article) by seeing that the name, Copeland's Sweet Castor Oil, is on both wrapper and direction label.

The undersigned having purchased Messrs T. Copeland & Co's interest in the above preparation, are now manufacturing it from the original recipe.

Mitchell's Belladona Improved India Rubber Porous Paster.

There never has been a time when the healing of so many different diseases has been treated by outward application as the present. It is an undisputed fact that over half of the entire population of the globe resort to the use of ordinary plasters.

The principal ingredients used in making these Plasters are Gum Olibanum—or better known as the Frankincense of the Bible—Rubber, and Burgundy Pitch; which, when scientifically compounded, is full of electricity, and when combined with the pure medicinal gums, is found to be one greatest healing mediums ever brought before the human race

They are acknowledged by all who have used them to act quicker than any other Plasters they ever before tried, and that one of these Plasters will do more real service than a hundred of the ordinary kind. All other Plasters are slow of action, and require to be worn continually to effect a cure; but with these it is entirely different; the instant one is applied the patient will feel its effect.

They possess all the soothing, warming, supporting and strengthening qualities of all other Plasters. Many who have been relieved of RHEUMATISM, TIC DOLOREUX, and various other pains in the KIDNEYS, BREAST or SIDE, and believe it is solely done by the electrical qualities which the Porous Plasters contain, and which is imparted to the system, thus restoring them to a healthy condition.

They are very soft and pliable, still very adhesive; and a sure cure for WEAK BACKS PAINS IN THE SIDE AND BREAST, and are invaluable to those who have occasion long standing, and when proverbs Consumption. Some even tell us they believe they were entirely cured up the use of these plasters after long standing.

The Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, NOV. 21, 1878

OURSELVES.

We have this week much pleasure in announcing to our readers, friends and the public generally, that we have placed in our office one of King's Portable Boilers and engines, with the necessary fittings for running our presses by steam. The rapidly increasing business of the EXAMINER has made it necessary to provide more facilities for turning out work in order to supply our customers, and as our aim at all times has been to fill all orders on the shortest notice, we found our former hand power inadequate to supply the demand. We are now, therefore in a position to turn out all work with which we may be entrusted, better, cheaper, and in less time than heretofore. The engine is a five horse power, manufactured by Mr. William Hamilton of this town, and is the same one that carried off first prizes at the Provincial and Central Fairs. It is a handsome piece of mechanism and reflects much credit on its manufacturer, and works admirably.

We have lately added a large quantity of new type of the latest design, and are now in a position to compete in price and quality, as well as in expeditious execution of our work, with any office outside the cities, and in fact with many of them. The large increase in our business last year leads us to believe that our patrons are well pleased with our efforts in their behalf, and to continue meriting this approval we are now ordering a still further purchase of news and job type. With the addition of steam, new type, and experienced workmen, we confidently believe that our business will go on increasing, knowing that where the public can get their work done neatly, quickly and at low rates they will not fail to show their appreciation, by bestowing a liberal share of their patronage.

It is our ambition to continue to make the EXAMINER the leading and best family paper in this section, and we look to our friends throughout the country to render us such assistance as they conveniently can. There are very few who cannot contribute more or less to the success of the paper, by furnishing us with whatever items of news that may transpire in their immediate neighborhood. Do not wait for your neighbors to do it, or let your backwardness in contributing to a newspaper through fear of imperfections prevent you from writing us. Any errors we will cheerfully correct. If we get the substance of the matter, we will be most happy to put it into shape for the paper; only give us facts. Young contributors by careful reading can thus improve themselves, and what may at first appear a difficult task will with a little practice become a source of pleasure and enjoyment. By doing this our friends will confer a great favor upon us and enable us to continue to issue the best local paper in Central Canada.

To good energetic agents throughout the county we offer most liberal terms, and now during the winter season when plenty of our young men in the country have time at their disposal, profitable employment may be found in canvassing for the EXAMINER.

To our friends both in town and county we extend an invitation to visit us when convenient, and we will be only too happy to show them through our establishment which now takes a first position among the country newspaper offices of the Province.

THE MAYORALTY.

The citizens have already taken action in the question of who shall occupy the Civic Chair for 1879. A very large requisition signed by the best men in the town, has been presented to John J. Lundy Esq., asking him to allow himself to be come a candidate, and he has acceded to the request. Mr. Lundy is comparatively a young man, and will, if elected, make an active and efficient Mayor. He is one of the largest property holders in the town and could not tax others without affecting himself largely, and in this respect is a safe man to elect. He has been in the council several years, and as a Councillor was popular and careful. There is no man in town who understands more fully our financial position, and none whose interests are stronger to see that no unnecessary expenditure be permitted that will increase taxation, or our standing indebtedness.

We believe that a requisition, asking Mr. Toole to again become a candidate, is in circulation. We are doubtful whether that gentleman will accede to the request, as he has on more than one occasion expressed himself as unwilling to again become a candidate for the Mayor's Chair. He now may well retire on the laurels he has won. In all past contests for the Mayoralty in which Mr. Toole was concerned, we sympathised with him, and are still personally friendly to him, and whether he be or be not a candidate, we shall continue to respect him for his good qualities, and let those who can only see cause for fault-finding do that work. Mr. Toole has now occupied the Mayor's chair four years and if he now retires to give place to Mr. Lundy, every class of citizens would feel great confidence in his successor, but whatever comes to pass, we believe in trusting those candidates of the people's choice respectfully. We are in favor of Mr. Lundy's election but in being so shall not give utterance to a single word disparaging Mr. Toole, whom we consider worthy of our respect, and we sincerely hope that should a contest be necessary, it will be conducted calmly, in the interests of the people, without rancour or party feeling, and with a view to elect the best man to fill the important office of Chief Magistrate.

THE MANUFACTURERS AND THE TARIFF.

At the meeting of the Ontario Manufacturers' Association held in Toronto last week, the tariff question was of course the principal topic of discussion, and the hundred and twenty manufacturers there and then assembled, spoke as if they had the right to say what shall or what shall not be done in the way of readjusting the tariff. This is not surprising, considering the way they have been courted, and appealed to by the party now in power in the Dominion. They were simply asked to aid the election of the Tory candidates in order that their demands might be acceded to, and their wishes met. It is not likely that men placed in this advantageous position as regards the people's rulers, and therefore the people generally, will be slow in making the most of their chances. They show a disposition to dictate to the Government, which they feel is composed of men entirely in their power. They are bound to be consulted on all matters pertaining to the tariff, and to see that the tariff is readjusted to suit their views. The only hope of Ministers is contained in the strong probability that even among the members of the Manufacturers Association the different interests will be so conflicting as to cause a complete chaos among themselves. So far, however, they have preserved a seminal agreement, and the danger to the country is that they will so far firmly combine as to strike unitedly for even a little Protection, as the entering of "the thin edge of the wedge," whereby they may establish a precedent and contend for more.

At the meeting referred to a number of resolutions were passed, which are very fairly summarized by a contemporary as follows :—

> That the tariff should be readjusted, in accordance with the verdict of the people at the polls, so as to afford judicious but effectual protection to industries suited to the country; that such duties should be put on foreign farm products as will secure for our farmers and millers the control of the Maritime Provinces, and such duties on coal and economic ores as will secure to the Maritime Provinces the markets of Ontario and Quebec; that in order to avoid undue taxation on importations, the number of ports of entry should be reduced, efficient and thoroughly reliable measures appointed, and the penalty of contraband rigidly enforced; that the Government be again urged to create a Bureau of Statistics; that in order to encourage trade with the West Indies and other tropical countries, a line of steamers be subsidized to ply between Canada and those countries; that this meeting express its cordial sympathy with the people of Halifax in their efforts to make that the winter port, and that every facility be given them to secure freights one way over the International; that the Government be urged to proceed with the Pacific Railway, and the deepening and enlargement of the St. Lawrence canals as rapidly as the circumstances of the country will permit; that it will be to the advantage of the agricultural and manufacturers of Canada to exhibit largely at the exhibition to be held at Sydney, N. S. W., in 1879, and that the Association urge upon the Dominion and Local Governments the advisability of aiding as far as possible, those who may desire to exhibit.

Now as to what industries are suited to the country, as well as to what protection may be deemed judicious, there is room for very wide divergence of opinion. There are those who hold that any protection by tariff, as such, is injudicious, while those who admit the principle of Protection are nowhere agreed on either its scope or its purpose. Of course an Association composed of men engaged in industries already established, will confine the description contained in the words, "suited to the country," as much as possible to their own particular branches of trade. Here at once a barrier is raised to the introduction of those newer enterprises, which are naturally developed by unrestricted commerce, demanding foreign. But even among those industries that have a foothold in the Dominion, it were very difficult to determine how to afford effectual Protection to all of them. The sensible product of one in the raw material in others, therefore what may be considered effectual Protection by the producer of that particular commodity is really a tax note death to the users of that article. In a country that could produce every one of the useful things of earth, and lay each of those down inexpensively in any part, an exclusive policy might be possible to a certain extent. But we cannot do away with natural disadvantages, nor prevent changes of condition, and therefore no tariff can be framed which will benefit all the industries suited to any one country on earth, or which could in any case remain beneficial to any industry more than a certain few years. Protection cannot be a principle of fixed position Taken as a whole the resolutions of the Ontario Manufacturers' Association are decidedly incongruous. High priced [illegible] in the Maritime Provinces will increase the cost of living, and the wages of operatives must in justice go up. This will increase the price on coal and ores at the pits mouth. The cost of long transportation will be another charge, and by the time Nova Scotia coal or New Brunswick iron reach Ontario they will demand a very much higher price than is now paid for these materials. This in turn will raise the price of every article for the manufacture of which coal or iron is used; and utterly break down many industries that, even with the present low prices for materials and fuel, have a hard enough struggle for existence—a reduction of Ports of entry, with an increase of duties, will encourage smuggling to the detriment of the revenue, and of those manufacturers who fondly imagine that they can be protected from all foreign influence. Encouragement of trade with the West Indies, or anywhere else, is impossible, and the idea of establishing a line of steamers insane, when the importations that go to make up return cargoes are excluded. The Pacific Railway and the St. Lawrence canals will be utterly useless under a system which will drive away the foreign trade and through traffic they are intended to accommodate. The suggestion to exhibit Canadian products in Australia is a good one in itself; but it scarcely comes with a good grace from those whose purpose it seems to be to discourage that outside trade which pays best, for the simple reason that it is made up of cash transactions. Even the corner grocer, or the small artizan knows that his best customers are those who do not live in his more immediate neighborhood, and who do not consequently ask for time indefinite to pay for their purchases. Indeed there are very few industries of any extent in Canada to-day that can exist without the benefits of their foreign sales. A Protective policy is fatal to a desire for cash payments.

THE NEW GOVERNOR-GENERAL OF CANADA.

In a few days at most the New Governor General of the Dominion, the Marquis of Lorne, will land on its shores, and be welcomed heartily, he having sailed from Liverpool on Thursday last. He is accompanied by his wife, the Princess Louise, fourth daughter of our honored Sovereign, and with them come a considerable suite. Great preparations have been made for their reception at Halifax and at Ottawa.

The Marquis of Lorne is a son of the eighth Duke of Argyle—the Macchallean Mohr—the chief nobleman among the Scots. He is now thirty-three years of age, and has had considerable experience of public affairs, considering his years. Educated at Eton, St. Andrews University and Trinity College Cambridge, he was in 1866 made a captain in the London Scottish Rifle Volunteers and in yet, or until lately Lieutenant-Colonel in the 105th Rifle Volunteers. In the year named he made a tour through the West Indies, and the Eastern part of North America—including Canada. A review of the trip is given in a book written by him, and called "A Tour in the Tropics." Besides this work he is author of a sweet poem entitled "Guido and Lita, a Tale of Riviera," and a metrical version of the Book of Psalms. In 1868 he was elected to the House of Commons for Argyleshire, which seat he held until he resigned on being appointed Governor-General of Canada. He also gained a store of knowledge in affairs from acting as private secretary to his father while the latter was Secretary of State for India. On the 21st of March 1871, he married the Princess Louise, who before her marriage, as well as since, occupied an advanced place in the affections of the British people. She is now in her thirty-first year. Besides her rank and her sizeable qualities she is principally distinguished for her love of painting and music, in both of which she is proficient.

Together, they will, it is confidently expected, prove very worthy successors to Lord and Lady Dufferin. They come to Canada at a somewhat unseasonable time to form first impressions of their new place of abode, but there is in their appearance now the advantage that the country will improve on their further acquaintance when the winter has passed away. In the meantime they will doubtless enjoy a release from the disadvantages they were forced to endure at court through the wife being a Princess of the blood and the husband a commoner. The only danger is that the people of the Dominion, and of Ottawa in particular, in the ecstasy of their loyalty, will overdo the honors, by trying to establish a sort of backwoods court. In this new country where there are few, if any, rich enough to live in court life, and where our oldest and wealthiest men have to busy themselves with necessary work, it is not to be expected that a court can be established on anything but an exceedingly ridiculous scale. It is therefore to be hoped that the good sense of the Marquis and his Princess wife will from the first discourage any designs of aspiring parvenues to form a shoddy aristocracy within the Dominion. There are limits beyond which Canada and Canadians cannot go, even in the matter of hospitality and the expression of esteem for Royalty, and it is well that the Governor-General and his wife on the one hand and the people on the other, should understand the folly of attempting the impossible. Happily a shining example of the proper medium has been left by Lord Dufferin, and though it will not be possible or even desirable for the new Governor-General to exactly imitate his predecessor, he and the Canadians can to a large extent be safely guided by the experience of Dufferin's incumbency.

Even the Review now refers to it as the "so-called" National Policy.

The Conservative papers are profuse in their desire to show how very difficult a thing it is to frame a tariff such as will suit the requirements of the country and protect the varied industries. They are merely deploring now what the Reform press pointed out long before the elections. The government has enough to do that attends to the country's requirements, without troubling itself [illegible] industries. These latter will [illegible] themselves if the [illegible] country are properly looked after, [illegible] misunderstanding and indecision [illegible]. Those who are demanding the National Policy promised by the Tory leaders are told that a tariff will be resorted to them at the proper time. The proper time for adding up the overgrown sum of varied industries and placing them [illegible] is never changing the country's requirements in regard. Therefore, if the [illegible] Canada will never [illegible] the country owing to want of [illegible]

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A Tory journal talks of the [illegible] of American firms starting branch factories in the Maritime Provinces. The Americans are [illegible] enough to establish where the [illegible] of a tariff for revenue and coal such as we will increase the price of those necessaries in manufacturing. Not much!

Now that Mr. Blake has returned from Europe with health improved, we hope that a constituency will be found for him before the opening of the next session of the House of Commons. He is one of our most honored—perhaps the most honored and able—of our public men; and it was one of the greatest mistakes of the last elections that South Bruce rejected him for a man so much his inferior.

Mr. Hilliard's organ speaks out for him and his friend, Mr. McQuade, admitting that they are not keeping their promises. It advises the EXAMINER and Lindsay Post to keep cool about it. We are perfectly cool; but fancy that Messrs. Hilliard and McQuade should be getting a little uncomfortable in their consciences just about now.

The announcement that Mr. M. C. Cameron has accepted a position on the Bench, gives rise to conjectures concerning the leadership of the Opposition in the Ontario Legislature. The name of Mr. Scott, of Peterborough, is mentioned. He is about the best man for the position; or would be but for his inertia. Mr. Meredith, of London, is likely to take the leadership; but he is no speaker, while Mr. Scott has a fluent and fine address.

Talking about the new loan to be negotiated by Hon. Mr. Tilley, the Review says; it is to meet engagements for which no provision had been made by Mr. Cartwright. Now Mr. Cartwright did perfectly right not to borrow money before it was needed. And now that the time for borrowing is arriving it is not surprising that those who have been crying down the credit of the country should be somewhat dubious as to the success of Mr. Tilley's mission. They need not, however try to lay the blame on his predecessor in office.

After garbling the remarks of Hon. Mr. Hardy at Markham concerning the salary of Mr. Scott of the Attorney-General Department, the Review asks: "Will any of our contemporaries who support the Mowat Government kindly inform us what two clerkships are now united in Mr. Scott?" Being always ready to give the Review much needed intelligence, we will merely inform it at this time, that Mr. Scott mentioned besides being Deputy Attorney-General, acts as Clerk of the Privy Council. It is also well that the Review and those who laboriously try to think with it should know what Mr. Hardy did say :—

"[illegible] was that though Mr. Scott's salary had been increased, he was doing the same work, and doing it well which had formerly been divided among several officers, and he was receiving the same salary as Mr. Barnard, Sir John Macdonald's brother-in-law, had received at Ottawa in the same office, only then Mr. Scott had a great deal more work to do, and fewer assistants to help him. Mr. Scott was a gentleman who, if Mr. M. C. Cameron came into office to-morrow, would be retained. He was not the appointee of Mr. Mowat or the Reform Government, but of Mr. Sandfield Macdonald, and Mr. Mowat had felt that it was better to retain his services even by increasing his salary, as if he had left the office his ability and long experience would have rendered it extremely difficult to replace him."

Shortly after the Dominion elections, George Francis Train, a fanatical chevalier of the United States, sent a message to Sir John Macdonald congratulating him on his success, and breathing contempt and enmity to Great Britain. This message Sir John answered in the most friendly spirit, even expressing a hope that he might soon welcome Train at Ottawa and talk with him over old times. Attention having been called to the impropriety of the Premier of the Dominion thus answering such an Anti-British document as that of Train, the chief Tory organ must need try to justify the error of its political idol. But the Mail's explanation so far from bettering the aspect of the affair makes it far worse. It represents Train as a lunatic Sir John's answering of his letter as a simple act of courtesy. Very simple, indeed, we should say. For what but idiotic simplicity would consider that courtesy demands a reply to a lunatic's ravings? Trains message, to be sane or insane clearly did not call for a reply; and certainly such a reply as that made to it was neither creditable to Sir John Macdonald, nor in keeping with the dignity of his position as Premier of a colony of the Empire so slightingly spoken of by the man whom he invited to Ottawa as a friend. Sir John's reply to Train shows him either a deliberate encourager of Anti-British sentiment, or a great fool.

RUSSIA AND THE TREATY.

Violation by England of the Neutrality of the Black Sea.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—The British gunboat Condor recently went to Bourgas to investigate an alleged outrage on the British Vice-Consul.

The St. Petersburg Golos has a strongly worded article on this event, which, it says, constitutes a clear violation of the neutrality of the Black Sea. "The English may cut our sea communication at any moment. Does England wish to measure Russia's forbearance? Who is now seeking for war?"

PESTH, Nov. 15.—Premier Lissa, speaking in the Diet to-day, declared the policy of Austro-Hungary was to prevent Turkey from becoming a tool to Russia. He expressed a firm hope that the Berlin treaty would be punctually observed. If, however, any Power should cause the cessation of the Treaty, Austria, who had been able to humanize her interests with those of Europe, would not stand alone in the fight that might ensue.

Count Schouvaloff's mission marks a change in the policy of Russia, which was previously disposed to strain her rights under the Treaty of Berlin. The change is due either to the general alarm of Europe, hints received from Berlin, or domestic ethics. It is noted that when Prince Gortschakoff was recently ordered to go to Livadia, he was informed it was necessary.

BUCHAREST, Nov. 15.—The arrangements in connection with the handing over of the [illegible] are still proceeded and the entry of the Russians is not yet announced.

YOUNG'S POINT.

GENERAL CHRIST SHADE.—Mr. James Stewart, formerly of Lakefield, having purchased the stock-in-trade of Mr. Young, has opened out in the old stand a fine assortment of fancy and staple goods, groceries, crockery, glassware, boots and shoes—in fact everything usually found in a well stocked general store. Since moving into the store he has made many improvements and the shop now has the appearance of having been fitted up by an experienced decorator. The [illegible] which have always been popular in the village have induced a much larger trade than usual, and Mr. Stewart deserves and no doubt will get the success that his energy and enterprise merit. Those wishing to purchase goods cheap for cash should call on Mr. Stewart before purchasing elsewhere, as he will sell at prices that cannot be undersold in Lakefield or Peterborough.

THE DUNKIN BILL.

SIR,—By the [illegible] published, the vote to appeal [illegible] By-law will take place on [illegible] 5th December. I understand Mr. Treasurer has also concluded to [illegible] opposition to its repeal, and I [illegible] they have arrived at a wise conclusion. Through [illegible], I need not now say what, they cannot expect the providence of the By-law carried out, and the [illegible] to continue it on the statute books of the town would serve no good purpose, since it is allowed by both Councillors, Constables, and License-Act Officers, to be continuously and openly violated. I say, under the circumstances, let it be repealed. If repealed, that excellent Crooks Act will come into force on the 10th of December, and the License Inspector will then be compelled to see that no liquor be sold in town without license; and as a By-law exists providing that licenses be $300, the proper enforcing of the law will provide against all loss from the Dunkin By-law, and the liquor dealers will have an opportunity of falling down before their much-[illegible] Crooks Act. I am therefore [illegible] to consider the action of the Temperance people wise, timely, and judicious, while matters are as they are; and I express the hope that they will not cast a single vote against the repeal of the By-law on the 5th of December.

I am, Yours, &c.

EXPEDIENCY

Peterboro' Nov. 20th 1878.

THE DUNKIN BILL.

We, the undersigned members of the Temperance Special Committee, have been most reluctantly compelled to come to the conclusion that it is inexpedient to offer any opposition to the repeal of the Dunkin Act By-law.

The following are among the reasons which led us to this conclusion.

Firstly and chiefly :—The gross and continued neglect of duty by the person appointed to fill the office of Inspector of Licenses. Secondly—The official refusal of a majority of the Town Council to allow the Constables of the Town to enforce the town By-law. Thirdly—The large number of otherwise exemplary citizens who have aided and abetted the tavern keeper in the open defiance of the law, and the still greater number who have withheld both sympathy and aid from those who at personal inconvenience and loss have endeavored to uphold the law. Wrong-doing and injustice have prevailed and the best interests of the community have been sacrificed. We can only hope that at no distant day the public conscience will awake to a sense of the humiliation and danger of its position, and that there will be an unmistakable demand for obedience to law, and for more trustworthy men to fill our public offices.

ON SEEING A MULE KICK A MAN THROUGH THE ROOF OF A SHED.

Oh, mule!
What strong and complicated machinery!
What sudden and precipitate entrances!
Man's judgment and his vision must be keen or he Will hesitate to renew these from the dreams
A rugged school
Trained thy stout quadrisyne antagonr.
To beat a keg of nails, kick down a fence or Lift a man, oh mule!

Say, mule,
That want not always thus insensate.
Intimate to kindly brush or word!
Not always have thy counsels, loud and voluble,
Man's fearful heart with dreadful terror stirred.
Has your harsh rule
Always impelled him, with emotions fleet,
To fly the fondling of thy hoof first?
Say, gentle mule!

Speak, mule!
Why didst thou, with intense vitality,
Lift through the kingdom roof of yonder shed
A man—an earth-born child of immortality,
Because he passed thee with incautious tread?
He was no foal,
That here-born, restless mules should kick him. No!
He was a scholar, an A. M., a Ph.D., a D.—Oh!!
Whoa, mule!!!

Is Croquet a Moral Game?

(From the Burlington Hawkeye.)

One day we rode fifty miles in a railway car seated behind four men who were playing with them awful playthings of the devil—cards. They played euchre until they were tired of it. They played a little seven up, pedro, and occasionally a trifle of poker. We never heard a dispute. Their bursts of merriment occasionally at some unexpected play repeatedly drew car eyes from our book. They never quarrelled and never called names once. After we got out at our station we sat at the window and watched a party of young men and maidens play croquet. In fifteen minutes we saw two persons cheat enormously. We heard the one player who did not cheat accused of cheating five times. We heard four distinct bitter quarrels. We heard a beautiful young girl tell two lies, and a mook looking young man three, and finally we saw the young girl throw her mallet against the fence, so hard that it frightened a horse, and the other girl pounded her mallet so hard on the ground that it knocked the buds off an apple tree. Then they both hanged into the house at different doors, and the two young men looked sheepish and went off after a drink. Now, why is this?

How Much to Live On.

The Monetary Times contributes an article to the early marriage discussion, in the course of which it says:—The ghost of Malthus might explain all this. Here is a country into which we import labour, at considerable cost; but in which, nevertheless, whole classes cannot afford to indulge in the luxury of early marriage. It is not so much a question of mere subsistence, as fear of descent in the social scale; and that fear, talk as we will, will always be one of the strongest motives of the human series. To come down to hard-pan, it may not be easier to see on what sum the average well-fed laborer can live. The Labour Report of the State of Massachusetts, for 1876, gives $550 as the yearly sum on which a laborer's family of five can live. At the same time, the wages of the laborer himself is only $402, to which that of wife and children add $211 25. Besides this, the average labourer receives from other sources $30 more; so that he has a total income of $678.89, while he can support his family for $550 a year. The scale of prices, in 1874, was somewhat higher in Massachusetts than in Canada; but not enough to justify us in concluding that a Canadian barrister can maintain a family on $714.89 less than it takes to support that of the average Massachusetts labourer.

How Long, Sir John? How Long?

(From the Norfolk Reformer.)

When Sir John Macdonald addressed the electors at the pic-nic in the grove near Simcoe on 1870, he told the farmers that they were having hard times, and that the times would continue hard, increasingly so, until they united and their votes returned him to power; then the times would immediately change; their barns would be filled with plenty; their presses would gush out with new wine; there would be joy in the land from one end to the other. Well, Sir John has been returned to place and power, and he and his talented confreres have been in receipt of their munificent salaries for several weeks, and yet we have not heard of the joy in the land, nor the prosperity, but on the contrary the universal cry among the farmers is, "How long, Sir John? how long? When will these calamities be overpast?" Sir John says, "I'm now in power, keep silence."

No Relief for the Distressed Farmer.

(From the Stratford Beacon.)

The Tory party pledged themselves a hundred times over that if the Conservative party were successful prices would rise. Prices have been going down ever since, and though Sir John A. Macdonald said he could arrange matters so that prices of all kinds of produce would go up immediately, he refuses either to do it or call Parliament together for four months to come. By that time the crop will be sold at the lowest figure touched for a quarter of a century, and the Government refuse to interfere, although they and their supporters promised that prices would rise the moment they got into power. Cheese, too, has never been lower, and not much more than half the make has been sold. The new Government were to raise the prices of "all kinds of produce," but they refuse to do so. Either the statements made by Tory candidates and canvassers were falsehoods or the Government is the most heartless, cruel, and unpatriotic combination of men that ever existed on the face of the earth.

Is it What it Ought to be?

Is our daily life what it ought to be? Do we not allow petty vexatious and trivial things to sour our temper and darken our hour—the impulse of nature to get the better of us? That impatient word just now; you were fretted, but did it make you feel any more pleasant? Those light and trifling thoughts; they have gone to give their account against you. That witticism at another's expense; you mean no harm, but was it, after all, quite right and doing just as you would be done by? And those the words that are careless; the opportunities neglected which might be productive of so much good! How much evil we do when we might do good! How much reproach we bring upon ourselves by our inconsiderateness! How little we do unto others what we would that they should do unto us! How selfish we are, and ready to listen to the promptings of self-interest! How we permit little jealousies and splenetics to rankle in our heart, and petty vain and impotent, to fill it! How little of charity do we feel for an erring brother or sister, as if we never erred ourselves! How important and incongruous are our lives!

Useful Fumes and Fluxes.

Addressed to the inventors of curious purposes, processes and conveniences, it is hoped to lay every way dead and ground rule, but we may confidently say that whatever is found to melt you for religious duties or to interfere with the performance of them, what ever diminishes your mind or cools the fervor of your devotions, whatever indisposes you to read your Bible or to engage in prayer, whatever the thought of a bleeding Saviour or of a holy God, of the hour of death, or of the day of judgment, falls like a cold shadow on your enjoyment, the pleasures which you cannot thank God for, are those which you cannot ask blessing, whose recollections will haunt a dying bed, and plant sharp thorns in its uneasy pillow—these are not for you. These confess; in these be not conformed to the world, but transformed by the renewing of your minds—"Touch not, taste not, handle not."—Never go where you cannot ask God to go with you, never be found where you would not like death to find you, never indulge in any pleasure which will not bear the morning's reflection. Keep yourselves unspotted from the world; not from its spots only, but even from its suspicions.—Dr. Guthrie.

The Fessler Default Case.

Sentenced to Twelve Years' Imprisonment and $40,000 Fine.

In Canton, Ohio, last Monday, the defaulting Treasurer of Stark County, George Fessler, was sentenced to twelve years in the Penitentiary, and a fine of $40,000, and costs. The case was tried on the 6th, when Fessler appeared in court, and entered a plea of guilty on the first counts of the indictment. It will be remembered that Fessler, in June last, finding his term of office drawing to a close, and being a defaulter to a heavy amount, managed in some decidedly mysterious way to abstract $30,000 from the county treasury, and leaving $3,000 hidden in his residence, made tracks for Canada with the remaining $37,000. This was on the 22nd day of June, but the news of the defalcation did not become public until the 26th. The total deficit was found to be about $74,000. His flight to Canada, and his discovery by Detective Webb at London, where he had deposited his ill-gotten gains, is still remembered, together with his arrest by the Canadian authorities on the charge of bringing stolen goods into the country. Fessler preferred coming home and he tried on the charge of embezzlement, and on July 8th he was brought to Canton after an absence of but two weeks, and placed in the county jail, where he has since languished, in default of the $212,000 bond demanded at his preliminary hearing.

Distinction Between Jurors and Men.

Unless Mr. Justice Landon, of the Supreme Court of this State, is misrepresented or misinterpreted, his conception of a juror's duty in a recent case is as follows:—"What you believe as men you must find as jurors;" and this was in substance repeated on the coming in of the jury for further instructions. We submit that this is not the law. A juror may have an opinion or a belief as a man which he is bound to ignore as a juror. He may even, as a man, have knowledge of facts which as a juror he would not have a right to consider in reaching a verdict. The jury in a criminal case have nothing to do with the abstract question of the guilt or innocence of the accused; their sole province is to announce their conclusion from the evidence addduced in court.—to determine whether or not that evidence establishes the guilt of the accused. This Oath each requires them to do. Were it otherwise—were they to be permitted to find as jurors what they believe as men, there would be great injustice in the law which permits a man to act as a juror, although he has formed and expressed a previous opinion. That law was based solely on the theory that a juror should "render an impartial verdict according to the evidence," and if he cannot do this, the law subjects him to challenge.—Albany Law Journal.

Conversational Powers.

The burdens of social life rest chiefly on women, whose tact and intuition render them charming companions. Good talking must be revived by them. Women who belong to the highest circles will allow us to respind them of what they can do to make life interesting, not to say enjoyable, if they will cultivate their conversational powers at the table and in the leisure hours of the circle of people to which they belong; and women who move in any circle can take a new departure here, which will re-act both directly and indirectly upon their own personal happiness. It is rare to-day to find women who respond to their duties as leaders in conversation, or who seem to give the matter any any thought. Nothing should be allowed to supply the place of good, old-fashioned conversation. The importance of this matter is not more to crown up people than to young persons in one's family. Where children have learned to tell in good, easy language what they know or think, you will in most cases find them well-read and interesting companions, and where the time spent at meals is enlivened by easy and interesting conversation there is not only good digestion, but good, healthful living also. The revival of conversation is to-day one of the great needs of society, and though most of us are tempted to too much silence, it is not prize to carry what is at times golden, into so confirmed a habit, that it helps to make life weak and contemptible.

A Marriage Tax Suggested.

From the Toronto Telegram.

The only way to stop all this talk about early marriages and the amount of money it is prudent for a young man to marry on would seem to be for the marriageable young women of the country to band themselves together, go down to Ottawa in a body, and compel Parliament to pass an Act requiring all young men who have reached the age of twenty-five years, and who are in a position to support a wife, either to marry within a specified time or pay a heavy tax to the State. The number of young men who boldly defy time-honored precedents and customs, and who are openly and avowedly unconcerned as to what becomes of all the marriageable young women, is alarmingly on the increase. It is time to take severe measures toward them. These young men must either do their duty to their country, or put their hands in their pockets and pay for their refusal. The proceeds of the tax levied upon the unwilling young men could be utilized in assisting impecunious but willing young men to take unto themselves help-meets. Widowers should be taxed double. There is no excuse for them not marrying, for in nine cases out of ten they have the house already furnished.

Hints on the Poultry House.

When winter sets in it is well to look carefully to the poultry stock, to see what can be done for their comfort while they are in the house, weatherbound. When the earth is covered with snow they do not care to have their quarters, as they will leave their roostings can be found; consequently, all they require must be supplied by their keepers; what is not supplied they go without. Although these things have been said repeatedly, yet when occasion urgently requires it, it is well to refresh the memory. Plenty of fresh water, Coal or wood ashes and sand in equal parts under the best, to which some purchased sulphur should be added. Do not overcrowd—try to give a definite cubic foot of air to breathe amongst what are likely to-night

The Farmer as a Manufacturer.

Now must the farmer manufacture? In the first place, he has the natural fertility of his soil, as the mill has its water privilege. Next, he must obtain his raw material at the cheapest rate—the waste fertilizers of the farm; the getting the most fertilizers from the cattle feed that a judicious knowledge of food and animal growth will allow; the purchase of additional fertilizers if thought best, at the lowest prices and of the quality best adapted to the use for which they are applied. Next, he must obtain the most work from his men and machinery, and must apply the labor to the right time and in the proper manner. He must combine all his resources in the best way to accomplish the results; the best seed, sufficiency of fertilizers, the right quantity of labour. When the job is completed, and the goods, in the form of suitable produce, secured, he must seek the best market for them, and secure his pay. Even this is not the end. He must see that his manufactory is not deteriorating, and that it is left in proper condition for producing another batch of goods. If his goods are not adapted to his market, a failure of obtaining a profit must likewise be diminished or cut off. Hence, like the manufacturer, he must calculate and decide in advance of the market.

Turkeys and Turkey-Raising.

The New England Farmer has something to say about that great "thanksgiving" bird, the turkey, which may be of service to many turkey-raisers:

Twenty-five years ago almost every large farmer, living not too near to neighbors, was in the habit of keeping turkeys. They were a great help in the way of destroying grasshoppers, crickets and other injurious insects which prey upon the crops of the garden and field. They usually roosted on trees near the farm building, and after the first few weeks from hatching gave very little trouble to the feeder, and afforded a good bunch of bank notes for paying off debts which might come due about Thanksgiving. Christmas or New Year's. Of late years, however, the profits from turkey-raising have been much diminished by a disease which attacks the birds at all ages, from the time they are as large as quails till they are fully grown. The symptoms are dullness, pale skin on the face and down the neck, an inclination to sit on the ground or to lag behind when feeding with the flocks in the fields, and a yellowish watery discharge from the bowels. The birds usually live but a few days after these symptoms are observed. They lose their appetites and grow rapidly weaker till they are found dead on the ground near their usual haunts. If they are opened the liver will be found very much enlarged, and with numerous tubercles scattered over the surface. It seems to be purely a disease of the liver, as the other organs in most cases present a normal appearance. We have lost three fine flocks in years past by this disease, without knowing any cure or preventive, and many others in various parts of New-England have had a similar experience, and have consequently abandoned the raising of these choice birds. Charcoal and sulphur, we believe, have been recommended to be mixed with the food, but by the time the disease shows itself it is not an easy matter to administer medicines in this way, as the birds have little or no appetite.

While looking at some fine, large and healthy looking turkeys at the Vermont State Fair, and discussing methods of raising with Mr. Charles Morse, of Plainfield, he stated that he had been very successful in treating this disease by giving red pepper, cinnamon and rhubarb, in the form of pills, which can be easily given to the fowls, whether they have an appetite or not. The rhubarb is physicking in its effects, while the pepper and cinnamon warm up the birds and stimulate the digestion. We have had no experience with this treatment, but give it on the authority of Mr. Morse. Since turkeys have become so scarce upon New England farms, grasshoppers and crickets have increased to an alarming extent in many localities. Whole fields of grass are sometimes eaten by grasshoppers, especially the second crops of clover, of which they are particularly fond.

CANADA.

A widow woman, 70 years of age, named O'Brien was brutally outraged at Caledonia on Thursday night of last week by a number of men—some of them married—who also searched her cottage with a view to robbing her of her money, of which she was supposed to have a considerable amount. Mrs. O'Brien lodged an information against John Sullivan, James McGrill, and John Gallaher, whom she identified as the perpetrators of the outrage, while Sullivan was, according to her, standing in the door-way looking on. The whole four were committed to stand their trial for rape.

The report that wives were wanted out near Swan Lake having reached those Montreal girls, they wrote to the editor of the Winnipeg Free Press stating that they are willing to sacrifice themselves for the good of the new colony. They say:—"As we are there in numbers, namely, a blonde, demi-blonde, and brunette, we each hope to receive a favourable reply from a few or all of the fifty lonely gentlemen." They sign themselves "Three Willing Maidens. S. Bruce, blonde; J. Bruce, demi-blonde; B. Bruce, brunette."

The Brantford Expositor is publishing a detailed list of the city improvements of that city, from which it seems that great progress has been made. An interesting feature of prosperity is the fact that nearly every mechanic in the city has enlarged his premises and operations. All these enlargements were contemplated, and in many cases completed, before the 17th of September.

Mr. Barbot, of Paisley, has lately returned from Manitoba, where he has been on a visit for a couple of months. He gives a very favourable report of the agricultural capabilities of the soil, has taken up 320 acres in the township appropriated by the members of the Paisley colony, and intends removing there next spring. He spent a night in one of the newly Winnipeg shanties, and found them a quiet, industrious people, but somewhat primitive in their habits, and having furnished themselves with the useful appliances of knives and forks. Strangers, they have adopted the principle.

The Grangers of North Ontario are going mad. At a meeting of the Division Grange, Mr. Ballantyne, a member of the Dominion parliament, made a report on the shipment of [illegible] the professor had in it a

The fences good, and there are two never-failing wells on the lot. There are two dwelling houses on it, but one or both can be purchased with the farm. The barn is frame, the stables and sheds commodious. There is a fruit bearing orchard, young, consisting of two acres, on the farm.

This is a very desirable property as it is in one of the best Townships in the province, and cannot be surpassed for grain growing.

Possession can be given on the First of Oct

PETERBOROUGH, NOV. 28, 1878.

POLITICS, MUNICIPAL AND PARLIAMENTARY.

Someone has said truly that there is too much religion and not enough righteousness. In the same way it may be declared that there is too much political palaver and not enough party principle. In politics, as in Christian rectitude and in social morality, men are divided according to their ideas as to certain fixed principles that underlie the whole foundation of the science of Government. Diversity of opinion upon all or any of these great fundamental truths cause the formation of parties. The closer co relative principles are adhered to, the stronger does the party advocating them become, and the more antagonistic principles are mixed by a party the weaker that party necessarily becomes. At times it has suited the plans of party leaders to ignore some of the principles for which they and their following had been long contending (on which the party may be said to have been based), and to take up some rag of a policy, or some new and showy idea suitable to the raising of a temporary excitement. Where, and so long as such an excitement can be kept up, to the exclusion of attention to its relative merits compared with the fixed principles before referred to, just then and just so long will it have an effect on the popular mind. In this way a snatch-verdict may be obtained at the polls, but to the certain dishonor and future embarrassment of the party securing it on such terms. For tactics such as these now referred to constitute demagogism, which is mob-moving; and have really no connection with politics—the science of government. The mob is like any other body. It has inertia. It may be hard to move in any desired direction; but, when moved, it has momentum. The politician seeks to use this power in the right direction, looking to the future; the demagogue is satisfied if it serves his temporary purpose. The success of the first means the country's good; the success of the other means evil to the State. The populace governed is a mighty force for future advancement on stable ground; the populace merely set wildly a-going is beyond all possibility of government. Herein we see the proud place politics takes as compared with mere party tactics or personal plans.

The science of government and the principles on which it rests are the same in all governing bodies, small as well as large. Popular government is therefore much the same in Town and County Councils as it is in the Provincial and Dominion Parliaments. Indeed, all these bodies are Parliaments, wherein the representatives of the people, if they do their duty faithfully, strive for the right governance of the affairs of the territory represented by the assembled trust-holders. In one case, the simpler concerns of a village or township have to be considered; in others, the wider and more complicated affairs of a city or county come under review; and so on the amplification goes, till Provinces, and finally a wide-reaching Dominion, with all its varied resources and requirements, is entrusted to the special care of a larger body of representatives, all chosen, as in the first and smaller ones, by the popular vote. In some respects the smaller municipal parliament is, under our present system, more important than that of the Dominion, for on that issue depends the determination of who shall have the choosing of representatives to the greater and till lesser Provincial Legislatures. Politics, if we could only so mean ourselves, [illegible] to the [illegible] and [illegible] would be [illegible] and [illegible] would [illegible] and [illegible] would [illegible] and [illegible] would

PETERBOROUGH, NOV. 28, 1878.

LOCAL NEWS.

School Board.—The regular monthly meeting of the School Board will be held next Tuesday evening.

Town Council.—This body will meet for the transaction of business on Monday evening at the usual hour.

Passed.—Mr. Thomas R. Hawken recently passed a successful examination at Ottawa before the Board of Dominion Land Surveyors.

Fish and Game Protective Society.—Mr. C. A. Post has been elected Secretary-Treasurer of this Association in the stead of Mr. A. Borrowman, resigned.

Held Over.—Through lack of space this week we are compelled to hold over the publication of the remainder of Dr. Kincaid's lecture on School Hygiene.

Evening Classes.—There are to be no evening classes this winter in connection with the Mechanics' Institute—a sufficient number of pupils not applying.

Appointed a Commissioner.—We are pleased to learn that Mr. H. Grandy, Deputy-Registrar, has been appointed a commissioner for taking affidavits.

New Mill Board.—Mr. E. C. Hill, with his usual enterprise, has erected a large bill board on the vacant lot on George street, nearly opposite the New Post Office.

Another Appropriation.—The Directors of the Mechanics' Institute at a late meeting appropriated a further sum of $200 towards the purchase of books for the library.

Election Expenses.—The published returns show that the expenses of Mr. John Burnham in the recent election contest in East Peterborough were $386.9. How much more is not given yet.

New Year's Ball.—A union social ball, under the auspices of the Young Canadians and 'Prentice Boys, will be held in Bradburn's Hall on New Year's eve. Invitations will shortly be issued.

Personal.—Miss Goldred and Miss Madle are holding evangelistic meetings in Campbellford. Miss Beard and Miss Logan have been at Charlottetown, P.E.I., and are now at St. John, N. B.

Lecture.—The Rev. Alex. Bell, of St. Andrew's Church, delivered a very interesting lecture on Monday evening last, in St. Andrew's Church the subject being, "Why am I a Presbyterian?"

A Denial.—We have been requested by several members of the Foot Ball Club to contradict the statement in last week's Review, that the report of the late match which appeared in the Mail had been sent by one of themselves.

Counterfeit Notes.—Several counterfeit $20 bills of the Ontario Bank were offered at the Hamilton banks and exchange offices last week. They were easily detected, as they are printed on thin paper, and the figures are somewhat blurred.

No. 1 Ward.—As will be seen by a card in another column Mr. Maxwell Hall announces himself as a candidate for Councillor for No. 1 Ward. Mr. Hall is a rising young man and if elected would, we believe, serve the town efficiently.

Marriages in the Province.—By the report of the Registrar-General of the Province of Ontario, it appears there were 20,329 persons married last year, viz: Episcopalians, 4,463; Presbyterians, 5,665; Baptists, 1,354; Congregationalists, 256; Catholics, 3,336; Lutherans, 620; Methodists (including the Bible Christians), 9,034.

Sending Re-Mention.—We are informed that councillors Smith and Paterson will seek re-election as Councillors for No. 2 Ward, and that Councillor Cahill and McBain will be candidates for No 1 Ward. In the other Wards we have not yet heard whether the present representatives wish for a further term at the civic board.

A Contemptible Act.—Our contemporary, the Times, last week published a notice of marriage between a Mr. Thomas Miller and Miss Kate Murphy—which they received through the post-office from an anonymous correspondent. It now turns out, however, that the marriage did not occur. The party guilty of sending such notices to the press, if found out, should be most severely punished.

The Season.—So rainy an autumn as that which is now in its last stage, has not been seen in Canada for several years. In fact, the whole season has been remarkable for an excess of moisture. The oranges were never dry during the entire summer, and in September they were filled and have remained full ever since. The water in the river is also far above the level usual to it at this season.

Game of Hops.—On Monday, a man named William H. Little, of North Dummer, was arrested and brought before David Ross, Esq., on a charge of committing a rape on Margaret McClure, of the same township. After hearing evidence the Magistrate committed Little to await his trial, and he was lodged in jail on Tuesday by Constables Calder and Davis.

Addresses.—Wednesday.—The Peterborough St. Andrew's Society have requested that the address of the Peterborough St. Andrew's Society, be engrossed on the address of welcome to be presented by the Caledonian and St. Andrew's Societies of the Province, to the Marquis of Lorne and Her Royal Highness, the Princess Louise. Jos. Miller, President of the Society, will be a delegate to go to Ottawa, where the presentation is to be made.

American Trade Dollar.—The people should know that the new American trade dollar, which is finding its way over here, is only worth 92 cents. Advices from [illegible] of the 4th of the present, the paper [illegible] and Japan for whose trade it was originally made, and where it is not silent to the profit of the merchants and loss of the natives.

Blenkinsop Charity.—We publish this little item for the benefit of those who propose to take an active part in the charitable work of Peterborough this winter:—"The first case taken in hand by the Benton Union for Christian work was that of a family of six persons, who were without work, food, or fuel. Their immediate wants were supplied, and $20 was left with them. They spent most of the money in a carriage ride on the following day."

"Canadian Monthly."—The December number of Rose-Belford's Canadian Monthly will contain the opening chapters of James Payne's great story "Under One Roof," a mastery and pertinent paper by Prof. Goldwin Smith on the Afghanistan question, a delightful study of Shelley by Walter Townsend, an able review of Mr. Stewart's "Canada under the administration of the Earl of Dufferin," by Wm. J. Rattray, a beautiful poem by H. L. Spencer, an d[illegible] by Fidelis, etc.

Our Supplement.—We this week issue to our subscribers a supplement containing portraits of the Marquis of Lorne and the Princess Louise, with a biographical sketch of our new Governor-General and his illustrious consort. It also contains an account of the royal trip, the ceremonies at Liverpool and the reception at Londonderry, Ireland, as well as the speeches delivered upon these occasions by the Marquis. Particulars of the arrival and reception of the Vice-Regal party in Canada will be found in another column.

Mr. Friends Entertainment.—The concert given under the auspices of St. Andrew's Band of Hope Society, by Mr. A. H. Friend and a number of ladies and gentlemen, in the Sunday School Room of St. Andrew's Church, on Tuesday evening last, was an entire success. Neither Mr. Elliot, or Mr. Stevenson appeared. The former being called suddenly from town, and the latter through indisposition. The different performers acquitted themselves in good style, and deserved the applause that followed. The accompanist was Mr. Heathfield, who proved most efficient in that capacity.

F. Lane & Co.—By reference to the extensive advertisement on the back of the supplement which we issue this week, it will be seen that Messrs. F. Lane & Co. are still determined to push their business in spite of the hard times. They are now selling on a cash basis, and premise goods at 20 per cent. below any other houses in town. They have this fall enlarged and refitted their premises and laid in a heavy stock of drugs, perfumery, patent medicines, paints, oils, varnishes, brushes and druggists sundries, which will be sold at very low quotations. Call and see them—learn their prices and inspect their goods.

A "Shocking Libel."—The Perth Courier publishes a list of the delinquent subscribers. "It would be a caution if every newspaper were to do the same," remarks a western exchange, but some such plan will have to be adopted, at least for hard cases. It has been suggested that any half a dozen leading merchants should combine and obtain judgments in the division court against a dozen or so of the hard cases that will crop in, in spite of every precaution and then advertise the facts in the local papers for a month, or longer if necessary. It would prove effective in more ways than one, and would have an excellent general influence.

Recorp-ended.—The last number of the Gazette contains the following:—

"Public notice is hereby given that, under the 'Ontario Joint Stock Companies' Letters Patent Act,' Letters Patent have been issued under the Great Seal of the Province of Ontario, bearing date the twentieth day of November, 1878, incorporating James Frederick Deamstead, Barrister-at-Law; Robert N. Roddy, Hotel-keeper; William G. Ferguson, Grocer; Robert Stewart Davidson, Hardware Merchant; William Manson, Banker; Adam Hall, Merchant; Robert Lamb, Merchant; Peter Connal, Grocer; Andrew McNeil, Cutter; all of the Town of Peterborough, for the purpose of furnishing premises for Curling and Skating with suitable buildings, and the using of such buildings for other purposes of concerts, meetings, exhibitions, &c., by the name of "The Peterborough Curling and Skating Rink Company," with a Capital Stock of two thousand dollars each.

Square Up.—This is the imperitive duty of the hour, and it is a duty that should be discharged at this particular season. The man who can't pay now is not likely to be able to pay later on. For there is assuredly more money in circulation at a time when the farmer is disposing of his produce than when he has nothing to sell. Hence we say, not on behalf of the newspaper man only, but on behalf of business men of all classes—square up! Get that old account off your mind and the mind of your creditor at once. It will be a relief to both, and both will sleep sounder for it. Not only so, but it will help to make better times, for if everybody had his own in this world bad times would soon disappear.—Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

"Suppose you try the Cash Plan."—This is the advice of a New York trade journal which says:—Mr. Turrel, a grocer of Litchfield, Michigan, was in to see us last week. He began selling for cash exclusively about three years ago. He now says he would not exchange back to the old system for anything. It was hard to do at first. He lost some customers, but he gained others and after awhile the people got to know that he meant what he said, and the trouble was over. He lives in an agricultural district; almost all the people around are farmers, and yet they manage to get the cash and come to town to buy goods. His experience is that of hundreds of others in different sections who have changed from the credit to the cash system. Now is a favourable time of the year to make the change. People are being compelled to get money."

Foot Ball.—The Return match between Trinity College School and the Peterborough Foot Ball Clubs took place on the Port Hope cricket ground, Pearyn Park, on Friday afternoon, 22nd, from 1.15 to 3.30 p. m., with fifteen minutes intermission. The day was wet and the wind strong, making it disagreeable for the teams. The school won the toss, and during the first three quarter's of an hour obtained one touch down, after which the teams changed goals, and during the next three-quarters the Peterborough team [illegible] touches down, but owing to some mistake of the umpire in making the goals, they were only 10 feet wide, which made it almost impossible for either side to get a goal with the high wind prevailing. The advantage of the Peterborough team was due to the excellent way in which they passed the ball. The game was decided a draw largely in favour of the Peterborough team.

St. Andrew's Bay.—At a special meeting of the St. Andrew's Society held on Friday evening last, Mr. D. Haggart, on behalf of the Dinner Committee, reported that they had made arrangements with Mr. Gall, of Keene, to provide dinner for fifty cents per head. The Committee had also arranged with the proprietors of the Rotary stables to convey all who were to attend the dinner at Keene at fifty cents each. They reported that members and invited guests going should meet at the store of J. R. Ormond, to be ready to leave town at 6.30 p.m. They recommended that the Secretary be instructed to have tickets and bills of fare printed for the occasion. The report was adopted. The dinner takes place on Monday evening, December 2nd, and not on St. Andrew's Day, owing to that day falling on Saturday this year. The annual sermon will be preached by the Rev. Mr. Torrance, in St. Paul's Church, on Sunday evening, December 1st.

Normal S. S. Class.—A preliminary meeting of Sunday School Teachers and others interested, was held on Tuesday evening in the basement of St. Paul's Church, its object being the formation of a Union Normal Class for the study of the Bible. Judging from the attendance and the interest manifested in the proceedings, the class promises to be a decided success. Mr. Judson was elected President of the Class, and Mr. J. H. Roper, Vice-President; Mr. W. Gellatly, Secretary-Treasurer; and Messrs. D. Pentland, J. W. Flavelle and G. M. Roger, Business Committee. Sabbath School teachers and all others who would like to join the class are cordially invited to attend the next meeting, of which notice will be given in the schools next Sunday. The invitation is not confined to schools in the town, but is extended to all Sabbath School Teachers in the county. Any information desired in the meantime may be obtained from any of the office bearers named above.

Low Prices.—We note the low state of the provision market. It is useless to advance in explanation that it is the result of an unprecedented supply, for the fact stares everybody in the face that there is no money in the hands of the people. In the matter of grain every farmer who is in a position to do so keeps it in store, and those who are not so fortunate [illegible] to enable them to hoard until the market is easy rise. In spite of the large exports to England and elsewhere, meat is cheap all over this district. Butter is cheaper on account of the dearness of salt, we believe, at this season of the year. And so on all round the circle, the only exception to are we indicated, being potatoes, which command a high price owing to a disease with which they have been attacked, rendering cellar room scarce and dear. It is an ill wind that blows no good their way, and in this instance it may be wasted that while the farmers and gentlemen are suffering, the consumers, whom they have the money, reap the benefit. At this point it may not be idle to remark the arguments used before the late election to prove that what is [illegible] of a foreign market was a home market regulated by centres of population, [illegible] up by supplies

The Cry of the Hidden Shareholders.

WALTER SMITH.

The following well-known pathetic lament is the fellow-feeling "Cry of the Hidden Shareholders" in the broken Glasgow Bank:

Pity us, God! There are five of us here,
With threescore years on the youngest head,
Five of us sitting in sorrow and fear—
Well for our widowed ones she is dead:
Day and night sitting, we've not laid a head
Down on a pillow this week now and more;
Tossing and tumbling, we groaned on, shrieking and dead,
To hear the bell ring, or be seen out of door.
Pity us, pity, O God!

Pity us God! When our names filled
The mind was at ease, for he left us our shares
And it rose of one house, too; right side by side,
Happy and loving, we dozed life's career.
Then came the crash—hands and old,
But we never wronged any, as far as we knew.
And we tried to do right with our silver and gold,
And the poor had their portion, the Church had its due.
Pity us, pity, O God!

Pity us, God! We would work if we could,
But scepter fingers must stitch and hem;
And who would give us our morsel of food,
Though we spun and knitted all day them?
We never knew work, but to keep ourselves
cool:
And never knew want, but our wants are small.
And there's bread in the house yet, if we could eat,
But the sickness of sorrow is mixed with it all.
Pity us, pity, O God!

Pity us, God! Must our little things go!
All—even our mother's tokens cherished with care!
Must we leave the old house—the one home that we know!
But not for the poor-house—O surely not there!
Could her rest wait a while? We will not keep it long!
We could live on so little, too, cheerful and brave.
But to leave the old house, where old memories throng,
For the poor-house! O rather the peace of the grave!
Pity us, pity, O God!

Pity us, God! As for them who have wrought
All this and ruin so wide and deep,
O how could they do it, and know it not?
How could they know it, and think or sleep?
But we wronged none of us, cheque this day
Our lot for their's, for our hands are clean;
And the bankrupt soul has a darker way
Than the way of the honest poor ever hath been.
Pity us, pity, O God!

The Difference.

Is it Spiritualism?

A Girl Possessed in Amherst—Extraordinary Manifestations.

The Sackville Borderer lately published a long account of extraordinary manifestations in the house of Daniel Teed, at Amherst, Cumberland County, Nova Scotia. The statement runs thus:—The occupants of the house are Mr. Teed, his wife and infant, Miss Esther Cox, and Miss Jane Cox. The last named are sisters of Mrs. Teed, and are young women past twenty years of age. Miss Esther is the central figure in the story. She is undoubtedly possessed of a highly magnetic temperment, and would be called a powerful medium. Her health has been good, and she has lived until recently undisturbed by mysterious influences, and in ignorance of the theories or practice of spiritualistic mediums. Under ordinary conditions she might have lived so until the end of her life, but being ill and suffering from severe nervous prostration, accompanied by mental excitement, she became the instrument of the extraordinary developments hereafter mentioned. The first indication of anything unusual was a mesmeric trance, by which she was overcome during her early illness, eight weeks ago. Dr. T. W. Carritt treated her so as to overcome the nervous prostration and bring the system nearer its normal condition. In this he was apparently successful, but her body continued surcharged with electricity to a very remarkable degree. One night she retired to bed with her sister Jane, and scarcely had she done so when a noise was heard in a pasteboard box, containing scraps of clothes, which was under the bed. Little attention was paid to this, as it was supposed to be the work of a mouse nor were they much disturbed when they heard it in the straw of the ticking. They went to sleep and their slumbers were not interrupted.

On the following night they again retired, and again the mysterious noise was heard. This time it was of a more positive character, for the box was violently overturned. Much alarmed, the sister called their brother, who responded to their call, righted the box, placed the cover on it and set it in the middle of the floor. The effect was most surprising, for not only was the box again overturned, but the cover flew through the air and landed on the top of the table. As often as the test was made so often did the same result follow, and as was natural enough much alarm was felt at these extraordinary manifestations.

The Unknown (we hardly know the term to apply to it) now entered upon its work in earnest, and for four nights it continued its freaks, varying its method of working on each occasion. When the girls went to bed it would seize the quilts and drag them to one corner of the bed, pillows would be pulled from under Esther's head by an invisible influence, and with such force was this done that she was unable to hold on and prevent the articles moving. Strange rappings were next heard in various places where Esther was, and during the day as well as night. She was separated from her sister and placed in another room, but with no different result. The rapping continued until the fourth day, at which time Esther was seriously ill. During her illness, for several days, the "spirit" was very quiet, and it was believed that there would be no recurrence of the manifestations. The hope was a vain one. The brief interval of rest was succeeded by a renewal of hostilities, and since Friday, the 30th of September, the excitement around Mr. Teed's house have been such as to surprise and perplex hundreds of intelligent men of all classes who have gathered at the house night after night.

The above is confirmed by doctors, lawyers, and other scientific men, and has created quite a sensation throughout the Dominion.

Plants in Winter.

With the retreat of winter will come a desire to have a few flowers in the window—something bright and cheerful to look at while all without looks bleak and dreary. Select an east or south window, and if these cannot be had, then a west window; it is almost useless to grow plants in a north window.

The temperature of the room should be about sixty-five to seventy degrees by day, and not less than fifty degrees at night.

If possible, select a room which is not heated by a furnace; the air is too dry and hot. The florist sprinkles his plants, throws water on the walks, and in every way strives to maintain a moist atmosphere. We cannot do this in private houses, but by placing a pail of water on the register we can very nearly approach the florist's method.

Plants must have air and light at every opportunity. Be careful not to allow a draught of cold air, admitting it in quantity proportionate to the warmer outside. When it is cold and frosty, give little or no air, and more on pleasant days.

The leaves of plants need washing and sponging to remove the dust that gathers on them. Some plants, such as begonia rex, do not like their leaves moistened. Others, like chrysanthe, require the sponging of the stem, by which all the nourishment is drawn, and ground or rubbing at least once every week will add the gallon leaves of the large plant. The drainage of the pot should absorb the surplus water to escape easily through the hole in the bottom of the pot. Never allow the water to stand in the saucer.

One great error in window-gardening consists in attempting to grow too many plants. Better to have one healthy, well-grown plant than a dozen sickly, enfeebled things which have neither beauty nor blossom. The plants suitable for window-gardening are numerous, and I subjoin a few, with brief hints on their treatment.

Hyacinths make beautiful plants for this purpose, grown in pots filled with soil, or in moss, or in water. They should be kept in a dark cellar, free from frost, until rooted, and then put into the window to bloom.

Cyclamen bulbs should be potted in November, in rich soil, with powdered charcoal mixed in it. The crown of the bulb should not peep through the soil. Keep cool and near the glass until the flower buds appear, then bring into a sunny window.

Ivy may be grown in any part of the room. The pots may be placed on the floor, and the plants trained to festoon a doorway or wreath a picture. They require frequent watering, yet the water must not stand about the roots.

Madeira vine and cobea scandens are very pretty climbers, and will bear almost any treatment. Mignonette, petunia, sweet alyssum and salvia can all be grown and bloomed in winter from seeds sown now. Petunia seed is very small and must not be covered. Sprinkle the surface of the soil, then sow the seed thinly, and press it with a smooth flat board. Of course all these are to be sown indoors.

From these each one may make selection of such as each prefer. Do not undertake to grow all. More pleasure will be derived from one well-grown plant than from any number that are sickly.

Halifax Fishery Award.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—In pursuance of instructions from the Secretary of State, Minister Walsh to-day tendered to the British Government $5,500,000 gold, accompanying the payment with the following communication, and receipt of payment acknowledged by Lord Salisbury in due form:

"LEGATION OF UNITED STATES.
"London, Nov. 21, 1878.

"MY LORD,—I have been instructed by the President of the United States to tender to Her Majesty's Government the sum of $5,500,000 in gold coin, this being the sum named by the two concurring members of the Fisheries Commission lately sitting at Halifax, under authority imparted thereto by the Treaty of Washington, to be paid by the Government of the United States to the Government of Her Britannic Majesty. I am also instructed by the President to say that such payment is made upon the ground that the Government of the United States desires to place the maintenance of good faith in the treaties, and security and value of arbitration between nations, above all question in its relation with Her Britannic Majesty's Government, as with all other governments. Under this motive the Government of the United States desires to separate the question of withholding payment from considerations touching the obligation of this payment, which have been presented to Her Majesty's Government in the correspondence, and which it reserves and insists upon. I am, besides, instructed by the President to say that the Government of the United States deems it of the greatest importance to the common and friendly interests of the two governments in all future treatment of any questions relating to North American fisheries, that Her Britannic Majesty's Government should be distinctly advised that the Government of the United States cannot accept the result of the Halifax Commission as furnishing any just measure of the value of the participation by our citizens in the inshore fisheries of the British provinces, and it protests against actual payment now made, being considered by Her Majesty's Government as in any sense an acquiescence in such measure, or as warranting any inference to that effect.

"I have, etc.,"
"JOHN WALSH."

What to Teach Boys.

A philosopher has said that true education for boys is to "teach them what they ought to know when they become men." What is it they ought to know, then?

First—To be true—to be genuine. No education is worth anything that does not include this. A man had better never learn a letter in the alphabet, and be true and genuine in intention and in action, rather than being learned in all sciences and all languages, to be at the same time false in heart and counterfeit in life. Above all things, teach the boys that truth is more than riches, more than earthly power or position.

Second—To be pure in thought, language, and life—pure in mind and in body. An impure man, young or old, poisoning the society where he moved with smutty stories and impure examples, is a moral nicer, a plague-spot—a leper who ought to be treated as were the lepers of old, who were banished from society, and compelled to cry "Unclean,' as a warning to save others from the pestilence.

Third—To be unselfish; to care for the feelings and comforts of others; to be polite; to be generous, nobly and manly. This will include a genuine reverence for the aged and things sacred.

Fourth—To be self-reliant and self-helpful, even from early childhood; to be industrious always, and self-supporting at the earliest proper age. Teach them that all honest work is honorable, and that an idle, useless life of dependence on others is disgraceful.

When a boy has learned these four things, when he has made these ideas a part of his being—however young he may be, however poor, or however rich, he has learned some of the most important things he ought to know when he becomes a man. With these four properly mastered, it will be easy to find all the rest.—Home Arts, Chicago.

Admission of Newfoundland into Confederation.

The Montreal Star says in reference to the above subject:—"One of the subjects which is to come up in the Federal Parliament will not unlikely be the admission of Newfoundland into Confederation. It is understood that upon the island the union policy has become strong, and that one of the conditions upon which they will insist is the construction of the railway across the island from St. George's Bay to St. John's. The length of the road will be about 300 miles, and is an important link in Mr. Sanford Fleming's proposals for the shortest route to Europe. The plan now proposed in some quarters is a little different from the original proposal. It is to build what is called the Bale de Cadaore Railway from a convenient point on the International to Pasquine Bay. Here would be a line of powerful steamers, which in twenty-four to thirty hours would transport the traveller or freight to St. George's Bay, thence to be conveyed by railroad to Newfoundland to St John's, there to take the mail steamers which would cross the Atlantic in something like five days, thus making what is believed to be the shortest possible ocean voyage. Appreciating the great advantages which the road will confer the Newfoundlanders, would, it is believed, liberally contribute to its construction, and, upon the whole, might be arranged with upon fair terms."

Home-Made Fertilizers.

The most successful farmer is the one who avails himself of every means to enrich his land from home resources, and allows nothing to go to waste which can be a utilized for plant food. If cows or animals when refuse material is only partly utilized, how much greater the gain to the manure when this refuse is so manipulated as to secure all its fertilizing properties in the most available form, and in a condition best suited to the needs of the crop?

Terrible Ending of a Honeymoon.

An incident, as pathetic as any legend of Killarney and the Irish lake country, recently occurred at Lough Erne. A member of the Royal Irish Constabulary, unmindful of the rigid regulations of the police service, took the callous of his heart to the altar without receiving the permission of his superiors. After his marriage was reported at headquarters, attempts were made to secure a relaxation of the rules in his case, for he was a popular and efficient officer. Not even at the instance of Cupid could the rigid laws of the police be waived. Poor Ben—this was the officer's name—must leave the force; such was the stern order. He prepared to start for Australia with his young wife, consoled by her love for any sacrifices he had made. Happy in their honeymoon, he and his bride sailed up Lough Erne for Enniskillen to make final preparations for their departure from Ireland. At the landing place his wife fell into the water while stepping from the steamer. With the quickness of thought he plunged in to save her. Losing all presence of mind, she, in her struggle for life, entwined her arms around him, and before any assistance could be rendered, both sank to rise no more.

Influence of Newspapers.

A school teacher, who had been engaged a long time in his profession, and witnessed the influence of a newspaper upon the minds of family and children, writes as follows: "I have found it to be a universal fact without exception, that scholars of both sexes and all ages, who have access to newspapers at home when compared with those who have not, are:—

1. Better readers, excellent in pronunciation, and consequently read more understandingly.

2. They are better spellers and define words with ease and accuracy.

3. They obtain practical knowledge of geography in about half the time it requires of others, as the newspapers have made them acquainted with the location of important places, of nations, their governments and doings on the globe.

4. They are better grammarians for having become so familiar with every variety of style in the newspaper; from the common place advertisement to the finished and classical oration of the statesman; they more readily comprehend the meaning of the text, and constantly analyse its construction with accuracy.

5. These young men have for years been readers of newspapers are always taking the lead in debating societies, exhibiting a more extensive knowledge on a greater variety of subjects, and expressing their views with greater fluency, clearness and correctness.

An Electric Lamp.

A new electric lamp was exhibited in New York on Tuesday. The New York Journal of Commerce referring to it says:—"The lamp is inclosed in a hermetically sealed glass globe filled with nitrogen gas and some secret preparation, and consists of a small piece of carbon about the size of an ordinary pin, heated by electricity to a temperature of from 30,000 to 50,000 degree Fahrenheit. As there is no oxygen in the globes the carbon is not consumed, and thus a steady light is obtained. The inventors claim that a steam-engine, of 1,000 horse power will produce the light of 30,000 five-foot gas burners, at a cost of $10 per hour, while at the present rates the cost of 150,000 feet of gas required per hour to produce the same amount of light would be $412.50. Another important point in this invention is that the light is completely under control, and may be reduced to that of a taper or increased to that of thirty gas burners. The experiments yesterday were with five lights, and they were successful."

Bran as a Fertilizer.

Last spring I read in some paper that bran was a good fertiliser for potatoes. I planted twenty-four whole potatoes with a handful of bran on each, and covered them with about four inches of soil; right alongside of them I planted twenty-four whole potatoes of the same kind without the bran. The twenty-four I put the bran on produced three pecks, and the twenty-four without bran only two pecks. The vines had a dark green color, but the vines where I put no bran looked more yellow. Last spring I planted Early Ohio, Early Vermont and Early Rose on one-fourth of an acre. Several weeks ago, I harvested fifty bushels of very nice potatoes. The Early Ohio came No. 1; Early Vermont No. 2. Next year I will plant Early Vermont and Early Ohio, and drop the Early Rose.—Ohio Farmer.

Depth to which Roots Penetrate.

Mr. Foote, in Massachusetts, has traced the tap root of a common red clover plant downward to the perpendicular depth of nearly five feet. The Hon. J. Stanton Gould followed out the roots of Indian corn to the depth of seven feet, and states that onions sometimes extend their roots downward to the depth of three feet; lucerne, 15 feet. Hon. George Geddes sent to the Museum of the New York State Society a clover plant that had a root 6 feet where they entered a drain pipe. Professor Schubert found the roots of rye, beans, and garden peas to extend about four feet downward; of winter wheat, 7 feet in a light subsoil, and forty-seven days after planting.—Scientific American.

Class Representation.

(From the Montreal Post, Catholic.)

The principle of representation, by religion and nationality is very wrong. Sooner or later it must lead the country into trouble, and if the people are wise they will set their faces against it. There can be nothing more calculated to keep alive the feeds by which we are at present surrounded than these ridiculous claims for class and creed representation. Like our contemporary the Herald we "heartily despise" the outcry of men who claim representation because of their faith or of their nationality. Why cannot men stand upon merits as citizens? Is it not a mere ability and worth that should be his strongest claims for preferment?

Top-Dressing for Orchards.

Fall top-dressing is undoubtedly the best mode of manuring orchards whenever they are not making sufficiently vigorous growth. It is the only way to manure pear trees without inducing blight, as it usually does if the manure is plowed in. It is never advisable to manure trees heavily at one time. A slight top-dressing every fall is more favourable to vigorous growth, productiveness and exemption from disease. In manuring orchards be careful not to use straw or other coarse manure, in which mice may harbor, and injure the trees while the ground is covered with snow in winter.

Strange Suicide.

An Unknown Man Purposely Has Down on the Track and is Killed.

On Friday afternoon, about four o'clock a man, evidently in poor circumstances, was seen to lie down on the Grand Trunk Railway track nearly opposite the Toronto Post Annunciator's yard. Towards, and place his head on one of the rails just as a train was approaching. The driver had not time to stop the engine before it went over the man, literally decapitating him. The body, which had not been identified last evening, was conveyed to the City Morgue by the police.

Rioting on the North Hastings Railway.

BELLEVILLE, Nov. 22.—Further rioting is reported from Madoc, on the line of the North Hastings Railway. On Monday night several men attacked the cook's van, and threw of them were sent to gaol for twenty days each. On Wednesday a foreman was attacked, but beat off his assailants, who afterwards did some damage to the van. James Ward, the leader of the rullens, was lodged in gaol here yesterday evening, under sentence of 30 days imprisonment.

The Welland Murder Case.

WELLAND, Nov. 22.—John Smith, alias Whitby, who was sentenced to be hanged here on Monday next for the murder of one Allan in April last, has had his sentence commuted to imprisonment for life in the penitentiary. The scaffold for the execution of the condemned man was completed.

JOY AMONG THE CHILDREN

COPELAND'S SWEET CASTOR OIL, equally suitable for children and adults. Endorsed by over 600 doctors in Canada. The difficulty of administering nauseous medicines and the desirability of having them pleasant to the taste, induced T. Copeland to undertake researches, which resulted in the discovery of a Sweet Castor Oil, perfectly palatable, of the same strength and medical qualities as the ordinary Castor Oil; and while equally safe and harmless yet acting with more certainty, and producing neither nausea nor griping. Some children say it is horrer; others call it syrup—they all say they like it. One parent says—My children drink it like water;" another—"We had to hide the bottle or they would have finished it right off;" another—"My little girl has taken it twice without any trouble, and does not know what it is, though she hates the ordinary Castor Oil, and we never could get her to take it without a fight;" yet another—"I wish you success of your SWEET CASTOR OIL; it is a splendid thing—sure to take the place of all common oil."

The extraordinary demand for this improvement of a staple household medicine has brought fraudulent imitations into the market, but the public can guard themselves against substitutes (which unprincipled parties are attempting to sell on the reputation of this article) by seeing that the name, COPELAND'S SWEET CASTOR OIL, is on both wrapper and direction label.

The undersigned having purchased Messrs T. Copeland & Co's interest in the above preparation, are now manufacturing it from the original recipe.

The Great Shoshonees Remedy.

The Great Shoshonees Remedy is an Indian vegetable compound composed of the juices of a variety of remarkable medicinal plants and herbs; the various properties of these different ingredients, when combined, is so constituted as to act simultaneously upon the Blood, Lungs, Liver, Kidneys Degestive, Organs, Nervous System, &c., restoring their functions to healthy action, and being purely vegetable, is as harmless as nature's own beverage. This medicine is a decided benefit in all, and a permanent cure in a large majority of diseases of the blood, such as Scrofula, Erysipelas, Salt Rheum Canker Pimples, &c. In prescribing this medicine we do not claim that it always performs cures; but this we do say, that it purifies and enriches the blood, permanently curing a large majority of diseases arising from its impurities. It stands far ahead and unequalled among the hundreds of competing medicines of the day. It has stood the test of ten years, and is to day more popular than ever. As a summer restorative it stands unrivaled; it enables the system to bear up against the constant drain to which it is subjected by a high temperature. Persons who are subject to bilious Colic, Dysentery, Indigestion, &c., should take the Shoshonees Remedy. Price of the Remedy in pint bottles $1; Pills, 25 cts. a box. Sold by all medicine dealers.

Mitchell's Belladona Improved India Rubber Porous Paster.

There never has been a time when the healing of so many different diseases has been treated by outward application as the present. It is an undisputed fact that over half of the entire population of the globe resort to the use of ordinary plasters.

The principal ingredients used in making these Plasters are Gum Olibanum—or better known as the Frankincense of the Bible—Rubber, and Burgundy Pitch; which, when scientifically compounded, is full of electricity, and when combined with the pure medicinal gums, is found to be one greatest healing mediums ever brought before the human race.

They are acknowledged by all who have used them to act quicker than any other Plasters they ever before tried, and that one of these Plasters will do more real service than a hundred of the ordinary kind. All other Plasters are slow of action, and require to be worn continually to effect a cure; but with these it is entirely different; the instant one is applied the patient will feel its effect.

They possess all the soothing, warming, supporting and strengthening qualities of all other Plasters. Many who have been relieved of RHEUMATISM, TICDOLOREUX, and various other pains in the KIDNEYS, BREAST or SIDE, and believe it is solely done by the electrical qualities which the Perous Plasters contain, and which is imparted to the system, thus restoring them to a healthy condition.

They are very soft and pliable, still very adhesive; and a sure cure for WEAK BACKS PAINS IN THE SIDE AND BREAST, and are invaluable to those who have a COLD of long standing, and often prevents CONSUMPTION. Some even tell us they believe they were saved from the use of them of a long seated Consumption.

A Life's Regret.

Turning the leaves in an idle way
Of a book that I was skimming the other day,
I found a line at the end of a page,
Which I have remembered ever since
With its strange and mournful cadence:
"O love, my love, had you loved but me!"
Before a human could answer by
These words—"O my love, had you loved but me!"

I don't believe in what poets have said
Of hearts that are broken and lives that are dead:
Lives well ordered will stand to their course,
And hearts of true metal ring forth the worse,
But they vibrate still to that cadence,
"O love, my love, had you loved but me!"
My life is well; but what would it be,
Sweet "love, my love, had you loved but me?

The world rolls on, and the years roll by,
Our dreams vanish and memories die;
But it carries up with a restless pain,
That found, long hanging over again,
Breathed in the words of a human,
"O love, my love, had you loved but me!"
It might have been, had you loved but me!
Yet, "love, my love, had you loved but me!"

SCHOOL HYGIENE.

The Pupil and his preparation for the School Room—Diet and Clothing of Children—The School House—The Importance of Light—Education now and thirty years ago—The Teacher; His Functions and Duties—Peterborough's Future.

The following is a synopsis of the concluding part of Dr. Kincaid's lecture on "School Hygiene," which was delivered before the semi-annual session of the Peterborough Teachers Convention—the introduction to which we published two weeks ago:—

PUPIL—THE PUPIL.

The maxiam "that a large and healthy population is the life of a nation, and the source of its success in science, art, agriculture and commerce," is worthy of frequent quotation, but no nation can have such a population without studying Hygienic law and the laws of life and health with an eye to this result. An author remarks that "Disease and untimely death result not from necessity, or from chance, or accident, but really from the infringment of those laws and conditions on the due observance of which the Creator has decreed that the health and welfare of the various organs of the body shall depend." The child, therefore, should be prepared at home for the school room and to this end every possible means should be used to strengthen the constitution and develop its intellectual power. This can be best accomplished by the judicious use of baths, out-door exercise, nourishing food, cleanliness and comfortable, but not too warm clothing. The doctor then went on to describe the effect of these on the child's constitution and organs, and took the ground that the powers of the mind must not be exercised too soon, or in early youth beyond its powers, but that the greater portion of every day be set apart to exercise in the open air. Let the first six years be devoted entirely to forming the body and the organs of special sense; in the seventh year let them spend two or three hours a day at their books; in the eighth year from three to four hours, and from the ninth to the fourteenth year from five to seven hours. After speaking at some length as to the proper he dwelt on the effect of cleanliness, and said the utmost attention should be paid to this, as want of attention in this matter often gives rise to more trouble than neglect of any other Hygienic law almost, and is often the cause of children pining away and being consumed. Ignorant people very often think they are bewitched or under the influence of some evil power, while dirt alone is the demon by which they are tormented, and which will in the end, undoubtedly, destroy them. The child having been thus reared with a view to strengthen its mental faculties and physical frame, and having arrived at the age of seven years, should be sent to school. But before we place this young and tender plant under the care of a teacher, let us consider the second part of our subject,

DIET AND CLOTHING OF CHILDREN

THE SCHOOL HOUSE.

The site of a properly constructed school house should be on a rising ground, and in addition to a constant supply of pure water, the building should be well drained, ventilated, lighted and kept perfectly clean, and special care should be taken to remove every cause of noxious vapor from the premises. The grounds if possible should be large and the inside of the building painted in such a manner as to make it pleasant to the eye. The lecturer then went on to describe the proper mode and effects of ventilation, the composition and sources of water, and while on this subject took occasion to remark that fortunately for Peterborough and her schools the water we are daily using is pretty free from impurities of every kind, as it is filtered through coarse sand and gravel; and stated that this would in some measure account for the good health of the inhabitants, as he did not remember one epidemic of any disease since he commenced practice here fourteen years ago. True, we have had measles, scarlet fever, small pox and typhoid fever, but none of these were epidemic at any time—the cause of small pox being brought there through contagion; and most of the typhoid came from Toronto and the United States, or resulted from neglect or the wrong treatment of the simpler form of disease. After describing

THE SOURCE AND QUALITIES OF LIGHT,

he stated that it acted as a salutary and gentle stimulant on the human body: that it urges to exercise, while the deprivation of it induces sleep and inactivity. Hence the great importance of letting sunlight into the school room, and the ignorance and cruelty of placing children in the basement of a building poorly supplied with light and ventilation, and exposed to dampness and its accompanying evils. He congratulated the teachers and pupils on the improved mode of heating the Institute, and central school buildings of the town, and drew a comparison between the old method and the new, after which he took up the third part of his subject, and said there no are grander themes for the eulogist than this; the maker of the statesman, the warrior or the patriot, furnishes more splendid topics for panegyrical eloquence, but no theme can be more fruitful in public advantage, or more rich in descant. The enlightened liberality of the government of extending the common school system over the whole population, has brought education to the door of every family. He spoke of the duties and responsibilities of teachers, and considered their influence in shaping the national character second only to that of the mother. While he could not but sympathize with the professional teacher on account of the many difficulties he has to contend with, he at the same time congratulated him on the rapid strides which have been made in his profession during the past thirty years, particularly in "this Canada of ours," and even in this very County. In England—the centre of civilization and learning—it is not so long ago since Dickens wrote "Nicholas Nickleby," and yet what a sad state of affairs he described at "Squires, School," where poor Smike got his early training; and while far from supposing that we are perfect, he was quite sure a Canadian Dickens would have quite a difficult task to find material for such a work at the present time. How very little do the rising generation value the advantages they now enjoy, of not only getting an English, but a classical education. He referred back to the time when a Head Master of a school could not do a sum in compound division, and if the hard working pupil did not like this he could go to a private school, when he would often have to wait half a day at a time in order to allow the master to sleep off the effects of a preceeding night's debauch. He mentioned the fact that he went to school here when the master opened every morning with prayer—the boys being under the belief that he prayed with his eyes closed until one morning when misbehaving they had their minds disabused by the master coming down and giving them a good rawhiding, accompanied by a copious string of adjectives not found in the Confession of Faith, after which he went back to his desk, finished his prayer with his eyes closed (over the left), and commenced the business of the day. The only change in this daily routine, was that in the absence of the raw-hide he substituted a stick, but the attitude and effect of the prayer were about the same. He often paid the lecturer the compliment of saying he had the hardest hand of any boy in the school. All this he could have stood without grumbling however, but there were other grievances not so easily borne. Every second boy had either a father, uncle or visitor who managed to put in an appearance on examination days, to use their influence with the teachers in order that their sons or relatives might get all the prizes, for in those days a scholar, who like Topsey "grow'd up," had very little chance of getting except raw-hide and blackthorn. This is all changed now and you have in its stead presided over by a responsible Minister of the Crown, a system that was the admiration of the world at Philadelphia—a system that we Canadians out to feel proud of—a system if properly carried out and kept clear of politics, that cannot fail to make the people of British North America the best educated, as they are now the most hardy and self-reliant in the world. The plan of examinations conducted by disinterested and highly educated examiners precludes the possibility of partiality. All are treated alike, and the son of the humblest citizen can compete with the highest and noblest in the land.

THE TEACHER,

THIRTY YEARS AGO

THE SPLENDID SCHOOL SYSTEM OF ONTARIO.

"Canst thou, weigh well thy fame.
The King, the beggar are the same.
Dust formed on all, each breathes his day
Then sinks into his native clay."

Yes, ladies and gentlemen, you have all this, and something more. You have that learned, enlightened and impartial institution—the School Board. Compared with this all other institutions sink into no significance. Any one member of this Board knows more than the Minister of Education, the Head Master and all the Teachers combined. The lecturer then went on to describe

THE FUNCTIONS AND DUTIES OF TEACHERS,

stating that the whole duty of man on earth is in the due performance of a function which he considered the sum of his beings, end and aim. But as the philosopher mentioned by Bonnycastle found it easier to get up and walk about to show when motion was than to define motion itself so would it be easier both for the audience and himself if he gave a few instances of what function really is, than to attempt any elaborate description of abstract ideas respecting it. The grand structures of life be described as those performed by the structures of organic life such as breathing, taking food and digestion, and those of animal life such as working, thinking &c., &c., Everything man does on earth may be reduced to one of these. How necessary then for the student and the teacher to understand the effect of the due performance of these functions on the human frame and intellect. Here the study of Hygiene comes to our aid by informing us that every function demands for its performance on the presence of a power in the organ. For this to be effectual there must be movement, and where there is movement there must be power. He then went on to describe the effects of sleep, sight, light, climate, study and digestion had upon the physical and mental powers, and stated the condition of the brain was ascertained by administering chloroform to a dog and while it was insensible removing a portion of the skull and sub stituting a piece of glass. It was found that when the dog slept the blood vessels were comparatively empty, the arteries lost their bright red color and assumed the blue color of the veins, and the brain tissue collapsed leaving a space within the skull which was filled with cerebral fluid, when the dog was awakened the blood vessels resumed their functions and the brain tissue once more filled the cavity. He stated that the morning was

and instanced the fact that lawyers and merchants did the greater portion of their work before dinner, and said that it would generally be found that the most wholesome, genial writing, like that of Scott, Irving, Dickens and Shakespeare was done in the morning when the brain was refreshed by sleep after labor, while the heated and morbid fancies of fiction, and flatulent verse done during the feverish hour of night—the latter frequently [illegible] with the morgue before [illegible] day dawned on the [illegible] of digestion and repletion that [illegible] would not disturb him. He spoke of this important subject, as it would be the greatest possible benefit to every man

After closing what was admitted by all present to be an appropriate, beautiful and eloquent address the lecturer dwelt at considerable length on higher education and the great future before the young and rising generation of Canada, and ended with a hope that at no far distant day this fine town and county might have a college incorporated by Royal Charter having within its classic walls a complete staff of learned professors, prepared to teach and grant degrees in Divinity, Arts, Law, and Medicine.

The lecturer took his seat amid much applause, after which a vote of thanks, moved by Mr. J. C. BROWN, County Inspector, and seconded by Mr. STRATTON, was tendered him.

SPEECH OF LORD DUFFERIN AT BELFAST.

Cordial Words of Affection for the Dominion.

BELFAST, Nov. 26.—The banquet given in the Ulster Hall to-day to the Earl of Dufferin was a most brilliant success. Representatives of every shade of politics in Ireland were present, among them the Marquis of Londonderry, the Catholic Lord Bishop of Down and Connor, Dr. Dorrian, Viscount Templetown, the Protestant Lord Bishop of Down, Lord Waveney and others. After some preliminary observations Lord Dufferin rose in response to a toast of his health. His Lordship said the success of a colonial governor depends as much on his good fortune as his good conduct. He might easily encounter insoluble problems of popular discontent, be betrayed by his ministers, be thwarted by his Parliament; nature itself might rise against him and his rule be signalized by pestilence, famine or war. These trials Lord Dufferin said he had been most happily spared. He found the people of Canada not only free from dissensions, but enamoured of their prospects as a people. Many questions still agitating Europe were already settled for Canada. Pending controversies among themselves were being conducted with as much moderation as even in Ireland itself. (Cheers.) His Ministers had proved able and trustworthy. While contentment reigned within the new Dominion there was peace without. On three sides Canada was without a neighbor. On her southern frontier lay a mighty but a most friendly nation. His Lordship then alluded to the prompt and honorable payment of the fisheries award, and passed a warm eulogium on the American people of whose good sense, good feeling, and generous courtesy too much could not be said by any candid person who had enjoyed any real opportunity of testing them all. He gave the Earl of Carnarvon, as Colonial Minister, and his predecessors, Lord Monck and Lord Lisgar, and the British Minister at Washington, the chief credit for the halcyon times he had known in the New World. Passing then to matters nearer home, Lord Dufferin gratefully acknowledged the presence on this occasion of so many persons of politics different from his own. Officials in the service of the country abroad could always count, he was glad to say, on the countenance of the Government of the day at home. He had served under three Secretaries of State, and he would find it difficult to say in the hands of which he had felt most secure while attempting to discharge his duty as the servant not of a party but of the nation. (Cheers.) Even when the acts of public officials at a distant point of duty appeared rash, the British public and the British press, he was glad to say, forebore to prejudge their case. It was simply just to remember that a colonial governor had to conciliate two public opinions—that of the colony and that of the mother country. These two sometimes diverged, and the unfortunate governor was then like an equestrian acrobat straddling over two horses. While the steeds kept together he was all right, but if they started asunder, or if one of them trots while the other gallops, down he comes to the ground. (Laughter and cheers.) He felt that this demonstration was not a mere compliment to himself, though he cordially appreciated its personal aspects also. It was an intimation of the deep interest which the British people take in Canada. The people of Great Britain might be sure that nothing so stimulated the affection of the Canadians as proof of this interest and sympathy. John Bull is not naturally a very sympathetic or sentimental creature, and perhaps he sometimes fails to make allowance for other people's warmer susceptibilities. When dealing with kindred nationalities intelligent men ought to take their sentimental tendencies as well as their interests into account. The ties created between thousands of people in Great Britain and their emigrant relations had contributed immensely to unify the colonial system of Great Britain, and John Bull had learned at last that instead of confining his attention to his home farm he must now concern himself with his Imperial estates. If England is true to herself and to those she has sent to plant the laws and liberties of Britain all the over the face of the earth her empire will find the realms associated with it every day more and more ready to take an honest pride in their common antecedents, more and more prompt to oppose a solid front to every common enemy, and more and more determined to keep sacred and intact for all time to come the principles of that free and monarchical constitution which, as experience had proved to Englishmen, was the most solid bulwark of a true parliamentary government. (Great cheering.)

The Rosso Circle.

The long winter evenings are on, and the question of family amusement and recreation is therefore a practical one. There are many ideas and opinions what games it is wise and morally right for children to play; and on these and kindred points, people of equal intelligence and goodness will differ. But upon one point there seems be no difference, and that is, that in each family there should be some sort of an entertainment provided for the children. Books, puzzles, cards, checkers, pussies, not to forget, pot-combing and apple-eating: take your pick, friends, accept, too, your conscience and the dictates of common God has left you in; but plan some of these or invent something equally good as a duty you owe to your friends.

One of the very best games this side [illegible] be introduced into a family of children is chess playing. As a source of mental discipline it belongs to the higher branches of mathematics. The slowness with which it must needs be played, if it is played well, makes it a game that lasts the evening out, and often several evenings. The chess-board and chess-men are comparatively inexpensive. Nearly every family can afford them. And best of all, perhaps, is the fact that it can be played in concert in a family of four children; father and two of the children taking one side, mother and the other two children taking the other side. After the tea things are cleared away they can gather to the table feeling that before them is a whole evening's entertainment, of the highest order. We have known a single game played thus between six—three against three—where both sides were equally matched, and as a result the game was played cautiously, to last three successive evenings, and the excitement and pleasure to grow stronger and keener still, to the culminating checkmate.

One of the good things in connection with chess playing is, that it must be played with the help of all the deliberative faculties. Haste, impatience and reckless smartness will easily be brought to recognize themselves in their true light at the chess-table. The reckless and hot-headed player will soon be taught to realize what a fool his impatience makes of him. If there is anything that can put the brakes on feverishness, and teach a wagging tongue the admirable art of reticence, it is the discipline of this magnificent game. The game is readily understood in its rudiments, and has this further excellent quality about it, that it never "wears out," as the saying is.—Golden Rule.

Who are the Ones that Get Rich.

AND WHO LAYS UP MONEY TO KEEP.

It is not true that the great victories of life are to the sharp and immoral man, as a rule. Here and there, by sharpness and cunning, men rise into wealth, but that wealth is not of a kind to remain. It takes a certain amount of virtue, of self-denial, of morality, to lay up and to keep money. In the lives of nearly all rich men there have been periods of heroic self denial, of patient industry, of Christian prudence. Circumstances did not make these men rich. The highest moral prudence made them rich. While their companions were dancing away their youth, or drinking away their middle age, these men were devoted to small economies—putting self-indulgence entirely aside. If our correspondent or our readers will recall their companions, we think the first fact they will be impressed with is the measure of equality with which they started in the race for competence or wealth. The next fact they will be impressed with is the irregularity of the end. Then, if they make an inquisition into the cause of the widley varying results, they will be profoundly impressed with the insignificant part "circumstances" have played in these results. Circumstances! Why, the rich man's son who had all the "circumstances" of the town, has become a beggar. The poor, quiet lad, the only son of his mother and she a widow, who could only earn money enough to procure for her boy the commonest education, is a man of wealth and has become a patron of his native village. The man who possesses and practices virtue makes his own circumstances. The self-denying, prudent man creates around himself an atmosphere of safety where wealth naturally takes refuge—provided, of course, that the man has the power to earn it, either in production, or exchange, or any kind of manual or intellectual service.—Scribner's Magazine.

Valuable, if Reliable.

The following from the Journal of Health will be worth preserving in every family if the treatment recommended can be depended upon to produce the results claimed for it, and at least is worthy of a trial:—"There is scarcely an ache to which children are subject so hard to bear and difficult to cure as the ear-ache, but here is a remedy never known to fail. Take a bit of cotton batting, put upon it a pinch of black pepper, gather it up and tie it, dip it in sweet oil, and insert in the ear. Put a flannel badge over the head to keep it warm. It will give immediate relief."

Wedding Rings.

A curious incident lately occurred at a marriage at St. Mary's parish church, Dover, England. A French couple from Calais, having been staying in the town a sufficient length of time to have the banns published in that church, came up in the morning to be married, and the ceremony proceeded satisfactorily until the joining of hands and the putting on of the ring, when it was discovered that the Frenchman had no ring. There was an awkward pause; no one in the company could lend a ring for the occasion, whereupon the officiating clergyman sent the verger for the church-door key, the eye of which instrument was said to have been used in other places in similiar emergencies The bridegroom searched his pockets again, and brought out a bunch of keys attached to a ring. This ring with its appendages, was placed on the book, from thence it was transferred to the bride's finger, and with the steel ring of the bunch of keys the ceremony was duly completed.

BOBCAYGEON.

BAPTIST CHURCH.—The new Baptist Church is making progress. The foundation is complete, the bricks are on the ground, and early next year, it is hoped, the building will be finished.

RAILWAYS.—There is a deal of talk about Mr. Cox, of Peterborough, contriving to open the railway to Mud Lake, and having steamboat connection therewith. Hope so. Also talk about Summer Hotel at Oak Orchard. Again, we hope so.

THE SAW MILL.—The saw mill has shut down for the season, after a most successful run, the management of Mr. Gilroy having secured the best possible results. The circular saw will [illegible] soon at work, she going save [illegible] shut down. The production of [illegible] was 2,000,000 feet of [illegible] lumber, 2,000,000 shingles and [illegible] lath. In addition, a large quantity of barrel staves and headings were turned out. There has not been an hour's delay during the season from breakage, and all the work was executed in a first class manner.

PETERBOROUGH, DEC. 5th, 1878.

PETERBOROUGH'S RAILWAY PROSPECTS.

The remarks of the Lindsay papers on the alleged efforts of Peterborough to defeat the last submitted By-law in favor of the Lindsay & Bobcaygeon Railway, suggests the thought, that it might be well, perhaps, to let those who talk wildly of Peterborough's influence, know by experience what that influence can amount too when really exerted. The time must come when our people here will have to put forth exertions to secure communication by rail with the north; and it would not be amiss to begin the agitation now, and thus not only pave the way for future enterprise, but also teach a wholesome lesson to carpers who affect to despise, yet really fear Peterboro' and its progress. In these hard times it may seem somewhat out of place to advise the promotion of new enterprises; but with full knowledge of the business depression, we do not think it premature to suggest the immediate opening of a comprehensive railway campaign. So far from the present stagnation of business militating against, it rathers favors such action; for people now have more time to devote to such an enterprise than they will have in the better times to come. By giving the greater leisure to the primary discussions and the formation of preliminary plans, less will be demanded in the busier future. It is therefore nothing more than prudent, to make use of the time now at general public disposal, in order that hours with larger demands upon them may better satisfy such claims.

Of course the future railway in which Peterborough is chiefly concerned is the Toronto & Ottawa line. All other schemes must be surbordinate to that; for it is to supply the chief want—communication directly eastward and westward. It is well known that the heavy indebtedness of the City of Ottawa prevented its giving the aid that was expected of it. The hard times have preserved that obstacle, while Toronto, with a tax of twenty-six mills on the dollar, is in scarcely in better position to do its share. In view of the impossibility, at least for some time to come, of floating the enterprise in its entirety, it might be well for the Company to proceed in detail, by undertaking the construction of portions of the road in such sections of the country as are willing to grant bonuses, and are available for the ready laying down of material. For instance grading and track-laying might be commenced in the townships east of this town, using the Midland Railway to bring in material and supplies. Indeed it would not be a bad plan to enlist the co-operation of that Company by indueing it to make direct communication with Omemee. By such a course a portion of the great through line would be at once in working order, with good connection in the meantime with the front. It is possible that this portion of road might be got very reasonable. The operation by the Toronto & Ottawa Railway Company of these few miles of road would be a visible guarantee of its existence, and such an earnest of good faith as could not help influencing beneficially the results of appeals for municipal assistance. The possession of even this small portion of road would make comparatively easy the construction eastward, to secure other inlets, by way of the Grand Junction, and Belleville & North Hastings roads; and also westward toward Toronto. Ends of the line once projecting from this central point, there would soon be a strong desire to unite with them from both directions.

Next in importance to a railway running east and west, is communication with the back country. The most be secured in the most practicable direction, though it would be well to combine the desirability of a line as near as possible through the midst of the county, the objective point being a union with the future Pacific Railway. The construction of the Georgian Bay Branch of that road is of great importance to Peterborough and the counties eastward of it, as well as to the counties of Victoria and Simcoe. We observe from our Muskoka and Parry Sound exchanges, that work is now being prosecuted on the line; but fears are entertained that the Tory Government of the Dominion, acting on the principle of "contrary to those preceeding them," will order the stoppage of this most important work. The Mail suggests that it be "allowed to continue the sleep of ages"; but that paper takes care to announce that it speaks for itself, and "not for the Government." Possibly the suggestion is thrown out as a feeler, in the interests of the bewildered fourteen in the Ottawa departments. If this be so as we suspect, we can assure the Mail and its friends, the Ministers, that they will injure themselves very materially in Northern and Eastern Ontario if they try to sacrifice the Georgian Bay Branch, even in the hope of pleasing some of the Quebec constituencies. We look to the members from Peterboro', North Victoria, and North Simcoe, to particularly interest themselves in behalf of the continuation of work on the Georgian Bay Branch.

Another line of Railway the promoters of which have tried to pecuniarily interest Peterboro', is that known as the Grand Junction. Very conflicting reports reach us of this enterprise, and we cannot feel very sanguine as to the prospects of the road soon reaching this town. We see that Norwood is making an attempt to secure its passage through or near that village. We have no objection, being rather indifferent as to the course it takes; but though we cannot at the present time advocate a bonus to the Grand Junction Railway Company, we would like to see the Toronto & Ottawa Company meet it half-way, by building eastward from Peterboro', that the other line might join it where a junction could be most directly and easily made. In that way the Grand Junction line produced might be made very useful to the eastern and northern townships of this County.

No harm can come out of the discussion of such a railway system for this town and county, but on the contrary much good may result. In the meantime if such outlying villages, as Bobcaygeon, or even Lindsay, really desire direct communication with this desirable centre, their wisdom should be commended and their aspirations encouraged.

THE PRICE OF PORK.

The letter of "Farmer" in another column on agricultural protection and the price of pork may serve to open the eyes of some of the writer's fellow agriculturists, to the absurdity of the cry that led to the defeat of the late Dominion Government. The ignoring of the agricultural interest by those who are now pressing the Tory ministers for a fulfilment of their rash protectionist promises, has already been commented on in the EXAMINER, as has been the utter ridiculousness of attempting by restrictions to increase business, particularly that of the farmer. Our correspondent's satirical suggestion as to a duty on pork, places the case in a definite light. The limited supply of home-produced pork being insufficient to supply the home demand, the strict enforcement of the policy of "Canada for the Canadians," in the sale of this article, would undoubtedly enhance the price. The burden would at once fall on those forced to buy pork. This is the case particularly with lumbering firms. But these are now so hardly pressed to make both ends meet, that any additional burden would cause many of them to give up business entirely. Such a result would fall with great severity upon farmers in the newer portions of the country, who have in the earlier years of their settlement to depend largely on the lumbering industry for work and wages on which to maintain an existence. The demand for pork would soon fall; the supply would again approach the requirements; and the price would find its natural level. Thus we see that a temporary benefit of the already fully established, and prosperous farmers' would be gained at the expense of their poor and struggling fellows. No permanent good would be affected; but a great deal of irreparable injury would be done. In short the agricultural industry would be retarded, and as with pork so with other products. In no case can an artificial value be put on any commodity, even money, without direct injury in some quarter, and in the natural order of things indirectly to the whole community.

RAILWAY INTERESTS.

Under the new management of the Midland Railway everything that can reasonably be expected is being done to meet the trade demands of the town, and we are convinced that no pains will be spared to make up for any disabilities Peterborough may have had to labor under in the past. There is a desire expressed to have an extended siding on Bethune Street, and the property holders thereon, oppose it as an injury to their property. Some of them, too, think that these improvements are in the interest of the Railway Company only, and they think that company should pay for the right to do so. These local improvements are in the interest of the trade of the town, and hence the people of the town should not be prohibited the advantages of increased trade. If any number of the property holders suffer the town is able to fairly remunerate them, but in the meantime the improvements should not be hindered. On the contrary the Town council, and the people should unite to encourage everything tending to common prosperity, by increased advantages to trade. Instead of opposing the Company in its endeavors to meet an increasing trade, everything should be done to encourage it, and as the council can at any time make due arrangements to secure property holders from loss, that body should boldly take the initiative in all questions involving the general prosperity.

Canadian Poultry and Eggs in England.

The Quebec Chronicle states that Mr. L. Stafford of that part, is advised by Mr. Byke, inspection agent in Liverpool, that profitable sales of Canadian poultry and eggs are constantly being made in England. The Chronicle adds:—

Canadian farmers and shippers will both be interested in learning from Mr. Dyke, that the Canadian turkey taken to Liverpool last Christmas, realized from sixteen to twenty cents per lb., according to quality. It has been decided by experience in Liverpool to fit up suitable warehouses in that city, with Messrs. Gibbons & Co.'s refrigerator, where fowl on which considerable profit, much as from fresh poultry, might be made, if they be shipped at a moderate rate, then arrive in Liverpool in the right condition. Excellent facilities before the party left for the carriages that were in waiting.

All along the line of Procession, the regal pair were greeted with the most unbounded enthusiasm. His Excellency gracefully acknowledging the numerous tokens of regard and welcome that were showered upon him from all sides. On Friday the various places of interest in the city were visited, and in the evening Her Royal highness and the Marquis attended the St. Andrew's Hall, where His Excellency received an address from that society, to which he replied extemporaneously and most felicitously.

ARRIVAL AT OTTAWA.

Leaving Montreal on Monday morning, the Vice-Regal party arrived at the Capital at 4 p.m., of the same day. Gorgeous preparations had been made for their reception, but on account of a driving storm of sleet, hail and snow, which prevailed during almost the whole day, the celebration of the auspicious event was greatly marred. On the arrival of the train, the corporation address to His Excellency was read by the Mayor, and after the reply had been made a procession was formed, which escorted the Vice-Regal pair to Rideau Hall, their new Canadian home.

VICTORIA RAILWAY.

OPENING OF THE SECOND SECTION.

The second section of the Victoria Railway—that between Kinmount and Haliburton—was opened for traffic on the 26th ult., when a dinner in honor of the event was given in the Town Hall Kinmount. The hall being tastefully decorated. The occasion was one of great rejoicing along the line of railway, and was participated in by many from a distance. To accommodate the numerous attendance from Toronto, and from stations along the line of the Whitby and Port Perry road, a special train was run by the Victoria Railway Company, from Toronto. Among those present were Mr. Wm. Thompson President of the Northern Railway, Hon. A. S. Hardy, Hon. S. C. Wood, Hon. J. B. Robinson, Mr. Geo. A. Cox President of the Midland Railway, Mr. A. Hugel, Mr. Bunting, M. P. Judge Dartnell and Judge Dean.

At Kinmount and Minden handsome arches, decorated with appropriate mottoes, were erected, and everything in connection with the celebration passed off in a most felicitous manner. At the dinner to which about two hundred persons sat down, in response to the various toasts, speeches were delivered by Hon. S. C. Wood, chairman, Hon. A. S. Hardy, Mr. Bunting, and others, Replying to the toast, "success to the Victoria Railway" Mr Cox extended his congratulations to the promoters of the railway on the completion of the road. The road, he said, should have started from Peterboro instead of Lindsay, and such would have been the case had it not been for the indifference of the Peterboro' people. However, he hoped that the Victoria with its extensions would become an important feeder to the Midland.

The following is a

DESCRIPTION OF THE LINE.

The thirty-three miles of road from Lindsay to Kinmount is substantial and well constructed, and well balasted. The second section of the line—from Kinmount to Haliburton is equally good. The track is smooth for travelling, and altogether of such a character that it called forth the praise of those who travelled over it on Tuesday. The line follows the valley of the Burnt River from a few miles north of Kinmount to a few miles south of Haliburton. It passes through a rather rocky but a rich mineral country, for several miles, and then enters a good agricultural district of which Haliburton village is the chief place. It is then at the outskirts of the Nipissing District which, rich in timber wealth, awaiting the axe, is going to furnish, no doubt, a great deal of freight for the line. In order to overcome the obstacles always met with in a rocky district, the line curves in several places, at other places passes through deep cuttings, and at other points runs across strong trestle work bridges. The largest of the bridges—and there are seven of them between Kinmount and Haliburton—crosses a branch of the Burnt River, and is sixty feet high at the centre and 700 feet long. The grade is thirty-five feet to the mile and between Kinmount and the summit is three-quarters of a mile long. For a long distance the road-bed is entirely level and, going north, there is a down grade of a half a mile soon after the summit which divides the northern and southern water falls is passed. At the summit, it is interesting to note, there was found a natural gap—precisely the gap required for the railway to pass through without excavating or filling in. It was made use of and it bears the pleasing title of "Devil's gap." It is fifty-two miles from Lindsay. Considerable engineering difficulty was found in the construction of about a quarter of a mile of the line which runs through a slightly swampy district. This difficulty, however, was overcome, and the track is as good as if its foundation was a rock.

The line is destined to extend to the Ottawa River. Traversing a fine agricultural country, the line will bring from the North a great deal of produce; passing through the mineral district and close to the well-known Snowdon iron mines, to which it extends a branch, it will no doubt carry to Toronto, or wherever iron works are established, large quantities of iron ore; and tapping the Nippissing district, it will bring out of the forest large quantities of lumber. What is now desired by those connected with the road is, that it may be made a further aid to commerce and to settlement by its extension into the Nipissing district, and that it may tap the Pacific railway, and give Ontario a portion of the trade of the great Northwest.

—Roads pretty bad.
—Looking forward to good times this winter.
—No use telling you that money is scarce.
—Vennors cold weather prophecy is again wrong.
—Farmers are busy threshing. There is lots of grumbling on account of the bad yield.
—John A will have to keep his word with the good people round here, and give us protection and good prices as well.
—Richard Read, 13th concession, has within the last month had three young cattle destroyed, it is supposed by some wild animal. Poison has been laid on the carcase. No result as yet.

—Roads worse than ever.
—Money has fled the country.
—Fall wheat looks well in this vicinity.
—Turkey shooting match to come off on thanksgiving day.
—A wood famine is threatened if we do not have sleighing soon.
—A large number of shade and fruit trees round the village were broken down by the weight of ice after the late storm.
—Report has it that Strickland Bros are again going into the lumber business and that they will at once put shanty's into the woods to get out logs to supply the mills here next summer. If such proves to be the case, times will be better in the future here, than they have been for some time in the past.
—Service will be held in all our churches Wednesday and the day observed as a general holiday.
—Our Village boys seem to think that there is a station on the four sides of the village instead of only one, much to the annoyance of many persons who have occasion to use the station, and they find perfectly at home in the habit of having it village centre instead of at each corner.

KEENE.

(From our own Correspondent.)

CONCERT.—The Keene Cricket Club gave a concert in the Town Hall, Keene, on Friday night last, for the purpose of defraying the expenses of the past season and of replenishing its exchequer for the time to come. The attendance, notwithstanding the bad state of the roads, was large, and in that way the concert was a success. The playing and singing, songs, choruses, and duetts, were so well rendered that particular attention would necessitate very general mention. Should, however, another concert be given we would strongly advise its promoters against a too varied programme, as its effect might rather mar than enhance the enjoyment of those present. Further, we hope that those in charge of this concert will profit by the advantages they have obtained from this experience.

"EXTREMES MEET"—But extremes do not always dwell rapidly together when they do meet, even when said extremes are so liberal as to become members of "the Liberal Conservative Association of Otonabee." This unhappy bantling whose birth was heralded with such a flourish of trumpets a short time ago, does not now even rest upon its bed of down, like ordinary infants some of its members are inclined to be wayward and unruly, and like ordinary infants these wayward members though petted and cradled refuse to become quiet and tractable.

ST. ANDREW'S DAY.

Celebration at Keene.

The celebration of the St. Andrew's Society of Peterborough, was held this year at the Village of Keene—the Capital of Otonabee. The dinner was got up by "mine host" Mr. Gall, of the Victoria House, and fully equalled if not excelled any of the annual dinners previously got up for any of the societies. Mr. Gall proving himself an excellent caterer to suit the tastes and appetites of the son of Scotland. Owing to the very disagreeable and impassable state of the roads, about a dozen was all who could muster courage to go from Peterborough to the celebration. These arrived in good time, and sat down, with about twenty others from the neighborhood of the village, to the sumptuous repast.

In the absence of James Miller, Esq., President of the Society, (who left by the evening train to take part in the reception of the Marquis of Lorne at Ottawa, on behalf of the Society,) Mr. Daniel Haggart ably presided. After the discussion of the good things provided, the usual loyal toasts were given and duly received, that of the "Governor-General of Canada" being enthusiastically received in true highland fashion. "The day and a'wha honor it," was given by the chairman, after which Mr. Telford the poet of the Society read his annual address, which owing to lack of space we are compelled to hold over until our next issue.

Mr. John Elder, on behalf of Mr. E. B. Edwards, presented with his compliments each member of the Society with some sprigs of heather, gathered by him on the mountains of Murrayahire, during his sojourn there the past summer. As a souvenir of auld Scotia, this was duly appreciated.

"The Canadian House of Commons, and Local Legislature," was given by Mr. Haggart, and responded to by Mr. Carnegie. Both gentlemen were very happy in their remarks, expressing themselves proud of their country, their government and just laws.

The Chairman then gave "Canada our Home," and felicitously referred to the honorable position held by Scotchmen in the Dominion. He declared himself notably a Canadian, and thought that wnether Scotch, Irish, English or German, all should seek their country's welfare first, and afterwards other considerations.

Messrs. Carnegie and J. R. Stratton responded. Mr. Carnegie was proud of being of Scotch descent, but prouder still of being a Canadian, and as a Canadian, he felt that it was in the interests of his country to maintain devoted loyalty to the Empire of which we form a part, and no mean part, and briefly referred to the great advantage in Canada to all who made it their home.

"Our Agricultural Interests" were duly protected by Messrs. Blezard, Smithson and W. Rutherford.

"Trade and Commerce" was proposed by Mr. Blezard, and responded to by Mr. J. Elder, in the course of which he said he esteemed it a great honor to be called upon to respond to so important a toast as Trade and Commerce. The proposal of the toast and the reception that it had received, sufficiently demonstrated the liberality of your sentiments. While we have met to do honour to the Patron Saint of our native land—and pay a tribute of esteem to the symbol of Scotch nationality, we also do an honor to the land of our adoption. He was sorry that he could not speak more flattering of the trade and commerce of the country, as it is suffering from an unparalled depression which he hoped would soon terminate. Unfortunately for us as time passes the clouds seem to blacken and thicken until they are hanging more heavily upon us. He longed for a glimpse of that sun in whose beams we have basked in the good old days gone-by. Notwithstanding the depression, Canada has risen to a high and eminent position in her trade and commerce among the nations of the world. Being now rated as a third commercial power, we have good reason to congratulate ourselves on the great progression we have made on this side of the Atlantic. He referred to to the trade and commerce of Canada, and compared it now to what it was some twenty years ago. He said Canada was a good country for the industrious, for those who are willing to put their hands to the plough, and has given them a homestead, and made them possessors of the land, and participators of the trade and commerce of the country. He rejoiced to the satisfaction that it gave him to look back to the enactment of confederation which united us as a people and a country. Canada has since prospered and flourished beyond the expectations of the most sanguine. He hoped that it would continue to prosper and that the generations to come would meet and speak of the glorious results of confederation. He said our resources were immense stretching from the Atlantic to the Pacific with a soil as fertile as any in the world. In minerals, agriculture, and timber, we are rich, our returns for lumber never being less than $30,000,000, per annum, and in years of activity has risen far above that amount. In speaking of the fisheries he said that our American friends across the lines would consider us a fishy lot of inhabitants, as they had to pay us to the tune of over five million dollars, and not as England paid her Geneva award, without a word. The Dominion and Local Governments were offering every facility to encourage our trade and commerce by opening up new territory, building railways, encouraging emigrants to our shores, in offering them free grants in our Northwest country, which in his opinion would yet be the garden of Canada. He closed an able speech by referring to the Pacific Railway, the happiness of the people of Canada, and the loyalty of her subjects to the British Empire.

"Our Country," "the [illegible] Army," "the Navy," "the Parliament of the Dominion," "the Chairman," and "Absent friends" were duly proposed and honored responses to.

During the evening songs were given by Messrs. Elder, of Keene, and Mr. Chisholm, of [illegible].

The company then repaired [illegible] Queen's Hotel, Lakefield, where they were joined by a number of the Lakefield brethren, and spent a most enjoyable evening.

PROTECTION AND PORK.

To the Editor of the Examiner :—

MR. EDITOR,—Having seen a notice of a meeting of those representing the various manufacturing interests of the Dominion, called for the purpose of devising ways and means to induce the Government to carry out their promises anent Protection, I presume that they are now putting on the pressure with a view of each securing the desire of his heart. As I have seen no account of the Agricultural interest being represented, I suppose, as usual, that department is left to take care of itself. As very large promises were made to us respecting the advantages we should derive from a change in the Administration, we have been waiting patiently to see some action taken in the case. We were told that American agricultural products would be at once excluded from our markets by a reciprocal tariff, and that the result would be an immediate rise of 10 cents per bush. on oats, 15 on barley, 20 on wheat, $20 each on horses, &c. We are looking for this rise; but so far it is the wrong way. I would suggest that by way of experiment an order in Council be at once issued, authorizing a duty of $5 per hundred on pork, alive or dead, brought into the country, and let us see what the effect will be. Just at the present time the price does not pay for the peas used in fattening, to say nothing of the pork that serves for a ground work. As we Canadians have not been in the habit of producing as much pork as we require, perhaps a duty of this kind will enable us who have pork to sell, to squeeze a little more out of those of our neighbors, who will be forced to purchase from us.

Yours, &c.,
FARMER.

North Monaghan, Nov 30th, 1878.

P.S.—I am informed that during the month of November past, 250 barrels of Pork were brought into Peterborough, from the United States, at a very low price, can you Mr. Editor, inform me if such was the case. F.

On enquiry we find that our correspondents information is somewhat astray, as only 225 barrels were imported to this town during November.—ED. EX.

PETERBOROUGH TEACHERS' CONVENTION.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

DEAR SIR,—I have been creditably informed that at the Convention of teachers in the town of Peterborough, a dark-complexioned individual, "distinguished" mainly for his folly and errors in judgment, announced himself so far advanced (!) in his ideas as to have arrived at the conclusion that our educational system is a failure, and our Provincial Model Schools in the city of Toronto a fraud and a humbug; also why should a man, aping to rank among educationists, condemn, in the presence of the teaching profession of the county of Peterborough, the methods of teaching adopted in the Toronto Model School, as approved of by the most advanced educationists in both Europe and America?

This important personage has also discovered that in no case has a Toronto Model School trained Teacher ever "distinguished himself in any profession," or words to that effect.

With all due deference to this educational prodigy of the nineteenth century, I permit me, Mr. Editor, to correct the statement, which, even considering its source, is far wide of the mark. I feel confident that I can mention the names of modest men, whose training in the Toronto Model School has enabled them to become actually distinguished in the profession they have chosen. I have, moreover, heard of old-fashioned P. S. Inspectors who are frequently compelled to "distinguish" themselves at a game of bluff, when they fall in with one of these thoroughly disciplined, thoroughly competent men, in charge of the most efficient and most ably conducted schools in the Province. The only crime of which these men have been guilty, in the eyes of our little man, seems to be that, in addition to that of being young men, they have become imbued with the spirit of the times, the love of progress, characteristic of our age, and have taught children to read intelligently in "the First Book of Lessons, while our "ancient little man" has been teaching the letters of the alphabet.

Grand Junction Railway.

The following letter appeared in the last number of the Norwood Register.

To the Editor of the Register.

Sir—I see the people of Norwood are again agitating the Grand Junction Railway over the northern route, and by way of encouragement I send a summary of conversation on the subject elsewhere. Some of the leading parties into whose hands the G. Junction has now passed, seem under the impression that as soon as they have built a road via Hastings, Rice Lake, or any other way, that they can call on us for a bonus of $75,000 or $100,000, and would meet with a cheerful response. Now, Sir, I am familiar with the views of nearly all the business men and ratepayers here, and I am confident no bonus whatever can be got from the town of Peterborough for the Grand Junction as at present located, or supposed to be. The people are almost unanimous in favor of the more norther, line to accomplish two objects at once viz, the Grand Junction and Toronto and Ottawa using the one line through this County. I hope those interested will find this out decidedly before they proceed further on an erroneous foundation.

I do not imagine either that the County consider themselves in any way committed by the old G. Junction by-law either morally or legally. I would like to see this agitated till settled, and at once too. Mr. Bickford must be misled by the Belleville promoters of this road, or rather by some gentlemen of Hastings of more zeal than generosity, if he thinks the road can be built as cheaply via Hastings to Peterboro' as via the Narrows and Belmont. I am in a position to prove a difference of nearly one-third in favor of the latter route; but this seems no consideration when the object is not a road for the County, but for one or two interested landholders.

Now, Sir, I hope you will go on with your agitation, and make known the sentiments of your locality, and these few hints of mine.

Yours, &c.,
SIMCOE STREET.

With one Consent they began to make Excuse.

We always knew that Conservative orators and Conservative organs were proficient in the matter of promise making; and there can be no question, from recent performances, that they are equally good at making excuses. We were promised great things as soon as the National Policy was adopted and as a consequence of its adoption. Now that the Conservatives are in power and the people are calling on them to fulfil their promises, the excuses are appearing.

One day we are told that it will take time to investigate the needs of the different interests in the country and see what measure of protection is suited to each. Then again we are gravely informed that Mr. Tilley has no time to attend to the National [illegible] of Running Again.—Mr. Peter Hamilton's Agricultural Works commenced running again on Monday last, having been closed for a few weeks overhauling the machinery.

Athenæum R. I. and R. M.—A meeting will be held this Thursday evening, in the Town Hall, Ashburnham, to consider the advisability of establishing a Mechanics' Institute and Reading Room in the village.

For Ottawa.—On Monday, Jas. Millar, Esq., President of the Peterborough St. Andrew's Society, left town for Ottawa, to take part in the presentation to Lord Lorne by the Scottish Societies of Ontario.

The "Evening Review."—Our cotem, the Review, has launched out as an Evening Daily, the first number appearing on Saturday last. It is half-foolscap of the weekly, and in typographical appearance, is neat and creditable to the publishers. We wish it every success.

Personal.—The many friends of Mr. Bruce Ferguson, the well-known and popular conductor, who has been connected with the Midland Railway for the past eighteen years, will be pleased to learn that he has been appointed station agent at Port Hope.

Superannuation.—The Hon. Adam Crooks, speaking on the subject of teachers' superannuation, at the teachers' meeting in the city of London, said that he hoped soon to be in a position to make provision for the widows and children of deceased teachers.

Wenner's Winter.—We now think that Wenner was using "sarkasm," as Artemus Ward said, when he predicted winter early in October. It will now be in order for him to prophesy warm, sunny days, and then the snowy drifts will be about five feet deep.

The Extraordinary Season.—As yet we have had little really cold weather this fall. The grass still holds its delicate green, and frost has not yet penetrated the ground an inch. Not withstanding the immense apple crop, the most important of our fruits is not going to be so cheap and plenty as seemed likely a month ago; the rot has invaded both the apple and potato bis this season.

Left.—Mr. R. A. Rowa, Grocer, George St., left about a week since for the other side of the lines. There are rumors of an unpleasant nature connected with his leaving. He was considered one of the most trustworthy men in this community, and his betrayal of public confidence is not a source of pleasure to right thinking men. When such men as he are charged with serious offences, others would do well to consider the danger of strong temptation.

The Grain Trade.—For the last two or three weeks there has been no change in the prices paid for grain in this section, and these prices are regarded as being pretty low. Notwithstanding this a considerable quantity has been brought into the market. It is expected that an upward price will take place in course of a week or two as by that time the American markets will improve, and brewers and others interested in barley will be short for stocks. This will be good news for those farmers who have held over their barley. In wheat not much improvement is expected, as the product of this year has been very large.

George St. Church S. S. Entertainment.—The third of a series of Entertainments to be held under the auspices of the George Street Methodist Sabbath School, came off on Friday Evening last, and was very fairly attended. The programme was an excellent one and was well executed, the various songs, recitations, &c., being pleasingly rendered. An item of peculiar interest in these entertainments is the intersperion of five or ten minutes, for social discourse, between the recitals. The next of the series will be held on Friday of next week, when a discussion of the merits of the Rye Glass, under various phases, will be the order of the Evening. An enjoyable time may be expected.

More Prophesying.—The weather prophets are at work again. They predict a series of severe snow storms in December. About the middle of this month there will be a break in the cold weather, a sort of lull, in which people can lay in ice. The snow will melt rapidly and cause damaging floods in many parts of the country. Then about the holidays a second series of storms will set in, accompanied by severe cold, which will last, with some short intermissions, well into February. The rivers and lakes will remain ice-locked until an unusually late period, and navigation will consequently be delayed. Now, all this is what the weather-wise shape say. About the first of April, anybody who cuts out this article, will be able to judge how near right they guessed.

I. O. G. T.—At the Annual Meeting of the Grand Lodge of the Independent Order of Good Templars, held at Napanee last week the following officers were elected for the ensuing year; Rev. John Shaw, G. W. C. T., Port Hope; Bro. Bothwell, jr., P. G. W. C. T., Ottawa; R. S. Cranmer, G. W. C., Hamilton; Mrs. R. Loverell, G. W. V. T., Address: Thos. W. Casey, G. W. S., Napanee; J. H. Flagg, G. W. T., Mitchell; Rev. F. Chisholm, G. W. Chaplain, Philipsville, Jas. Kins, G. W. M., Poole; Mrs. M. A. Mosher, G. W. D. M., Peterborough; Miss. Gray, G. W. I. G. Garden Hill; Child Washame, G. W. O. G., Bothwell. The Lodge unanimously agreed to the following resolution:—That this Grand Lodge desires to place on record its sincere regret that Bro. Marvin Knowlton, P. G. W. C. T., is so severely ill, and hopes to remove him of its deep sympathy, and prays that he may, in the good providence of God, be speedily restored. It was ordered that a copy of the above resolution be transmitted to Bro. Knowlton.

In Gaol.—There are eight prisoners at present in the gaol, 4 male, and 4 female.

You can get great bargains at Dixon Bros. old stand in Dry Goods, Millinery, &c. @

Sinclairs can get Tobacco at Dixon Bros. old stand for 20 cents per pound. A few more boxes left.

Fall Stock.—Call and see W. J. Larmour's Fall and Winter Stock of Boots and Shoes. Warranted to give satisfaction.

Not a Candidate.—We are requested by Mr. McMeiken to say that he will not be a candidate for councillor for the coming year.

Vital Statistics.—During the month of November the registration for the Town of Peterborough has been as follows:—Marriages, 6; Births, 10; Deaths, 6.

The "Sentinel."—Mr. D. McAllister has severed his connection with the Cobourg Sentinel, which is to be in future under the management of Mr. J. A. Wilkinson.

If you want Eiderdown, Kid Gloves, Buttons, Corsets, Hosiery, Cloaks, &c., &c., go to Dixon Bros. old stand, where you can get them good and at low prices. The goods must be sold. @

Central Prison.—The two well known reporters, Messrs Coleman, and Patrick Henderson, two well known vagrants, were removed to the Central Prison, Toronto, on Friday, for six months.

Thanksgiving.—Yesterday being appointed a day of thanksgiving, services were held in all the churches. The Firemens' Band enlivened the streets during the afternoon by playing several selections.

Ashburnham Council.—A meeting of this Council was held on Monday evening last, when a number of accounts were passed, and a By-law providing for the holding of the municipal elections obtained its several readings.

O. Y. B's Ball.—The fourth annual ball of Victoria Lodge O. Y. B's, will be held in the Opera House, on Christmas eve. Invitations are now being issued and those obtaining will, we presume, have a very pleasant time.

Poultry Association.—A meeting of the Poultry Association will be held this evening in the [illegible] Chamber at 7.30 P. M. A full attendance is requested as business of importance will be brought up.

Cheap Boots.—W. J. Larmour has received some more lines in Boots and Shoes, among them a line of mens' Cowarn Boots at $1.75 a pair, and Man's Felt Boots at wholesale prices. Read his advertisement next week.

Tax Sale.—The Treasurer's sale of lands of taxes took place on Tuesday, but as a large number of the lots still remain unsold, an adjourned sale will be held on Tuesday, the seventeenth instant, commencing at ten o'clock in the forenoon.

St. John's Church Event.—The tea meeting of the friends of St. John's Church Sunday School, will be held in Bradburn's Hall, on Wednesday and Thursday of next week. December 18th and 19th, when a large number of useful and fancy articles will be offered for sale Dinner will be served from one to three o'clock during the afternoon, and tea will be served in the evening.

Sentenced to Gaol.—Mr. Luke Fisher having determined to give up his grocery business in order to make more room for provisions, is now selling off his whole stock at and below cost. This is no bogus sale to clear off old stock, but a genuine closing of that department of his business, therefore housekeepers may expect to receive fresh, new goods at astonishing low prices. See poster and hand bills for an enumeration of a few of the many bargains he is offering.

No Politics.—The Review notices the assertion, that a leading member of the Young Men's Reform Association is doing the writing for our Saturday contemporary, and it insinuates that he is opposing Councillor Cahill's re-election on political grounds. The Times alone must be held responsible for its editorial matter and not the Young Men's Reform Association. Mr. Cahill has for some years been a prominent member of the Council, and Reformer, no doubt, will aid in re-electing him for 1879, independent of politics.

Personals.—We are pleased to see that Mr. R. W. Grabbe, the courteous and obliging teller of the Bank of Toronto, again at his old post—having been for nearly three months incapacitated through a swelling in the knee.....Mr. Joseph Penland, brother of Mr. D. Penland, of this town, has entered into partnership with Mr. Neelands, of Lindsay, for the practice of dentistry in that town. We wish him every success in his new venture.....Mr C. A. Foss, teller in the Ontario Bank here for a number of years, has been removed to the Head Agency in Toronto.....Mr. T. H. Tate, late Midland Railway Agent at Orillia, has been appointed agent at the Grand Trunk Junction, Port Hope. Mr. Whitehead having returned to his old post at Orillia.

COURT OF REVISION.

Councillor Smith, Chairman of the Court of Revision, reported on the several appeals handed to that body, and on motion the report was received and adopted.

ASSESSING MUNICIPAL ACT.

Councillor Smith read the following report from the Special Committee appointed at a late meeting in reference to memorial to Attorney-General:—

To the Mayor and Town Council:

The committee appointed to consider the question as to the retention of the number of Councillors, and as to other amendments, deemed in the interest of the town, beg leave to report as follows:—

1.—As to the proposed reduction in the number of Councillors, in connection with the Cobourg Sentinel, which is to be in future under the management of Mr. J. A. Wilkinson.

If you want Eiderdown, Kid Gloves, Buttons, Corsets, Hosiery, Cloaks, &c., &c., go to Dixon Bros. old stand, where you can get them good and at low prices. The goods must be sold. @

Central Prison.—The two well known reporters, Messrs Coleman, and Patrick Henderson, two well known vagrants, were removed to the Central Prison, Toronto, on Friday, for six months.

Thanksgiving.—Yesterday being appointed a day of thanksgiving, services were held in all the churches. The Firemens' Band enlivened the streets during the afternoon by playing several selections.

Ashburnham Council.—A meeting of this Council was held on Monday evening last, when a number of accounts were passed, and a By-law providing for the holding of the municipal elections obtained its several readings.

O. Y. B's Ball.—The fourth annual ball of Victoria Lodge O. Y. B's, will be held in the Opera House, on Christmas eve. Invitations are now being issued and those obtaining will, we presume, have a very pleasant time.

Poultry Association.—A meeting of the Poultry Association will be held this evening in the [illegible] Chamber at 7.30 P. M. A full attendance is requested as business of importance will be brought up.

Cheap Boots.—W. J. Larmour has received some more lines in Boots and Shoes, among them a line of mens' Cowarn Boots at $1.75 a pair, and Man's Felt Boots at wholesale prices. Read his advertisement next week.

Tax Sale.—The Treasurer's sale of lands of taxes took place on Tuesday, but as a large number of the lots still remain unsold, an adjourned sale will be held on Tuesday, the seventeenth instant, commencing at ten o'clock in the forenoon.

St. John's Church Event.—The tea meeting of the friends of St. John's Church Sunday School, will be held in Bradburn's Hall, on Wednesday and Thursday of next week. December 18th and 19th, when a large number of useful and fancy articles will be offered for sale Dinner will be served from one to three o'clock during the afternoon, and tea will be served in the evening.

Sentenced to Gaol.—Mr. Luke Fisher having determined to give up his grocery business in order to make more room for provisions, is now selling off his whole stock at and below cost. This is no bogus sale to clear off old stock, but a genuine closing of that department of his business, therefore housekeepers may expect to receive fresh, new goods at astonishing low prices. See poster and hand bills for an enumeration of a few of the many bargains he is offering.

No Politics.—The Review notices the assertion, that a leading member of the Young Men's Reform Association is doing the writing for our Saturday contemporary, and it insinuates that he is opposing Councillor Cahill's re-election on political grounds. The Times alone must be held responsible for its editorial matter and not the Young Men's Reform Association. Mr. Cahill has for some years been a prominent member of the Council, and Reformer, no doubt, will aid in re-electing him for 1879, independent of politics.

Personals.—We are pleased to see that Mr. R. W. Grabbe, the courteous and obliging teller of the Bank of Toronto, again at his old post—having been for nearly three months incapacitated through a swelling in the knee.....Mr. Joseph Penland, brother of Mr. D. Penland, of this town, has entered into partnership with Mr. Neelands, of Lindsay, for the practice of dentistry in that town. We wish him every success in his new venture.....Mr C. A. Foss, teller in the Ontario Bank here for a number of years, has been removed to the Head Agency in Toronto.....Mr. T. H. Tate, late Midland Railway Agent at Orillia, has been appointed agent at the Grand Trunk Junction, Port Hope. Mr. Whitehead having returned to his old post at Orillia.

COURT OF REVISION.

Councillor Smith, Chairman of the Court of Revision, reported on the several appeals handed to that body, and on motion the report was received and adopted.

ASSESSING MUNICIPAL ACT.

Councillor Smith read the following report from the Special Committee appointed at a late meeting in reference to memorial to Attorney-General:—

To the Mayor and Town Council:

The committee appointed to consider the question as to the retention of the number of Councillors, and as to other amendments, deemed in the interest of the town, beg leave to report as follows:—

1.—As to the proposed reduction in the number of Councillors, in connection with the Cobourg Sentinel, which is to be in future under the management of Mr. J. A. Wilkinson.

2.—Your committee are of opinion that the Act under which Police Magistrate is appointed does not authorize him to act to certify the fees in connection with the Police Magistrate and the Clerk of the Police Court, and should also decide when (if any) have the said magistrate to perform, he has been entitled to the same in his previous charge being difficult to interpret.

3.—That the Act respecting the Voters List should be amended so as to provide that a person summoned for road service should be entitled to vote upon the polling day, which he has been prevented from doing by the fact that he may have received a summons for road service, and not otherwise, and that the Act be so amended as to provide that the last revision of the Assessment Roll, the sessions on this subject be present being merely, inasmuch as it frequently prevents [illegible] their votes because they may have received the day prior to the final revision of the Roll, and therefore cannot possess the [illegible] to vote who may have removed from [illegible] ward.

4.—Your committee further report that in their opinion sections 31 and 32 of the Assessment Act (Consolidation of the Revised Statutes of Ontario) which provide respectively for the assessment of [illegible] farm, garden, or nursery in a city, town or village, and for ground enclosed and used in connection with a residence or building as a pasture, park, lawn, garden or [illegible] should not be held for purposes of sale, should be repealed, because the sections in question being obscure and difficult fairly to carry out, and because at present property of the above class are practically exempt from taxation, the ratepayers of limited means paying the taxes which should be paid by owners of land of the above description, land, which in many cases may be property situated within the said sections of the limits but which will, in all probability, be offered for sale as building lots as soon as better prices can be obtained. Your committee are of opinion that it is unfair that some persons should be allowed to wait for an increase in price without paying their proper share of taxes while the rest of the ratepayers should be compelled to pay for this advantage to large property holders.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

H. H. SMITH, Chairman.

On motion the report was received and adopted.

FINANCE.

Councillor Cahill, Chairman of the Finance Committee, submitted the following report, which on motion was referred to the Town Solicitors.

In reference to the Police Court accounts the Finance Committee begs leave to report that they have investigated the same, and believe that the defendant is improperly given by the Magistrate. It will be seen by the letter from the Police Magistrate attached to this report, there are three charges of drunk and disorderly, and is entitled to retain fees, and which he claims exclusively to do, and which involves a legal question upon which your committee are not competent to give an opinion, and would therefore recommend that the matter be referred to the Town Solicitor. But inasmuch as the Town pays the Police Magistrate a yearly salary and provides a Police Court, your committee are of opinion that all monies accruing from the Police Court should go to the credit of the town, and recommend that legislation may be sought for that purpose if necessary.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

THOS. CAHILL, Chairman.

The following is the letter attached to the Finance Report:—

Peterborough, July 26th, 1878.

DEAR SIRS.—I have received your report which you have kind enough to hand me for perusal touse the explanation to the authorities. The cases in which payments to me were not paid over to the Town Treasurer, either in whole or in part, will be found by an examination of the Police Court book, in connection with the Police Court book, to come within three classes. I claim as a matter of right and of law, to be entitled to receive the fees for my own use and benefit.

Thirtieth class consists of County Cases, &c. cases in which the offence is charged as having been committed without the Town. With respect to this class of cases, the only one which I receive as Police Magistrate for the town, to be a remuneration for my services, is the fee of $1 for each case; my services within the town, and for which I am by law not entitled to charge the fee prescribed by the statute, and as a consequence that I am entitled to all the fees which any other Justice of the Peace would be entitled to, which for his own benefit he may have received in another locality. The next class consists of (a) "Wages Cases," i.e. cases in which complaint is made before me for non-payment of wages. (b) Complaints for sureties to keep the Peace. The first is a proceeding for the collection of a debt, the latter the punishment of an offence, and in neither case can a fine be inflicted and consequently no pecuniary fine can be made. In the decision may be followed by an order in the one case, that the defendant do pay a sum to the complainant, and in the other that he enter recognizances to keep the peace. There is by no possibility a fine by which the Town could receive any benefit. For these reasons I consider myself entitled to the fees in these cases also. The third class consists of these "Town Cases" which I myself came to a hearing, whether from their being settled or abandoned. In these the information, summons, or warrant, whichever it was of, was prepared by me. This work is now done by the Police Court Clerk. But I considered that by the date of my appointment, I was entitled to the proper fees for what papers I drew. Acting upon the same principle with respect to the constables, in all these cases, I have always paid the constable who performed the service the fees to which I considered him entitled.

I am, your obedient servant,

D. G. HALTON.

Councillor McBain thought that would be an end of the $200 to the town.

MIDLAND RAILWAY SIDINGS.

Councillor Rutherford, Chairman of the Special Committee, to whom was referred the application of the President of the Midland Railway, reported verbally, stating that at a meeting of the committee on Wednesday evening the views of the property holders interested were heard, and that those views in favor while others were against it. For his own part he could not see that any great damage could be done and would support the application, and if any of the property holders along the street really suffered loss let it be settled by arbitration. At a subsequent stage of the meeting he introduced a motion in accordance with these views, and after a protracted debate in which nearly all the interested parties addressed the Council, withdrew it and allowed the matter to remain over till next meeting of the Council.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.

A By-law providing for the holding of the municipal elections, and appointment of Returning Officers and Poll Clerks, was read a first, second and third time and finally passed. The following are the appointments:—

For Ward No. 1.—Jos. Lundy, Deputy-Returning Officer, and William Reim, Poll Clerk. Place of polling—Mission School.

For Ward No. 2.—C. H. Macdonald, Deputy-Returning Officer, and John Sawyers, Poll Clerk. Place of polling—Council Chamber.

For Ward No. 3.—John Irwin, Deputy-Returning Officer, and Mr. Frank Hilton, Poll Clerk. Place of polling—House of John Irwin.

For Ward No. 4.—William Lee, Deputy-Returning Officer, and J. G. Macdonald, Poll Clerk. Polling place—W. Lee's Shop.

A MATTER OF WRONG ASSESSMENT.

Mr. George M. Rogers addressed the Council in reference to the assessment of his father's estate, and the matter was referred to the Finance Committee.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A motion to hand over to the School Board the balance of the proceeds of the sale of school debentures of last year was passed.

The balance of the job printing, coming under Mr. B. S. Palmer's contract, was left in the hands of the Clerk to be disposed of.

After some further business of no special interest to our readers the Council adjourned for one week.

GENTS' FURNISHINGS.

These productions of genius were the fruit of much toil, and this fruit it is ours to enjoy. "And herein is that saying true, one soweth and another reapeth."

THE APPLICATION OF THE PRINCIPLE TO THE DISCIPLES AND THE CONGREGATION.

"I sent you to reap that whereon ye bestowed no labour, other men laboured and ye are entered into their labours." This began with the disciples when they were first called to follow Jesus, and it was fulfilled in that spiritual harvest which was never to be gathered in. The Old Testament prophets, John the Baptist and Jesus Himself, were the ones who laboured, and into whose labours the disciples were soon to enter. The Old testament prophets—"The brightest robed and noblest souls"—had appeared one after another, and after giving their testimony had passed away. Then after a length[illegible] was silent. John the Baptist, the forerunner of Jesus, appeared, and after preaching the baptism of repentance for the remission of sins and drawing large numbers to his ministry, he was cast in prison by Herod, and finally put to death. Then after our Lord had been baptised of John in Jordan, his ministry began and he entered upon those labors which were a source of salvation for all who believe. He went forth weeping, bearing his precious seed. His whole life was devoted to the service of others—healing their diseases and making known to them the way of life. His was a life of unceasing toil. Never did preacher work more incessantly than He did—by day preaching, by night praying—often times faint through weariness, and yet not finding time so much as to eat bread. He is the master worker of all the sons of men. If we must needs eat bread in the sweat of our faces, much greater or was his toil when he brought the bread of His to us by the bloody sweat of Gethsemane, and by the His sweat of every day of his three years ministry. Though he laboured so earnestly, the success which attended his ministry was very limited indeed. There was a conversion here and a conversion there, but the majority of those who listened to his preaching remained unconverted and unsaved. He was the one who laboured and the apostles were the ones who entered into his labours. Soon after his ascension into heaven, they began to reap the harvest springing from the seed which He had sown—for as the result of the preaching of Peter upon the day of Pentecost, three thousand souls were added unto the church. These words, however, apply not to the apostles merely, but to all who are saved by Christ, for all such reap the fruit of his labours. As my sermon to night is on behalf of

THE ST. ANDREW'S SOCIETY,

and as it is proper that I should say something of that motherland with which most of us are connected either by birth or descent, I will consider the words of our Lord as applying to the relationship in which we stand to our forefathers, and to the benefit which we have derived from their labours. There is nothing young nearly is having the attachment to one's native land and in being grateful that so many illustrious men have been borne and nourished on her soil. The apostle Paul spoke with satisfaction of the fact that he was a Jew, born in Tarsus, a city of Cilicia, and he did not hesitate to speak of the privileges of the Jews in the 9th chapter of the Epistle to the Romans. "Who are Israelites to whom pertaineth the adoption and the glory and the covenants and the giving of the law and the service of God and the promises. Whose are the Father's and of whom as concerning the flesh Christ came, who is over all, God blessed for ever more." Surely then I may remind you of the privileges which you enjoy, in entering upon the labours of those who sought to maintain purity of doctrine in Scotland, at a time when [illegible] were sadly corrupted. Christianity first shed its Scotland before the Roman Church sent her missionaries and at that early period there was a remarkable purity both in church, government and in doctrine. In the Island of Iona, the Culdees maintained a church in which the primitive simplicity of worship was observed, and there, too, Columba founded in the year A.D. 563, a regular presbytery composed of twelve presbyters. The Culdees educated many young men for the ministry and sent missionaries across the southern border in 591, their establishment at Iona was burnt by the Northmen, who invaded and ravaged their coast. They continued however, to exist amid much suffering and many perils until toward the close of the thirteenth century when they were finally suppressed by the Papal power. For many years the Church of Rome held undisputed sway in Scotland, until when God's time arrived to bring about the Reformation of the church, his servants began to speak in defence of the truth. Patrick Hamilton and George Wishart who were the forerunners of the Reformation in Scotland and who helped to prepare the way for its establishment, both suffered death by martyrdom. John Knox was the instrument in the hands of God for effecting the reformation of the church and he is the one to whom above all others, Scotland owes the prosperity which she has since enjoyed. Possessed of indomitable courage and great abilities, strong in faith and mighty in prayer. Knox would admit of no compromise, he would be moved neither by promises or threats. And as the result of his labours, the primitive simplicity of the church was restored and every vestige of Popery removed. The years which followed the death of Knox were characterized by the efforts of ruling Monarchs to obtain control over the Church and to force Episcopacy upon an unwilling people. In 1688, King James sent a messenger at arms to dismiss the Assembly at Aberdeen and when the Ministers adjourned to meet again he sent fourteen of the most eminent of them to prison. On the accession of Charles I, the Book of Canons was prepared, which forbade a General Assembly or any other meeting of Ministers unless specially called by the king. Scottish people were by no means willing that their Ministers should obey any such command, and in 1638, a solemn covenant was signed at the Grey Friars church in Edinburgh, in which they determined to put away all idolatry superstition and immorality and to worship God in simplicity and faithfulness according to His Word. Charles thought that he would put down all opposition by raising an army and invading Scotland but he met with such a vigorous opposition from the Covenanters that he was obliged to make a treaty of peace and agree to submit all ecclesiastical matters to the next General Assembly for settlement. When Charles II. became king he repealed all the laws that favored the spiritual liberty of the church, banished some of those that opposed his measures and put others to death. At last was the famed banishing all those Ministers who persisted in meeting in Synods and Presbyteries and on the last sabbath of October 1662, two hundred pastors left their pulpits and soon four hundred were ejected for non-conformity. With the accession of James II. persecution began to rage still more fiercely, for the ruthless Claverhouse, who had now become a privy councillor, devoted his whole energies to exterminate the Covenanters. But these efforts were quite unavailing and seemed but to raise the spirit of the Covenanters and to confirm them in their allegiance to what they believed to be the teaching of the word of God. And when William Prince of Orange ascended to the throne, all the rights and privileges of the Scottish church were restored to them by law. As we contrast our work with that which our Scottish forefathers had to do; as we think of the privileges which have been secured to us by the sound which they took for the truth, we cannot help feeling the force of the words of our Lord, "Other men laboured and ye entered into their labours." Those noble champions of civil and religious liberty, those men who counted not their lives dear unto themselves if only they might testify of the Gospel of the grace of God, have bequeathed to Scotland and her sons a legacy of infinite value in a church, unadorned in doctrine and government in the Apostolic church and in open vision circulated through the length and breadth of the land. And as we in this Canada of ours reap the fruit of their labours, let us endeavour to catch the mantle which has fallen from their shoulders. Let us follow them as they followed Christ, so that, when years have passed away and new generations have sprung up to take our places they may reap the harvest, springing from the seed which we have sown, a harvest the fruit of which will be into holiness, and the end everlasting life.

NOTHING BUT LEAVES.

BY H. C. BUNER.

Nothing but leaves! My spirit grieves
Over this bane of my life:
Veterans laden with empire and fame,
Bismarck, grimm—no wonder I turn
Around, and say to my wife,
"Nothing but leaves."

Nothing but leaves; and she believes
That Justice are ready to hold
The poisonous oak and the ivy free,
And sprays with thorns that stick into me
Verily, then do I scold,
"Nothing but leaves."

Nothing but leaves; and she deserves
Me oft with her studious way;
She borrows my volumes of science and law
And pens them attentively, down on the floor
Nearly the whole of the day.
Nothing but leaves.

Nothing but leaves my vision perceives,
The dreadful "tormented hyaus"
Is mild compared to this terrible woe,
That daily and nightly I undergo,
And will to the end of my days.
Nothing but leaves.

Nothing but leaves; my mind conceives
A refuge—the newspaper file—
I'll eat it—Ah! now am I truly blest—
What filled with the trash? Is there no rest
For the victim of womanly wiles!
No! not till she leaves.

Fighting Strength of Afghanistan.

The area of the region which concedes a species of feudal allegiance to the son of Dost Mohammed is equal to that of Germany, but the population is not rated at above 6,000,000 in the statistics lately compiled for the Russian Military Department. More important than any territory division is that of races and tribes, there being no less than nine distinct nationalities in the country. Of these the Uzbeks and Hindees from the agricultural and commercial elements. The Afghans or Pathans, the dominating race, are about 3,000,000 strong, and are distributed into five tribes or 400 clans. It is worth noting that most of these boast of deriving their descent from the ten tribes of Israel, a claim in favor of which a certain amount of evidence seems to be alleged. We may add that the bulk of the Afghan population, being inveterate mountaineers, prefer the rugged eastern and south-eastern frontiers to the central and western valleys; and we are chiefly concerned to know how many fighting men the clans along the Indian and Beloochi borders can put into the field.

The most powerful of all the Afghan tribes is the Durani, to which the dynasty of Dost Mohammed belongs. It follows that Shere Ali is not only the generals but the immediate chief of the Duranis, a point of obvious import, where lands are held on a feudal tenure. The Duranis inhabit a large tract between Herat and Candahar, number some three-quarters of a million souls, and can muster upward of 100,000 warriors. They are well spoken of by all travellers in Afghanistan, and are credited with superior spirit, bravery, and civilization; as a rule, for instance, they have no internecine feuds like the other Afghan clans. For them Candahar is invested with a halo of superstition, being the traditional place of interment for the bodies of their great men, and as English occupation of that city would naturally meet with strenuous opposition from its founders.

In the south-eastern angle of Afghanistan dwell the Ghilzais, a powerful tribe comprising not far from 400,000 souls, and able to furnish the Ameer with at least 80,000 fighting men. As a race, the Ghilzais are fine, stalwart men, capable of undergoing great hardship and fatigue; and their history is interesting, descended, as they are from the illegitimate son of an exiled Persian Prince, Shah Hussein. Next on the north, in the Kooram Pass, we come upon the Juris, computed to muster about 8,000 soldiers, highly prized as irregular cavalry of the Kooré or Circassian stamp. It is provable that the Juris will throw in their lot with the English in the coming contest. Next on the north, passing along the slopes of the Soliman and Safaid Koh ranges, we reach the Shiawaris, who can furnish some 7,000 fighting men, but of whom we know very little beyond the fact of their marked avarice to the English. Six years ago they harbored the murderers of Major McDonald; and in the last war Gen. Macleath marched into their territory and summarily punished them for an unprovoked assault on a British post. Just beyond them, however, and reaching to the southern flank of the Khyber Pass, dwell the Afridis, unquestionably the most powerful of Pathan clans next to the Duranis and the Ghilzais. They are able to draw forth not less than 25,000 warriors conspicuous for fortitude and daring. There is no doubt that the Afridis are definitely secured to the English side in the present struggle, indeed one of their Khans has voluntarily taken up his residence in Peshawar. Already the Afghan troops have sought to punish this clan for their adherence to their compact with the British authorities, but so far have not succeeded in inflicting severe injury. We come next to the Mohmunds, whose territory lies to the north of the Khyber Pass, and who are able to turn out from 15,000 to 20,000 men, armed, for the most part, with rifles of English manufacture. Until very recently it was supposed that the Ameer could certainly count on their assistance, and the most important piece of Afghan news is the defection to the English of this formidable clan. It appears that their chief is Yakoob Khan's father-in-law and firm supporter. When the Prince was released by his father not long ago, and given a command, the tribes at once joined the Afghan monarch; but, on Yakoob's subsequent arrest, they went over to the British Viceroy.

We need not go on to enumerate the obscure names of tribes to the north-west of Peshawur, and commanding the Kashmeer frontier, but it may be said in brief that the number of fighting men already pledged to the English on the part of Pathan clans exceeds 60,000. Against them Shere Ali can oppose a militia of at least 200,000. He possesses also the nucleus of a regular army, recruited mainly from the Duranis, and tolerably well armed. A year ago he was supposed to be weak in artillery but the want seems to have been measurably supplied, since a reconnaissance ten days ago developed the existence of eleven heavy guns at Ali Musjid. In what other way the Afghan resources may have been supplemented and organized by foreign aid cannot yet be measured; but we have indicated the amount of native material on which England's antagonist in the east is able to reckon.—New York Sun.

On Certain Mysteries.

While a young girl at Amherst, N. S., has persuaded hundreds of our brethren by the sea that she is possessed of a devil, another young girl in Brooklyn, N. Y. is satisfying that emotional city that second-sight and psychical healing are within the human possibilities. In both cases physicians, clergymen and other witnesses of repute testify that there is no fraud in the phenomena; and there is no immediate prospect of fraud being discovered for both withstand the tests applied to them But it is very certain that the end, sooner or later, will be smoke. Two years ago the Welsh fasting girl created intense excitement in England. Her parents received that she ate nothing, that food was loathsome to her. The vicar was skeptical, and for months arrived with the girl and her parents, telling them that he knew there was deception. They strenuously denied it, and at length the vicar himself gave in. He believed in the fasting, and published a letter saying that he knew that she "had not taken a single grain of any kind of food whatever during sixteen months." He invited medical men to examine into her case. The suggestion of the vicar was acted upon by the neighbours. They appointed a committee, which watched thirteen days, and the committee reported that it was a genuine case, no deception. Doctors were called in, but they, too, agreed that her fasting was not a trick, but a bona fide loathing of and inability to receive food. At length, when thousands had put their faith in her supernatural powers Dr. Fowler, a noted physician, took the case in hand, and proved to a demonstration that it was an imposture. The girl, he found, was the victim of simulative hysteria, and that her parents were dishonest enough to encourage her deception. A popular belief, however, is hard to kill, and the girl's dupes would not be convinced. Accordingly, at the suggestion of a committee, a corps of trained nurses was employed to watch her. Her parents remained the peaceful ones, and the watch began on the 9th of December, 1869. Gradually symptoms of mental and physical disturbance appeared. Five days later she was looking pale and anxious, her eyes were sunken, her nose pinched. The doctor told her parents that Sarah was failing, and suggested sending the nurses away, and giving her a chance to obtain food. They refused; said they had seen her quite as weak before, and that she would not eat whether the nurses were there or not. Repeatedly were they begged to withdraw the nurses, and again and again they refused, saying there was no occasion. Sarah became weaker and weaker, and on the 17th of December died—actually starved to death. Dr. Hammond, the well known surgeon and writer on nervous diseases, has been called to test the Brooklyn mystery, but declines, saying it is a clear case of simulative hysteria. However, to test her second sight, he offered to draw a cheque for a thousand and odd dollars and to make her a present of it if she could tell the exact amount, but she is unwilling to make the attempt, although not above taking money for Lor exhibitions. The Amherst case has not yet been brought to the attention of any scientific investigator; but we have no doubt it will ultimately turn out to be as gross as that which the Welsh fasting girl died in carrying out.

APSLEY.

(From our own Correspondent)

The weather during the past two weeks has been very unsettled, we have had a great quantity of rain and soft weather, without any hard frost, which has made the roads very bad—so bad in fact that it is almost impossible to travel over them at any rate of speed faster than a walk, with a team, especially if you have anything of a load, and in consequence our Tri-weekly Stage has arrived at its destination here, very late at night during the bad weather, but the Stage Proprietors are not to blame in the matter. But we hope for better things in the future, now that the Conservative Party are in power and the "good times are coming." And here let me say that the bad state of the Berlaigh Road from Burleigh Bridge to Apsley is one great drawback to the settlement of the Townships in this Municipality. No one doubts that the money lately expended here on the roads has been a benefit to us, but it wants a vast amount more to make the road what it ought to be, to encourage settlers to stay. The land open for settlement is not what one would call first class, by any means, in fact the most of it is more or less rocky and hilly, and for that reason good means, of ingress and egress are required to induce settlers to come here. A good number of settlers have taken up land here during the past year, and seem to like the country very well, and there is no reason why they should not. Any settler that is able and willing to work, with enough of funds to purchase provisions for one year, need fear of making a living, or of gaining a competence, for the land gives a good return for labor bestowed upon it. The locality is very healthy, fever and ague scarcely ever occurring, so that our future prospects are good, and I have no doubt but that at some future time, not long distant, Apsley will be a flourishing town. Our crops on the whole during the last summer have been good. It is true that Barley and Spring Wheat suffered somewhat from the late frost in Spring, but that was more than counter-balanced by good Fall Wheat, Oats &c, We have suffered most from Potato rot. They rotted in the ground and they are still doing so in the pits and Cellars, and only for that they would have been more than an average crop. Space prevents me from saying as much as I would like to in regard to this back country, but I shall be glad to answer any questions in reference to it that your readers may see fit to insert in your paper, or to give them any information that will tend to a speedy settlement of it. At our Police Court, (before James Golborne Esq., J. P.) Joseph Rawlew was fined $1.00 and costs for assaulting John H. Anderson.

Protestant Relief Society.

In accordance with an intimation given from several pulpits on the proceeding Sunday, a meeting was held in the Protestant Home on Wednesday, the 13th November, to consult as to the best mode of systematically dispensing the money placed by the Trustees of the Hall Fund in the hands of the Home Committee. A large number of ladies representing the Protestant denominations attended, and the following resolutions were submitted and adopted :—

1. That the Protestant Relief Society be re-organized, and that the existing Committee of the Home remain as heretofore:

President—Mrs. Romaine.
Treasurer—Miss Gilmour.
Secretary—Miss Roger.

with four newly-elected Vice-Presidents—Mrs. Wallis, Mrs. Templeton Brown, Mrs. Gilmour and Mrs. Jeffers; also a Managing Committee whose duties will hereafter be defined.

2. That a meeting be held in the Board-room every Wednesday at 3 p.m., when new applicants will be relieved on presentation of a recommendation from any minister or member of Committee, it being always understood that the case has been fully investigated, and in order to help in this respect it was resolved,

3. That the Pastor of each congregation (in Peterborough) be asked to furnish a list of the poor therein, which list shall be kept in the Home.

4. And further: The four Wards of the town shall be sub-divided, and two ladies appointed to each sub-division, whose duty will be to visit every case of destitution, and bring it before the Committee, when suitable relief will be afforded, either by orders on stores, bread and meat tickets, or clothing, &c., every Wednesday. In any very urgent case relief may be given at once by order. Money is only to be given in extreme cases, and then never to exceed two dollars. Each visitor will be entrusted with a number of blank orders duly signed, to be used at her discretion, but which must be accounted for at each meeting.

5. Should aid be deemed necessary beyond the pecuniary sum specified above, such case must be at once referred to the Trustees of the Hall Fund, to whom also a statement of the families or individuals relieved, and the kind of relief given, shall be sent every week.

6. Applications for relief are to be sent to the Home every Wednesday at 2 p. m., when their claims will be attended to by duly appointed persons. In order to guard against impostures in some measure, it is earnestly hoped that each lady will be thoroughly investigated before relief is administered.

In view of the approaching winter, with its unparalleled "hard times," and "no work," the Committee would take this opportunity of recommending the claims of the community who in former years helped to support the Protestant Home, whose operations were confined to its own immediate wants, but were extended far and wide, that the great from the Hall Trustees does not relieve them from their obligations to their poorer neighbours. The Committee, therefore, earnestly trust these obligations will be recognized, and that private subscriptions will be renewed, and donations of clothing for both sexes and all ages, as well as every kind of provision, will pour in in the same abundance to the Home as in those good old times of which we read in Sacred Writ, when actually "the people had to be restrained from bringing."

The Lindsay and Bobcaygeon Railway.

The fortunes of this project depend to a considerable extent on the action Lindsay may take, and it would be well to hold a preliminary meeting of our leading citizens at an early day to ascertain what amount of assistance the town can afford to grant. The scheme is one that deserves consideration, and those Lindsay gentlemen who have heretofore manifested an interest in it should now take requisite action to obtain an expression of public opinion regarding it. It was, we believe, the intention to have discussed the matter with Mr. Holden on Tuesday last but that gentleman was detained at Whitby by a melancholy and fatal accident to a near relative recorded in our local columns; but we have no doubt he and Mr. Austin and Mr. Boyd will, with others, attend any meetings in Lindsay that may be called. From a paragraph in our Peterborough items it will be seen that an apparently successful effort has been made to resuscitate the section of the Cobourg Railway from Peterborough to Mud Lake. We do not know precisely the value of this movement in this matter, but it shows in connection with the action on the Harvey by-law that Peterborough is now on the alert and is determined to stop at nothing to retain the trade of the Bobcaygeon section.—Post.

A Ride on a Whirlwind.

Near Atlanta recently, says a correspondent, a peculiar incident occurred. It was on the day the memorable cyclone passed over Lone Tree and Clark's. The sky was streaked in the north-west with vived flashes of light, and a terrible rumbling sound made known that a great storm was imminent. A massive black cloud was extending a whirling finger toward the earth and sweeping with great fury whatever came before it. Jennie, a girl who was working at a certain hotel there, was busy at the stove preparing the next meal. Hearing a rattle at the side door Jennie went to the door and opened it. As she did so she was caught from the doorway by the whirling wind and carried over the house, turning round and round in the air as she went, and after approaching the ground on the other side she again rose and was taken by the whirling wind over the stores and dwellings a distance of three-fourths of a mile, being lowered so that her feet could touch the ground as many as eight times during the trip. Exhausted, but in an erect position, she was at last lowered to the earth as lightly as a feather would fall, having received no material injury, though almost frantic with fright. The storm proceeded on its way, leaving her in sight of the town, and in half an hour she again put in an appearance at the hotel, where some anxious friends were bewailing her sudden and mysterious departure.

Shelter for Sheep.

Shelter for sheep is almost absolutely necessary for economical feeding. No flock-owner can afford to dry the drenched fleeces of his sheep with extra food. This extra food should go to put his sheep in better condition, instead of being expended in keeping them warm during exposure to cold storms Open sheds should be provided, accessible to the sheep in fall, and no labor will be required to induce them to avail themselves of this shelter. They know enough to "get out of the rain." Here also should be arranged some troughs, in which could be placed a plat of grain for each sheep, when the pasture becomes impaired by being eaten too close or injured by frost. Oats and corn, mixed half-and-half form a good ration, and will pay an excellent profit when fed to improve the condition of sheep in fall. It should be remembered that the mild fall weather is much more favorable to improve the condition of sheep with a small grain ration than the cold winter weather. Half the amount of grain will then put on a pound of flesh, that will be required when the thermometer averages 20 degrees. When the weather becomes very cold, good rations are required to prevent loss to thin sheep instead of producing gain. Sheep that are in good condition at the beginning of winter are not troubled with cold and will gain on moderate ration all winter.

Uses of Ammonia.

I do not know of any agent that can be put to so many household uses, as amonia, or harts-horn, as it is sometimes called. In cookery there is no alkali that is equal to it. A small teaspoonful of sal volatile (carbonite of ammonia) in powder, and the same of alum, to one quart of a mixture—bread or cake—will rarely fail to make it light. Both must be dissolved, but separately, in as little warm water as possible and added just before baking. Many recipes in cookery books written thirty years ago, and even later, call for sal volatile instead of saleratus, or bi-carbonate of soda.

A large spoonful of liquid ammonia to each gallon of suds, in which woolen fabrics are to be washed, will make them clean and soft, with half the labor necessary for washing in the ordinary way. Hartshorn sufficiently reduced with soft water, is unequalled for cleaning silver and gold, mirrors, window glass and all painted surfaces. A little ammonia, so little as to be hardly perceptible in the water used for plants in the winter, will make them wonderfully thrifty. If the color is taken out of cloth, either cotton or woolen, by acids, it can generally be restored with harshorn, slightly weakened. Applied in full strength to the bites and stings of insects it gives instant relief. Both liquid and powdered ammonia should be kept in bottles with glass stoppers. The odor of harshorn is agreeable to most persons, and it is strange that any housekeeper, who understands its properties, will ever be without it.

Cardinal Manning on the British Empire.

Speaking at a great meeting of Roman Catholic clergy and laity in Liverpool on behalf of St. Joseph's Foreign Mission Society, Cardinal Manning said that the missionaries were intended to cope with heathenism beyond the bounds of Christendom, but within the boundaries of the British Empire. And here came a new obligation. Some would ask, what had they to do with the British Empire? But they had all helped to rear up that mighty fabric, the mightiest in the world. When God raised up a mighty Empire he did it for a purpose. The old Roman Empire did its work, and it was crushed, crumbled, and utterly destroyed. The great Catholic Empire of Spain passed away like a shadow, and the greatest Empire the world had ever seen for extent was the British Empire, which they had helped to build up. They had what Spain never had. They possessed at this time the eighteenth portion at least, of the habitable globe, and had over 240 millions of fellow-subjects; and these 240 millions of men, with their 130 princes and chieftains—these realms and kingdoms and principalities—were all gathered under the sovereignty of the British Empire. Was this without a divine purpose? Was it to pass away like a bubble like Spain? Upon them it depended to give answer under God, if they were to be faithful to their duty. If they partook of the greatness of that empire they partook of the responsibilities. If they partook of its wealth, they partook of its duties. If they partook of its powers, they would partake of its doom. Empires were raised to be the servants of God, and if they would not fulfil this duty, God would crush them.

Paupers and Poverty.

The question of poverty, during the past few years, has been pressing itself to the people of Canada and the United States in some new forms, and how to deal with it is now becoming here, as it has long been in Great Britain, one of the great questions of the day. It is not likely that the poor will ever cease out of the land, or that there will ever be a country to whose people the great truth will not apply, "The poor have ye with you always." Still, in a land so favored as this, there is something abnormal in the recent developments of poverty, and alarming in the forms in which it presents itself. Without going into the causes which have lead to an increase of pauperism in Canada and the United States, all of which demand the most serious attention of our public men, we are safe in saying that the "hard times" are not alone responsible for it. A general commercial depression will of course, add largely to the number of paupers in any country, but the cause of the evil of which we complain, must be sought deeper than this. There can be no doubt that poverty is to a very large extent—indeed, in the vast majority of cases—the result of either extravagance, recklessness, intemperance or immorality; and this must be borne in mind by all who would arrive at just conclusions upon the question how to deal with it. It is by changing many of the social customs of all classes by teaching people economy, prudence and virtue, that the question of pauperism is to be effectually solved. We believe that a careful consideration of the subject would prove that in nine cases out of ten poverty is the result of laziness, extravagance, imprudence, or vice. We know that large numbers of the laboring class have been severely tried during the past few years, and that some of them in common with persons in all walks of life have found it difficult to "make ends meet." But who will say that there has ever been a time in Canada when a man who is willing to work could not make a living?

JOY AMONG THE CHILDREN

COPELAND'S SWEET CASTOR OIL, equally suitable for children and adults. Endorsed by over 600 doctors in Canada. The difficulty of administering nauseous medicines and the desirability of having them pleasant to the taste, induced T. Copeland to undertake researches, which resulted in the discovery of a Sweet Castor Oil, perfectly palatable, of the same strength and medical qualities as the ordinary Castor Oil; and while equally safe and harmless yet acting with more certainty, and producing neither nausea nor griping. Some children say it is better; others call it syrup—they all say they like it. One parent says—My children drink it like water;" another—"We had to hide the bottle or they would have finished it right off;" another—"My little girl has taken it twice without any trouble, and does not know what it is, though she hates the ordinary Castor Oil, and we never could get her to take it without a fight;" yet another—"I wish you success of your SWEET CASTOR OIL; it is a splendid thing—sure to take the place of all common oil."

The extraordinary demand for this improvement of a staple household medicine has brought fraudulent imitations into the market, but the public can guard themselves against substitutes (which unprincipled parties are attempting to sell on the reputation of this article) by seeing that the name, COPELAND'S SWEET CASTOR OIL, is on both wrapper and direction label.

The undersigned having purchased Messrs T. Copeland & Co's interest in the above preparation, are now manufacturing it from the original recipe.

Mitchell's Belladonna Improved India Rubber Porous Paster.

There never has been a time when the healing of so many different diseases has been treated by outward application as the present. It is an undisputed fact that over half of the entire population of the globe resort to the use of ordinary plasters.

The principal ingredients used in making these Plasters are Gum Olibanum—or better known as the Frankincense of the Bible—Rubber, and Burgundy Pitch; which, when scientifically compounded, is full of electricity and when combined with the pure medicinal gums, is found to be one greatest healing mediums ever brought before the human race.

They are acknowledged by all who have used them to act quicker than any other Plasters they ever before tried, and that one of these Plasters will do more real service than a hundred of the ordinary kind. All other Plasters are slow of action, and require to be worn continually to effect a cure; but with these it is entirely different; the instant one is applied the patient will feel its effect.

They possess all the soothing, warming, supporting and strengthening qualities of all other Plasters. Many who have been relieved of RHEUMATISM, TIC DOLOREUX, and various other pains in the KIDNEYS, BREAST or SIDE, and believe it is solely done by the electrical qualities which the Porous Plasters contain, and which is imparted to the system, thus restoring them to a healthy condition.

They are very soft and pliable, still very adhesive, and a sure cure for WEAK BACKS PAINS IN THE SIDE AND BREAST, and are invaluable to those who have a COLD of long standing, and often prevents CONSUMPTION. Some even tell us they believe they were entirely cured by the use of them of a long seated Consumption.

CAN YOU?

Can you make a song or a fly.—Just one?
Or catch a beam of the golden sun?
Can you count the hairs on the head you fail?
Or the leaves that fall or from tree-tops tall?
Can you run like the brook and never tire?
Can you climb like the wind to the spire?
Can you fly like a bird, or weave a nest,
Or make but one feather on robin's breast?

Can you build a cell like a bee, or spin
Like the spider, a web so fine and thin?
Can you lift a shadow from off the ground?
Can you see the wheels of sunset's round?
Can you blow a bubble that will not burst?
Can you talk with eyes and not speak first?

Oh, my dear little boy! you are clever and strong,
And you are so busy the whole day long.
Trying as hard as a little boy can,
To do big things like a "grown-up" man!
Look at me darling! I tell you true,
There are some things you never can do.

St. Nicholas for December.

SOUTH MONAGHAN.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.—The Sons of Temperance, No. 221, was re-organised last Wednesday evening in the Temperance Hall, Centreville, when the following officers were elected:—John Lightfoot, W. P.; Robert Fair, W. A.; H. Lackey, Chaplain; W. A. Tate, Treasurer; Jno. Hartle, F. S.; R. A. Clegg, R. S.; J. L. Fair, A. R. S.; Geo. Bateson, Conductor; Alexander Lackey, A. C.; Geo. Stewart, O. S.; J. Tate, I. S.; Robert Lang, D. G. W.P.

OMEMEE.

PRESENTATION.—Rev D. W. McCamus was presented with an overcoat and an address, expressing the high esteem in which he was held by the young men. Mr. McCamus made a suitable reply.

L. O. L.—At the annual meeting of L. O. L. No. 113., on Tuesday night, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—Captain Cottingham, W. M.; Wm. Millar, D. M.; Rev. Jas. Norris, Chap.; John Redmond, Treas.; Dr. Norris, Sec.; Committee.—S. English, J. Kirpatrick, Chris. Lowes, John Kerr, and M. Lowes.

CAMPBELLFORD.

GRAND JUNCTION.—Operations on the Grand Junction are by no means at a standstill. Mr. Newman the subcontractor, was in the village at the Windsor Hotel, on Tuesday. His mission however, was not of a very important nature. He expressed his belief that the road would reach Campbellford by Saturday evening next, 7th inst.,

ROBBERY.—About $150 in clothes and watches were stolen from the residence of Mr. John Brickley by a late employee, last week. He escaped. —Herald.

YOUNG'S POINT.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The roads from here to Burleigh Bridge are in a shocking condition—not fit for man or beast to travel on—and a disgrace to the Township of Smith. A pity three or four of the councillors had not to travel over them daily, then probably they would be looked after. The electors of this section should put in councillors to look after their interests.

Messrs. Gordon & Holmes of Lakefield passed through here on Saturday last for a deer hunt—as they are crack-sportsmen no doubt they will be lucky in getting a few—the time for hunting will soon be over.

FENELON FALLS.

The Reading Room of the Mechanics' Institute is now open to members.

The tea-cent social at Mrs. Calders on Tuesday evening was a success. The proceeds were in aid of the Church of England organ fund.

The service in aid of the Methodist Building fund was liberally patronised.

The woods out north are said to be swarming with deer, and not a few are to be found within a short distance of the Falls, though it isn't every amateur sportsman who can shoot them.

A few days ago a little boy about two and a half years of age, son of Mr. Edward Chambers of Verulam, was standing on a chair, which tipped over backwards, and, falling on his right arm, a complicated fracture of the elbow joint was the result.

COBOURG.

SHIPMENT OF SHEEP.—On Thursday evening Mr. F. T. Winch left Cobourg with five hundred sheep, which he takes to Liverpool via New York. This is the first venture of the kind from this county, and we hope it will prove successful.

BURGLARY.—On Tuesday night a burglary was perpetrated on the store of F. W. Beebe. Jewellery and other goods to the value of about $100 were stolen, amongst other things the thieves took a prayer book with them,—very appropriate.

FIRE.—On Tuesday morning at about five o'clock, the house of James Agnew, was found to be on fire. The house and most of the furniture was burned. Insurance in the Western, and Hartford, $500.

LAKEFIELD.

Edge Walton has opened up a Library consisting of about one hundred volumes of the best published works.

During the week Willy Hill inflicted a wound in his eye with a brad awl. It is doubtless if he will ever have the use of it again.

MUTUAL IMPROVEMENT SOCIETY.—The first regular meeting of "The Mutual Improvement Society" in C. M. Church of this place, was held on the evening of Dec. 3rd, when the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—President, Rev. I. Weldon; Vice Presidents, Rev. W. J. West, J. R. Wrightman, and Wm. Harper; Secretary, J. M. Shannon; Assistant Secretary, S. Henderson; Treasurer, Geo. McIlmoyl; Executive Committee, Messrs. J. Birdsall, F. Grills, E. Sawtell, Miss Peterson, Miss Shorts, Miss Shannet, Miss Clarin, and Miss Coates, with power to add to their numbers if found necessary.—News.

POST HOPE.

The Port Hope Guide says that Mr. [illegible] Randall has been in correspondence for some time past with Messrs. Wheeler & Wilson, of Watertown, N.Y., with a view to the establishment, in the car factory buildings, Port Hope, of a business for the manufacture of all kinds of handles. The proposition was in town on Monday week inspecting the works, and expressed themselves as highly pleased with the place. The firm, should they come here, will employ from 50 to 100 hands. The Guide understands that the negotiations have been opened for the purchase of the factory; and thinks it will repay the citizens to make an effort and secure this industry.

DEATH FROM LOCK-JAW.—The Times states that a week ago Friday Mr. Thomas Hamley cut the forefinger of his right hand nearly off in the straw-cutter. The wound was dressed and was getting well, but on Thursday lock-jaw set in, and next morning the unfortunate man died.

LINDSAY.

DEATH ON THE RAILWAY.—Tuesday last Mr. James Clark, was returning home on the Midland track in company with his sister-in-law, Miss English. When in front of the Factory they met the noon train from the south, and Miss English stepped off, but Clark, who had been drinking, would not and he walked on, until he was close to the engine. Miss English rushed forward and catching hold of him attempted to pull him away, but she was to late; the engine struck him in the side and threw him some distance from the track. The injuries he received caused his death in twenty-four hours. The deceased was a laborer, about 45 years of age and was only married a short time ago. He leaves a widow but no children.

NEARLY A WOOD FAMINE.—Owing to the bad roads and the short supplies of last year, firewood is exceedingly scarce in Lindsay, and it is impossible to get good hardwood. A suggestion is made to Mr. Geo. A. Cox, President of the Midland, to have a few carloads left at the station to meet pressing wants, has been promptly and courteously met by that gentleman, and parties requiring wood can leave orders with Mr. Burton, Station master. This act on the part of Mr. Cox will, we have no doubt, be appreciated.

Mr. James S. Neelands, 'L. D. S., has settled in Ogdensburgh, instead of Napanee. Dr. Clements, from whom he purchased the Napanee business, had fitted up a handsome office in Ogdensburgh, but was so attched to Napanee that he repented of his change, and so arranged that he could keep his old office, and Mr. Neelands went to the 'burg.—Post.

Lindsay Town Council has resolved to memorialize the Local Legislature on the subject of amending the Municipal Act so far as regards ward representation. It is contended that one Councillor from each ward, with a Reeve and Deputy-Reeve and Mayor, are a sufficient number in themselves to effectively administer the affairs of a town and carry out the wishes of the ratepayers.

It is expected that the Midland Railway will be opened for traffic to Georgian Bay next spring. Only about three miles of road remains to be built.

NORWOOD.

RAILWAY MEETING.—At a meeting held at Norwood, with Mr. W. E. Roxburgh in the chair, for the consideration of the subject of their railway communications, the following resolutions were unanimously carried:—Moved by Mr. Sargeant, seconded by Mr. Grover,—That this meeting petition the County Council, at its next session, on the strength of the clause in the Grand Junction Railway by-law, as read at this meeting, and for other reasons, to take immediate action to have the line of the Grand Junction Railway located on the northern route running through the County of Peterborough from its eastern limits, as we believe it is the power of the County Council to procure this change under an Act of Parliament passed in 1876. Moved by Mr. Finlay, seconded by Mr. G. Robinson,—That a deputation, consisting of Messrs. W. E. Roxborough, J. B. Pearce, P. M. Grover, W. Sargeant, and T. M. Grover, be appointed to wait upon Mr. Bickford for the purpose of discussing with him the proposition now under consideration. Moved by Mr. Sargent, seconded by Mr. Jas. Greenbanks,—That Mr. Grover be instructed to draw up copies of petitions to be circulated in the Townships of Asphodel, Belmont and Dummer, to obtain sufficient names of the ratepayers of those municipalities, to present to the County Council to induce that body to adopt measures to effect the change in the route of the Grand Junction Railway in accordance with the wishes of this meeting.

The Philosophy of Newspaper Advertising.

"Hemit" the New York correspondent of the Troy Times, a close observer of things, in the latest letter, philosophically remarks:

"The autumn trade is now in full activity, and business men are now exerting every effort to improve the harvest. One method is the hand-bill system, by which the hotels are daily inundated. During the business season one boy after another will go the rounds, and in this way an attempt is made to obtain trade. Of these, however the greater part are wasted, since the waiter generally picks them up and throws them into the street, and the next day a fresh inundation takes place. Experience has clearly demonstrated that the most efficient method of advertising is found in the judicious use of the newspaper column. The ground on which newspaper advertising as a system, is now based, is human confidence, since we cannot avoid believing that which we constantly read. This confidence is sometimes absurd, but still it is evident that a good advertisement, if sufficiently repeated, will carry popular opinions. Men who advertise with the greatest persistency will eventually reach success. There is a military principle involved in this matter, since the article advertised should be pressed on the public by repeated assault. The converse views, which experience brings to us, is that advertising should be included in the estimate of expenses, as regularly as rent, coal, clerk hire, and insurance. It is often said a good stand at a high rent is worse than a poor one at low rent. What advertising brings a man before the public, and the [illegible] that [illegible] good. The two stand [illegible] and [illegible] paper."

SCHOOL BOARD.

Financial and Principal's Report—Appointment of Steam Heating Committee.

The Board held its regular monthly meeting at the central school, on Tuesday evening last.

Present,—The Chairman, Mr. Jas. Stevenson, and Messrs. Dennistoun, Edwards, Romaine, Loch, Ernett, Shaw, Edmison, Dumble, and Kincaid.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and passed.

An account from J. R. Stratton, amounting to $16.12 was referred to the Finance Committee.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From the Treasury Department, Ontario, enclosing cheque for $50, as a grant owing this Board.

From the Mechanics Institute, &c., closing copy of a resolution thanking the Board for their kindness in giving the use of a room for evening classes, and stating that it would not now be required.

From Miss Brooke, applying for the position of Teacher of the new room about to be formed.

From Miss. Ada Graham, applying for the same position.

These applications were on motion referred to the Committee on Appointments.

PRINCIPAL'S REPORT.

The report of the Principal on attendance at the schools for the past month, was read, a summary of which will be found below:—

	No. on Roll.	Av. Attend.

REPORT OF FINANCE COMMITTEE.

Mr. SHAW handed in the report of the Finance Committee, recommended the payment of the following accounts, which upon motion was read and adopted:—

Toker & Co	$7.40
Robertson & Co	2.40
Wilson & Davis	15.18

STEAM HEATING COMMITTEE.

Mr. ERRETT, as chairman of this committee, said that for the want of a quorum he was not in a position to make a final report. He laid before the Board the report of Mr. Robb, the local Government Inspector of steam boilers, of Toronto, with regard to the heating apparatus which had been placed in the buildings. The report stated that the boiler was perfectly safe, and the work, with the exception of a few details, had been very satisfactorily executed. The report also included suggestions as to the working of the furnace at the West Ward School, which would materially add to its efficiency. He also read a communication from Mr. Robb, stating that he was prepared to insure the system in the sum of $2,000 for one year at 1 per cent, and would inspect the same twice during each year. Seats for the new forms he added, had been secured at $3.16 each.

SABBATH SCHOOL NORMAL CLASS.

Mr. G. M. ROGER, addressed the Board on behalf of the Normal Sabbath School Class, asking the use of one of the rooms in which to hold the meetings of the class.

On motion the request was granted.

INSURANCE OF STEAM HEATING SYSTEM.

After an expression of opinion as to the advisability of having this matter attended to, it was moved by Mr. ERRETT seconded by Mr. ROMAINE,—That the Finance Committee be instructed to effect an insurance to the extent of $2000 in the Canadian Steam Users Insurance Company against damage to buildings, boiler, and fixtures.—Carried.

On motion steps were taken to have the boiler covered with some non-conducting material, and was referred to Heating Committee to be done under their supervision.

Mr. SHAW objected to any more expense being incurred this year.

Mr. DUMBLE and Mr. ROMAINE urged this matter being attended to on the ground of economy.

STATIONERY SUPPLIES.

Mr. SHAW called the attention of the Board to the consumption of stationery, which he thought very excessive. He was prepared to move that pupils be instructed to provide their own stationery for the future.

Mr. DENNISTOUN thought it was not judicious to make any change in existing arrangements at the close of the year. It would be well to leave this question for the consideration of the incoming Board, as any action the present Board might take would be subject to being rescinded. After some further discussion it was left over as a notice of motion.

The Board then adjourned.

DENTISTRY FOR HORSES.

A veterinary surgeon, writing to the Nebraska Farmer on this subject, says that a horse's teeth have much to do regarding his general condition, as well as his good driving qualities. Oftentimes you will see horses in poor flesh, hair looking bad, head hanging down, and you wonder why this should be so—you can give no particular reason for it. Pretty soon you will buy a paper of "condition powders," or perhaps something else, but you find but little good from them, if any; so you keep on trying something else, till the horse gets worse and worse all the time. Little do you dream that the horse's teeth need looking after. Horses suffer more from bad and diseased teeth than any other disease that you can name—old horses in particular. I have known them to die from actual starvation. The cause of so many horses becoming "pullers," "side lines," (i. e., driving on one rein) "tongue lollers," &c., is sharp teeth, and the same trouble causes many trotting and pacing horses to be unsteady in their gait, that would be reliable were it not from this cause. The Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, DEC. 12th, 1878.

Hon. Edward Blake as a Leader.

The proposal that Mr. Blake be asked to become leader of the party in the House of Commons, seems to meet with a good deal of favor from the Reform press; but it cannot be said that the subject has yet been fairly discussed. We do not think that had Mr. Blake been consulted beforehand, he would have willingly allowed the publication in his behalf; and we are firmly of opinion that when he is spoken to directly, as he no doubt will be after so much discussion, he will promptly decline the honor thus pressed upon him. It is rather a delicate thing to discuss a man's probable action without saying so much as "by your leave;" but so much has already been said upon this subject, that we may be excused for referring somewhat pointedly to him who is the innocent victim of an uninvited notoriety. To avoid odious comparisons, we shall merely remark upon some of the characteristics of Mr. Blake which bear strongly upon the question of the party leadership. It is not necessary either, to go deeper than a mention of one or two reasons, sufficient to justify our opinion that he will not accept the position with which his name has been somewhat officiously connected. It is scarcely fair to ask a man who has through ill health been forced to retire for a time from public life, and who has just returned from a recuperating tour, to take upon his shoulders the heavy duties sure to devolve on the Reform leader in the next Parliament. In short, Mr. Blake is not physically fit for the position sought to be imposed upon him; and he is altogether too good a man, and in a mere party point of view, too useful, to be driven to death by his friends. But were his restoration to complete health undoubted, it would not be well, either for himself or his party, that he should act as leader. We have only to direct attention to his leadership in the Ontario Legislature in proof of this, and to state that his very superiority made him an inferior man for the position. Oftentimes the rank and file could not understand him or his purposes, and he could not explain them. This placed a long distance between the head and the tail of the following, and caused a number of those party surprises which Reformers cannot and will not endure with the same meekness, the Tories bear every order of their leader, however incomprehensible. Such being the case, an acceptance of the yet heavier responsibilities of leader in the Commons would be actually suicidal, and those who propose such a thing evidently let their respect and reverence for the man get the better of their reason and affection. As for Mr. Blake's position in the party, he is a leader, and will be while he lives, his erudition and eloquence, his intelligence and integrity will always preserve him a place in the fore front of Reformers. He is to be firmly relied on as guide, philosopher and friend in danger or difficulty, but must not be hampered, badgered and murdered by the unceremonial details of the actual leadership.

EAST TORONTO.—Mr. John Leys is the Ministerial candidate and the Hon. Alex. Morris, the opposition candidate for the representation of this constituency in the Local House. Mr. W. H. Scott was present and spoke at the nomination of Mr. Morris.

The Local Tory organ says "the Liverpool market fixes the price of our grain." During the late election campaign we endeavored to persuade our contemporary of the fact, but he could not then see it; but now, that John A. cannot "meddle" Chamlis for the Canadians, he is endeavoring to let himself down light by degrees, to the fond-wished protectionists.

THE POLICE COURT ACCOUNTS

The Times of Saturday last has an article in which the Police Court accounts are referred to. It also contains a communication signed "Honesty," on the same subject. As appeared in last week's EXAMINER, the accounts referred to have been before the Council, and also before the Finance Committee, and have been referred to the Town Solicitors, with a view to arriving at the true state of the whole matter. While these are being investigated, and the Legal points involved discussed, we think it wisest and best to refrain from any comments concerning the the disputed items and the points set up. We are also of opinion that "Honesty" in the Times, should appear over his real name thereby assuming the responsibility of his assertions. If these are true, he has nothing to fear, and the ratepayers would be glad to acknowledge his services. If they have merely originated in his own mind, it would be as well that all should know it. There is no doubt in our mind but that the Police Magistrate has a perfect right to all fees accruing from cases originating outside of the town, as he is only remunerated by the Town for cases in which they who pay his salary are concerned. This much, perhaps, cannot be assumed in reference to the Town constable, unless it be conceded that the practice had always prevailed of allowing his predecessors to accept the fees pertaining to cases in which they had acted. If these things were usual and allowed to continue, this officer could reasonably claim the fees until restrained from doing so.

The reference to the number of cases in the Police Court if compared with any corresponding previous period, is not fair or honest, notwithstanding that it has been brought forward by "Honesty." The number of additional cases brought by constable McGhee, compared with the same period in past years, is indicative of his activity and watchfulness, rather than that there has been dishonest practices in the past. The Dunkin By-law too would account for a large number of cases that would not otherwise have been before the Police Magistrate. It has caused an increase that could not honestly allow us to draw the conclusion that the Police Magistrate and constables had been all along in clover, pocketing the fees or costs of an equal number of cases, instead of paying those over to the Town Treasurer. The services of Mr. McDonald in collecting the fines and costs, have also secured a larger revenue. But it is well known that in past years the councillors not unfrequently voted the refund of costs. Did they not also ward of collection of fines, and in other ways interfere with the Police Court, until public opinion put an end to the intermeddling of the council. All these things ought now to be taken into consideration in discussing these accounts. The duty of the Police Magistrate in collecting fines and costs ended when he issued his warrant for the purpose, and he could not reasonably be held responsible for sums that never were collected, unless he neglected to issue a warrant in such cases. It is sought to convey the idea that the Police Magistrate has retained moneys that he should have paid to the Town. If this can be shown, by all means make him pay it over yet, and as soon as we are satisfied that he has not paid over all that he legally should have paid, we will demand that our representatives compel him, if he be unwilling. But until we know that he has retained money, and also know the amount thereof, we think it only fair and right to consider him innocent until proved guilty. We therefore await the opinion of the Town Solicitors before charging him with omission, neglect, or default.

Peterborough, Belleville and their Railway Projects.

Noticing the EXAMINER's proposition for a commencement practically of the Toronto and Ottawa Railway, by the construction of a part of the line from this town, the Belleville Intelligencer does not fail to put in a good word for the Grand Junction scheme. It 'suggests' that the granting of a bonus to the latter line "is a far easier way by which Peterborough can procure the desired eastern connection." Now, the eastern connection desired by Peterborough is not particularly with Belleville, though we can readily understand why Belleville should desire connection with Peterborough,—and that too so greatly that the desire will yet be attained, in spite of all difficulties. The eastern connection that Peterborough desires is with Ottawa, and that desire too is so strong that it will be satisfied some day or other. The object of both Peterborough and Belleville can, we think, be more readily attained by a union of interests in the building of a piece of road that will keep both. In that way only can Belleville hope to get assistance from this town, any more than Peterborough expects a bonus from Belleville for the Toronto and Ottawa road. Such being the case, why not meet on a mutual platform of reciprocity? It will suit all parties better that the Grand Junction be built farther east than this town, instead of coming directly in contact with competing lines. Its promoters and its subsequent operators can get more from municipalities in Peterborough County, and more from the Province if they build toward and into the territory now without a railway lying east or north of this. Such a line once built, connection with this town is certain, and that two without the Grand Junction Company spending a cent in securing it, unless voluntarily. Peterborough must and will have a railway eastward; Belleville must and will have one westward, it is folly therefore in either to encourage the building of more road than is necessary. Part of the Toronto and Ottawa Railway built, as we formerly suggested either west or east of this town, or both, would secure inlets by already existing lines in our direction, and by the projected lines from Belleville, whereby material and stock could be readily laid down for further extension. While we thus admit an advantage to Peterborough in the Grand Junction road, it is merely one of secondary importance. If the Intelligencer will but look at the Toronto and Ottawa project as a trunk line, and the Grand Junction as an auxiliary one, it will not fail to see the philosophy of our scheme of railway construction.

Farmers who voted for protection would do well to remember that while they are getting only $3 to $4 for their pork, American pork, which John A. promised to shut out by a high tariff, is being imported by the car load, yet Sir John folds his arms at Ottawa and draws his salary, and the Editor of the Review says, the change cannot take place for 4 years.

TILLEY'S LOAN.

The new Canadian loan which Mr. Tilley, accompanied by Sir A. T. Galt, went home to negotiate, was placed upon the market on Tuesday last by Baring Bros. and Glyns, Mills & Company. The total amount is £3,000,000 in the shape of four per cent. bonds, bearing interest from the first of October last, and half of the bonds are guaranteed by the Imperial Government, tenderers having to bid one price for guaranteed or unguaranteed, and accept half of each. The minimum price fixed is ninety-six and a half per cent. and the loan is redeemable in 1913. For the unguaranteed portion, the Dominion Government is to provide by a sinking fund of not less than half per cent. per annum six per cent. bonds maturing in January next, which will be taken in lieu of cash in exchange for new bonds. A little more than half the loan is to be employed in reducing six per cents., which, comments the Times, by the saving in interest effected thereby is calculated to increase the burden of the Dominion to but £27,000. After nearly one week had elapsed since the loan had been placed in the market, the following news comes to us by cable of December 7th :—

"The new four per cent. Canadian loan of £3,000,000 was tendered for yesterday. Of this sum £1,619,000 were alloted at an average of £96 12s 6d."

The London Times, in an editorial, suggests that should the loan not be all readily tendered for, the Canadian Banks, under advances to the Government, might hold over the bonds till a more favorable opportunity. It will thus be seen that the new Canadian loan has not been as successful as was expected. Only £1,619,000 has been tendered for out of the £3,000,000. The failure in in the contraction of the loan is partly owing to rumors of financial difficulties, and partly to the fact that instalments of Egyptian loans and the Treasury bills tendered for last week had to be paid on the same day. Money was consequently very scarce. The portion of the loan untendered for represents nearly the whole of the new money the Canadian Government expected to get by the loan; the remainder is required for the redemption of maturing six per cent. bonds.

Since the above was put in type, we learn by cable that the balance of the loan was allotted on Monday at 96¼. In other words, the unguaranteed one-half was made at 85 per cent., while Mr. Cartwright floated his loan at 91 per cent.

The Afghan Campaign.

The present trouble between Britain and the Ameer of Afghanistan—for it is with him and not with his people—is doubtless the result of Russian intrigue It is not at all likely that after the cordial and even ostentatious reception of a Russian embassy that the Afghan ruler would, without hope of outside assistance, brave the displeasure of so strong a power as Britain, by refusing to an embassy of that Government so much as admission to his territory. The insult to the British deputation could not be overlooked after it had occurred; though it might have been explained away on the ground of the Ameer's misapprehension of the intentions of the small escort of soldiers sent with the ambassador of the Queen, or rather the Empress of India. But when a defiant answer was sent to a request for an explanation, there was nothing to do but to accept the former proceeding as part of the defi, and an open announcement of hostility. Whatever may be the strength of the Ameer's position in the premises that Britain had no right to assume hostile intention on his part in his intercourse with Russia, a power at peace with Britain, his discourteous refusal of intercourse or communication with the British representative and his insolence in the face of the world is wholly indefensible on any supposition of a desire on his part to avoid a rupture with Britain. Yet it would seem from his lack of preparation to meet an evasion, that he did not expect it, unless, indeed, he relied on help from Russia. It is also probable that the little opposition to the British advance so far is partly owing to the Ameer's unpopularity with the outlying tribes in his own territory, and their full belief in the British proclamation that the intention is not against Afghanistan, but simply against its ruler. Whether this feeling among the Afghans would last after a wider occupation of their country by a foreign force is problematical. Judging from past history it likely would not. Be this as it may the Ameer just now finds himself in a weak position. The British advance on him has been comparatively without opposition, and if he ever expected Russian aid he sees now the folly of his expectation. He has sent two answers to the British ultimatum, very different in their tone, one being almost submissive, and the other non-committal. This may be a ruse to gain time, but if so it is futile, the British being determined to advance as fast as prudent, until an unquestionable understanding is arrived at. Meantime the Ameer has sent his family into Russian territory, as if to guard against internal conspiracy, for there is as yet no danger to them from the invading forces.

It is said that the American National Board of Trade, which met at Washington on the 11th inst., will assume a position of hostility to trade with Canada, and in the event of the adoption of Sir John Macdonald's "National Policy," will probably ask Congress to place a prohibitory duty on Canadian lumber and other produce.

Railway Meetings in Norwood.

To the Editor of the Peterboro' Examiner :—

DEAR SIR :—You will be pleased to find that the village of Norwood is waking up to enforced interests. Wm. Sargent, Esq., has been the means of arousing the talent and energies of the Villagers, as well as of throwing some light on the subject. He has held two meetings in the village. The first was almost a failure, but Mr. Sargent is not the man to be discouraged, although a few with politics on the brain failed to discourage the movement. He called the second meeting, and it proved a great success. The weather was rather unfavorable, yet the attendance was large.

Mr. Sargent proposes to get up petitions from the municipalities of Belmont, Dummer and Asphodel, to the County Council, requesting that body to try and get the Directors of the Grand Junction Railway to change the route of that road, so as to enter the county at the "narrows" and then proceed directly to Peterboro. Mr. Editor, something requires to be done, and that immediately. The county of Hastings has its railway extending North East of our County, and Victoria has its Haliburton Railway North West of us, and thus is our trade cut off through the indifference of our leading men, or interested parties. If Mr. Sargent's ideas can be carried out, we may get a road through Peterborough County, and then your town should awake to the neccessity for a road northward. Why should our wealthy town be behind in these matters?

Yours &c.,

HARVEY RAILWAY.

To the Editor of the Examiner :—

SIR,—I was not all surprised to see in the Bobcaygeon Independent, an article from the pen of Mr. W. Blewett, with regard to the Railway by-law in Harvey being defeated. He must have been defeated too, or he would have seen the bonfire, heard the cheering, and also the guns that were fired. We had a fine time of it when the news arrived. We were better pleased even than the Peterborough's as Mr. Blewett refers to. I live in the neighborhood of the townhall, and was an eye-witness to all I have stated. He says he is really at a loss to know why the people of Peterboro' are so anxious about the welfare of Harvey, and so desirous that we should not get a market nearer than Peterboro'? My answer to this is, the railway comes to Bobcaygeon only, or a few paces into the township, and we have no connection with it. They refused to sign our bond for a ferry to connect us. Mr. Blewett is desirous of a nearer market. Suppose the railway built, does any sane man think that he would sell his grain at Bobcaygeon? No, he is anxious to get the highest price, and would not loose five cents on the bushel for a nearer market. Peterboro' knows all these things, and is not blind to our interests. She knows also that the bonus was open daylight robbery, and would have resulted in bringing the township to ruin, just like the township of Summerville—leave the mortgaged lands and flee to Yanketown, or some parts unknown—I say, we the people of Harvey, are part and parcel of the County town, and have our interest in the welfare of the County. Mr. B. seems to think that we will have to do a long time without a railway, without paying for it, I say let us never have a railway on the Bobcaygeon conditions, paying away money for them to build up a nice town at the expense of losing our farms. Mr. B. also states that if the people of Peterboro' were to build a railway to Bobcaygeon, they would want a larger bonus than the last one voted. I say that would just depend on the nearness it came to us, what we would likely give. South Harvey, or rather East Harvey, does contain more than one-half of the ratepayers, and is no mistake. He also states that we do not pay two-thirds of the taxes in this section, as was stated in the Review, but we do. He wishes that some of the Peterboroites would come up and see where we are. I say we are in Harvey, and going on with the hard times, building stone walls, draining, and improving our homesteads, at a rate that would surprise our towns people. I say come up and see us how we are before we clear the stumps out of the fields, and before we build the bridge at Gannons. We are going to do it with your help, and its your right to see us how we are before you spend a cent on us. You will see as good land here as in the County, worthy of two bridges instead of one. Not wishing, Mr. Editor, to trespass on your space, I will next week with your permission, take up the question of bridges.

Yours, &c.,
DAVID BRODIE Sen.

NORMAL TEACHER'S.

To the Editor of the Examiner :—

SIR,—You had a correspondent last week—an educational correspondent—a Toronto correspondent. I should not have thought of noticing his effusion, had he not represented me as uttering opinions which I did not utter, and do not entertain. He introduces himself thus :—"I have been creditably informed that &c." His use of the word "creditably" in such a connection is not as all creditable to one who professes acquaintance with the opinions of "the most advanced educationists of Europe and America." He goes on to state that I "announced myself so far advanced (?) in my ideas as to have arrived at the conclusion that our educational system is a failure." I never announced myself as having arrived at any such conclusions. He further states that I "have discovered that in no case has a Toronto Model School trained Teacher ever distinguished himself in any profession." I never stated anything of the kind, nor did I make, on the occasion referred to, any allusion to teachers trained in the Model School. What I did say was in substance as follows :—"The Model School at Toronto has been in existence for thirty years. It has had the best material to operate upon, and that in abundance. Yet, so far as I am aware, no distinguished clergyman, lawyer, physician, statesman, or teacher, received his boyish education in that institution. Hence, it cannot be considered a success. Hence also, the fact that a certain course of procedure is in existence there, does not in itself constitute a reason why such course of procedure should be adopted by the teaching profession generally." The facts I believe to be indisputable, and the reasoning sound. He still further states by implication that I consider it a crime that men should be young, imbued with the spirit of the times and the love of progress characteristic of our age, and successful in the teacher's calling. To such men—I am happy to say their number is increasing—I have ever given all the countenance, encouragement, and support in my power, and of such, I believe, I possess the confidence and esteem.

Your correspondent has kindly referred to me as a "dark complexioned individual; a man, aping to rank among educationists; this important personage; Educational prodigy of the nineteenth century; old fashioned; Inspector at a game of bluff; our little man; ancient little man." "A dark complexioned individual." Yes, I am dark complexioned. He surely wouldn't have me without a complexion. "A man, aping to rank among educationists." No, not aping to rank among educationists. I do so rank. The aping is done by another. "This important personage." To my wife and children I am a very important personage indeed. "Educational prodigy of the nineteenth century." I belong to that century as yet, but am not aware of being a prodigy. "Old fashioned." Yes, the fashion has been in existence about six thousand years. "Inspector, at a game of bluff." I never play bluff. It is not within the circle of my accomplishments. "Our little man." I know of no right of possession which your correspondent and his associates have in me. "Ancient." If he is not as old as I, it is to be hoped that when he is, he will not have any less sense than he has at present. "Little." Well God me big enough. "Thus." Yes, I rejoice in being a man.

The latter, although not long, affords ample scope for a lengthened dissertation. Reference might be made to its manhood and manliness, its elegant diction, its grammatical construction, its brilliant wit, and its exhibition of good breeding, gentlemanly instincts, refined taste, and benevolent intentions manifested by its author. But my time and your space forbid. He styles himself "Normal." Allow me in conclusion to give his name in full. Ab Normal. Ab may be considered a contraction for Abelard, a young man more conceited than wise, who rashly took up arms against his father.

I have the honour to be Sir,
Your Obedient Servant,
JAMES COYLE BROWN.

Peterboro', Dec. 10th, 1878.

The Mayoralty.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

DEAR SIR,—As there appears to be some misapprehension in reference to my candidature for the Mayoralty, for the coming year, I beg to say to my friends and the ratepayers generally, that my intention as announced at the commencement of the year, remains unchanged, and beg to return my very sincere thanks to the electors for the many expressions of their confidence which I have enjoyed, and desire to express a hope that my successor will enjoy a similar measure of their confidence for an equal length of time, and that he will perform the important duties pertaining to that exalted position with the same disinterestedness, and with the same advantage to the town that I have done, more especially with respect to his expectation of a salary or a bonus.

I remain Gentlemen,
Yours Respectfully,
WILLIAM TOOLE.

Peterboro', 11th Dec'r., 1878.

HARVEY.

COUNCIL MEETING.—The Harvey Council met at the Clerk's office, Nov. 30th. Members all present. Minutes read and confirmed. Communications and accounts read: From Wm. Wood, for attending to appeal against bonus by-law; from John Carnegie, concerning taxes, on certain Non-Resident lands; James Dickson, P. L. S.; W. H. Platt, accepting the compensation tendered in lieu of the forced road across lot 20, con. 17; Mr. Patrick Lavery made verbal application to have the public highway changed and straightened on lot 21, con. 16; Accounts :—From J. R. Stratton, for printing; J. H. Thompson, for blanks and stationery; C. E. Stewart, advertising bonus by-laws; Jas. Elliott, Pathmaster, account, shewing items how the grant on the new road was expended by him. On motion orders on the Treasurer were drawn to pay the sums due for contracts on roads, certified by Commissioners Brodie and Crow to have been completed, several accounts were also ordered to be paid.

THE AFGHAN WAR.

On the second instant, Gen Roberts gained a complete victory over the Ameer's forces, capturing Peiwar Khotal, and also all the Afghan cannon. The enemy's loss is heavy. The British loss is 80 killed and wounded.

General Roberts telegraphed from Peiwar Khotal as follows;—"During the night of December, 1st the Afghan position was turned by a flank march over the Spengwai Pass. We surprised the enemy at daybreak on the 2nd inst., when the 72nd Highlanders and the 5th Goork has gallantly drove the Afghans from their several positions. They afterwards endeavoured to reach Peiwar Khotal; but an assault could not be delivered on that side. We then threatened the enemy in the rear, and attacked and carried Peiwar Khotal about four o'clock in the afternoon. The enemy had on the previous evening received reinforcements of four regiments. They fought desperately, and their artillery was well served. The defeat however, was complete. We captured eighteen guns and a large quantity of ammunition.

A detailed report of the fighting in the Peiwar Pass shows that the Afghans, who were posted in some pine woods, resisted Gen Roberts' second movement on Peiwar Khotal most obstinately. Sometimes they even assumed the offensive, hard pressing the most advanced troops until reinforcements came up. Not a single body of Afghans remained unbroken at the end of the day.

The reply of the Ameer to the Viscroy's ultimatum has been received by the Indian Government. It is dated the 19th of November, but not having reached Daka before the 30th of that month, it is believed to have been re-written after the receipt of the news of the capture of Ali Musjid the following is the full text of the reply.—The Ameer says :—"With regard to the expressions used by your Excellency, referring to the friendly character of the Mission, and the good will of the British Government, I leave to your Excellency to decide whether any reliance can be placed upon the good will evidenced by words only; but if, on the other hand, good will really consists of deeds, then it has not been manifested by the various wishes expressed and the proposals made by the British officials during the last few years to the officials of this God-granted Government—proposals which from their nature it was impossible for them to comply with." The Ameer instances the British demand for the release of his imprisoned son Yakoob Khan as a condition of British friendship, and asserts :—"There are several other grounds of complaint which contain no evidence of good will, but which were effective in increasing the aversion and apprehension already entertained by the subjects of this God-granted government." The Ameer also says :—"I assume Your Excellency that the officials of this God-granted Government, in repulsing the Mission, were not influenced by any hostile or inimical feelings towards the British Government, nor did they intend that any insult or affront should be offered; but they were afraid that the independence of this Government might be affected by the arrival of the Mission, and that the friendship which has now existed between the two Governments for several years might be annihilated." The Ameer states that the paragraph in the Viceroy's letter saying that the Ameer would be held responsible for any injury that might befall the tribes who acted as guides to the Mission, justified the apprehensions of the people of Afghanistan. Had the object of the Mission been really friendly, and had no force or threats of violence been used, the Mission would, as a matter of course, been allowed free passage. The Ameer declares that his Government cherishes no hostility toward the British Government, and says :—"If the British Government should desire to send a purely friendly and temporary Mission to this country with a small escort, not exceeding twenty or thirty members, similar to that which attended the Russian Mission, this servant of God will not oppose its progress." The messenger conveying this despatch, however, by some delay, only arrived at Ali Musjid when that stronghold was under the attack of the British troops. The Ameer though displaying anger at this failure of his intentions, despatched a second letter to the Viceroy, which is said to be defiant in tone and destructive of his prospects of peace. Shere Ali has fled from Cabul into Turkestan, and the British troops are contemplating an advance on Jellalabad and Candahar.

A Lahore correspondent telegraphs :—"The influence of the Ameer's second letter has become immediately apparent in the enlargement of the scope of operations. Gen. Browne's advance on Jelalabad only awaits supplies, and Gen. Biddulph pushes on through the Khojak Pass to Candahar."

Gen. Roberts will probably winter on the heights of the Peiwar Pass. His victory detaches 20,000 non-orthodox Mussulmans from the Ameer's authority. According to private information, these Mussulmans are already sending levies into the British camp. It is reported that the Khanel Cabul tribes are only kept from deserting the Ameer by the presence of troops. Two Europeans were seen among the defenders of Peiwar. The Afghan General has promoted himself at Peiwar.

The Derby News (Liberal organ) says :—"Its words would be too grave for condemn the lack of principle, the want of a sense of moral responsibility, with which the Government have launched this country into this war. The country will be responsible for it, as a country always is responsible for the conduct of an unprincipled and unscrupulous government".

A New Floor.—Messrs. Ormond & Walsh have had during the past week, a new oak floor laid down in their dining room. It makes a very handsome floor—being oiled and polished.

Mesmerism.—The world-renowned wizard, Macalister, will give entertainments in Bradburn's Hall on Friday and Saturday evenings. For particulars see posters and programmes.

Arbitrators Award.—In the arbitration between W. A. Silverwood and W. Aldridge the arbitrators, D. Carlisle and J. Sawdye, have their award that Silverwood did not owe more than the $40 paid into Court.

Winter Rem.—To keep ice from windows, take a sponge or ordinary paint brush and rub over the glass once or twice with a litticold alcohol; this not only keeps the panes free of ice, but gives the room a fine polish.

The Town Clock.—Our town officials should see that the necessary repairs are at once made on the town clock. It is a pity that it should be allowed to be injured by exposure to the weather when a slight outlay would prevent it.

Soiree.—A soiree under the auspices of Selwyn Temple, will be held in their Hall, Selwyn, on Christmas Day. A similar entertainment under the auspices of Nassau Temple will be held on New Year's Day, in their Hall, at Nassau.

Postal Regulation.—It may not be generally known that letters containing coin of any kind are not allowed to go out of the Dominion. Letters containing coin, addressed to foreign parts, are invariably sent to the Dead Letter Office and returned to the writer. The knowledge of this fact may save trouble.

The Poultry Association.—At the meeting of the Poultry Association held on Thursday evening last the Treasurer's report was adopted. It was also decided to hold the annual exhibition of the Society on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, 18th, 19th and 20th of February next. The meeting then adjourned for two weeks.

Peterborough Lodge A. F. and A. M.—At the regular communication of the above Lodge, held on Friday evening, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—Daniel Beldegham, W. M.; Wm. Toole, S. W.; Henry Grandy, J. W.; John Elder, Chaplain; James Boulter, Secretary; William Menzies (re-elected) Treasurer.

The Weather.—Jack Frost has at last asserted his authority, and the streets are now frozen hard and dry, which is a decided improvement on the miserable weather of the past two or three weeks. Dealers in furs are now beginning to hope for a renewal in their business, which has been very flat during last winter and so far in this season.

False Alarm.—On Sunday evening, Mr. I. F. Carpenter by throwing a quantity of dry brush on the fire place of his residence on Hunter street, caused an illumination of the building. Thinking the place was on fire, an alarm was sounded, but before the engine was removed, it was discovered. There was no cause for the alarm.

Carmelite Lodge A. F. and A. M.—At the regular communication of the above Lodge held on Wednesday ev'g, the following officers were elected for the ensuing Masonic year:—R. M. D. Hall, W. M.; R. A. Morrow, S. W.; W. A. King, J. W.; R. R. Wood, Sec'y; D. G. Hazen, Treasurer; Rev. V. Clement, Chaplain; Thos. D. Belcher, Tyler.

Surveying the Fairport.—Almost weekly we notice in some of our exchanges the totals returned to by sharpers in order to swindle the farmers, and strange to say they meet with comparative success. As we have frequently remarked heretofore, the only safe course is to purchase from those whom you know to be both honorable and responsible.

Returned Home.—Joshua Miller, Esq., Reeve of Otonabee, and President of Mr. Andrew's Society, returned home on Friday last from Ottawa, where he had been in attendance at the reception of the Marquis and Marchioness of Lorne. Mr. Miller speaks in the most favorable terms of our new Governor-General, and of the very handsome manner in which the delegates were received.

Collegiate Institute.—High School Inspector Hunting visited and examined the different departments of the Collegiate Institute on Monday, and expressed himself pleased with the state of the School. We understand that he spoke in flattering terms of the work done in classics and in modern language, as well as of the general proficiency in these subjects taught in the High or Upper School.

The Man that are Wanted.—Says an exchange: In selecting men for the council the electors should give their support to such men as have given evidence of their economy, and of their desire to practice such a thing, at the same time promising a judicious use of the money that is to be expended. Business men are wanted in the council, men capable and willing to husband the public finances.

A Good Chance.—Persons who desire to secure Christmas presents at a nominal value, should visit the store of Mr. J. B. Ormond, where they will find a magnificent assortment of everything in his line of business, together with a nice selection of general fancy goods suitable for the approaching holiday season. It will be to the interest of intending present bestowers to drop in and see the bargains offered.

True Blues.—At the regular monthly meeting of McWilliams' No Surrender Lodge No. 55, True Blues, held in the O. F. B. Hall, on Monday evening last, the following members were elected office-bearers for the ensuing year:—Wm. Mills, W. M.; R. J. Gray, D. M.; Wm. Lamain, Chap.; R. Clegg, Sec'y; M. Jameson, Treas.; J. Chrow, D. of C.; Committee—F. Ware, Wm. Lamain, Wm. Butler, Geo. Britton and H. Gray.

Mechanic's Institute.—The Library of the Peterborough Mechanic's Institute now numbers 5,000 volumes. The books have been all well selected, and the reading community cannot but appreciate the efforts of the Directors to place our Institute in the front ranks of such institutions in the Dominion. The gentleman in charge of the books is courteous, and obliging, and deserves the encomiums passed upon him by frequenters.

Young Canadians' L. O. L.—At the regular monthly meeting of this Lodge held on Tuesday evening last, the following were elected officers for the ensuing year:—W. Thompson, W. M.; W. McElwain, D. M.; Alex. Miller, Chaplain; Jos. Hall, Treasurer; W. Strain, Secretary; S. Jamieson, Financial Secretary; Thos. Johnston, D. of C.; W. Record, I. T.; Committee—A. Rutherford, W. Rain, G. Keele, R. Lillico and R. Stewart.

Committed.—George Henry Root, who was implicated in the burglary at Fairweather's, Rush & Elliott's and Dolan's about two years ago, but who left at the time for the States, returned to town on Saturday last, and was arrested by Constable McGhee. He was brought before the Police Magistrate on Monday and found guilty. Pleading a first offence he was sentenced to imprisonment in the County Jail for six months.

Catholic Literary and Benefical Association.—At the regular monthly meeting of the Catholic Literary and Benefical Association, (Incorporated) held in their hall on Tuesday evening, the 3rd December, the following corps of officers were elected for the year 1879:—Jas. Donlan, President; Joseph Griffin, Vice-President; Dr. Hourigan, Secretary; T. B. McGraw, Treasurer; J. Carbery, Librarian; W. J. Devlin, Sergeant-at-Arms.

Raffled.—The Peterborough correspondent of the Bobcaygeon Independent says:—

"A controversy between Mr. Bell, the Presbyterian, and the celebrated R. A. has been amusing. R. A. got his plumage considerably ruffled, and backed out by saying 'I abstain from any expression of my position.' The sentence is likely to become proverbial in Peterborough."

We object to referring thus to a litterateur of "R. A.'s" abilities. Beware Emily!

Clothing for the Holidays.—We direct attention to Mr. H. LeBrun's advertisement in another column, announcing extra bargains in clothing for Christmas and New Year's. He has laid in a very large stock of cloths, especially for the holiday trade, which will be made up at such low figures that cannot but induce greater room seeking customers to leave their orders by all means buy yourself a holiday present, and we know of none more suitable than a suit from LeBrun.

L. O. L. No. 69.—The regular monthly meeting of the above Lodge was held in the Orange Hall, Peterborough, on Thursday evening, December 5th, when the following officers were duly elected for the ensuing year:—Bro. Robert Wark, W. M.; Bro. Geo. Whitby, D. M.; Bro. Henderson Nesbitt, Treas.; Bro. John Mawby, Sec'y; Bro. Isaac Dormer, D. of C.; Bro. John Dormer, Chaplain; Committee—Bros. Wm. Robinson, Alex. Fausitt, Chas. Crouch, J. G. Weir and Wm. Menlos.

The Dunkin Bill.—The vote to repeal the Dunkin By-law was taken on Monday and closed on Tuesday at eleven o'clock a. m. 172 votes were polled for the repeal and 5 against it. Of these five, three were by mistake polled nay by Anti-Dunkinites, who imagined you meant for the Dunkin By-law. The small vote polled shows how little interest was taken in the matter by the temperance people. This of course was for the reasons, we suppose, assigned by their committee in a late summary of the EXAMINER.

Methodist Missionary Society.—We learn by the annual report that the Peterborough District contributed the sum $2414.29 to the funds of the Missionary Society of the Methodist Church of Canada, made up as follows:—Peterborough, $347.41; Millbrook, $453.75; South Monaghan, $139.51; Keene, $233.35; Norwood, $232.46; Lakefield, $208.9; Mud Lake, $11.78; Hiawatha, $61.75; Bethany, $147.87; Ballyduff, $135.13; Warsaw, $65.32; Blairton, $35.09; and Chandos, $36.3. The Lindsay District contributed $1668.69, and the Cobourg District $2393.63.

Political Chart.—We have been shown Robin's Political Chart of Canada, which is designed to show at a glance the political representation of each constituency of the Dominion after the two last general elections by distinguishing colors, and by this way the extent of the change in sentiment throughout Canada. There is also appended a list of members, with the population and number of votes in each constituency, making it altogether a most useful and convenient chart for reference. Mr. W. Gilbert is the agent for Peterborough, and the price is only $1.50.

For Teachers.—The following circular has lately been issued to Public School Inspectors by the Minister of Education:—As there may be cases in which candidates for 2nd class certificates have successfully passed the non-professional examination, and were holders of 3rd class certificates, such certificates will be extended upon the recommendation of the Inspector for the period of one year, so as to enable the holders to attend the requisite session in the Normal School, and in the meantime to possess the status of the holder of a third class certificate.

The Harvest of the Shops.—More extensive purchases will be made this year, than for several years past, by dealers who make a specialty of holiday goods and the tempting articles to be offered to draw the money out of the tightest purses. It is the business experience of the most active dealers that the larger the preparation the larger the sales. Let merchants not overlook the fact that it is of prime importance to properly advertise their goods, in advance of the holidays, if they would be sure of realizing anything like what they expect from the busiest season of the year.

Guardian Canon.—A late English paper says:—"Several Canadian canons, of a light and elegant build, have recently arrived on the Windsor district for use upon the rectors of the Upper Thames. Two of these reached Windsor by South-Western train from Nine Elms, and were conveyed to Lord Otho Fitzgerald, of Oakley Court, and Mr. T. Brocklebank, of the Willows, Surly Hall, both residences being situated on the Berks shores of the Thames, between Windsor and Maidenhead. The canons are of varnished pine, and furnished with paddles made in the Indian style. They were manufactured at Peterborough, Ontario."

Worth Considering.—The plan described in the following item is worth considering:—"The committee appointed by the Nuisance Town Council have secured and fitted up a poorhouse for the benefit of the poor in town not able to earn their own livelihood. A caretaker has been appointed to take charge of the institution. A Caribbean has been opened in opposition with the building for those able to work. The necessity of the poor dealers they will earn their own living rather than enter the poorhouse. [illegible] paid on block at $1,200 per year for the support of the poor, while under the present system the tax will be reduced."

Law Society of Peterborough.—At the meeting which was called to elect officers, and attend a meeting of the members of the Legal profession in Toronto, on the 28th instant, Mr. Jas. F. Donnelly, Q.C., and Mr Dunkin were appointed to attend same, and a committee was named to draft instruction for their guidance, as to the proposed amendment in the practice of the Superior Courts of Law and Equity, to be brought before this meeting, which is to also embody in considering the proposed measure in the jurisdiction of the Division Courts. The meeting was then adjourned until Friday, the 20th instant, at the same time and place, at which the committee will make their report.

The Curling Club.—A meeting of the Peterborough Curling and Skating Rink Company was held in the Police Court Room, on Monday evening. F. Donnelly, Esq., was elected President, and Messrs. R. N. Reddy, R. S. Davidson, W. G. Ferguson and Wm. Menzies, Directors. The by-laws, as submitted, were approved of, and the first Tuesday in October was fixed for the holding of the Annual Meeting. The meeting separated after passing a vote of thanks to the Council for the use of the Room. We are glad to learn that the first call on the stock subscribed of fifty per cent. has been heavily responded to. The Rink is expected to be completed about the 25th.

A Contemptible Act.—On Wednesday or Saturday of last week, a respectable looking female took to Messrs. Walker Patterson & Son's Tannery, of this town, a quantity of tallow for sale—about 60 pounds. It consisted of a number of cakes, and to all appearance the tallow was very clean and good, but when they came to test it, they found that a well arranged swindle had been perpetrated upon them, for all the cakes were masses of dark, almost black refuse, with a thin coating of good tallow not exceeding a quarter of an inch in thickness. The whole is a mass of worthless rubbish of which no use whatever can be made. Messrs. Patersons are endeavoring to discover the unscrupulous party who committed this fraud, and are determined to make an example of her should they succeed, which they believe they will be able to do.

Reading Room in Ashburnham.—As announced in last week's EXAMINER, a preliminary meeting to discuss the advisability of establishing a reading room in the village of Ashburnham, was held in the Town Hall, on Thursday evening last. There was considerable interest manifested in the proposed scheme by those present. Mr. G. C. Rogers occupied the chair. The Revds. John Burnham, Esq., and the Rev. W. C. Bradshaw made a few remarks, expressing themselves favourable to the scheme. They thought that something of the kind should be done to—if possible—encourage the young men of the village from off the street. The following committee was appointed to take the matter in hand: Messrs. McWilliams, Adams, Phillips, Dobbin, Retherford and Rogers. It is the intention of the committee to report at a future meeting as soon as a feasible way of management has been arranged for.

Personal.—Mr. J. C. Fitzgerald of this town, and late of Rochester, has taken up his abode in Charleston, S. C. Before leaving Rochester he was entertained in the usual style by his friends. We find the following in the Rochester N. Y. Herald:—"Friday morning J. C. Fitzgerald, lately connected with Kent's and Furman's photograph establishments of this city, sailed from New York for Charleston, S. C., where he proposes to make his future home, having made a business engagement with Mr. G. N. Barnard, photographer, of that city. Mr. Fitzgerald came here from Peterborough, Ont., a few years ago, and by his strict attention to business, his gentlemanly bearing and genial nature, has gained an extensive acquaintance and large circle of friends, who deeply regret his departure from our midst, yet hope that good fortune may attend his future in the "Sunny South." A large number of friends assembled at the depot to wish him "God speed."

St. John's Bazaar.—The bazaar in aid of the funds of St. John's Church Sunday School building opened yesterday, in Bradburn's Hall. Although the weather was very unfavorable, quite a large number attended during the afternoon. The articles on exhibition are more than usually handsome and attractive, and are greatly admired by all visiting the hall, while the prices asked for them are very moderate indeed. While it would be invidious for us to particularise or enumerate the several articles, we cannot refrain from mentioning as exceedingly worthy of notice, a piece of wax work by Mrs. Kempt, an elegant smoking table given by Miss Charlotte Burnham, and a water color painting of Idyl Wild by Rev. V. Clement. The refreshment tables, set out with a most tempting bill of fare, are presided over by Mrs. Snyder, Mrs. Charles Perry, Mrs. Durand, and Mrs. Hatton, assisted by Mrs. M. Dunsford, the Misses Burnett, Miss Gilchrist, Miss Ella Campbell and Miss Ulyott. The fancy work tables are under the supervision of the following ladies:—One presided over by Mrs. J. J. Hall and daughters, another by Mrs. Beck and Miss Chamberlain, assisted by Miss Ada Calcutt and Miss Snyder, while the third—"The Young Ladies' Fancy Table"—is attended by Miss Wallis, Miss Kirkpatrick, Miss Wrigley, Miss Hatton, Miss Spilsbury and Miss Weller. The "Fish Pond" and "Post Office" are under the supervision of Miss Katie Ulyott and Miss Jessie Cairns. The bazaar remains open to-day and this evening, and it is expected will be liberally patronized by the public, as its object is a most deserving one. Dinners are served for 25 cents each from one to three p. m.

Normal Classes.—The second inaugural meeting of the Peterborough Normal Class, was held on Monday evening, in Mr. Braden's Room, Collegiate Institute Building, which has been secured for holding the meetings. The attendance was good. Twenty-nine members were enrolled at once. We are pleased to be able to state that Rev. Messrs. Bell and Wallace and Mr. Jeffers have consented to undertake the leadership of the class. The lesson course to be followed is that published by Rev. A. Andrews, Strathroy. Presentation.—On Tuesday evening last, at the regular meeting of Young Canadians L. O. L. No. 1916, a rather pleasing departure from the usual routine of business, took place, the occasion being the presentation of an address, and a set of Officer's Jewels to the Lodge, by a number of the ladies of the town. The delegation consisted of about thirty ladies, who after the election of Officers, were introduced to the Lodge by Maxwell Hall, District Master, when the following address was read by Mrs. Maxwell Hall—the presentation being made by Mrs. Geo. W. Hall:—

To the Worshipful Master, Officers, and Members of Young Canadian's Loyal Orange Lodge, No. 1916, Peterborough:—

GENTLEMEN:—It is with pleasure that we are favored with being present, on this the evening of your [illegible] of Officers for the ensuing year. We congratulate you upon the commencement of another year of prosperity; and on the anniversary of the battle of the Boyne, it is the highest of our pleasure in the long procession for your Lodge, with their neat regalia, and beautiful banner, which is an emblem of the deeds that were matured in the good old cause of Protestantism, by our forefathers at the Boyne. We have to thank you in behalf of the wives, sisters, and friends of your Lodge, for the many kindnesses we have received at your hands, in being invited on so many occasions to partake of your festivities. We have felt that some return should be made for all your kind attentions, but were at a loss to know the kind of remuneration which we would like to tender, until after consideration we have come to the conclusion of jewels for your Lodge. We hope they may be worn by your Officers on such public occasions. And we trust that when you look upon them, it will be with pride, when you think of the true Protestant hearts that have endeavored to show in this feeble manner, their appreciation of your cause; trusting that you will continue to prosper, and that you will ever be faithful to the Protestant cause, British connection, and the Loyal Orange Association.

Rev. W. Thompson, W. Master of the Young Canadians, in very appropriate language, returned thanks on behalf of the Lodge. He hoped that in future the members would [illegible] to merit the good will and esteem of the ladies, as they evidently had in the past, by the handsome and costly gift which they were that evening the recipients of.

Bro. M. Hall, the founder of the Lodge, also returned thanks and spoke at some length of the progress made by the "Young Canadians" since their organization. Addresses and thanks were also made by several other officers and members of the Order, the short addresses being interspersed with songs by several of the ladies present.

ANOTHER PRESENTATION.

Upon the conclusion of the above ceremonies, Bro. Geo. Hall was presented with a handsome Family Bible, and an address by the same body of the Lodge, in appreciation of the many and valuable services rendered by him since its inauguration, and the interest at all times manifested by him in its welfare. The tokens of esteem from his brethren were accepted by Bro. Hall in a few well chosen words, after which the meeting was dismissed, having spent a very pleasant evening, and one that will long be remembered by the members of the "Young Canadians."

From W. H. Robertson & Co., asking for a re-consideration of the matter of printing decide on upon at last meeting. No action taken as the clerk stated he had already arranged for the printing.

RAILWAY MATTERS.

Mr. W. SARGEANT, of Norwood, addressed the council on behalf of a grant from the Town of Peterborough, to the Grand Junction Railway, provided the said road crossed the river Trent at the Narrows and entered the county at its easterly limits. He said meetings had been held in Norwood to aid this scheme, and it was proposed to group the Townships of Asphodel, Belmont, and Dummer, and the village of Norwood for the purpose of granting $30,000 aid to the road on these terms. He recounted the history of the 'county by-law, and strongly denounced the act of the Legislature in legalizing it. He thought the Toronto and Ottawa Road was much needed, but as that road was not in a state of progression at present, the next best thing we could do was to aid the Grand Junction in the route as proposed by him. This portion of the road might be used jointly by both lines, should the Toronto and Ottawa road be proceeded with.

Mr. W. H. SCOTT, M.P.P., was also heard. He wished to correct Mr. Sargeant in his statement, that the Toronto and Ottawa Road was about dead. Although the Company had received a severe check by the defeat of the Toronto by-law, they had not abandoned the scheme. Mr. Sargeant's scheme was a very feasible one, and one worthy of consideration. He thought it was not likely that the government would aid two lines running parallel through the county. The proposition for amalgamation had been made by his Company to the Grand Junction, but that company had not entertained it. He thought the town of Peterborough had an excellent chance of becoming a great railway centre—only second to Toronto of any in the Province. The Georgian Bay branch of the Canada Pacific Road was likely to be abandoned. Its object in the first place was to give access from Ottawa. What his company wished now to do was to construct the Toronto and Ottawa, from Ottawa to Peterborough, thence by way of Omemee to Georgian Bay, thus making a road that would compete with the Grand Trunk and Northern for the carrying trade of the West to the seaboard as it would be much shorter than by either of these lines.

In answer to Mr. Sargeant, he said the Toronto and Ottawa Company was willing to make a liberal and fair offer to the Grand Junction.

WOOD FOR THE TOWN.

Councillor PATERSON moved, seconded by Councillor ORMOND,—That the Clerk is hereby authorized to see that the proper quantity and quality of wood is delivered in the town yard, and an agreement signed as to the time for delivering said wood.—Carried.

DESTROYING SHADE TREES.

Councillor PATERSON moved, seconded by Councillor ORMOND,—That in consequence of a number of shade trees being maliciously destroyed by ill disposed persons, be it therefore resolved that this Council offer a reward of twenty dollars for the conviction of any person or persons found destroying shade trees in the town, and $5 reward for such information as will lead to the conviction of persons breaking, or in any way interfering with the glass in the street lamps.—Carried.

RAILWAY COMMUNICATIONS.

Councillor SMITH moved, seconded by Councillor ORMOND,—That having heard the observations of Mr. Sargeant, relative to the construction of the Grand Junction Railway, the Council is of opinion that it would be desirable that the Grand Junction and Toronto and Ottawa Railway Company should join in the construction of a road from the Narrows to Peterborough; and is further of opinion, that the town should ratify and confirm so far as it may be necessary so to do any reasonable arrangement of the kind between the two Companies provided, however, that until such arrangement is arrived at this Corporation incur no further liability.—Carried.

MIDLAND GRIEVANCE.

Moved by Councillor SMITH, seconded by Councillor ORMOND,—That this council is prepared to pass the necessary by-law to give effect to the application of the Midland Railway as to the claims of the parties whose interest shall be prejudicially affected, that be settled, or security given for the same to the satisfaction of this council or as soon as the consent of the said parties shall have been obtained.—Carried.

REFUND.

Moved by Councillor YELLAND, seconded by Councillor DOUGLAS,—That the Treasurer be authorized to refund five dollars paid into the Police Court by Mr. Robert Stewart.—Carried.

Council adjourned for two weeks.

What's Up Wi' the Scotch.

The following is the poem read by Mr. Wm. Telford, the poet of the Peterborough St. Andrew's Society, at their dinner, at Galls Hotel, Keene, on the evening of the 2nd inst:—

This nicht on the street it'ka one I approeach
Is wonderin' an' speirin'—what's up wi' the Scotch?
Is their fine Sunda' brawn, nae light an' nae airy,
Wi' their shinin' Scotch Thistle stuk in their glengarry,
Some thought the deuce Scots had gone fair'in gyte;
Ha, ha! is nocse! an' the lauchad, gi'ed their shoe'thers a hotch.—
Sayin', "O, what a queer clanish set is the Scotch?"
But I lauched 'oot ma' sel' when I looked at the Scots,
Wi' the nice sprig o' heather in the breast o' their coats;
Ma'e a noddle on their face, an' their step quick an' licht,
Look, I thought they were gouin to Auld Scotia this nicht.
Some was speakin' braid Scotch, others Gaelic did twang,
It was a' about Scotia an' the place th' belang;
An' they praised up St. Andrew for a saint, not a sinner,—
Why, I thought he wa'd strait'in be here at the dinner;
But it seems mate unlik'in that he cou'd be here
For his history to doothy, proof fail to mak' clear,
I has speired a' I can'd in ma' earli'er days,—
But I ne'er got nae mair than his fingers and taes.

"What's up wi' the Scotch?" say you ask that again!
Did ye think I was gowin' tae the dinner ma' lane?
There is still a few Scots that's baith loyal an' real,
Whose hearts clings to Scotia: aye, as stertin' as steel:
They are here from the workshops, the field, an' the store,
Kale Scotch to the back-bone—true Scots to the core,—
Wi' a large heart extendin' to race an' to sport,
Love bluntin' for Scotia an' his pair Brither Scot.
Tho' braid is the ocean, where billows high roll,
Nae, they can'na drive Scotia fra the true Scottish soul;
Neither country nor clime, wealth, honor, nor fame,
Can sever the ties of the Auld Scottish Name.
If there's hame-like this nicht, around this festive board,
Tho' the tabil nae Bonnies nor Porritch afford;
Haud a' wee, Brither Scots; Diana gee in wi' haste,
Tho' your mooth may be water'in the Hagis to taste:

"What's up wi' the Scotch?' some Scots grumble an' speak,—
Always stickin' their nose in, an' tryin' to find fault:
They do nothing themse'n, but their tongue is nae long;
What other Scots dis,—O, they say it is wrang;
Their birth place was Scotia, but in creamin' the sea,
Their love for Auld Scotia changed for the baubee;
Tho' they still bear the name, and their pocket encrouch,
They wheel and exclaim, "What care I for the Scotch."

"What's up wi' the Scotch?" they has gone off to Keene,
To has'd their big dinner, an' to honor the Queen;
Her daughter, God bless her, choose a Scot for her man,
Scots claim her as one o' the true Campbell clan;
Brither Scots ye sit gap'an and gloar'en at me,
As if what I was sayin' was only a lee.
Why, your President let's see, as shure as am born,
He wee' ane see the Princess and Marquis of Lorn;
Did you see hear the Bagpipes, did ye no ken their hum:—
Ye might ken by their skirl that the Campbells had come.
Great joy an' rejoicin' through the Province had bore.
'Tis a welcome to Princess an' Marquis of Lorn.
Rise, Brither, rise, take your glass in your hand,
Drink the health of the Scot come to rule o'er this land.—
He has left fair Argyle an' its hills clad wi' heather
But he brings England's rose, they are blended together.
Come Scot, yes and welcome, to rule o'er this land.
As Scots an' loyal subjects we give you our hand;
May your rule bear you upward to honor and fame,
And leave no dark blot on your countre' or name.

It's the last time I'll ask it, "What's up wi' the Scots?"
You wa'd think they had landed at auld Jonnie Groats,
They has Scotch no tongue, on the brain, on the wan,
For they see the green hills o' Auld Scotia fra Keene.
Stop, Brither Scots, stop! Are ye rin'en clean wud!
You will break through the floor wi' your thumps and your thud,
For St. Andrew's nicht oringe Auld Scotia nae near
Its a pity it diana come twice in the year;
Some Scots seem to thrive on the guid cates meal,
For your President fills up that chair unco weel
Tho' it is not the size of his frame we extoll,—
But the room it contains,—'tis a true Scottish soul.
Clouds of sorrow o't darken the cheerfu'est heart,
An' the pleasantest company ever met—they must part;
Let us part wi' the hope that our lives will hold bright,
We may a' meet again on St. Andrew's nicht.

Michigan Poetry.

A Michigan young lady being awarded the prize for beauty at a local show, addressed a grateful poem to the judges, in which she modestly said:—

"I do not Envy My Beauty
For I Make No display
Plain is My Attire
And My Face is But Clay."

The Decline in Prices.

He had broken his promise to marry the girl, and her father wanted a money consideration to help heal a wounded heart. The young man said he would consider a reasonable proposition. "Well, then," said the irate father, who was seeking justice for his daughter, 'Young man, how does a dollar and a half strike you?'

The Caledonian Bank Failure.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—A Herald's Glasgow special says:—"For the four shares of the City of Glasgow Bank held by the Caledonian Bank, as trustees, the liquidators of the former institution demand the whole capital of the Bank, £15,000, as a guarantee that their liability as shareholders may be secured. This fact more than anything else has disconcerted the people. If such an enormous sum is required to be paid by the holders of four shares, how much will be required of holders of ten or twelve? The situation is very critical. It is impossible to say what fresh and ruinous ramifications this new disaster may develop."

The Tea Gown in England.

One of the latest additions to the arsenal of the toilette is now the rage in England. This is called the teagown. 'Of course,' says the World, 'it is no way resembles the dressing-gown of utility; it is of elaborate design and infinite cost. It is worn for about an hour in the day; and yet, in a country-house visit of a week, the same must on no account be exhibited more than twice, it, indeed so much may be allowed. It is absolutely useless and utterly ridiculous; but this is not the worst that may be said about it. It is, to all intents and purposes, a deshabille; and so great is the force of association, that the conversation is exceedingly apt, may almost certain, to become deshabille as well.'

New and Stale Bread.

The nature of the difference between new and stale bread is far from being known. It is only lately the celebrated French chemist, Boussingault, instituted an enquiry into it, from which it results that the difference is not the consequence of desiccation, but solely of the cooling of the bread. If we take fresh bread into the cellar or into any place where it cannot dry, the inner part of the loaf, it is true, is found to be crumby, but the crust has become soft and is no longer brittle. If stale bread is taken back into the oven again it assumes all the qualities of fresh baked bread, although in the hot oven it must undoubtedly have lost part of the moisture. Mr. Boussingault has made a fresh loaf of bread the subject of minute investigation, and the results are anything but uninteresting. New bread, in its smallest parts, is so soft, clammy, flexible and glutinous (in consequence of the conch during the process of fermenting and baking being changed into mucilaginous dextrine), that by mastication it is with great difficulty separated and reduced to small pieces, and in its smallest parts it is but under the influence of the saliva and digestive juices. It consequently forms itself into hard [illegible] and heavy mastication and [illegible] rested over by saliva and oil, and in this state enters the stomach. The gastric juice being unable to penetrate each hard mass, and being scarcely able even to act upon the surface of them, they frequently remain in the stomach unchanged, and, like foreign bodies, irritate and incommode it, inducing every species of suffering—oppression of the stomach, pain in the chest, disturbed circulation of the blood, congestions and pains in the head, irritation of the brain and inflammation, apoplectic attacks, cramp and delirium.—The Miller.

Scotch News.

A WEAVER named Arthur Dane, while in a fit, was burned to death in Glasgow recently by falling across the fire.

AT A MEETING of the Second Ward Committee of Glasgow, the question of voting £5,000 for the common good to the subscription in aid of the sufferers by the Glasgow Bank disaster was approved of.

A PROMISING YOUNG MAN named McGarty recently died at Airdrie from excessive drinking, having partaken of a large quantity of rum. He died the same evening, never having regained consciousness.

DEATH FROM LOCKJAW.—A farmer residing at Hamilton a few weeks ago, (grat)ched his thumb while placing stones for the foundation of a turnip pit. He experienced no bad effects until the following day, and before medical aid reached him he expired from lockjaw.

A TERRIBLE DEATH occurred in a theater at Dumfries. While a workman was employed in the building a retort of the lime light apparatus burst in consequence of a light having come in contact with the chemicals, and a portion of it struck Wm. Teesdale upon the throat, severing his carotid artery.

AT PORT WILLIAM recently a melancholy case of drowning occurred. While four men named Alex. McDonald, Hugh Boyd, Alex. McLean and Archibald Campbell were crossing Corran Ferry in a small skiff, the boat was upset by the heavy sea which prevailed, and the four men were drowned before help reached them. The deceased were all married men, and left large families unprovided for.

A CRUEL SHIP CAPTAIN.—Captain Daniel McMillan, of the Greenock schooner "Kenmore," was recently sent to prison for four months, with hard labor, by the Falmouth magistrates, for brutally illusing a little boy on board his vessel. The lad was only 13 years old, small for his age, and the captain kicked him with his heavy boots till he fell on the deck, lifted him by the hair of the head into a locker, and pounded him with his fists in the face till his eyes were blackened and his cheeks laid open. The magistrates had difficulty in repressing the popular excitement in Court.

THE CONVICTIONISTS OF PATRICK recently investigated the cause of the late scarlet fever epidemic, and discovered that the disease was greatly spread by a milkman, who continued to supply his customers while many members of his family were ill of the fever. The total number of cases since the epidemic commenced was 138, and of these 21 had died. In one locality of three streets near each other, sixteen families, embracing thirty individuals, had been attacked. The parish of Inishanbow, more especially the village of Abbey Green, has been also visited by an outbreak of scarlet fever of a very severe type. The disease has been spread by means of the dairy farms supplying milk to the inhabitants. Nearly all the public schools and sabbath-schools have been closed.

THE QUEEN AND THE GLASGOW BANK.—Her Majesty the Queen has very narrowly escaped being made a contributor to the Glasgow City Bank! What a chance the creditors have lost, and lost by a very close shave! A lady possessed of some wealth, a portion of it invested in Glasgow City Bank shares, died a few weeks ago. It has just been discovered that she left no natural heirs, and the Crown succeeds as legal heir to all her property, real and personal. Of course, the Crown will now disclaim, and will not accept the assets, but, had the event occurred a few weeks sooner—that is to say, before the bank was known to be in difficulties—the heritage would, like many others, have been accepted, and at the head of the list of shareholders, to-day would figure the name of our sovereign.

Irish News.

A HEAVY FINE.—At Wicklow recently, the possessor of an illicit still named Taylor was fined £400. He was unable to pay the fine, being a pauper.

THE BELFAST TOWN COUNCIL has decided to postpone all proposed improvements in that town, in order to bring up the reserve fund on account of their gas works to the sum of £100,000, so that they may be prepared for any emergency that may arise through a possible change in the system of illuminating.

TENANT RIGHT.—On the 3rd ult. upwards of 3,000 persons attended a meeting held in Ballinasloe, to give expression to the popular opinion on the subject of tenant right. Messrs. Parnell and O'Connor Power delivered addresses. The proceedings throughout were of a most orderly character.

SMALL-POX is becoming prevalent in Kilbeggan. Of eight persons afflicted with the disease five have died. Means have been taken to prevent a further spread of the disease by vaccination, disinfectants and the burning of the clothing of the patients.

MR. BUTT, in his address to the electors of Limerick, stigmatizes the policy of Mr. Parnell and the party of action, as a policy of disunion, and says it is more childishness to say that it does not involve the total breaking up of the existing Irish Parliamentary party. Rather than commit himself to the policy of obstruction he would resign his seat.

THE CORRESPONDENCE between the Right Rev. Dr. McEvilly and the Under-Secretary for State in reference to the espionage practiced by the police in the Catholic churches in Galway has been published. The Executive at first attempted to dispose of the matter by visiting the county inspector, St. Leger, and the sub-inspector, Cameron, responsible for the outrage, with a mere censure, but no further remonstrance from the Bishop, the Lord-Lieutenant ordered the removal of both officers from Galway.

AT ATHLONE recently, an occurrence of a melancholy character occurred. A boy named Burke, while delivering bread at the Athlone barracks, was plagued by a soldier of the 75th regiment named Dawes. The lad appeared much annoyed at Dawes, and lifting a bread knife lying on the table threatened him with it if he did not stop annoying him. He flourished the knife in his hand, and, in doing so, the blade left the handle, and penetrated the soldier's breast to the heart, and he died in about five minutes. Burke was afterwards given into the custody of the police; but at the inquest it being shown that the occurrence was purely accidental, he was released.

County Court and General Sessions,

Before His Honor Judge Boswell.

A sitting of the County Court and General sessions was held by the County Judge in the Town Council Chamber on Tuesday morning of last week.

The following Grand Jury was sworn:

John H. Chamberlain, Foreman.

James Armstrong	Pat Maher
H. Best	Frank Maloney
Jas. Bibby	Alex. Mather
W. F. Chase	Wm. Patton
John Dwyer	Chas. Rogers
Jos. Edwards	John Tobin
Robt. Eastland	Wm. Tinsley, jr.
Matthew Feeley	Jacob Talington
Chas. Farmer	James Purdy
Israel Hurlburtus.

In charging the Grand Jury, His Honor referred to the happy circumstance that not a single criminal case was on the calendar. He also referred to the fraudulent papers, purporting to be from the Division court, which have been circulated by some of our merchants, and alluded to a few weeks ago in the EXAMINER. The punishment for this offence was very severe, and hereafter any person using them would be punished. The following are the cases disposed of:

HAGGART VS. HAGGART.—An action of trover. Verdict for Plaintiff for $200, subject to the award of C. A. Weller, Esq. A. P. Ponsette for plaintiff: H. H. Smith for defendant.

ROGERS VS. PURCELL.—Action on promises. Defendant withdrew his pleas, and record was withdrawn. Judgment entered for plaintiff. J. Bernham for plaintiff; D. G. Hatton for defendant.

KEARNS VS. GUTHRIE.—Action to recover wages. Reddison for plaintiff; Donnelsons, Q. C., for defendant. This was a suit by the plaintiff, a man with one leg, to recover wages as a farm servant. For the defence it was maintained that plaintiff was lodged by defendant as a friend and not as a hired man. Judgment for plaintiff for $150, with leave to apply for a non-suit on the ground of want of jurisdiction.

ALCORNS VS. SILVERWOOD.—Referred by consent to D. Carlisle and Jos. Sawdye. A. P. Ponsette for Plaintiff. R. H. Donnelsons and McIntyre for Defendant.

On Wednesday the Court again sat.

BRADBURN VS. SHERAN.—Action on covenant to pay rent. Verdict by consent for Plaintiff for $206.48. Edmison for Plaintiff. Moore for Defendant.

MORRISON VS. WARD.—Action of Trover. Settled between the parties. Scott, Q. C., for Plaintiff. Moore, for Defendant.

THE QUEEN VS. JEREMIAH SHEA.—Larceny—No Bill.

The Grand Jury made the following presentment:—

The Grand Jurors of our Sovereign Lady the Queen, beg leave to present: That they have examined the Jail and found everything in and about it kept in a manner which reflects credit on the Jailer and his subordinates, but would call attention to some obstruction in one of the chimney flues, as there was a very strong odour of smoke in the upper story of the Jail. The Grand Jury fully concur in your Honour's remarks in reference to those fraudulent papers purporting to be from the Division Court, and hope your Lordship's warning will be sufficient to deter any person from using them in future. The Grand Jury in concluding their presentment, would con gratulate you on the small number of criminal cases at the Sessions, and trust that they may ever decrease.

JOHN H. CHAMBERS, Foreman.

He Fought as He Taught.

(From the San Francisco Chronicel.)

"Mister, no doubt you have all the learnin' that is required in a school teacher, but it wants more than learnin' to make a man able to teach school in Cranberry Gulch. You'll soon find that out if you try. We've had three who tried it on. One lays there in the graveyard; another lost his eye and left; the last one opened school and left before noon for the benefit of his health. He hasn't been back since. Now you are a slender build, and all your learnin' will only make it worse, for all our young folks are roughs and don't stand no nonsense."

This was what one of the trustees of the district said to my friend Harry Flotoe, when he made application for the vacant position of teacher.

"Let me try. I know I am slender but I am tough, and I have a strong will," said Harry.

"Just as you like. There's the school-house, and I'll have notice given if you want it done," said the trustee.

"I do," said Harry, "and I'll open next Monday at nine A.M.

The notice was given, and there was a great deal of excitement in the Gulch and along the Tuba flats. More than fifty young people of both sexes made an excuse to drop into the tavern to get a sight at the fellow who thought he could keep school in that district, and many a contemptuous glance fell on the slender form and youthful face of the would-be teacher.

Eight o'clock on Monday morning came and Harry Flotoe went down to the school house with a key in one hand and a valise in the other.

"Ready to slope, if he finds were too much for him," said a cross-eyed, broad shouldered fellow of eighteen.

The school-house was unlocked and the new teacher went to the desk. Some of the young folks went in to see what he was going to do, though school was not called.

Harry opened his valise and took out a large belt. Then, after buckling it around his waist, he put three Colt's navy revolvers each of six barrels, and a bowie knife eighteen inches in the blade in it.

"Thunder! He means business!" muttered the cross-eyed chap.

The new teacher took out a square card about four inches each way, walked to the other end of the school-house and tacked it up against the wall. Returning to his desk he drew up a revolver from his belt, and quick as thought sent ball after ball into the card till there were six balls in a spot not much larger than a silver dollar.

By this time the school-house was half full of large boys and girls. The little ones were afraid to come.

Then the teacher walked half way down the room with the bowie knife in his hand, and threw it with so true a hand that it struck quivering in the very centre of the card.

He left it there and put two more knives of the same kind in his belt and quietly reloaded his yet smoking pistol.

"Ring the bell; I am about to open school."

He spoke to the cross-eyed boy, the bully of the crowd, and the boy rang the bell without a word.

"The scholars will take their seats; I open school with prayer," he said sternly, five minutes later.

The scholars sat down silent, almost breathless.

After prayer the teacher cocked a revolver and walked down on the floor.

"We will arrange the classes," he said; "all who can read, write and spell, will rise. Of them we will form the first class."

Only six got up. He escorted them to upper seats, and then began to examine the rest. A whisper was heard behind him. In a second he wheeled, revolver in hand.

"No whispering here!" he thundered, and for an instant his revolver lay on a level with the cross-eyed boy's head.

"I'll not do so any more," gasped the bully.

"See you do not; I never give a second warning," said the teacher, and the revolver fell.

It took two hours to organize the classes, but when done, they were well organized. Then came recess. The teacher went out, too, for the room was crowded and hot. A hawk was circling over head, high in the air. The teacher drew a revolver, and the next second the hawk came tumbling down among the wondering scholars.

From that day on Harry kept school for two years in Cranberry Gulch, his salary doubled after the first quarter, and his pupils learned to love as well as respect him, and the revolvers went out of sight within a month.

They had found a man at last who could keep school. This is a fact.

CHESTER HARDY—Pitch-pine bonds, drop a teaspoonful of lime in the bath of water used for washing.

Domestic and Useful.

TO CURE BEEF.—To 100 pounds of beef use 10 pounds of salt, 10 pounds of sugar, 4 ounces of saltpetre and 2 ounces of saltpetre. Pack snug and cover with brine, if necessary.

TO DESTROY COCKROACHES.—Where borax and insect-powder have failed to exterminate cockroaches, sprinkle the floor with powdered white hellebore; they will eat it and be poisoned by it.

RAT TRAPS.—Rats and mice will go into a trap more readily if a small piece of looking-glass is put in any part of the trap where they can see themselves reflected. They mistake the reflection for another rat, and where others go they follow.

FOR INEBRIATES.—A medical man sends the following cure for those who are afflicted with a depraved appetite for liquors:—"Take five drops of sulphuric acid (C. P.) in one ounce of water three times a day, after meals, or oftener if the desire is very pressing, and keep clear of drinking places."

CURE FOR CROUP.—Croup can be cured in one minute, and the remedy is simply alum and sugar. The way to accomplish the deed is to take a knife or grater, and shave of in particles about a teaspoonful of alum; then mix it with twice its quantity of sugar, to make it palatable, and administer it as quickly as possible. Almost instantaneous relief will be sure to follow.

FOR SLEEPLESSNESS.—A cup of hot Indian gruel taken at the moment of retiring, will make the nervous tension cease; occupies the stomach and the brain rests. Eat a light supper before it. Two teaspoons of indian meal one of flour, wet only to a smooth paste. Pour boiling water slowly upon it, beating it as you pour. Salt it and boil half an hour. It can be made while tea is getting, and warmed over the fire at bed-time.

GOOD QUALITIES OF BROWN BREAD.—Good brown bread supplies in itself the nourishing properties of many kinds of food. It contains albumen, fibrine, gluten, and phosphate of lime; it makes bone, muscle, blood, and tissue. The wandering Arab lives almost entirely upon such bread, with a few dates as a relish—and this not because meat is scarce in his part of the world, but because he feels no need for it.

TO REMOVE INK STAINS FROM LINEN, &c.—If one can procure a little new milk immediately after the ink is spilled, and wash out quickly, there is no difficulty in taking out the stain. If this cannot be done, rub wet salt on the spots, and expose to the sun; wash out after a few hours, and if the stain is only partially obliterated, repeat the process. Bicarbonate of soda mixed with water is often efficacious.

STOVE POLISH.—The following recipe for imparting to stoves a fine black polish, which will neither burn off nor give out an offensive smell, will prove acceptable to some of our readers. Lamb-black is mixed with water-glass (a solution of silicate of soda) to the consistency of syrup and applied with a brush as a thin and even coating, then left 24 hours to dry. Afterwards graphite or black-lead, mixed with gum-water, is applied, and a polish obtained by rubbing in the usual manner.

BLACKBOARDS.—In country schools a good black-board is sometimes not easily had. The materials for the following composition may be obtained anywhere and when applied either to a smooth, hard-finished wall or to smooth boards answers admirably: One quart of shellac dissolved in alcohol, three ounces pulverized pumice stone, two ounces pulverized rotten stone, four ounces lamblack; mix the first three ingredients together, moisten a portion at a time with a little of the shellac and alcohol, grind as thoroughly as possible with a knife or spatula; after which pour in the remainder of the alcohol, stirring often to prevent settling. The preparation dries immediately, and the board may be used within an hour, if necessary.

The Great Shoshonees Remedy.

The Great Shoshonees Remedy is an Indian vegetable compound composed of the juices of a variety of remarkable medicinal plants and herbs; the various properties of these different ingredients, when combined, is so constituted as to act simultaneously upon the Blood, Lungs, Liver, Kidneys, Digestive, Organs, Nervous Systems, &c., restoring their functions to healthy action, and being purely vegetable, is as harmless as nature's own beverage. This medicine is a decided benefit in all, and a permanent cure in a large majority of diseases of the blood, such as Scrofula, Erysipelas, Salt Rheum Canker Pimples, &c. In prescribing this medicine we do not claim that it always performs cures; but this we do say, that it purifies and enriches the blood, permanently curing a large majority of disease arising from its impurities. It stands far ahead and unequalled among the hundreds at competing medicines of the day. It has stood the test of ten years, and is to day more popular than ever. As a summer restorative it stands unrivaled; it enables the system to bear up against the constant drain to which it is subjected by a high temperature. Persons who are subject to Bilious Colic, Dysentery, Indigestion, &c., should take the Shoshonees Remedy. Price of the Remedy in pint bottles $1; Pills, 25 cts. a box. Sold by all medicine dealers.

JOY AMONG THE CHILDREN

COPELAND'S SWEET CASTOR OIL, equally suitable for children and adults. Endorsed by over 500 doctors in Canada. The difficulty of administering nauseous medicines and the desirability of having them pleasant to the taste, induced T. Copeland to undertake research, which resulted in the discovery of a Sweet Castor Oil, perfectly palatable, of the same strength and medical qualities as the ordinary Castor Oil; and while equally safe and harmless yet acting with more certainty, and producing neither nausea nor griping. Some children say it is "heavy;" others call it syrup—they all say they like it. One parent says—My children drink it like water;" another—"We had to hide the bottle or they would have finished it right off;" another—"My little girl has taken it twice without any trouble, and does not know what it is, though she hates the ordinary Castor Oil, and we never could get her to take it without a fight;" yet another—"I wish you success of your Sweet Castor Oil; it is a splendid thing—sure to take the place of all common oil."

The extraordinary demand for this improvement of a simple household medicine has brought fraudulent imitations into the market, but the public are guarded themselves against substitutes (which experience proves are extremely to sell on the reputation of this article) by seeing that the Copeland Sweet Castor Oil, is on both wrapper and bottle.

The undersigned having purchased Messrs T. Copeland & Co's interest in the above preparation, are now manufacturing it from the original receipt.

NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto.

MEDEN.

Mr. A. Niven has announced that it is not his intention to seek re-election as Reeve of Dysart.

DOURO.

It is said that Mr. Foley will oppose the present Reeve, John Moloney Esq., for the Reeveship for 1879. Both are good men and either would fill the position with credit to the Township. It will likely be a close contest. May the best man win.

WARSAW.

PRESENTATION.—At a social gathering at the residence of Mr. Sidney Payne, near Warsaw, on the evening of Thanksgiving Day, the Rev. Mr. Buchanan was presented with an address and a purse containing $25, besides individual gifts from nearly every one present.

NORWOOD.

MASONIC.—At the regular meeting of the members of Norwood Masonic Lodge, held in their lodge room on Tuesday evening, the third inst., the following brethern were elected officers for the current masonic year:—W. H. Stephenson, W. M.; Thomas Rorke, S. W.; John W. Fife, J. W.; Rev. E. Soward, Chap.; John A. Butterfield, Sec.; W. E. Roxburgh, I. P. M., and Treas.; Isaac Powell Tyler.

LINDSAY.

LOST IN THE WOODS.—An adventure accompanied with startling dangers and severe hardship was experienced by George Marriott, a young man 19 years of age, who last Friday returned to town from one of Messrs. Greene & Ellis' shanties, in Sherbourne township, about thirty miles north of Minden, where he had been employed as assistant cook. His condition on arrival here was most pitiful; both feet were badly frozen and he was suffering from the results of fatigue and long fasting, and is now under medical attendance. It is feared that some of the toes will have to be amputated.

THE GAOL.—There are now in the County gaol nine persons in all—five sentenced, two awaiting trial and two lunatics. One of the latter will be removed in a few days to one of the Provincial asylums. It is significant that whilst the gaols of other counties are crowded with tramps there is but one imprisoned here.

OMEMEE.

BAND GRANT.—The Council voted $30 towards the support of the Band last meeting.

ACCIDENT.—Mrs. Geo. Lamb fell one day last week passing through the icy yard, and sustained serious injuries of the arm.

ANNIVERSARIES.—The time for church anniversaries, missionary meetings and tea meetings is on us—four occasions are announced for Christmas week.

SKATING groups are to be witnessed on the ice outside the corporate limits Sundays. Huge fires are built, and all is comforting and enticing.

MECHANIC'S INSTITUTE.—A preliminary meeting to discuss the advisability of establishing a Mechanic's Institute in this village is to be held in a few days. The attendance should be large and equal to the interest manifested in the proposed scheme, which will in no way clash with any other institution in the village. If found feasible, the undertaking should be supported by the citizens, and it would be desirable to appoint a committee to consider the particulars.

HALIBURTON.

PERSONAL.—Mr. George Laidlaw, President of the Victoria Railway, accompanied by a number of gentlemen visited our village by special train on Wednesday.

FINISHED AND PAID OFF.—The Victoria Railway construction train has finished work on this section, and left for Lindsay on Friday. Major Deacon has been here paying off most of the men employed along the line.

RAILWAY NOTES.—The station and engine-house will be finished in a few days.....Lumbermen and merchants' supplies are arriving by the car load and a good freight business will probably be done here. A new time-table is much looked for as the present arrangement does not meet the wishes of the people here.....We understand there will be a daily train as soon as the arrangements are completed. The present train arrangement is only temporary.

FAILED.—Mr. Malcom Morison, who has been carrying on business here, has failed, and closed up on Tuesday last. Several of the settlers will be losers to a considerable amount.

LEGAL.—Since the opening of the railway two lawyers have opened here, Mr. Bolton, of Kinmount, and Mr. Sheppard, of Fenelon Falls.

DEER HUNTING.—Large numbers of deer are being killed in the vicinity and hunting parties are arriving on every train. There is now sufficient snow to make good still hunting.

APSLEY.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Winter appears to be fairly set in now. The small lakes are all frozen over, and some of the large ones nearly so, we have every prospect of good sleighing. In your issue of the 28th ult. no. under the heading of "Australian," there is an assertion which is erroneous, and very much calculated to mislead intending settlers. It is as follows:—"In the north-western part of the Township every lot available is located." That is not so, there are a number of lots in that part of the Township that would make good farms that are not yet located, and one reason why they are not is because there is not any road open to them, or part there. If the present Government might only be induced to open some more to be opened up, the intervention and concession lines, that run past good land, we should have an influx of settlers at once, but this is one of the great drawbacks to the settlement of the municipality. Luther will not go any distance from the main roads to take up land, but will take lots in and not find being out several years, we do not get settlers, that can afford to cut their own roads. Mr. Tucker made a bold venture when he settled on the farm which he now owns, it was a long way from any settler then and not any road to it either, and I believe Mr. F. Elmhurst was placed in just as bad a position when he settled on his farm. Both of them had great drawbacks to contend with, but they were not isolated very long, the Municipality granted them some money to open a road, and other settlers took up land around them, and now there is quite a community on that side of the Township.

THE Temperance Lodge here is still progressing and new additions are being made to their number every regular meeting night, and there is every prospect that their roll of members will yet reach the grand total of one hundred which would be a great success to this book country.

THE Methodist Denomination intend holding a tea meeting in the Town Hall on Christmas day, in aid of the Mission Fund. There will be the usual entertainment in the evening: Speeches, Recitations and Readings by the native talent, and singing by the Choir.

PORT HOPE.

CLOSE OF NAVIGATION.—The last of the Port Hope fleet have returned to this port and gone into winter quarters. Our fleet, during the season, has been fortunate in escaping loss by accident, none meeting with any serious mishap. The season has been very poor for vessel property, freights being exceedingly low, and cargoes difficult to get. A few of the schooners have made a little, while the minority have not paid running expenses.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—About 7 o'clock on Saturday evening last Mr. J. P. Lovekin, one of the oldest residents of Clarke, was found lying on the side of the road, insensible, and with a fearful gash on the head. A short time previously he had left one of the stores at Newcastle, with the intention of procuring his buggy, and proceeding to to the station to meet his sons, who were returning from a hunting expedition, and it is conjectured that the horse (a barlky one) he was driving that day must have become unmanageable, and upsetting the buggy, threw Mr. Lovekin out. Dr. Brent was quickly in attendance, and dressed the wound, which was a terrible one, but he considers it unsafe for Mr. Lovekin to be removed home at present—Times.

PRESENTATION.—Rev. Mr. Fraser, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, at Orono, was pleasingly surprised a short time ago by the presentation of a cutter, and other articles to the value of about $65, by a few of his parishioners, as a slight mark of the esteem in which his efforts for good in their midst are appreciated.

A CENTENARIAN.—The Times records the death of Mr. John Dysell, of Cavan, at the age of 103. He was one of the first settlers of the township. His living descendants number 132, seventy-six grand-children and fifty-six great grand-children.

FINED.—Mr. Might, the Inspector, has, with the help of the magistrates, run up the fines on the Ballyduff unlicensed victuallers to $120.

ELECTION EXPENSES.—The election expenses of Col. Williams were $719.62, of which amount the Milbrook Messenger got $103 and the Port Hope Times over $400. Mr. Ross's expenses were $209.53.—Guide.

Harvey Railway By-law.

To the Editor of the Examiner:—

DEAR SIR,—In my last week's communication I answered Mr. Blewett in reference to Railway matters. I this week wish to refer to the proposed bridge at Gannon's. He asks how much it would cost. Being so high strung a writer he ought to know the cost of such a construction, but it is the obstacles he puts in the way that keeps him from being able to penetrate into the costs. I will state for Mr. Blewett that where the bridge is to cross, the narrows seldom freeze to any extent, only, when a very hard winter comes, so that no ice of any quantity has ever passed there to hurt any bridge that we might build. He wishes to know how many persons this bridge will accommodate, and tells us eighteen or twenty ratepayers. That is false. I state with all sincerity that it will be a benefit to every man in this section, Mr. Blewett himself. I live a mile west of Mr. Blewett, and this bridge when built places me within twenty miles at the very outside figure, a saving of fifteen or sixteen miles every time I go to town, and my neighbor Blewett says three or four miles saved from the centre of the section, I am giving my own distance and I live the farthest north—but one in the 14 con. Mr. Blewett is east of me with two settlers north of him in the 13 con., so we are both nearly located, and must share the benefit alike; that he cannot deny. He says if we had a market at Bobcaygeon, and a bridge across Ball Lake, narrows, at a cost of $1,000. You will observe their are no obstacles in the way of this bridge, and it places us he says, twelve miles from the Town Hall to Bobcaygeon. This is a very false statement. Does Mr. Blewett not know that Squaw River is eleven miles from Bobcaygeon, and to reach the Town Hall, would take six or seven miles more, placing us eighteen miles from that celebrated market. And all the land is forced to pay for it. He says the County Council would be foolish to grant any money to such a bridge as that at Gannons. We the Harveyites, are going to build that bridge, if we are sanctioned, and the County Council would be wise in taking it into consideration. It would not only be a benefit to Harvey, but a benefit to the public, cattle buyers &c. Mr. Blewett affirms that we could not keep the bridge in repair. Let him keep the Bobcaygeon high-waymen at their own business, and we can mind ours. The land in Harvey will rise in value to the extent of ten dollars per acre in four years with the bridge. On the other hand with the railway as we now have it, the value would remain as it is, and half of the township adjacent to lands for west. Thanking you for kindness as much as your space.

I remain,
Yours truly,
PETER SMITH.

OUR OTTAWA LETTER.

(From our own Correspondent.)

OTTAWA, Tuesday, Dec. 10th.

SIR,—In my last you were informed that the fire-works illumination and general "fix" connected with our reception of Lord Lorne and Her Royal Highness, had to be put off from Monday until Wednesday on account of the weather. Wednesday being a public holiday a large number of people from the surrounding country gathered into the city. The day turned out fine, and by "early candle light" the streets were crowded with people, old and young, all intent upon giving the Governor-General and his Royal Consort a hearty and enthusiastic welcome. They had consented to drive through the city, joining a torchlight procession. Promptly at the time arranged the carriage with his Excellency and Her Royal Highness, escorted by the new company of dragoons, joined the procession, and the "progress" commenced. The night was very fine. The principal streets through which the procession was to pass were tastefully and the reception was really hearty—and after all that is the thing that touches and warms, without it the glare and glitter of the lights would have been cold and flat. Your space would not permit me to make special mention of the different houses and institutions that were illuminated, sufficient to say that all did their best, and in consequence the whole evening passed off well and the display was a credit to the Capital. All were satisfied, did I say all, no all were not fully satisfied. A programme had been published but the Governor-General did not go through the whole line of march proposed. The fact was that the people were so enthusiastic in their welcome, and used fireworks so much, that the horses in the carriage became restive and the Princess nervous, consequently they did not quite complete the programme before leaving for home. Some parties who had expected them to pass their residences were disappointed. Upon the whole the rain on Monday was a mercy to us, as it gave us longer time to make preparations, and it prevented some persons from making a show of his Excellency and Her Royal Highness. We have an enterprising genius in this city, a kind of general secretary and committee-man, ready and willing to run any kind of a show, provided he can be the head and front of the thing. Well, he undertook to run the reception, and true to his showman instinct, he had a pavillion erected in the railway station yard. It was called a pavilion—but you never saw anything that looked so much like a side show at a circus. The moment you entered the yard you would naturally look for the picture of the fat woman and the snakes. You enter and find a ring in the center; seats all round; in the centre of the ring a round platform with a gaudy canopy in cambric that looked a good deal like a "barber's pole." It was proposed to put His Excellency and the Princess on this platform, and there to present the civic address. Tickets had been issued, of course, and as the secretary is also a member of the corporation he kept the fact that the civic election draweth near in view in distributing the tickets. But the blessed rain came down and spoiled the show, and the lamentations of the secretary were great. We just now are in a community discussing the all important

DECORATED AND ILLUMINATED,

QUESTION OF DRESS.

High or low is the question. Amongst the really sensible people "high" has it; amongst the toady and tuft hunting class low is ahead. This question which has been raised by the ankas of the gallant Military Secretary has naturally a very great interest for this community. While the gallant Colonel was concocting the ukas would it not have been as well to have issued a photo. to show the style that would have passed muster. May Fiak was here the other day with her "blondes," one of them would, no doubt, have sat as a model Has the gallant Colonel ever seriously considered how hard that regulation will be on the many daughters of Eve that have not round shoulders and plump arms. Is it fair that Pharoh's lean kind should not have a chance to get even with their plump friends by a little art. Again, in the late up-heaval a great many new men have been elected to come to Ottawa. A good many of them have wives and daughters, they will want to come, and some are now no doubt making preparations to shine at the Capital and be made happy by basking in the

SMILES OF ROYALTY.

Then by all means let the gallant Secretary issue the photo., endorsed and approved, that the fair ones at a distance from the Court may understand. But all this has a serious side—we are a loyal people, we believe in our system of government, and are upon the whole a contented and happy people, but we are largely demonstrative in our political and social ideas, and a rude attempt to bend us might have a tendency to weaken our admiration of the way things are done about thrones. Better far better for His Excellency and Her Royal Highness to bend graciously to our customs rather than attempt to bend us to theirs. Inasmuch as an order went forth at Halifax that none but two hor

THE PRESENT DUTY.

Since the elections for the Commons there has been a lull in political circles, except in a few ridings where local elections have been caused by candidates running for the Commons, or by death. Perhaps the warmth of the contest has begotten a desire for peace and quiet for a while, and we in common with others would desire the continuance of these halcyon days, but the general welfare of the country forbids us indulging the hope that this can continue long. The price of freedom is eternal vigilance, and if we would maintain our liberties and prevent a retrogression to Pacific Scandals and Family Compacts, we must not through indifference or love of ease, allow the constitution to be undermined, or our national prosperity frustrated, by neglecting to provide against the return to power in Ontario, of a Conservatism such as has gained a temporary residence at Ottawa. We would therefore remind the different Reform local associations, that the time for the Ontario elections is not far distant. The Parliament will meet at Toronto on the 9th of January, when we may expect a short session, and after which there may not be a long respite till the local elections. Is it not therefore the duty of the hour to be ready for any emergency? Conventions should be called immediately in both these Ridings. There can be no more opportune time than during the holiday season. Candidates should be selected, and at work. The result of the last contest should cause a keener interest and a more determined effort, and the sooner the leaders are chosen and in the field, the more certain will the Reform party be to secure success. The Conservatives have their man for the West Riding, and several names are spoken of as probable candidates for the East Riding. They are flushed with the late victory, and will enter upon the local contest with all the morale that that victory can bestow. To meet this, Reformers should muster all their forces, arrange their plans, select their generals, and strengthen their banner—and falter not until victory has crowned their efforts. The chairman of each central committee should not delay in calling meetings for decided and united action.

THE POLICE MAGISTRACY

The complaints that have arisen here concerning the manner of dealing with the fees of the Police Court, suggests several ideas respecting a possible reform in the office of Police Magistrates. It is well known that the greater portion of the work of the Police Court consists in hearing cases from all parts of the country, and not necessarily confined to the limits of the County even. Though this be the fact the Magistrate's salary is provided wholly by the town. True, the Magistrate derives no inconsiderable income from those known as "outside cases"; and seeh being the fact, he will naturally be pleased to encourage this class of cases. And no one can blame him for so doing, so long as the attention devoted to them, does not lead to neglect of the cases essentially local, and hence not personally remunerative to him in themselves. The feeling does prevail though, among not a few of the townspeople, that the town should derive some benefit from these collections, which are now entirely devoted to the personal profit of the Police Magistrate. He, it is argued, gets his salary from the town, whether he hears hundreds of cases, or only one or two in the year; and he gets the hearing of "outside" suits in his official capacity, and not because he is Mr. Hatton. It is therefore held that the revenues derived from outside cases should, at least in part, be considered as lessening the amount paid him by the town as his official salary, instead of being merely a personal perquisite. The contention is plausible, too, whatever its weakness from the legal point of view. Looking from the opposite position it may pertinently be asked, "if the Police Magistrate attends faithfully to all the cases arising in the town, whose business is it how much more he does?" The town pays him for the performance of certain duties; and it may be legitimately held that outside of these duties the town is not concerned with his doings, other than that it might justly claim compensation for the use of its buildings, and employment of its officials by him.

In view of the payment by towns of Police Magistrates who do business for a wide district of country—contributing nothing, it has been suggested as a surely equitable arrangement that these officials should hold jurisdiction over a provincial court, and that their salaries should be paid out of the revenue of the Province.

In all towns wherein Police Magistrates have been appointed this same difficulty has arisen; and it is not a very difficult task to bring about united action on the part of all such towns for a reform. All that is necessary is sufficient interest on the part of some person or persons to take the matter in hand, and carry on the necessary correspondence. There can be no doubt that all the municipalities interested, being burdened with inevitable taxation, outside the provision of a Stipendiary Magistrate for their district, will gladly organize in the hope of securing relief from this apparent injustice. If the project be entered upon at once, a sufficient number of parliamentarians can be interested in the matter to influence the Legislature to take action in the matter at the approaching session.

A "HAIL" POORBACK.

An absurd story has been started by the Mail to the effect that a number of Reformers had "secretly" met to carry out plans for the elevation of Mr. Blake, to the leadership of the party. Mr. Brown, we are also told by the voracious Tory sheet is to be "deposed from the dictatorship"; and Mr. Mowat is to "ask him to lay down the rod." In the event of his refusal to relinquish what he does not hold, the Liberal journals are to revolt! A pretty programme truly, from a wild Tory point of view; but utterly ridiculous in the light of common sense. The story may have been intended as a joke, but if so, it was so clumsily told that the minor Tory journals could not see it as such, and have since been commenting on it seriously. Or it may be that it was sent abroad with a view of diverting public attention from the hollowness of Tory promises and pretensions in respect to Dominion affairs. However this may be, certain it is, that Reformers who may wish to see Mr. Blake in the position of leader, have no desire to harbour the thought in secret for a moment. The Reformers are not ashamed of their leading men, that they should fear to speak of them for any position. As for Mr. Brown's so-called dictatorship, he wields no rod that he should be asked to lay it down. The Grits are not the kind of people who follow blindly the beck and nod of any man. They are not so tractable in that way as the Tories; hence doubtless with greater difficulty of throwing them as a party bodily upon any given purpose of their leaders. A Grit is looked on by a Tory as Cassius was looked on when it was said of him, "He thinks too much: such men are dangerous." our thorough pleased Tory doesn't think too much. He merely looks up to his leader and obeys. He is to the Grit as the clod to the canaist. The trouble with the Mail as with other Tory journals is the utter incomprehensibility to them of the diverse discussions carried on by the Reform papers and the different views enunciated by them, and which prove to any intelligent mind that they are independent adherents to their party. Reform journalists are not afraid to propogate their ideas on the political questions of the day, or to suppress enquiry into subjects for the public good lest haply their words should be construed into an attack on their party. In this they may be indiscreet as partisans; but they are honest as patriots. Some Reform journals having expressed the opinion that Mr. Blake, should assume the leadership of the Opposition in the House of Commons, the Mail seemingly could not understand such references in any other light than revolt; and having the spectre of Globe power always before it, the basis of its tale was laid, while a vivid imagination filled up the details. Whether Mr. Blake become leader or not is a point to be decided by the Reformers themselves; and assuredly they will settle it without being influenced one way or the other by the frantic shriekings of the Mail and the party that apparently swallows its wildest utterances without mental questioning, however absurd the statement may be.

GRAND JUNCTION RAILWAY.

Whatever be the objective point finally of the Grand Junction Railway Company, certainly its financial condition can briefly and truthfully be described by the two words, "hard up." Hence the disinclination to abandon the work done between Campbellford and Hastings. But will it pay the company to persist in taking the Hastings route, in utter disregard of the aid to to derived from the eastern townships of Peterborough if the Norwood line be taken, and of the certain loss of all sympathy from this county unless that direction be adopted? From a merely pecuniary point of view, the construction of the line will best be proceeded with by choosing the eastward route. As far as this town is concerned, the people know that the Grand Junction enterprise will come to them in any case; so they do not see the necessity of granting a bonus. At the same time they are willing to look favourably on the Bellerville line as an assistance toward the building of the Toronto and Ottawa road. This can best be done by the choice of the Norwood route by the Grand Junction Company. It can hardly be expected that the people here will give a money grant to take the Grand Junction road away from them, especially as it may be looked on, and undoubtedly is, by its promoters, as calculated to take the trade of the back country to Belleville, rather than bring in to this town. But the eastern townships are surer for the road, and are willing to pay handsomely to get it In the obtaining of bonuses the influence of this town would go a good way; therefore it is hardly wise on the part of the Grand Junction Directors, to disregard the voice of popular sentiment here. We scarcely think they can afford to offend the townships willing to grant them aid, and the town ready to use its influence in their favour. We are sure it would pay them better to meet the Norwood and eastern townships people for an interchange of views. Whatever might be the result, the courtesy would not be entirely thrown away.

Death of the Princess Alice.

The cable despatches concerning the illness of the Princess Alice will have prepared the public for the sad news of her death, which occured at 7.30 Saturday morning. She has been ailing for some time past with diphtheria, a disease from which one of her children had been suffering. The deceased Princess was the second daughter and the third child of Queen Victoria. She was born on the 25th of April, 1843, and was consequently a trifle over thirty-five years of age at the time of her death. On the first of July, 1862, she was married to Prince Louis, Grand Duke of Hesse-Darmstadt, and has borne him seven children. Princess Alice was of a domestic disposition, and was liked by all. It is a remarkable coincidence that she died on the same day of the week, and the same day of the same month as her father, the late Prince Consort, whom she nursed during his fatal illness. The sad news of her death will cause a double pang in Canada since her sister, the Princess Louise, has come to reside here, and in her affliction the people will be of one sympathy of all true-hearted Canadians.

A FATAL SHOOTING AFFRAY.

William Montgomery Meets An Untimely End.

HE IS SHOT BY R. N. RODDY, DURING AN ALTERCATION.

The Ball Enters His Chest, Penetrates the Liver, and Causes Death.

The Dying Man's Statement—Roddy given Himself up—Montgomery Dies from the Effects of the Wound—The Coroner's Request—The Verdict—The Investigation before the Police Magistrate—Montgomery Admitted—Roddy committed to Gaol.

On Saturday evening last, about half past six, one of those terrible occurrences which so startle and shock a community took place in our usually quiet town. The intelligence that Robert N. Roddy during an altercation with Wm. Montgomery, had shot the latter, spread with rapidity, and in a short time prevailed on the streets. Numerous and varied were the accounts given of the occurrence, its origin, progress and ending, and all sorts of rumours were current. From what we gathered then, and subsequent facts gleaned from the enquiry held before the Coroner, it appears that Montgomery came into Roddy's Hotel that evening, and while there an altercation arose between he and Roddy, regarding a bottle of whiskey, which Montgomery accused Roddy of taking. Roddy denied the charge, and some hot words ensued, during which time the bottle was returned by the party who had taken it. By this time Montgomery, who it appears was under the influence of liquor, had become

THE GREATEST EXCITEMENT

VERY MUCH IRRITATED,

using abusive and profane language, when he was checked by Roddy who ordered the bar to be cleared, and all those in the room out. Those present left the room with the exception of Montgomery who refused to leave, and the front door as well as a side door leading to the sitting room, was locked by Roddy.

THE DEPUTS

at this stage appeared to refer to some previous dealings which the two had, and Montgomery becoming exasperated, seized a marble inkstand box off the counter to throw at Roddy but was stopped by the bar-tender who caught his hand. Further words ensued when Montgomery picked up a tumbler and dashed it at Roddy but missed him. He then endeavored to get hold of Roddy but the latter jumped the counter and was pursued by Montgomery, causing him to again jump over the counter two or three times.

A KETTLE OF HOT WATER

which sat on the counter was then either thrown at Roddy or shoved over the counter on him, when he drew a revolver and ordered Montgomery to stand back or he'd shoot him; immediately after, the first shot was fired; but as this appears not to have struck him, it is supposed to have been fired to frighten Montgomery into submission. It however only served to add fresh fuel to the flames, for Montgomery at once jumped upon the counter and endeavored to get hold of Roddy. The second and was then fired, and Roddy escaped from behind the bar out of the back door, pursued by Montgomery who slipped and fell. Upon rising he returned to the bar and sat down on a chair exclaiming,

FATAL SHOT

"MY GOD, I AM SHOT, NED,"

speaking to Edmund Allen, the bar-tender. By this time the crowd began to gather, and the door leading from the sitting room was forced open, and Constable Johnston who had arrived, on searching, discovered a small spot of blood on Montgomery's shirt. Roddy about the same time entered the bar-room, and gave himself up to Johnston, and requested that a doctor be sent for. Dr. Kincaid soon after arrived, and made an examination of the wound, and pronounced it fatal, and requested Montgomery to PREPARE FOR DEATH.

Other medical gentlemen (Drs. Bell, Bingham, Hourigan, and O'Sullivan,) were also called in, and did all in their power to alleviate his sufferings.

A Magistrate was sent for, and a deposition was taken, a copy of which will be found in the evidence following. Mr. D. G. Hatton, Police Magistrate, arrived shortly after, and committed Roddy to jail.

The Rev. Mr. Beck, and Col. Haultain, visited him several times, and prayed with him.

HIS DEATH.

On Sunday morning faint hopes were expressed that he would recover, but these were not borne out, as during the afternoon he became worse, and gradually sank until about eight o'clock, when he expired.

THE INQUEST.

An inquest was convened by Dr. Kincaid, Coroner, on Monday morning in Roddy's Hotel, the following gentlemen composing the jury:—

Jas. Hagan, Foreman.	Walter Paterson jun.
W. W. Johnston.	Maxwell Hall.
Robert Kloe.	R. Elegan.
John McClelland.	R. Tervas.
R. H. Green.	G. H. Leslie.
Daniel Hopkins.	Chas. Cameron.

Mr. W. H. Scott, Q. C., appeared on behalf of Roddy.

After being empanelled the jury proceeded to view the body, and concluded that a post mortem examination was unnecessary.

The Coroner cautioned the jury that the omission of the post mortem was a serious step, as no matter how satisfied they might be as to the cause of death, without it, they would be unable to prove by medical testimony what death ensued from.

A vote was then taken whether the examination should be held, and it was decided by a vote of nine to three to dispense with it, except if at a previous stage of enquiry it would be deemed advisable or necessary to hold it.

The examination of witnesses was then proceeded with. The first called being

THOMAS LEPLANTE, SWORN, said:—I was acquainted with the deceased. Saw deceased on Saturday evening before and after the occurrence. He was then in Roddy's bar-room. This was about half-past six. I heard a row in the bar, or loud talk. Was in the sitting room and went into the bar. Heard Roddy and deceased arguing. Roddy ordered all in the bar out. Went into the sitting room and met Mrs. Roddy. She was crying and called me over. She asked me for God's sake to go and try to get Robert out. She said she was afraid he would be hurted. I went out through the kitchen and came into the bar the back way. When I got in there Roddy was standing inside or behind the counter, and deceased was standing outside the counter. They appeared to be arguing about money. Roddy said:—"Bill, you owed me $100 when we settled up in the fall; I'll let you off for $75. Pay me like a man and leave the house," and he ordered him out. Deceased called him a liar and a son of a ——. They then had some hot words, and I went up to the deceased and asked him to come out, and he could settle some other time. He turned around and struck me on the side of the head—but not to hurt; it was more of a shove than a stroke. Ned Allen was present and came between us and said to never mind he would get him out. I then went out and stood at the back door, and I saw deceased rushing after Roddy, and in doing so got behind the counter, when Roddy stepped from behind the counter into the bar-room. Deceased followed him. Heard Roddy say, "stand back." I think he said "stand back or I'll shoot," or words to that effect. I then turned round and saw some person come up towards me, and noticed that it was Thomas Parlpe. I said to him "don't go any further as I think there is going to be more shooting done." We both stood outside and I saw into the bar-room. Roddy was then walking back, but I could not make out what they were saying. I saw deceased throw something like a bottle that stood on the counter. Heard Roddy say, "stand back or I'll shoot." I saw deceased and this I saw a flash and heard the report of a pistol. I saw deceased jump up on the counter after that, and I then heard another shot fired by Roddy, but could not say whether it was fired at deceased or at random. I then ran to the back yard. Roddy was then behind the counter, and deceased on top of the counter leaning over it, apparently trying to get at Roddy.

To the FOREMAN.—From the position I was in outside I could only see into a portion of the bar-room. Did not hear deceased say he was shot.

To a JURYMAN.—Roddy ran around the counter three or four times, and deceased after him. Saw the deceased pick up the kettle and throw it over the bar at Roddy. I saw Roddy point the pistol at deceased.

To Mr. SCOTT.—The bar is only open at one end. Where deceased jumped up on the counter he could reach over to where the bottles were, and was between Roddy and the entrance behind the counter, and could not get out unless coming in contact with deceased. Deceased was on the outside of the counter when the first shot was fired. Cannot say whether any of the shots struck deceased.

[In answer to the question of a juryman as to the position of deceased and Roddy in the bar-room, it was deemed advisable to inspect the room and its surroundings, and the jury thereupon proceeded to examine it.]

In continuation of the evidence witness said:—After the second shot was fired, I ran back further in the yard and seen Roddy coming out. Did not see any one follow him out.

[Mr. Scott, at this stage, asked to have Mr. Roddy present, and a constable was sent after him to the jail.]

EDMUND ALLAN, SWORN, said:—Was in the bar of Roddy's Hotel on Saturday night last, in my capacity as bar tender. Was a witness of the row that occurred there. The deceased had been in the house that evening for a long time and came into the bar-room about six o'clock. He was talking quietly until some one took a bottle of whiskey out of his pocket. He turned around and accused Roddy of taking it. Roddy said he did not, and Montgomery said he did. The person that took the bottle went to deceased and told him he took it in a joke, and gave it up. Deceased then said he would not allow any man to do that on him, and used very bad language—unfit to be repeated. Roddy then went to him and told him he would allow no such language used in his house. Deceased repeated the same bad language, and also added that he did not care for any landlord in the country. Roddy then asked the other parties present to leave the bar, and asked him to go also. He said he would not go; he would do just as he liked. Roddy said he wanted to be master of his own house and shut it up. Deceased said he would go out when he pleased, he did not care a d——n for him or any other son of a b——h. Both Roddy and I tried to persuade him to go out, but he would not. Mr. Roddy told him he would have to go, and he said he would not go. Roddy again told him to go, and he said he would not go and said to Roddy, you son of a —— if I had you I would fix you, and took up a large marble match box that stood on the counter to throw at him, but I took it out of his hands, deceased then said he would kill the son of a ——. Roddy was behind the counter, and deceased made a grab at him to catch him, and Roddy had to jump from behind the counter to the bar floor. Deceased went in behind the counter to catch Roddy, saying if he got him he would break his damned neck. To escape deceased, Roddy had to jump over the counter. Thomas Leplante then came into the bar, and went up to deceased and asked him to come out, saying that Roddy and he could settle it another day. He then struck Leplante in the ear. Roddy still kept asking him to leave, and deceased refused. He again came behind the counter to catch Roddy, and Roddy had again to jump over the counter. Deceased said if he caught him he would kill him. Roddy then said "keep away or I'll fire." Deceased refused Roddy, and again called him a son of a ——, using language unfit to be mentioned. Deceased the third time came around behind the counter, and tried to get at him, and Roddy had again to jump over the counter. Deceased then threw a tumbler at him, missing him. He then struck a coffee kettle that stood on the counter, knocking it over behind the counter where Roddy was, and tried to throw it at him. Then Roddy fired at him, but did not hit him. Deceased then jumped on top of the counter, swearing he would kill Roddy, when Roddy fired on him again. As soon as Roddy fired the second shot he ran out of the bar, and deceased followed him and would have caught him only he fell. Deceased then came into the bar and sat down on a chair and said, "My God, I am shot, Ned." I said "you are not Bill" and he said "I am." He asked for a drink of water and I gave it to him. He then wanted to lay down and we carried him up stairs to bed.

To the JURY.—He shoved the kettle off the counter with his hand over against where Roddy stood. Heard only two shots fired. Deceased was the worse of liquor. There are three doors leading out of the bar room. The one leading to the sitting room was locked. He could not say whether Roddy could have got out by the front door without fear of deceased catching him. The revolver used was kept in the bar-room. Roddy was not in Roddy's pocket. Roddy sent some one for a constable but when he arrived deceased had been shot and was sitting in the chair. The revolver was taken out of a drawer. Mr. Roddy told him he would shoot him, and deceased defied him, and said he would kill him. From the language used I feel satisfied that he would have killed Roddy, had he caught him.

To Mr. SCOTT.—The marble match box would weigh about ten or fifteen pounds. Deceased was a strong, powerful man and Roddy a small man, and not more than a pipe stem in his hands had he got hold of him. Deceased bore a very bad reputation as a fighting man, and the generality of the people were afraid of him. He had lately been punished for an assault upon some Government Officer at Robcaygeon. These times that Roddy jumped from behind the counter, deceased kept following him so quick that Roddy had not time to open and escape through any door. The back door was the only one that was open. To escape either by the back door or the door leading into the sitting room Roddy would have had to pass the deceased. The front door was a double one, and the inside one would have to be open first before Roddy could have escaped. There was no chance for Roddy to escape by this door without being caught by deceased. Roddy told him he would have him arrested. This was before the row. Roddy seemed exhausted and fatigued from the effects.

To a JUROR.—Roddy escaped while deceased was jumping off the counter, after the second shot was fired. After Roddy cleared the bar-room he said "won't some one go for a constable."

To Mr. SCOTT.—It seems to me that deceased came out on the floor and jumped up on the counter for the purpose of cornering him and catching him, thus preventing Roddy from escaping over the counter as he had previously done.

R. W. BELL, M. D., C. M., on being sworn said:—On Saturday night between half past six and seven o'clock I was called upon to see deceased. On proceeding to the room I found deceased lying in bed, and Dr. Kincaid in attendance, who showed me the wound and informed me he had probed it but could not find the bullet. The wound was in the right breast, and the ball evidently had pierced the lower portion of the right lung. Deceased at that time was in a state of hemorrhage, and suffering from the shock. I was in and out of the room for the next hour in attendance. The deceased was fast sinking. I again returned at about 10 o'clock and remained till about half-past eleven, there was a slight change in the condition of the deceased for the better. I would not say that the ball had a vital organ. In my opinion the ball went through the lung but would not prove it a mortal death. Would not say positively it was mortal. All that could possibly be done was done to remunerate the patient. He could not say without a post mortem whether the bullet was the direct cause of his death.

The FOREMAN of the Jury said he thought it advisable to hold a post mortem, and suggested an adjournment of the enquiry until evening, during which time it might be held.

The enquiry was therefore adjourned till half-past 6 o'clock, to meet in the Council Chamber.

At 7 p. m., the enquiry was again continued, Mr. W. H. Scott, Q. C., and J. F. Dunnigan, Q. C., appeared for the defence, and Hon. Sidney Smith, Q. C., for the prosecution.

THOMAS ROBYN, was sworn, said:—I had occasion to go out in our yard, which is adjacent to Roddy's, and heard the row. My attention was attracted by loud voices. I went over to the back door of the bar and there met Thomas Leplante. I asked him what was going on, and he said Montgomery and Roddy were having a row. He also said don't go any further, I expect there will be some shooting done there. I remained outside and could see the bar counter and all behind the bar, but could not see deceased. Could see Roddy. Deceased was talking in a very loud voice and was striking the counter with his hands. I cannot say whether he picked up and threw the brass kettle that sat on the counter, or knocked it over with his hands, but it fell over at Roddy's feet. Roddy told him to "stand back," and then fired, but can't say who or what he fired at. Deceased then sprang on the counter towards Roddy, and was in the act of springing over the counter at Roddy, when Roddy fired the second shot. Roddy then ran out to the door as which we were standing. I then ran back into the yard, away from the hotel and towards our own door.

To a JURYMAN.—I did not see deceased behind the bar. The first I saw of him was when he jumped up on the counter. I was not at the back door more than five minutes, when the first shot was fired, I should say about two minutes after I got there. I would not swear, but it is my firm belief that Roddy could not have got away before deceased would have caught him.

To Mr. SCOTT.—The turning over the hot water kettle took place immediately after I got there. I think deceased had his coat off.

To Mr. SMITH.—I could not see whether there was any other person besides deceased and Roddy in the bar-room. There was an interval of about a minute between the two shots. There was no interval between the time of the second shot and Roddy's movement towards the door. Could not say whether they were drunk or sober.

WILLIAM RAE, sworn, said:—I reside in the Township of Smith, I do not know much about the affair as I was not in the bar-room until after the shots were fired, but was on the premises, being in the sitting room. I did not see the row but heard some person, that I thought was Roddy say deceased was a rogue, deceased said he was not as big a rogue as Roddy. Something more was then said, and I heard deceased call Roddy a liar. I then heard the noise of something falling. I afterwards heard the shots fired. There were two.

To Mr. SMITH.—There was a very short interval between the two shots. I saw both of them after the occurrence. Roddy came into the sitting room about a minute or two after the second shot. Montgomery was standing in the bar-room when I entered the room, with his hand upon the bar.

To Mr. SCOTT.—Deceased had his coat off when I saw him.

To the FOREMAN.—Mr. Roddy came into the sitting room, but can't say where he came from, as I did not see him enter the room. Roddy gave himself up to the Constable then. He said he shot Montgomery in self defence. I did not see the pistol at any time.

Mr. SMITH said he saw by the papers that a dying statement had been made. This was a most important paper. He would like to have it procured.

A messenger was then sent for Mr. Fairbairn, the Magistrate who took the deposition.

JOHN MINORS, of the town of Peterborough, confectioner, sworn, said:—Was in Roddy's bar-room on Saturday evening about six o'clock. About eleven minutes to six I left work and proceeded down Hunter street, and was attracted there by being told there was going to be a row. As I was passing the door some one opened it, and I heard deceased speaking, I knew his voice but could not tell what he was saying. I entered the bar-room. I saw deceased standing with his elbow on the counter, with his back towards the door. I put my hand on his shoulder and said, "Is this you William." He said "yes, is that you candy man." When we were conversing Mr. Roddy was sitting on the chair behind him. There was something apparently wrong about him. We were conversing about some difficulty he had in Bridgenorth. When deceased said he would have satisfaction—upon whom I don't know. I said to him then, you have a very dangerous weapon in your pocket, you have better give it to me. This weapon was a black bottle. He would not give it to me then, but I took it out of his pocket afterwards. He knew I took it. I took the bottle with me out to the sitting room, and asked him to come with me and tell his grievance. He followed me only a few paces. When I missed him I went back to find him, and heard him using very loud and profane language to Mr. Roddy. Mr. Roddy said. "I am the proprietor of this house and will allow no such language in it." Then Roddy ordered the bar to be cleared, and all hands out. I again asked deceased to come out quietly with the rest, but he would not. He said he did not care for any landlord in the county. Roddy then said "If you do not I will send for the police." Deceased said, "do so," with another oath. I then went out into the sitting room and the door from this room to the bar was locked. When in the sitting room I heard considerable noise but could see nothing. Saw deceased after he was shot.

To a JURYMAN.—An interval of about ten minutes elapsed between the time the bar was cleared and the firing of the shots. Roddy said he would go for the police, or send for them.

To Mr. SMITH.—Roddy when he came into the sitting room, told the parties to force the door open. Deceased was the worse of liquor. Roddy and the chief constable went for the doctor.

To a JURYMAN.—I do not know why deceased persisted in accusing Roddy of having the bottle, as he knew I had it, for I told him I had.

ROBERT FAIRBAIRN, J. P., sworn said: Mr. C. D. Macdonald came for me on Saturday evening and said I must come immediately as a dying man wanted to make some statement. I went to Roddy's Hotel, and found deceased apparently very weak, lying in bed. I told him what I came for; asked him if he believed he was dying, and he said yes. I asked him if he had any statement he wished to make and he said he had. This was about half-past six o'clock. I took down a statement from him and now produce it.

Mr. SCOTT, wished it be understood that he thought the evidence had not gone far enough to show that this declaration was admissible, unless not being sufficient foundation for it to be read in evidence.

The following is the dying statement read by Mr. Fairbairn, and handed to the Coroner.

He also said he read it over to the deceased before he signed it:—

I think I am a dying man. Bob Roddy shot me. He spoke to me—got out of my house first. Everything was right. I will pay you, you have my cash in your safe. It cost me $100. He shot me because he owed me. He shot me to cause I would not cheat the people.

Witness: C. D. MACDONALD, G. W. HALL. his WILLIAM × MONTGOMERY. mark.

B. W. BELL, M. D., sworn, said:—He, and Dr. Hourigan had made a post mortem examination between two and three past six that afternoon. Had not their report in as fit state to read, but would give the notes they had taken. They found a wound in the right chest, passing under the eighth rib, thence through the right lobe of the liver, wounding the pulmonal blood vessels of it. The ball was not found imbedded in the body of the deceased but lodged in the [illegible] of the third lumbar vertebra. The ball was very much deformed, and had evidently struck something before entering the body. The right portion of the liver [illegible] was completely [illegible] and the [illegible] lower portion of the right lung [illegible] of fluid and [illegible] blood, found in the cavity surrounding it. All the other organs examined were healthy. Believe that death caused from the wounding of the blood vessels of the liver.

DR. HOURIGAN, sworn, said:—He assisted Dr. Bell in making the post mortem examination on the body of the deceased. He agreed with his statements as to the cause of death.

GEORGE JOHNSTON, Chief Constable sworn said:—On Saturday evening when passing Roddy's bar room I heard what I thought was a pistol shot, this was followed by another and I rushed into the house. I went into the sitting room and heard some one say "He is shot" and I asked "who" some of them said Roddy and others said Montgomery. When I got into the bar. I saw deceased sitting on a chair. He spoke, saying "George, I am shot." I came forward and put my hand on his left shoulder and said he was not shot. He said he was and I looked on his right side and saw a spot of blood. I then said he was shot. Just then Roddy came out of the sitting room and said "George, it was me done it and I give myself up to you; let us go for a doctor." I went out to the street and saw Joseph Green sitting in a cutter and I asked him to drive me to Dr. Kincaid's, I then went for him and while he was getting ready, Roddy arrived with a box and asked Kincaid to harry up as he had shot deceased

To Mr. SCOTT,—He said afterward that he could not help it. He had shot him in self defence as he was afraid deceased would have killed him. This is all I know about the death of deceased.

EDMUND ALLEN re-called:—He produced the revolver. Had found it on the bar. Deceased took off his coat after the other people left the room, and refused to leave the room. The front door was fastened by a bar of iron, and a person to get out of this door would have to close the inside door before he could open the outside one.

To Mr. SMITH.—Sometimes deceased put up at Roddy's and sometimes not. He got no meals there on Saturday, but was in and out of the house. I only gave him one glass of liquor during the day. He was not sober that evening. Mr. Roddy locked the door leading to the sitting room. The back door was open. He refused to go out of any door. I saw him go towards the drawer where the revolver was, after telling him this. I heard no warning given between the shots. Could not say whether deceased had hold of Roddy when the second shot was fired. Could not see much for the steam. I put the pistol into the drawer in the bar room that night after the shooting. It was given to me by Charles Ridley.

This concluded the evidence.

The CORONER, then briefly addressed the JURY, after which they retired, and after an absence of a little over an hour returned; and rendered the following verdict, signed by all the Jurors:

THE VERDICT.

"We, the undersigned empanelled as jurors in the matter of the investigation, as to the death of the late William Montgomery, have concluded that the aforesaid William Montgomery came to his death by a bullet fired from a pistol in the hands of R. N. Roddy, at the house of the latter, on the evening of the 14th December, instant, and from the evidence given at the inquest we are of opinion that the aforesaid R. N. Roddy, in doing so, acted in self-defence."

The CORONER, after thanking the Jury for their attendance and careful attention to the evidence, dismissed them.

BEFORE THE POLICE MAGISTRATE.

After the adjournment of the inquest, on Monday noon, R. N. Roddy was taken before the Police Magistrate on a charge preferred by constable Johnston, for having shot William Montgomery with intent to kill. The case was however remanded till Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, when an application for a further enlargement was made by Mr. H. H. Smith, who appeared on behalf of deceased's friends.

Mr. SCOTT said that except there was an assurance that additional evidence to that taken at the Coroner's inquest, was forthcoming an enlargement should not be granted. All the evidence of importance that possibly could bear on the case was given before the Coroner's jury and they had returned a verdict of justifiable homicide. It was unfair and unnecessary to detain the man in custody any longer.

Mr. SMITH said the friends of the deceased would produce evidence to show there was malice on the part of accused, and as it would take some time to produce the witnesses he wished for an enlargement. They had also made application to have the case taken in charge by the Crown.

His WORSHIP thought the question of justification not a question to be decided upon by him, but one that should be decided by a jury. He thought while it was not right to detain the accused in custody, still a reasonable enlargement might be given. Nothing should be done that might be construed into barking enquiry. He would therefore enlarge the case till 12 o'clock.

At 12 o'clock the case came up for hearing again and a number of witnesses were examined. As the evidence taken was merely a repetition of that taken at the Coroner's inquest, it is unnecessary to reproduce it.

COMMITTED FOR MANSLAUGHTER.

Mr. SMITH said he was instructed by the friends of deceased to consent to the committal being for manslaughter, and to bail being taken.

Mr. SCOTT, then applied to the Police Magistrate to accept bail, but the Magistrate declined, holding that he had not the power.

Mr. SCOTT, after a long interval, stated that Mr. Deanistoun, Mr. Smith, and himself, had spoken to Mr. Weller, the County Attorney, who thought the Police Magistrate had power to take bail.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.

The Magistrate thought that he had not the power, and would not go against his convictions. The circumstance warranted him saying that this act was not premeditated, so he would commit the prisoner for trial for manslaughter.

BAIL ACCEPTED.

Mr. SCOTT stated that he would apply to the County Judge during the afternoon, for bail. This was done and the Judge allowed it. Bail was taken for $2,000; Roddy in $1,000, and two sureties each in $500.

A Step Onward.

(From the Norwood Baptist.)

We are glad to notice that our contemporary the Peterborough EXAMINER, has so far sacrificed its political proclivities as to give some attention to topics of more importance than the oft repeated political tirades it has been in the past furnishing its readers. Of course we have no objection to political papers discussing political questions, but these kind of papers generally overstep the bounds of discretion upon these questions, to the detriment of those interests of just as much importance to the welfare of the country as the constant and useless abuse of political opponents. Now we hope the EXAMINER will continue its good offices in the agitation of the Railway interests of this County. By the apathy of the Peterborough people, and considerable blame is to be attached to the press of that place—our enterprising County Town—for no one can gain any the enterprise and progressiveness of its people—has lost the whole of the trade of the Back Country, and it is well known that that trade in the past condoned consistently to the present prosperity of Peterborough, and would we have no hesitation in saying, would still be entrusted to them were it at hand. Now alive to its interests, and not silenced Lindsay, by its Railway enterprise, to become the centre of a large trading community, and the latter town is now monopolizing the just pursuit of its county and commerce, having direct railway communication with all the principal business places almost in every direction of the compass.

Obviously it is to the interests of Peterborough to encourage Railway connection eastward and westward, and thus secure to its inhabitants the facilities of easy and direct transit to the leading commercial markets, and save by so doing the extra outlay caused by transhipments. Let the leading people of that Town, having already voted handsome bonuses to two railway projects, go to work to secure the co-operation of the Toronto and Ottawa and the Grand Junction companies, so that these two lines, as far as this County is concerned, could be submerged into one, and the track, if possible, utilized, for some time at all events by both companies. We are of opinion that neither company will be able to prosecute work through this County without some amicable understanding is arrived at, as it would be extreme folly to locate two lines of railway running in juxtaposition for many miles through a sparsely settled country, and is is doubtful too whether the Government would subsidize two roads running for such a distance parallel to each other.

Peterborough is losing yearly a large amount of trade from its eastern Townships, for the want of those Railway facilities which encourage the rapid sale of all kinds of grain, as more favourable grain markets for farmers in those municipalities have been found elsewhere, and where farmers dispose of their produce, it follows that they, to some extent at least, do their trading also. With Railway communication eastward and westward, there is no reason why Peterboro' should not become one of the most profitable grain markets in Ontario; and with its unlimited facilities for manufacturing lumber, and carrying on other remunerative branches of industry,—possessing of course the necessary Railway accommodation for shipping purposes—there is every probability of that Town becoming one of the greatest business centres of the Dominion.

We hope the Peterborough papers will unitedly take this subject up, and strive to impress upon the minds of their readers the fact that now is the time to successfully carry out a practical Railway system for the mutual benefit of the Towns people, and we think for the welfare of the County, which, as much as the Town, stand in need of Railway assistance. If Peterborough will not help us, then we will be compelled to look elsewhere for that outlet for our grain and produce which naturally should find its way to our County Town.

The Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, DEC. 19, 1878.

LOCAL NEWS.

Town Council.—Regular meeting of the Town Council next Monday evening.

No. 2 Ward.—Mr. J. L. Hughes, we believe, is again to be a candidate for No. 2 Ward.

Grange Soiree.—A soiree under the auspices of L. O. L. 634 will be held in the Town Hall, Bridgenorth, on Christmas Day.

Tea Party.—W. J. Laurence being too busy this week to prepare an advertisement, wishes the reader to look out for his special announcement next week.

Christmas Tree.—An entertainment will be given in the Town Hall, Ashburnham, in aid of the St. Luke's Church Sabbath School, on Monday evening next.

Proctor Recital.—A social entertainment will be given at Mrs. Jodhrs', on Friday evening, in aid of the Charlotte-street Methodist Sabbath School. Admission 15 cents. All are invited.

Personal.—The Rev. W. Bennet, having removed from Springville to Peterborough, all communications for the Clerk of the Presbytery of Peterborough should be addressed accordingly.

The Pay Sisters.—This theatrical company were advertised for the Opera House, here, on Monday evening; but failed to put in an appearance. The printers and bill poster, we believe, are the only losers.

Collegiate Institute.—The Intermediate Examination and also the examination for admission to the Collegiate Institute are being held this week. The number of candidates respectively are 33 and 44. It is believed that a large per centage will be successful.

Classical Education.—It must be gratifying to parents to know that their boys have so perfectly acquired Latin that they are able to use it in ordinary discourse. Two of them were one day engaged in pummelling each other, when a third cried out, "See si twoos, Romeo!"

New Tug.—Mr. T. G. Choate has purchased from Messrs. Brown & St. Charles, of Belleville, a handsome new canalboat for the accommodation of the patrons of the Choate House. It is the same one that took first prize at the Provincial Exhibition, and is a credit alike to the Choate House and its manufacturers.

Change of Time Table.—The Midland Railway's winter time table comes into effect to-day. Trains going south will leave Peterborough at 6.15 a.m., 10.30 a. m., and 6.40 p. m.; those going north arrive here at 8.55 a.m., 12.20 p.m., and 6.30 p.m. It will be seen that the evening train train to Lakefield has been dispensed with.

Fire.—Early last Thursday morning Romaine's Brick Works were discovered to be on fire and an alarm was immediately given. The Fire Brigade promptly turned out, and the fire was speedily extinguished. The fire-proof nature of the structure prevented the spread of the flames, and consequently little damage was done.

Holiday Season.—In consequence of Christmas and New Year falling on Wednesday, our usual publication day, we have decided to issue on the Tuesday evening previous to each holiday. Advertisements for insertion will therefore require to be handed in not later than Tuesday noon, and those for changes by Monday noon, of each week.

I. O. L. No. 60.—At the last regular monthly meeting of the above lodge, held in the Orange Hall, the following members were elected officers for the ensuing year:—Maxwell Hall, W. M.; Adam Dawson, D. M.; David Carlisle, Chaplain; John Smith, Sec'y; Thomas Brown, Treas.; John Sharp, Senior Committeeman.

Runaway.—On Saturday morning last, a horse belonging to Mr. J. E. Belcher ran away on Queen street, upsetting the sleigh to which it was attached, and throwing out its occupants, Mrs. Macdonald and a child. We are sorry to say Mrs. Macdonald received a fracture of the arm and dislocation of the shoulder. A number of other runaways have occurred during the week, but nothing serious happened.

Bankrupt Stock.—By reference to advertisement in another column it will be seen that Messrs. W. Gilbert & Co. have purchased the bankrupt stock of R. A. Brown, and will this week commence a great clearing sale, continuing until the whole is disposed of. As the stock was purchased at a very low rate, and must be cleared off immediately, bargains will be sure to be given. See hand bills for price list.

Accident.—On Monday while the eldest son of Mr. Jas T. Stenson, a boy aged about eleven years, was being drawn on a hand sleigh by a dog, he got by some means into collision with a farmer's sleigh, and being close to the horse one of them became frightened and kicked him in the head, driving in a portion of the skull. Dr. Kincaid was called in and under his attendance there is strong hopes of his recovery.

Ministerial Association.—At a meeting of the Ministerial Association of Peterborough, held on December 2nd, the following was moved by Rev. Mr. Bell, and seconded by Rev. Mr. Mathews:—

"That the Association has no objection to any of the Sabbath in view, Absentees of all public meetings, provided that are not of a strictly religious character, and that are celebrated at hours not interfering with the regular congregational arrangements for worship."

Election of Officers.—At the regular monthly meeting of the Knights of St. Patrick, No. 6 of the I. C. B. U. of Canada, held in their hall on Friday evening last, the following officers were duly elected and installed for the ensuing year, viz.:—Rev. J. Coughlin, President; Rev. W. Redden, Vice-President; Rev. P. Cleary, Recording Secretary; Rev. T. O'Connell, Financial Secretary; Rev. M. Brown, Treasurer; Rev. J. Lonby, Tyler.

Look Out for Them.—Those of our readers who are fortunate enough to get hold of any Old Gilt Edge Bank Notes had better scrutinize them closely, especially if they are on the Ontario bank, as there are counterfeits in circulation. The counterfeits are easily detected by the following points: It is a little coarser in the engraving; it has a greasy feeling, [illegible] and the paper is somewhat finer and softer; and on the back of the notes the inscription "British American Bank Note Company, Montreal and Ottawa," does not appear at all.

Sad Accident at Young's Point.

Thomas Goodfield, while Duck Shooting, Drowned out of his Canoe and Died of Exhaustion caused by Exposure to the Inclemency of the Weather.

Last Saturday afternoon, a blacksmith named Thomas Goodfield, living at Young's Point, observed some ducks in the Lake below the village. He procured his gun and started off in his canoe [illegible] and obtain a shot at them. A short time after, some women heard calls for help coming down the Lake, but could see no one. One of them, Indeed Mr. Richard Phelan, who with Mr James Kearney, got a canoe and started down the lake to seek the cause of the calls. Some one on shore told them the cries seemed to come from the back of the first island, but on arriving there no one was to be seen. They kept on, and came distance further down the Lake found a canoe floating bottom up. They took it ashore and emptied the water out, when Mr. Phelan got in and they returned towards home, one keeping each side of the Lake. On arriving at the first island they had passed on the way down, Mr Kearney observed the body on the ice about twenty feet from the open water. He had broken eight or ten feet before he had got to ice strong enough to support him, and had dragged himself a short distance further, when he seems to have become exhausted by the cold and his struggles ended in death. Both gentlemen at once done all in their power to revive him, and, as soon as they could, got him over to Mr. Kearney's, and again attempted to bring him to, but without avail. A messenger was despatched for Dr. Bell, of Lakefield, who went up and held an inquest, at which a verdict was rendered "that the deceased came to his death by exposure to the inclemency of the weather, on the ice, after being accidently upset out of his canoe."

He was a man of about 35, and leaves a wife but no children. The body was taken to Clifton, Ont., on Monday, for interment.—Com.

THE "REGISTER'S" ACCUSATION.

We cannot permit to go unchallenged the introductory remarks of the article from the Norwood Register, reproduced in another column. We are directly accused of furnishing "political tirades," and of "constant and useless abuse of political opponents." We positively and emphatically deny the whole statement, and ca[illegible] the Register to produce proof or at least explain what it means by such strong accusation. We have discussed political questions vigorously, we admit, as occasion demanded; but we believe our opponents will agree that we have been fair in argument, and not given to useless abuse. Can the Register point out instances of what it calls "useless abuse of political opponents?" We are at a loss also to conceive what the Register can mean by "matters of more importance" than these political questions that concern the welfare of the whole people. It would seem that the Register cannot separate the word "political," from some sinister meaning; whereas it is positively wholesome word to those who think no evil of it. Indeed this very railway question that the Register is so pleased to see us take up is but part of the politics of our Province. Politics can best be discussed without the introduction of partisan or personal bitterness; but even the excitement of pressing honest conviction, is better than the sinking of one's views at a time when the good of one's country requires their assertion. We presume it was fear to overstep its miserable "bounds of discretion" that made the Register smother its Free Trade convictions at a time when duty called on it to aver them, and to fight back the advance of the Protectionist movement. Possibly it is "discretion" that keeps it still oblivious to the necessity of reviving its Free Trade doctrines now more than ever. Some people would call it by harsher names. But we do think the Norwood paper oversteps the bounds of discretion in the interests of the county, and its own locality in particular, when it accuses the press of this town of apathy in railroad matters. We need only only point to former and frequent allusions of the Examiner to the advisability of opening up railway communication towards the north, as proof of something else than apathy, and then assure our Norwood friend that had the press and people of Peterborough been blindly eager for railways, there would be no chance now of their assisting Norwood, in the laudable desire to obtain a road. Its favourite virtue of "discretion" might have taught the Register to be at least just, if not generous, to friends of its village and locality and consequently of itself. But enough of this: lest the Register think us zealously abusive!

The U. S. Signal Service.

[illegible] wild and unaccountable forces of nature are, through science, made of use to [illegible] the U.S. Signal Service. It is not wonderful that a system could be established and practised whereby an opinion may be reasonably predict the weather of a distant locality? And yet experience proves our "storm signals" to be reliable. Equally great are the advances made in the science of medicine. Step by step, uncertainties and doubts have yielded to established certainty. The discoveries of Harvey and others have been carried to the climax in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, or, Dr. V. Faith, Hope, Charity.

FAITH.

Faith is the violet of the soul,
Its fragrance soothing the human breast,
In sorrow's hour it grows not,
Whatever it there is no self-control,
The solemn sun connecting o'er her heads,
The poor man struggling in the days of youth,
When e'er on earth there are human needs,
It serves to desire or virtue and of truth.
It is a unison in the dying hour,
When the [illegible]
A [illegible]
That [illegible]
O! give to faith when dark clouds lower,
That [illegible]

HOPE.

Hope is the very brightest flower
That blooms our paths among;
And like a crown to some
It lends a charm to the darkest hour,
When [illegible]
We [illegible]
But seldom do we realize
The sweet freedom of our hopes;
A sweet perfume, borne on the breath
Of all the winds that blow,
In the morn with joyous hearts we rise,
At eve—contentment even
Is oftimes when to our eyes
Alone the one beam through our hopes.

CHARITY.

The divinest plant in Charity.
We only see it here and there—
Gathered and mashed, sweet and fair—
Blooming in its early purity.
We see it set in the lowly place
Of in the highest walks of man,
With its simple, sweet and saintly gems.
Over-run with Love's bright diadem.
Its incense purifies the soul;
It makes us kind to our kind;
And, as the years look from us roll,
Grow better, both in heart and mind.
It is a chain whose links doth bind
The angels to the human soul.

Suicide for Love.

LITTLE FALLS, N. Y., Dec. 13.—Miss Annie Gilleland, of Bolton, a highly respected young lady, committed suicide to-day with laudanum. It is stated that he parents are wealthy, and opposed her betrothal to a young man at Leeds, Greene county. She left a note saying that her life was a burden.

Her Majesty Threatened.

London, Dec. 13.—A man named Madden was arraigned yesterday charged with having made threats against the life of the Queen. He has been a harmless lunatic for twenty years. Madden wrote to Lord Lyons and the Home Secretary last May and wrote again to the latter recently saying he would go to Balmoral and change the form of Government unless a thousand pounds were given him.

Huge Commercial Swindle.

Boston, Mass., Dec. 15.—A series of commercial swindles have been unearthed here. There are several gangs of bogus commission merchants doing business here under an organized leader, who supplies all the capital required. The method is to obtain consignments of all kinds of produce on credit by means of fictitious circulars, quoting high prices, and disposing of the same in New York at low rates. More than a million dollars has been realized already, and as the law does not reach them the business is still in a thriving condition.

The Broken Bank in England.

The circulation of the West of England and South Wales District Bank is limited to £83,536. The number of shareholders is 2,020, chiefly persons of small means. The nominal capital was one million pounds, and the reserve fund £186,000. The dividend for 1877 was eight per cent. The failure is attributed to depression of business in South Wales. The National Provincial Bank is prepared to advance 50 per cent. to depositors in the West of England and South Wales District Bank. Several friendly societies had accounts in the latter, including a fund subscribed at Newport for the relief of the Abercarn colliery sufferers. Already a few small returns in Lazelly are reported.

One of the Bad Habits of City Life.

It is impossible for a young man or a young woman who is at all fashionable, in the city, to habitually get to bed early, because it is inconsistent with participation in social entertainments and in any popular amusements.

The effect of late hours on the health is marked. For some causes, not fully known, sleep before midnight seems to afford more recuperative power to the system than that which is obtained towards morning.

Late hours tell injuriously upon the looks, too, as well as on the health. Our city belles soon fade. And many a girl has given her hand where her heart went not, and accepted an offer she would otherwise have rejected because she saw that the roses, almost as soon as they had bloomed in her cheeks, were fading out under the gaslight of midnight entertainments.

It is easier to state this evil than to devise a remedy with the slightest prospect of its adoption; for health, beauty, and life itself will long continue to be sacrificed at the shrine of imperious fashion.

How the Princess Looks.

The Princess lunched with her brother, the Duke of Edinburgh, and returned to the Hermitage late in the afternoon. The dress of the Princess was of black silk trimmed with fur, and she wore a knowing little Astrachan cap with a red pompon, which was the only bit of positive color in her toilet. The Princess is certainly a more comely woman, as I have said, than any of her royal sisters. None of her photographs do her justice. Her eyes are of a dreamy blue, her hair of a rich brown, and her figure is as graceful and symmetrical as that of a Princess should be. She is not a very tall woman, but she looks as if she were by the side of her husband, who is unquestionably short, and, for so young a man unquestionably stout. His face has not only broadened since he was in America twelve years ago, but the lines have grown stronger and manlier. The very light reddish hue in his light side-whiskers, and his hair, at the first glance might lead a careless observer to think him older than he is, as it might be taken for a positive gray; but upon a closer inspection he appears even younger than he is, by reason of his fresh smooth complexion. Though the day was bright with sunshine, and rather warm, the Marquis wore this morning a top-coat richly lined with fur.—N. Y. World.

Packing Butter for Market.

We notice in these journals devoted to the interest of dealers a great deal of good advice about packing butter, but unfortunately the advice in such papers never comes, unless it is copied by an agricultural or a daily paper, to the notice of the farmer. A great deal of butter—good butter, too—is rendered next to worthless by the wretched manner in which it is packed for market. The eye has a great influence on the stomach. The most delicious thing that was ever made in the shape of an edible is repulsive if it is not in a form to attract the eye. Some of our pomologists, in obedience to this demand of the eye, urgently advocate the growing of fruit that will attract it in certain markets (the Heathers, for instance, where fruit is largely bought by the colored people upon sight,) and they go so far—some of them—that they would sacrifice quality to looks. This is not right, and should not be encouraged, but it shows that the eye has a good deal to do with what we buy and eat. Our dairymen and our dairywomen—women are being too much left out of the dairy business in our discussions of dairy questions, &c the common farm, where they do most of it, is certainly too important to be [illegible] put their butter in such packages that it will look well and attractive. [illegible] some improvement [illegible] cent. It may pay to [illegible] in an [illegible] dozen [illegible] begin [illegible] from [illegible] Western [illegible].

New Indians Marry.

Wives Obtained by Bargains and Not by Marriage Ceremonies.

An interesting account of how Indians are given in marriage, is given by Commissioner Hagy. He says that at present there are no valid marriages among the Indians, except where, in a few instances, a marriage ceremony is performed by the agent. The custom among the Cougre is about the same as among other tribes not fully civilized, and is somewhat as follows: A man who desires to marry goes to the lodge of the woman he proposes to marry and sits down outside the door, awaiting an invitation to go in. At first he sends a present of a pony, and if in response to the gift there is no invitation to come within the lodge he sends another pony as a present; if the second does not answer the purpose, a third, fourth, fifth or even a tenth is sent. When the number of ponies is satisfactory to the father, the donor is invited within, and the bargain is done. If it so happens that he takes the oldest girl in the family he is entitled to take all her younger sisters to himself, or, if he does not take them for himself, he bargains with any after applicants for their possession. The whole proceeding is a mere matter of bargain and sale, in which women are disposed of without their consent and very much like cattle in the market. There is no there any limit to the number of wives, as they are called, which an Indian may have, and by their custom he can change the occupants of his lodge as often as he chooses.

A Romance in Real Life.

From the Court Circular.

An observant spectator will notice that the first floor windows of a large house at the corner of Norfolk street, London, presents a popular appearance. The shutters are up, and they are covered thickly with dust, whilst through the chinks can be seen the blinds, also thick with dust, and mouldering away with age. These shutters and blinds have been in exactly the same position, untouched, for more than forty years. During that time no human foot has entered that room. And the reason is this: Forty years ago—more than forty—Lord Dysart was engaged to be married, the day was fixed, the wedding morning arrived, the breakfast was laid out in that spacious and handsome room the bridegroom was ready to proceed to church, when it was discovered that the bride was missing. A note in her handwriting was found addressed to the bridegroom, briefly informing him that she had eloped that morning with his best man, a gay and gallant captain of dragoons. The jilted bridegroom did not say much, but he went alone to the room in which the wedding breakfast was laid out, with his own hands put up the shutters and drew the blinds, locked the door, and took the key. He gave orders that the door should be nailed up and barred with padlocked bars, and that no one should enter the room again. When the house was let it was stipulated that the room in question should remain untouched, and the sum of £200 per annum was paid to the tenant to compensate him for the deprivation of the use of the room. The room has never been entered since the day he closed it, and there are the "wedding meats" mouldering silently away, and the ornaments clumping into dust in the funeral gloom.

Daring Robbery in Business Hours.

$100,000 in Bonds Carried Off.

ST. JOHN, N. B., December 12.—One of the most daring and successful robberies ever perpetrated in St. John, was executed yesterday afternoon, when the private office of Turnbull & Co., on Ward street was entered, and bonds, stock certificates, and other valuable papers, in all, to the value of over one hundred thousand dollars were carried off. About 4.40 o'clock Mr. Turnbull went to his safe for the purpose of procuring some papers for A. F. Randolph, President of People's Bank, Fredericton, putting in his hand to take out the cash box, he found, to his amazement, that it was gone. The box containing, so far as known, 46 New Brunswick Railway Company debentures, of $1,000 each, $21,000 in the Spring Hill Coal Mining Company stock certificates, $15,000 in the People's Bank stock certificates, Bank of New Brunswick and Maritime Bank stock certificates and other papers, in all, representing, it is supposed, about $100,000. None of the other papers or securities in the safe were disturbed, though there was about $3,000 in bank-notes and some bonds, etc., in a package close to the apartment where the cash-box was kept. For some days a plumber and carpenter were engaged doing some repairs in the office, but with this exception no stranger has had access to the apartment where the safe was kept. Neither Mr. Turnbull nor any of the firms' employees can fix on any exact limit of time in which the cash box was stolen. It might have been on Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday; but the fact that it was taken during business hours is beyond dispute, as the doors of the vault and safe are carefully locked every night, and the safe combinations known only to firm members and their confidential clerk. No suspicious persons have been seen about the premises, and it is impossible to account for the robbery.

THE SCAFFOLD.

Execution of the Murderer Peter Mathieu—He Dies Declaring his Innocence—How he Spent his Last Night on Earth—The Scene at the Gallows—Confession to his Counsel.

ST. JOHNS, Que., Dec. 13.—Last night the parish priest, named two well-known men of the town to pass the night with Costaflora. The courtesy was declined by the condemned man, who said it was not necessary. He would read from his prayer book, and if he could become fatigued enough to sleep would do so. The two men, however, remained in attendance without his knowledge. During the night he slept three hours. At seven o'clock this morning, mass was said, which he received and subsequently stated he was resigned to die. The gaoler, Mr. Guillett, who has had charge of him, and who has been with him much, seemed to be even more affected by the sadness of the situation, than the prisoner himself.

At 10.20 the press were admitted to the corridor outside the prisoner's cell, where they were enabled to see him.

At 10 45 the Sheriff in his purple and ermine robe and sword attended in the prisoner's corridor and read the usual

DEATH WARRANT,

the unfortunate man having first been pinioned by the hangman. The prisoner was fettered, but maintained an outward composure, and in reply to the death warrant said, "I have heard your sentence of death, and I am not guilty of the death of Mathieu Mathevon." At this point the turnkey

SORT INTO GOAL.

Father Aubry then commenced reading the Litany for the dead, the prisoner kneeling in the doorway of his cell. The rope was next placed about his neck, and he was led down the stairs to the scaffold, the priests joining in the procession and still reading. Dr. Herman, valet in the cell, advised him to remove his collar, but he said no, he might catch cold. He was dressed in grey pants, grey flannel shirt, and black cloth coat. On the scaffold were Father Aubry and Messrs. the Sheriff Deputy, Dr. Herman, [illegible] and [illegible].

ON THE SCAFFOLD

he said in a loud and decisive voice:—"Gentlemen, I desire my last friends to the County of Iberville, and also in the United States, for the kindness they have shown me. I have been very high in the world, and now I am about to fall very low. I am a stranger in a strange country, without friends and without fortune, or the means of obtaining witnesses, or of defending myself. God alone knows that I am not guilty. He will do me justice. Good-bye, friends; good-bye, gentlemen."

THE BLACK CAP

was drawn over his face, the fatal bolt was slipped, and Cyprien Costaflora de Mirabel was launched into eternity. The medical men present examined the body, and pronounced that death had been instantaneous. Almost one hundred people were present in the yard, not one of whom were heard to express any belief in the truth of the condemned man's dying words. The drop took place at 11.10. While on the scaffold, Costaflora asked the hangman to draw the knot tighter, so that there would be no mistake.

THE CONFESSION.

MONTREAL, Dec. 13.—Although Costaflora, who was hung at St. Johns to-day, protested his innocence of the murder of Mathevon, it is learned that he confessed his guilt to Mr. St-Pierre, who he first employed to defend him. The confession was made at St. Johns during the progress of the inquest. Costaflora had drawn a map which Mr. St. Pierre still has in his possession, designating the exact spot where he murdered the deceased, it being American territory, about an acre and a half from Fort Montgomery. The then prisoner introduced the matter by stating he was alarmed lest they should find that the blows were made with the end of the handle of an oar, the jury being under the impression they were made with the blade. Mr. St. Pierre stopped Costaflora in the midst of his confession, saying he would hear no more of it. It was on account of this confession, as well as the fact that the prisoner did not pay his expenses to St. Johns as promised, that Mr. St Pierre dropped the case.

Lord Dufferin at Home.

Extracts From His Speech at the Belfast Banquet.

From the speech which Lord Dufferin delivered at the Belfast banquet given in his honor, we make a few extracts:

THE DUTIES OF A GOVERNOR.

It must be admitted that the success and reputation of a colonial governor are almost as much dependent upon his good fortune as upon his conduct. For instance, he may find himself called upon to deal with problems themselves impossible of solution. He may fall upon times of popular discontent which others have engendered, and be compelled to reap the whirlwinds which his predecessors have sown; he may be ground to powder between the contentions of unscrupulous political factions; he may be betrayed by his Ministers, or thwarted by the perverse legislation of his Parliament; nature herself may rise up against him, and the period of his administration be signalised by providential calamities, by famine, war, pestilence, or commercial disaster. All trials of this nature, except perhaps the latter, I have been mercifully spared. (Loud applause.) The past six years of my life have been spent amongst a population it was a delight to rule and serve. (Loud cheers.) Intelligent, industrious, sober-minded, loyal, I found them not only free from domestic discontent and in restless commotion, but enthusiastically enamoured of their constitution, their political status in relation to the Mother Country, and their expanding destinies: (Renewed cheers.) Most of the social, religious, and other fundamental questions by which the Old World is still being agitated had either been satisfactorily settled, or had never gathered to a head, and whatever controversies existed were being discussed, both in and out of Parliament, with as much decorum, sobriety, and moderation of thought, and language as we would find—well, where shall I say?—in Ireland itself. (Cheers and great laughter.)

A LITTLE TIP OF THE BLARNEY.

The Ministers with whom I successively came in contact proved to be men of great ability, experience, and undoubted patriotism, who never failed to keep with me a scrupulous good faith.

HOW CANADA WOULD TAKE IT.

But, gentlemen, quite apart from the selfish pleasure I experience at thus finding myself welcomed home by persons of all shades of political opinion in the provinces—(Loud cheers)—I derive a still keener gratification from the thought that this demonstration is something a great deal more important and significant than a compliment to a mere individual. It is a direct intimation upon the part of a large and most important section of the British people of the interest and sympathy they feel for the great Canadian Dominion. (Continued cheering.) That will be the interpretation put upon it, and rightly put upon it, in Canada; and I will frankly tell you there is nothing which gives our Canadian fellow-countrymen greater pleasure, which so gratifies their best affection, than these intimations—which happily every year are becoming more frequent—of the pride which England takes in their expanding importance—of the confidence England reposes in their unfailing loyalty—of her recognition of them as living integral portions of the Empire, contributing not less effectually than any one of the three kingdoms themselves to its prestige, majesty, and renown. (Great cheering.)

JOHN BULL LEARNING.

Increased facilities of intercourse, the multiplicity of enduring domestic ties which have been created and are maintained between thousands and thousands of families at home and their emigrant relations abroad, the proximity superinduced between England and her most distant settlements by constantly accelerated means of transit, have unified and compacted the colonial system, and as a consequence, instead of concentrating his attention upon his home farm alone, John Bull is learning every day to appreciate more keenly his imperial estate. (Loud cheers.) I confess that for one I regard this result with unmitigated pleasure. From early days, I have always believed in our colonial future, and my official experience has confirmed my conviction that if England will only be true to herself and to those who has cast forth to establish the language, the laws, the liberties, the manfulness, the domestic peace of Britain over the world's surface; if she will but countenance and encourage them in maintaining their birthright as her sons; if she will only treat them in an affectionate and sympathetic spirit; this famous empire of ours, which is constantly renewing itself with accumulating vigor in either hemisphere and under every sun, instead of exhibiting any disruptive tendencies, will find the associated realms which compose it daily growing more disposed to recognize their unity, to take a pride in their common origin and antecedents, to draw more closely together the bonds which bind them to each other and the Mother Country, to oppose in calamity and danger a still more solid front to every common foe, and to preserve sacred and intact in every quarter of the globe, with an ever deepening conviction of their superiority, the principles of that well-balanced constitutional constitution which the [illegible] and current continue to prove is best fitted to secure well-ordered personal liberty and true parliamentary Government. (Great cheering.)

Mitchell's Bellandona Improved India Rubber Porous Paster.

There never has been a time when the healing of so many different diseases has been treated by outward application as the present. It is an undisputed fact that over half of the entire population of the globe resort to the use of ordinary plasters.

The principal ingredients used in making these Plasters are Gum Olibanum—or better known as the Frankincense of the Bible—Rubber, and Burgundy Pitch; which, when scientifically compounded, is full of electricity and when combined with the pure medicinal gums, is found to be one greatest healing mediums ever brought before the human race

They are acknowledged by all who have used them to act quicker than any other Plasters they ever before tried, and that one of these Plasters will do more real service than a hundred of the ordinary kind. All other Plasters are slow of action, and require to be worn continually to effect a cure; but with these it is entirely different; the instant one is applied the patient will feel its effect.

They possess all the soothing, warming, supporting and strengthening qualities of all other Plasters. Many who have been relieved of RHEUMATISM, TIC DOLOREUX, and various other pains in the KIDNEYS, BREAST or SIDE, and believe it is solely done by the electrical qualities which the Porous Plasters contain, and which is imparted to the system, thus restoring them to a healthy condition.

They are very soft and pliable, still very adhesive; and a sure cure for WEAK BACKS PAINS IN THE SIDE AND BREAST, and are invaluable to those who have a COLD of long standing, and often prevents CONSUMPTION. Some even tell us they believe they were entirely cured by the use of them of a long seated Consumption.

JOY AMONG THE CHILDREN

CONSUMERS Sweet Castor Oil, equally suitable for children and adults. Endorsed by over 600 doctors in Canada. The difficulty of administering nauseous medicines and the desirability of having them pleasant to the taste, induced T. Copeland to undertake research, which resulted in the discovery of a Sweet Castor Oil, perfectly palatable, of the same strength and medical qualities as the ordinary Castor Oil; and while equally safe and harmless yet acting with more certainty, and producing neither nausea nor griping. Some children say it is lemon; others call it syrup—they all say they like it. One parent says—My children drink it like water;" another—"We tried to hide the bottle or they would have finished it right off;" another—"My little girl has taken it twice without any trouble, and does not know what it is, though she knows the ordinary Castor Oil, and we never could get her to take it without a fight;" yet another—"I wish you success of your Sweet Castor Oil; it is a splendid thing—there is take the place of all common oil."

The extraordinary demand for this improvement of a simple household medicine has brought numerous imitations into the market, but the public can, by observing the name, Copeland's Sweet Castor Oil, guard against imposition. CHRISTMAS DAY.

When Christmas morning comes, they say,
The oxen kneel upon the stalls;
The very cattle in the stalls
Are worshipping at midnight hours,
And all the night the woods and flowers
With hosts of angels shine.
Wise men, they say, [illegible] in their sleep;
And dream the [illegible]
On this, their one [illegible] to pass,
Earth casts the burden of her sad sheer.
Of loving friend and [illegible] dear;
Of gifts and [illegible] the sale.
Even the "merry Christmas" prayer.
On this through all the [illegible] round
Is [illegible] by God above;
"Glory be to God above;
On earth be peace and [illegible] love!"
And on the street, or [illegible] where,
The Christmas carollings begin:

"Welcome Christmas children,
Up and let us sing,
With glad voice the praises
Of our northern King.

"Come, now [illegible] to each Him,
Come, [illegible] to Him;
Come let [illegible] to Him;
"Let [illegible] to me."

"Here we [illegible] welcome,
With a joyous lay,
Christ, a king of glory,
Born for us to-day."

THE NEW YEAR AND THE OLD.

"The King of Light, father of aged Time,
Hath brought us most kind day, which is the prince
Of the ever gliding months, when every eye
Wears symptoms of a sober jollity.
And every heart is ready to present
Some service in a real compliment.
To this day frugal, and none spare his friend
Some gift, to show his love lives not an end
With the departure year."

As day succeeds night and one month another, so does year follow year. Time never halts on his solemn march, while it becomes part of eternity itself. Like to the year, the human race also is ever coming and disappearing just as the Phœnix is said to be reproduced out of its own ashes.

That the new year should begin with January, or "chilly month," as the Hollanders call it, is not inappropriate, so far, at least, as the northern hemisphere is concerned, inasmuch as being close upon the winter solstice, the year is made to represent a regular and harmonious series of changes. It was Numa who decreed that the new year should open with January, and who added two additional months to the calendar. The first month was aptly denominated Januarius, in honor of Janus, the deity who was considered to preside over doors. The ancient Jewish year commenced on the 25th of March, and for a long time Christian nations reckoned their new year from the same date. It was not until 1757 that the first of January became the initial day both of the legal and the popular year.

By our Saxon progenitors the opening month of the year was termed Wolf-Monat or Wolf-Month. This arose from the circumstance that people were more likely to be eaten by wolves at that period than during the other seasons of the year, because of the difficulty of procuring beasts, owing to the great severity of the season.

In the ancient Roman mythology, Janus and Juno were held in especial honour. Their appellations are derived from dies, Matt, or day, an appropriate symbol of the opening year. Their original form was that of Dianus and Diana, subsequently corrupted into the titles mentioned. Originally special rites were employed in the worship of Jana and her brother, Janus; but such became finally merged into a common religious ceremony. It is supposed that the idea of Janus was borrowed from the Tuscans, among whom a similar deity was worshipped from a very early period, and that he was regarded as presiding over the beginning of things.

Janus was highly significant. Two faces were given to this deity. The one looked forwards, the other backwards, thereby implying that the god stood between the Old Year and the New:—

"To be! the two-faced Janus comes in view;
Wild hyperions his rosy cheeks adorn.
And snow-wrapt, rivals of the morn;
He opens the year's portal wide,
And smiles upon the new
Emerging year with pride;
And now beholds, with equal joy,
The ruby gates of orient day."

How tenderly and pathetically Milton refers to his great physical deprivation in the Third Book of "Paradise Lost." He says:—

"Thus with the year
Seasons return, but not to me returns
Day, or the sweet approach of even or morn,
Or sight of vernal bloom, or summer's rose,
Or flocks, or herds, or human face divine."

In a quaint poem, descriptive of the months, December and January are thus appropriately portrayed:—

"In [illegible] every word, and not the glance;
Join [illegible] smiles, yet Christmas cheer;
Come, [illegible] and [illegible] the [illegible]
Christmastime but once a year."

The first month of the year is thus allegorized:—

"Lo, my [illegible] the morning, lazy-
Forgot abroad from yonder hill;
Pleasure rises, and now [illegible]
Frost has stopp'd the village mill."

Not living and inanimate beings alone are calculated to speak to our eyes and ears, addressing "social reason's inner sense with inarticulate language." The reasons also, particularly the departing year, and the advent of the new, are specially calculated to "point a moral" for man's behoof. Conjointly they address his reason, imagination, and feelings, and it should be with results similar to those so exquisitely described by Wordsworth in the following lines:

"For the mere
When, in this spirit, communion with the forms
Of human life, when soothed by innocent mirth
Death himself pauses from his power as cruelty
He mortal passions, we are [illegible]
We [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] feel
The joy of the more [illegible] of Love
Be clearly, then, [illegible] with might
Of love, even love [illegible] to enrich
And [illegible] adjunct of a kindred love
In fellow Natures, and a kindred joy."

The season of the opening and the closing of each recurrent year serves as garlands for the memory of those who have the skill to twine them:—

"Years may roll on, and mankind's tower grow
[illegible]
And [illegible] still winter spread its [illegible]
Over [illegible] [illegible]; yet [illegible] winter
A [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]
[illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]
[illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

The Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, DEC. 26th, 1878.

A MERRY CHRISTMAS.

Toward the close of another year, with its vicissitudes affecting public and private life, the EXAMINER can heartily turn to its many friends, and even to those who might not acknowledge such reference to them, and wish each and all the compliments of the season.

AND

as we honour the birth of a religion in which the greatest of virtues is charity, let those who have been blessed most abundantly remember others who have suffered afflictions, material, mental or spiritual; and by the exercise of a little care try to introduce rich and poor, gentle and simple, young and old into

A HAPPY NEW YEAR.

The Date of the General Election.

A great many words have been unnecessarily used and much stage indignation wasted over the proper time for issuing the writs for the coming Ontario Elections. Had they been issued now there would be a cry from the Opposition about springing the elections on the country, fears of full discussion, and other compliments; but now that there is a certainty of their issue being after the approaching session the inevitable Tory howl takes the shape of a constitutional objection to the extension of the present Parliament beyond a date four years from the return of the first writs for the last general election in the Province. The studious objectors base their contentions on the statute; and will have nothing but the statute, when they declare its "four years from the return of the writs" cannot possibly include the writ for Algoma. It is plain, however, that they have studied the Statute, but very partially, or that they purposely ignore such portions of it as do not exactly suit their purpose. They may or may not, then, be surprised to learn that the date of the return of the writ for Algoma is specially taken into account by the Statute observance of which they so insist upon.

Section 38 specifies that the nomination, or polling day in Algoma, shall only be between "the 20th of May and the end of November," while section 39 enacts that there must be "forty days between the date and the return" of the writ for that district. Even those who can argue that "the writs" in the Statute does not mean all the writs for the Province, will hardly contend that such Statute meant to ignore in one section the writ to which it refers with so great particularity in other sections.

A CARPING CRITIC.

The EXAMINER is said by a carping critic to advocate the placing of "inferior" men at the head of public affairs. If such were really the case it would strive to push forward the petty critic aforesaid. His inferiority is plainly proved by his self-contradiction. He says "we should endeavor to have the very best men we could get at the head of both the government and the Opposition"; and yet expresses his delight at the election of Mr. Morris that he may become leader of the Ontario Opposition, to the exclusion of those who are acknowledged on all hands to be better men for the position. After all the matter will resolve itself into a decision as to who are best able to determine upon the best men as leaders. Certainly we should, as a party paper, have no fault to find with Mr. Morris' usurpation of the place that is fairly that of Mr. Scott, Mr. Meredith, or some one of the better informed and otherwise superior men of the Ontario Opposition, for it will be better for the party to which the EXAMINER holds allegiance. But that Mr. Scott's organ should display great happiness at the rude elbowing back of Mr. Scott is most certainly surprising.

Now it is well known to the initiated that the proposal to increase the indemnity originated with and was planned and carried out by Sarlos. It was a Tory that started the movement, that drew up the round robin, that carried it round among the members for signature, and it was the Tory members that brought the matter before the Government privately and induced Mr. Mowat against his inclination to consent to the increase.—Hamilton Times.

MEMBER FOR T. & O. RAILWAY.

Knowing the great desire of the people of this county for the early commencement and rapid construction of the Toronto and Ottawa, and having more zeal than discretion in pushing Mr. Scott's political fortunes in the West Riding, the journal specially devoted to that gentleman's interests strives to make the railway an interest to aid party aims. It plainly proposes that Mr. Scott shall be returned by West Peterborough by acclamation. And why! That we may prove to outsiders that we are in earnest in the railway matter! Because our necessities and our interests demand that we sink political differences! But our necessities and interests call for no such mercenary sacrifice; neither is Mr. Scott's election to Parliament necessary to prove earnestness in railway matters, particularly in that of the Toronto & Ottawa scheme. It is well known that Mr. Scott is not one of those very energetic men who are eager to have much to do and to be about it promptly. Is it not rather the other way? Yet such a man is expected to fulfil the functions of a leading member of his party in the House of Assembly, and at the same time diligently promote the fortunes of an extensive railway project as President of the Company. This is in itself absurd. But the proposition to send Mr. Scott to Parliament that he may better act as a railway President is utterly ridiculous. If he goes to the House merely as a railway advocate he stultifies his title of M. P. P.; and if he fulfils his duties as a Provincial representative, he cannot get full time to devote to the railway project. Leaving out of the question his natural inclination to do only what is pressed upon him by the force of circumstances, his duality as politician and railway promoter and President are calculated to mar his efficiency in either position. His agitation from the floor of the House for money aid to a Company of which he is President cannot be looked on by people in general as entirely disinterested. As President, of the road he could do much more out of the House; and as a member he could do more for the railway did he hold a less prominent position in connection with it. No wonder, as his journalistic eulogist says, "his efforts have not thus far been attended with that success which we could wish." He clearly should resign the Presidency of the Company or remain out of the House. Outside the Legislative Chamber he could press his arguments just as readily, and far more forcibly, particularly as he would be sure to have another friend in the House in who ever was elected for the seat he now holds. If he choose on the other hand to run the chance of befriending the road on the floor of Parliament, the Presidency should be taken by some other man who will be energetic and able to give ample time to the promotion of the enterprise.

ANOTHER PAMPHLET BY HON. D. L. MACPHERSON.

Senator Macpherson has issued another pamphlet. Believing, no doubt, that he with his former little book overthrew the Mackenzie Administration, and restored his political friends to power at Ottawa, he now thinks to do the same service for them as regards the Mowat Ministry at Toronto. From the way in which he handles figures it is plain that Mr. Macpherson is either an equitistical fool, or an unscrupulously crafty partisan. The blunders involuntary or deliberate, of his first attempt were great; but those in his last essay are greater still. For instance he figures out Ontario deficits for the past four years by including in the ordinary Governmental expenditure, the amounts paid on account of the Municipal Loan Fund settlement, grants to railways, drainage loans, outlays on capital account, and sums covered by special drafts. The unfairness of such a mode of calculation will be at once apparent, if we suppose a government to be discouraged from a wise distribution of public funds directly to those who provided the money, lest the amounts thus disposed of in justice to the whole people, be counted in the cost of such Government's administration. Or conceive of a Ministry dismaded from granting bonuses to assist railway projects, loans for drainage engaging in necessary public works, or employing money in any other way for reforms sanctioned by Parliament, for fear that such outlays should be condemned as mere Ministerial waste. Either Mr. Macpherson must be wilfully dishonest, or he is a tool in the hands of dishonest men.

Mr. Macpherson can certainly not lay claim to consistency. He hopes that Mr. Mowat "will not indulge in abuse of me (Mr. Macpherson), but will confine himself to the task of justifying the acts of his administration. The honorable Senator's figures, suppressed as yet, are to be examined by Mr. Mowat—as a boy would examine the sum set him by a genuine pedagogue—and the Provincial Premier is to have "the opportunity of endeavoring to refute them during the approaching session of the Legislature;" but the motives for thus troubling Mr. Mowat are to be held sacred. Mr. Macpherson professes that he is "influenced solely by a desire to promote the public welfare, and to purify Canadian public life." But upon what grounds does he set himself up as a censor of public morals! We find that the honorable Senator has not himself been choice in language or deficient in adjectives. He says Mr. Mowat is a feeble-minded member of a pestilent and prejudiced party government, the record of which, he declares, is extravagant and debasing. He tells those who take the trouble to read his pamphlet that Ministers waste the time for which they are paid by the country; and he mildly remarks that they expend the contingencies of their departments in corruption, and the patronage in nepotism. He says Mr. Pardee lies, and advises that gentleman to contest himself with his salary and his grabs. And yet this is the man who exhorts Mr. Mowat to abstain from personal attacks!

It is very doubtful if Mr. Mowat will waste the time of the House and the country by taking any notice of the Hon. Senator's bantling. Its absurdities are so apparent as to correct themselves. If Mr. Macpherson had confined himself to the citation of figures and historical facts, he might have been utterly ignored. But when he enters the arena of partisan strife, and indulges in personal attack, he must be prepared to be paid back in kind, and not whine for immunity from retaliation by the weapon of his own choosing. The honorable Senator had bitter cause of using those words that. His two-edged swords, are dangerous in inexperienced hands, and are apt to inflict injuries on the user. Above all he should remember that to exhibit to be impersonal, he must studiously abstain from being personal.

The Leadership.

The Mail saw fit last week to make several quotations from our article in reference to the nonsensical discussion going on about Hon. Edward Blake and the leadership of the Reformers in the House of Commons. With its usual lack of fairness the organ of the united empire Club tries to present our remarks in a way calculated to mislead any who had not seen the whole of them. We referred to the matter only to show our disapproval of the liberty that had been taken with Mr. Blake's name, and to warn the Reform press against helping along a discussion born of a Tory desire to draw attention from the troubles and dissensions in the Conservative and Protestant camp. If proof of the Tory eagerness to keep alive the discussion were needed, it is furnished in the way the Mail tries to represent the EXAMINER as speaking in disparagement of Mr. Blake, evidently with the intention of creating if possible a further war of words concerning him. This was no plain to us that we last week purposely refrained from noticing the Mails petty trifling with our language. Nor would we speak of it now did we not perceive that other Tory journals have taken the cue from their drill-sergeant, in this as in all other matters, and presented the Mail's comments word for word. Lest this should have the effect of exciting ill-based comments from other friends of Mr. Blake, we take the first opportunity of warning our brothers of the press that we object to any controversy on a subject of which we consider too much has already been said; and particularly do we disapprove of any argument arising from a partial and unfair presentation of our sentiments. In this connection we must do the Oshawa Vindicator the justice of an acknowledgement for its elimination when copying the Mail, of the latter's silly presumption as to the person to whom we meant to refer in a certain passage of our former article. Our language was so plain and unmistakable that none but deliberate mischief-makers could hint at such an intention as that attributed to us by the Mail. So evident was this that even so thoroughpaced a follower of the Mail as is the Oshawa Vindicator could not go so far as to re-produce from it a remark so childishly contemptible. The Vindicator rather showed its good sense by copying only what was good in the Mail's item—three quotations from the EXAMINER, with a few connecting words. It would have displayed more originality, however, by drawing its inspiration directly from this paper, in which case it might have quoted more fully, and certainly would not have accused us in fairness with leading the opposition to the Blake-as-leader discussion in "unkind fashion."

Canadian Protection and American Annexation.

The very contention of the Protectionists, that prices will ultimately fall below the present level, shows that they, as well as Free Traders foresee that the home Market must soon be glutted by internal competition under a prohibitory tariff. The cry for a Zollverein, already heard from some quarters, will then be swelled by the voices of the Manufacturers, who will desire to continue manufacturing under a protective tariff and wish at the same time for the wider market that such Zollverein would give them. The vested rights which shall have been created by a Protective tariff will claim the right to demand that the duties in their favor shall not be removed, and the fact that the removal of such duties would cause the loss of the greater part of the capital then engaged in manufacturing would add tenfold force to the plea for a commercial union, whereby manufacturers would still retain the protection on which they would then base their existence.

Now it is certain that a Zollverein with the United States is inconsistent with the British connection. In ten years, or less, the business of the two countries would become so closely connected that all our people would be interested in the maintainence of the customs union; and at the mere threat of its abolition the forces in favor of political union would become almost, if not altogether, irresistible. The man, then, who possesses any foresight, and who hates the prospects of annexation to the United States must be led to advocate a revenue tariff for Canada, and to this extent at least, has an interest with the Reform Party. We cannot understand why any Canadian should desire to forego the great benefits of British connection; and we are further of opinion, that the man who advocates a protective policy which will probably result in a Zollverein with the United States, is either an ignorant or a deliberate traitor to both England and Canada.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

—A contemporary has made the discovery that Sir John's well-known phrase of "by the people, with the people, and for the people." is filched from Abe Lincoln. It thinks there's not much origin, ality about the Chieftain, after all, and we have long been of the same opinion.

—A starving man in Halifax writes to the Chronicle demanding to know the reason why Sir John Macdonald has not provided him and hundreds like him with work, in accordance with election promises.

—The Montreal Journal of Commerce tells of a farmer who tried to sell a load of butter in Brockville recently. Being offered only two cents a pound for it, he was so disgusted that he dumped the whole load in the river. Hurrah for the N. P.!

—Hon. Mr. Mowat gave a very able review of Reform legislation in Ontario at Woodstock one evening last week. We intend to give our readers a full report of his masterly speech after the holidays.

Talmage said in one of his latest discourses on "The night side of city life," that out of a population of one million in the city of New York, 300,000 people are helped by charity, private or municipal.

—Speaker Anglin has given orders to the Clerk of the House of Commons to see that the appointments lately made by him are carried out.

The Rail Rolling.

The Norwood Register says the railway question has reached Peterborough, and the hearty sympathy of the most influential people of that place have been enlisted in favor of the scheme proposed by Mr. Sargent. The Grand Junction line, as at present located through this County, counts with no favor at all, and no assistance or encouragement from that quarter may be expected while the Directors of that road adhere to the one-sided policy which blinds them from taking advantage of a great Mineral offer, and condemns all only responsible the wishes of the Company, despite Railway communities unanimously in the County of Peterborough.

POLITICAL NOTES

EAST TORONTO.

We said at the commencement of the contest in East Toronto that the result would be looked to as an index of the issue of the coming general election for the Ontario Assembly. We are happy to say now that the polling indicates a decided victory for Mr. Mowat's Government. Four years ago Mr. Matthew Crooks Cameron was elected for the constituency by a majority of 276 over Mr. Crooks, a popular member of the Government, yet the Ministry secured a full working majority throughout the Province. On Saturday Mr. Morris, the announced leader of the Opposition, an ex-member of the Dominion Cabinet, an ex-Lieutenant-Governor, secured his election, after a hard struggle with a gentleman for the first time in public life, by the narrow majority of 45 votes! On the 17th September the Conservative party secured a majority in the same wards of 909 votes; the poll of Saturday shows a Liberal gain in three months of eight hundred and sixty-four. The falling away will be regarded with no small amount of uneasiness.

MONCK ELECTION

The verdict of the people of Monck is one of approval of the Mowat Ministry. There is no gain in so far as Ministerial strength in the Legislature is concerned, for Harcourt, the Liberal candidate, labored under the disadvantage of being a non-resident, a lawyer, and a young man making his debut in public life. His opponent, Mr. Heaslip, is a resident of the electoral division and the occupant of a high municipal office. The electors of Monck will have no reason to repent of the choice they have made. They have selected a man of ability, who is at the same time a good debater, and who will, no doubt, take in a very short time a prominent part in the conduct of the public business. Mr. Harcourts majority is over one hundred.

Property Owners' Association.

On Friday evening 13th instant a meeting was held in the Police Court Room for the purpose of forming a Property Owners Association for Peterborough. Mr. Mills was called to the chair and after some routine business the following officers were elected: E. Burnham, Esq., President; Wm. Mills, Esq., Vice-President; Wm. Eastland, Esq., Secretary; and John Walton, Esq., Treasurer. Messrs. Clurton, McClelland and Eastland were appointed a committee to revise the constitution and by-laws, and report at the next meeting.

At a subsequent meeting, the Police Magistrate's salary, the reduction in the number of Councillors, and other proposed amendments to the Municipal Act were discussed. Mr. Mills called the attention of the meeting to a clause in the Statute, legalising the $150,000 by-law, granting aid to the Toronto and Ottawa Railway, and claimed that we were bound by the Statue to pay the money, no provision being made to compel the Company to carry out their agreements. And a committee was appointed to communicate with the County and Town Councils for their co-operation to consider the effect of the recent act of the Legislature, giving power to both Councils to reduce the one million dollars of bonuses to the Toronto & Ottawa Railway Company, to any sum below that amount, without sanction of the people. On Monday evening the Committee reported, recommending that no time be lost in petitioning the Legislature to expunge the last clause of the amended Act, or so amend it that no change should be made in the terms and conditions of the original by-law, without the consent of the freeholders taken at a poll legally held for that purpose.

ENNISMORE.

COUNCIL MEETING.—The council met on the 19th inst. All the members present. A by-law was introduced for the purpose of opening up a road allowance between the south half of lots seven and eight in the 9th concession, and was passed through its several readings, and on motion the corporate seal was attached thereto. On motion of William Crough seconded by Jeremiah McCarthy, Mr. P. Kellie was ordered to be paid $17.00 for twenty feet of land on the east end of the south half of No. 13 in the seventh con. Moved by John Donoghue seconded by William Crough, that Jeremiah McCarthy be paid the sum of $6.00. for gravel delivered on roads. Carried. A General motion was passed to pay all the grants of money to each Road Master who had expended the same. An account of $9.64, for lumber was ordered to be paid to Mr. Telford, as was $6 for two days to Councillors.

There is very little excitement here in Municipal matters.—COM.

MINDEN.

MILLS DESTROYED.—At about 8.30 Saturday morning, a fire broke out in the carding establishment here, and rapidly consumed that building, and the saw mill attached to it. The water power was turned on, and the machinery of the saw mill was mostly saved. The fire was caused by the explosion of a can containing machine oil, which the men were heating on a stove previous to starting to work. There was no insurance on either buildings or machinery. The loss is estimated at $3,000.

DWELLING BURNED.—In Guilford Township, about twenty miles from Minden, the house and effects of W. J. Deacon, a new settler, were burned last Friday about noon. There was no person at home at the time, and the cause is unknown. The loss is about $900; no insurance.

YOUNG'S POINT.

(From our own Correspondent.)

—Lots of good sleighing.

—Good comfortable sheds are now completed at the R. C. Church.

—W. Leonard, fell down a flight of stairs in the Saw Mill last Saturday—he was badly bruised—but no bones broken—a small drop of T. B. which Mr. C—— gave him made him smile again.

—Some talk of having a separate school in this section,—it is a pity thus party feeling should exist to cause this.

—Turkey shooting to come off here on Xmas day.

—Blacksmith's harvest.

—Cheap groceries for Xmas and New Years at Stewart's.

—The scroll wheel manufactured for Chalmers' Mill by Messrs Griffin and Leonard, of Lakefield is giving great satisfaction.

—Mr. G. J. Chalmers, is advertising for a large quantity of wood—both sawed and long.

LAKEFIELD.

(From our own Correspondent)

On Thursday a son of Mr. Thomas O'Donell, of Deerz, met with an accident which will lay him up for the rest of the winter. While chopping in the woods the axe glanced and severed his foot almost severing it in two, he managed to reach one of the houses which was near and rode home, over half a mile where-upon was taken to mount the Lakefield, until he could be taken to Lakefield, where Dr. Bell with Dr. Gibbard's assistance set the injured member into shape, and the young man made as comfortable as present circumstances will admit.

Large numbers of deer have been taken through our village during the past few days by fortunate hunters, who are enough to get them home or to market before the days of shooting them, began which will bring the 20th, inst.

Xmas promises to be very quiet in our village. Not even the old time treasured turkey shooting matches are to be followed out, and so far as I can learn no amusements other than private will be offered to the public to enliven the day.

OBITUARY.—We have to record this week the death of a well-known and highly respected resident of the township of Smith in the person of Mr. John Lamster, who quietly and peacefully passed to his eternal rest on Saturday evening last, after about two weeks sickness and suffering. Deceased was born in the year 1783, in the County of Cavan, Ireland, and enlisted in the 24th Regiment of Infantry, in the year 1810. He was immediately ordered to India, and landed in Calcutta where he saw seven years service, and from whence he obtained his discharge, with pension which he drew until the day of his death. He emigrated to Canada in 1834, and succeeded in drawing lot No. 22, in the 9th con. of Smith, which he obtained in recognition of past services as a British soldier. The funeral took place on Tuesday, a large number of friends and relatives following.—News.

NORTH MONAGHAN.

COUNCIL MEETING.—The Council met at the call of the Reeve on the 13th inst. All the members present. The Reeve in the chair. The minutes of last meeting read and corrected, by changing the sum of $35 (as stated to have been paid to Robert Green, for clearing out drain north of Dr. Kincaid's property on the 10th con., for rakes, and repairing road), to $30. A petition was received, signed by D. G. Hatton, and others, praying that a sum of money would be granted to aid in making a sidewalk on the 13th con. Mr. E. B. Edwards was heard before the Council, stating reasons why he considered assistance should be given, and gave the Council to understand that if a reasonable sum were given, say one-third of the estimated expense, the petitioners would, with the assistance expected from the Town Council of Peterboro', provide the rest themselves, and finish the work satisfactorily. On the motion of Mr. Howden, the Reeve and Council were appointed a committee to examine, find out probable expenses, and report at next meeting. A by-law dividing the Township into electoral divisions, for ensuing Municipal elections, and for the nomination of Reeve and Councillors for 1879, received its several readings. For No. 1 electoral division, at Lundy's school house,—Mr. F. Adams, Returning Officer, and R. Eastland, Poll Clerk. For No 2,—Mr. W. Wood, Returning Officer, and F. G. Birney, Poll Clerk. Moved by Mr. Howden, seconded by Mr. Birney, that the taxes of M. Close be remitted, and that the Clerk notify the Collector. Carried. Orders on Treasurer.—Mr. P. Hamilton, $14 for two road scrapers. Mr. R. Romaine, $2.25 for 18 loads of gravel for roads. Robert Sanderson, $5 for culvert on Harper's road, and for balance of salaries to Clerk., Reeve and Councillors. The Council unanimously tendered a vote of thanks to the Reeve, expressive of the considerate, courteous, and efficient manner in which he had discharged his duties in the chair for the past year. Mr. Collins expressed himself deeply thankful for such a recognition of his humble services as that just tendered, for which he felt more than he would attempt to express. His hopes were that the same good feeling would continue to exist between the several members of the Council in coming years, as that which so happily marked his connection with them. Council adjourned.—COM.

ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION.—At the closing exercises of S. S. No 1 North Monaghan, Miss E. Beckett was presented with an address and a handsome and valuable gift. A large number of the parents and friends of the scholars were present and expressed themselves highly pleased at the entire satisfaction given by the teacher. Several speeches were made by the trustees and others in which they regretted exceedingly her departure and complimented her on the good order and generally admirable system of the school. Miss Beckett, on the reception of the present, said:—She thanked them very much, not so much for its intrinsic value, as for the expression of kindly feeling and good will; that the general sympathy and cordial support extended to her had made her sojourn among them pass very happily indeed, and that the religious instruction of Friday afternoons would ever be fragrant in her memory, praying that God's richest blessing might accompany her pupils and hoping that they should be "living flowers to form a garland to adorn the Redeemer's brow." After pressing upon her pupils mind the need of a religious education, she concluded her remarks by wishing all her friends and scholars long lived prosperity in the knowledge of our Saviour.—COM.

Contrasting the Expenditure.

The annual increase of expenditure under the Sandfield Administration was 14.83 per cent., while that under Mr. Mowat has only been 7.25 per cent. The following figures, taken from the Public Accounts of Ontario, should be kept by the electors for future reference:

Expenditure, Macdonald Government. 1868	$1,183,667 77
Expenditure, Macdonald Government. 1871	1,356,682 78
Increase in four years	$ 173,014.01
Expenditure, Mowat Government. 1873	$1,547,986 57
Expenditure, Mowat Government. 1877, excluding surplus distribution, &c.,	2,262,854 44
Increase in six years	$ 663,866 87

From this it will be seen that the actual increase in four years of the Macdonald Government was greater than it has been in six years of the Mowat Administration.

Mr. Tilley's New Loan.

From the Montreal Journal of Commerce.

Owing to the course taken by the opponents of the late Government, which we considered at the time a serious mistake, Mr. Tilly was not altogether a free agent. He was unable to place the loan on the market at a fixed price, however desirable it might have been to do so. It is the interest of borrowers to conform even to the prejudices of lenders, and certainly they are not likely to suffer by doing so. The loan was not taken at once, which was rather unfortunate, and was, in all probability, owing to the London agents having refrained from tendering in the first instance, owing to the offensive remarks made regarding them by leading Canadian statesmen in connection with the last loan. We infer that they stepped into support Canadian credit after the first failure to place the entire loan. It may be hoped that our loan transactions will in future be kept out of the political arena. In all questions of an imperial character Canada should be a unit.

The Great Fall in the Local Stock Market.

"Don't you think this thing has gone about far enough?" said a broker the other day.

Of course there was no necessity of explaining what the "thing" referred to meant. The attention of all investors in securities is at present fixed on "the street" where a steady decline in stocks during many months has been followed by a still more rapid decline during the twelve or thirteen weeks that the new Government has been in power, although no blame is considered to them for the unexpected result. By comparing yesterday's quotations of stocks in which the chief business has been done with the quotations of Sept. 25th, a week after the elections, a fair idea of the decline of the whole market may be arrived at. The quotations on September 25th and on December 12th were respectively as follows:—

The Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, DEC. 26, 1878.

LOCAL NEWS.

Dominion Grange.—The Dominion Grange of the Patrons of Husbandry met in the Albert Hall, Toronto, on the 17th instant. Mr. D. Kennedy, of Otonabee, was among those present.

A Gem.—In some markets in this district, some descriptions of farmers' produce are supplied at present in quantities far in excess of the demand. The consequences has been the lowering of prices to such an extent that vendors will not sell, and carry their beef, mutton, pork, fowls and butter home rather than sell at present rates.

Christmas Kindness.—To the very poor, who suffer for want of food and fuel, winter is anything but pastoral. It is the privilege of those who are better off, to make it a pleasant season to them, and to supply the heart-cumbine and home-warmth, without which winter is bitter indeed. A little kindness goes a great way toward brightening dark days and warming up a new drift.

Ballot Boxes.—Some clerks of municipalities do not know that by law they are required to provide as many ballot boxes—in the event of a poll being demanded—as there are wards in the municipality, and that their failing to do so renders them liable to a fine of one hundred dollars. They have no right to use the ballot boxes supplied for the Dominion or Local elections.

Good Counsel.—An exchange gives the following advice:—Buy at any drug store one ounce of camphorated oil and five cents' worth of oil of vitriol of potash. Whenever any soreness appears in the throat put potash in a half tumbler of water, and with it gargle the throat thoroughly; then give the neck a good rubbing with the camphorated oil at night before going to bed, and also put around the throat a strip of woollen flannel. This is a simple, cheap and sure remedy.

Snow Shoe Club.—The third annual meeting of the Peterborough Snow Shoe Club was held at the Huffman House. The annual report was submitted showing the Club to be in a prosperous condition, and the election of officers for the ensuing season resulted as follows:—F. J. Lewis, President (re-elected); Geo. G. Hilliard, 1st Vice-President; H. LeBrun, 2nd Vice-President; W. J. Sherwood, Secretary (re-elected); G. A. Dennistoun, Treasurer; A. MacNeil, Captain, (re-elected). Committee of Management.—C. M. Crowe, Jas. Dolan, A. D. Braithwaite, Ed. Snyder, and T. Hay. The Club had their first tramp for the season on Wednesday evening of last week. They met at the Huffman House and had a run of about two hours, which rather tested the endurance of some members who were out of training.

Freemasonry.—A movement has been suggested by a correspondent of one of the Toronto dailies, which cannot but command cordial and universal sympathy. It is suggested that a Reconciliation Society be inaugurated, whose object shall be to heal the dissensions and disruptions of the Irish race in Canada. The members chiefly material for the Society is proposed to be drawn from the Orange and the green sections of our population, and its object is to be the complete burial of the dead past, with all its faction and heart-rendings, and to promote a spirit of toleration and good will among all Irish Canadians. Such a society could cherish all the memories of the old land that are dear to the hearts of all Irishmen and their sons, while a true Canadian sentiment could at the same time be cultivated, especially by the colonial Irishmen, who are to our Canadian manner born.

A Handsome Compliment.—Messrs. J. B. Lippincott & Brother, Philadelphia, have just published an entire new, complete, and uniform edition of all the celebrated works written by Mrs. Emma D. E. N. Southworth, the popular American Authoress, whose position is at the head of all female writers, for there is no American author now living whose writings secure such immediate and generous circulation. In all her works, the highest and purest sentiments are brought into play of intense interest, while the darker shades of life are used only as lessons of instruction, or to effect the more winning characters she creates. There is great originality of character in all her works, fine descriptive powers, strange and startling incidents, entering adventures, scenes of pathos, and pages that quicken the pulse and thrill the heart with interest and pain. There is also great ingenuity in the construction of her plots, and in the pure moral tone which characterizes all her writings. Her novels are all full of the strongest interest—exciting in the highest degree—sometimes, yet contains nothing to offend even the most fastidious delicacy. Her titles are as follows:—"Ishmael; or, In the Depths," "Self-Raised; or From the Depths," How He Won Her," "Fair Play," "Victor's Triumph," "A Beautiful Fiend," "The Missing Bride," "The Spectre Lover," "The Artist's Love," "A Noble Lord," "Lost Heir of Linlithgow," "Trial For Her Life," "Orval or the Grave," "The Maiden Widow," "The Family Doom," "The Christmas Guest," "The Bride's Fate," "The Changed Brides," "Fallen Pride," "The Widow's Son," "Bride of Llewellyn," "The Fortune Seeker," "The Lost Heiress," "Lady of the Isle," "The Bridal Eve," "The Deserted Wife," "The Three Beauties," "The Fatal Secret," "The Prisoner of Wingfield," "Vivia; or Secret of Power," "Prince of Darkness," "The Fatal Marriage," "Love's Labor Won," "The Gipsy's Prophecy," "Haunted Homestead," "The Widow Victor," "The Mother-in-Law," "Retribution," "The Two Sisters," "India: or Pearl River," "Curse of Clifton," "Discarded Daughter," "A Dream of Life," and "Mystery of Dark Hollow." The editors of Mrs. Southworth's works in typographical execution, bound in vellum, black and gold, with gilt back, and in cases for the whole 39 volumes, or $58.50 for a full and complete set. Any lady desiring any of these books should leave her address, if not a complete set of Mrs. Southworth's books. They will be found for sale by all Booksellers, or copies of any one, or more, or all of them, will be sent to any one, to any place, at once, per mail, post paid, on receipt of $1.50 for any one book, or $58.50 for the 39 volumes, by the Publishers, J. B. Lippincott & Brothers, Philadelphia, Pa.

Firemen's Hall.—The Firemen's Hall is beautifully decorated. More anon.

Stray Cattle.—Farmers and others who detain stray cattle ten days without advertising make themselves splendidly liable.

Warning.—Farmers will do well to remember that they are required by law to place bells on their horses when attached to sleighs.

Nominations.—The Municipal Nominations will be held on Monday next, in the different Municipalities throughout the country.

Decorations.—The Boss of the Huffman House and Chamberlain Hall must have been tastefully decorated for Christmas.

St. John's Church Entertainment.—The entertainment held in the Town Hall, Ashburnham, on Monday evening was very successful.

Anniversary Sermons.—The Rev. Dr. Potts, will preach the anniversary sermons in connection with the George-street Methodist Church on Sunday, the 26th of January, 1879.

Presentations.—On Thursday evening last, Mr. Dixon, Mathematical teacher in the Collegiate Institute, was waited upon by the members of his class and presented with an address and a pair of fur gauntlets.

Mrs. Judkins' Festival.—The social entertainment in aid of the Charlotte-street Sabbath School, held at Mrs. Judkin', on Friday evening, passed off very successfully—a pleasant and enjoyable evening being spent by those present.

St. John's Church Bazaar.—The net proceeds in connection with St. John's Church amounted to $627. The ladies of the congregation desire to return thanks to those who assisted them by contributions and otherwise, especially the Firemen's Band, who played in the hall both evenings.

Poultry Association.—A meeting of the Midland Poultry Association was held last Thursday evening, when the Secretary was instructed to draft the prize list, and to correspond with parties at a distance with a view of obtaining their services as judges at the approaching exhibition.

Favourably Mentioned.—On the occasion of a large and fashionable Christmas concert at Wyndham Hall, Bishop Strachan's School, given by the students attending that institute, we learn by the Mail, that the Misses Cottingham, Beck and McNabb, Peterborough young ladies, acquitted themselves admirably and creditably.

Entertainment.—The usual five cent social in connection with the Methodist Church Sunday School on Friday evenings has been somewhat changed for the coming Friday evening. The admission will be 15 cents, which will include refreshments furnished by the ladies, and the programme will also be extended.

Nonsuiting.—We clip the following paragraph from the Campbellford Herald:—

"Messrs. E. Senior and J. Whyte, of Peterborough, were in the village last week, the former nonsuiting for the new grocery business, and the latter, we think, considering the facility of establishing another branch of industry in our midst."

The Princess Alice.—On Sunday evening last Rev. E. B. Harper directed the attention of his congregation to the death of Princess Alice, and preached from the following words:—

"And Abraham stood up from before his dead and spake unto the sons of Heth, saying, I am a stranger and a sojourner with you; give me a possession of a burying place with you, that I may bury my dead out of my sight."

The "Voice."—The Voice is a new paper for public favor, published 451 Broadway, Albany, N. Y. It is neatly printed, and is specially devoted to voice culture, with special attention to stuttering and stammering. The publishers desire to include everything pertaining to the voice and to treat of all kinds of vocal disorders. Subscription price one dollar a year.

The Post Office.—The new post office was open to the public on Tuesday morning of this week, and the general transaction with its commercial gravity of manners was busy in manipulating the keys of the drawers and lock-boxes to the business men of the town. We will next week have a more extensive account of the new building and its furnishings, which is unsurpassed by any town in Canada.

"Ten Nights in the Bar-Room."—The members of Peterborough Temple No. 249, I. O. G. T., will give an entertainment in Bradburn's Opera House, on Friday evening the 27th inst., when the popular play of Ten Nights in the Bar-Room will be presented. The members of the Lodge have had the play in preparation for some time and will, no doubt, enhance it with eclat on that evening.

Lumbering.—The promises to be a very good season for lumbering, as there is now about fifteen inches of snow in the woods and the log will soon be strong enough to carry teams. Mr. Boyd, of Bobcaygeon, has 40 teams in operation in the company's township, and Messrs. Irwin & Boyd, of Peterborough, have three, two of which are in the township of Dysart.

Obituary.—Captain William Manson, formerly a resident of the township of Asphodel, in the county of Peterborough, died somewhat suddenly at Hampton Roads, near Norfolk, Virginia, about the middle of November. He was master and part owner of the ship Bonnie Dundee, of Greenock, and at the time of his death was about sailing on his return voyage with a cargo of cotton. His death was caused by pulmonary disease.

Private School.—We believe it is the intention of Miss Beckett to commence a private school in Peterborough as soon as possible after the holidays. The chief characteristic of it will be the attention given to a thorough English education and literature. Miss Beckett has been very successful as a teacher, and will no doubt, have a large class as soon as the announce particulars.

Fur Sleigh-Riding.—Those who wish to purchase cutters or sleighs at this season of the year, should not fail to call at the establishment of Mr. T. Fitzgerald, near the station. He is one of the "old and reliable" makers, and those who wish something that will last should not fail to call and see them. He has now a large stock of very handsome cutters and first-class sleighs on hand, made from thoroughly seasoned and picked timber.

Enterprise.—Mr. G. Chamberlain has shown commendable enterprise this season in providing for the holiday trade. By reference to his advertisement in another column it will be seen that he has imported expressly for Christmas times a quantity of English pheasants, partridges, hares and wood pigeons; as well as American wild quail, wild turkeys and Virginia partridges. He has also a full stock of fish, oysters, fruit and candy toys. Those interested will find it to their advantage to call upon him.

Normal Class.—The fourth meeting of the Peterborough Normal Class was held last Monday night. The second lesson of the course was given by the Rev. Mr. Wallace. The attendance was not so large, probably on account of the proximity of Christmas. It is to be hoped the members will attend every meeting, and be there promptly on time, 8 o'clock sharp. Next meeting will be held on January 13th. Topic, "The place and purpose of the Sabbath School." Mr. Jeffers takes this lesson.

Handsome Writing Desk.—During the past week a very handsome Writing Desk and table has been added to the furniture of the reading room in the Church House. It is of black Walnut, elegant in design and finish, and has a raised back with illuminated advertisements in the panels. It has been put up by Mr. R. Patrel; the cabinet work being done by Mr. M. McFadden, and the painting by Mr. W. H. Watson. It is quite an addition to the furniture of the reading room, and besides being ornamental will be found very useful and convenient by the guests of the house.

Week of Prayer.—The week of prayer will be observed next month more generally than ever throughout the Protestant world. The appointment of such a time of special period of devotion appears to have impressed itself especially on the English speaking churches, and has been accepted wherever the Evangelical Alliance is known and its branches established. The topics announced for the observance in 1879 are—Monday, January 6, thanksgiving for the blessings of the year past, and prayer for their continuance. Tuesday, January 7; prayer for the Church of Christ; for schools, its growth in grace, and enlargement. Wednesday, January 8, Christian education; the family; the young; colleges, conferences of learning, Sunday and other schools. Thursday, January 9, for nations; rulers and people; for peace and religious liberty in the earth. Friday, January 10, the spread of the Gospel by the Moslem Countries; for Jews and Romanists. Saturday, January 11, home and foreign missions, and the conversion of the world.

Harper's Magazine.—Harper's Magazine for January offers an unusual variety of interesting reading matter, with over ninety illustrations. The Number opens with an effective full-page steel portrait, by W. H. Shelton, on Lincoln—Rudolph's Grand Serpent." S. G. W. Benjamin contributes the first of two profusely illustrated papers, entitled "Russian in the Highland Region." Besides these articles descriptive of places, there is the usual interesting installment of serial tale, Miss Trent's Profession, by the well-known author of "Doctor Jacob," a travelogue of her own observations. Those interested in voyages may still be engaged with Captain Cook's Voyages Round the World," with which the Harper's Young People's Department concludes. Agricultural readers will find Colonel Waring's practical articles on the best methods of farming, in the Fabulous, "Mr. Stubbs's Brother, Philadelphia, Pa.

AT McCLELLAND'S

TOWN COUNCIL.

[illegible] evening last, December 23rd, pursuant to adjournment. Present His Worship the Mayor and Councillors Cahill, Jones, Paterson, Mason, Holland, Douglas, [illegible].

The minutes of last two meetings were read and confirmed.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From James Edwards, Town Treasurer, notifying the Council that this time as fixed by By-law for the returning of the Collector's Roll had expired, and that one-half of the taxes were yet unpaid.

PETITIONS.

From Jos. Hogan and 102 others, asking the Council to enforce the by-law down of a sidewalk on Bethune street to W. Tasker's factory.

From Peter Gifford, complaining of the excessive assessment of a dog.

From Angus Williams, A. H. R. Dowson, Michael Jeffers, Michael O'Donnell, Thomas Meredith, and J. G. Madison, in reference to matters of assessment.

From Joseph Spenceley and Joseph Calling, asking for remission of their taxes, and from Mrs. Stimson, asking to be relieved of the payment of a dog tax, as she had not been possessed of one.

From James Johnstone, asking to be allowed a further time for the payment of his taxes.

From Daniel Farrell, asking that the taxes be returned against his property as he was unable to pay them at present.

POLICE COURT AUDIT.

A very lengthy opinion from the Town Solicitors in reference to the Police Court Audit, was read by the Clerk. After entering very fully into all the details, and the law bearing on the different phases of the case, it briefly gave the substance as follows:—

Assuming which we understand to be the fact, that during the period covered by the report, the Town Clerk did not charge the fees of Clerk of the Police Court, the Police Magistrate was entitled to the following fees:—

1. All the fees both of Clerk and Magistrate, in cases arising beyond the limits of the town.

2. All the Clerk's fees, as to matters in the town and which had the duties been performed by the Clerk, would have gone to the town.

Applying these principles to the contentions of the Police Magistrate's from Maple-trade's fees, while as to the third class of fees claimed, we think the Police Magistrate has not established his claim to the fullest extent, which it may be justified, inasmuch as we think he was entitled to all the Clerk's fees in such cases, whether or not the proceedings had reached a hearing.

Assuming the correctness of our view as to the legal rights of the Police Magistrate in the premises, it will be easy from the very full returns of the Auditors, and by reference to the Police Court files, to determine the exact condition of the account between the Police Magistrate and the town, for the period covered by the Auditor's report. A cursory examination of the account exhibited by the Auditors for two of the years selected indiscriminately, viz. 1873 and 1874, shows that the fees recovered by the town, to which the Police Magistrate would be entitled according to our view of the law, with the amounts paid by him to constables, exceeds the amounts of the emoluments found by the Auditors, for these two years, leaving a balance in favor of the Magistrate. A close investigation of the account, however, for all the years would involve considerable time, and be the work of an accountant, rather than the Solicitor of the town.

Referred to the Finance Committee to make a final report.

The Clerk reported that Robert Brown Lundy had offered himself as security for Joseph Lundy, in the stead of John J. Lundy.

He also reported the carrying of the defeat of the Dunkin By-law.

ACCOUNTS.

W. H. Robertson	$25 60
T. E. Fitzgerald	3 00
Henry Stroud	7 00
Wm. Wye	3 00
Irwin Marks	1 00

The last two accounts were ordered to be paid forth with: that of W. H. Robertson & Co., to be paid as soon as certified correct by the clerk, and H. Strond's referred to the Finance Committee with power to act.

Councillor RUTHERFORD said so many accounts being continually coming in for cleaning hose, he thought it would be well if the incoming council would make it the duty of the Engineer to attend to such work.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

Councillor CAHILL submitted the following report from the Finance Committee:

To the Mayor and Town Council of the Town of Peterborough:

GENTLEMEN:—The Finance Committee beg leave to recommend the payment of the following accounts:

Leach Bridge, half of account	$75 32
Geo Cassaday, two accounts	22 45
Adam Hall, lanterns	1 60
Toker & Co., Printing and Stationery	15 45
J. R. Stratton	7 50
Wm. Hamilton, repairing Maple Leaf Fire Engine, (to be paid when certified to)	2 20
Wm. Scullie, cleaning hose	3 00

The balance of Mr. Scullie's account being for services for the benefit of the schools, the committee would refer Mr. Scullie to the School Board for payment of same.

Your Committee find that the surcharge of $6.38 is made in the account of Messrs. W. H. Robertson & Co. for printing, and recommend that $13.18 only be paid—this being the proper amount according to contract.

Your Committee cannot recommend the payment of Wm. Treanor's account, as they are not aware of the work having been ordered by the council.

Your Committee recommend that Joseph Stott's taxes be struck off, the same being payable to John Adlum, but are forgiven in charity

All of which is respectfully submitted,

THOS. CAHILL, Chairman.

FIRE COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

Councillor PATERSON, Chairman of the Fire, Water and Gas Committee, reported recommending the purchase of 4 stoves for the Fire Hall, and reporting adversely to the further erection of gas lamps as petitioned for by the Skating Company and W. C. Nicholls and others.

CHARITY COMMITTEE.

Councillor HELLIER, Chairman of the Charity Committee, reported verbally that the committee had decided to recommend the refunding of half of Mrs. Ware's taxes.

TORONTO AND OTTAWA RAILWAY.

Mr. W. H. SCOTT, M. P. P., was heard before the Council in reference to the Toronto and Ottawa Railway. He desired to make an explanation in reference to remarks contained in the Property Owners' Association, and which had found its way into one of the local papers under a sensational heading of "Startling Disclosures, and Fraud." He regretted that such had occurred as there was not the least foundation for it. The suggestion thrown out by the Property Owners Association was to the effect that some one had obtained legislation to change the clause providing that before the town and county bonuses shall become payable one million dollars in municipal aid shall have been obtained, thus getting rid of one of the safe-guards of the By-law. His statement contradicted in asserting that this clause still remained intact and that not one dollar of the bonus could be touched until the million dollars had been raised by municipal aid, and until the debentures to this amount had been placed in the hands of the Trustees not one dollars worth of the debentures could be sold. The corporation still retained the same safe-guard that it always enjoyed. There was another clause in the By-law, and the one which had been amended, which provided that except the million dollars were voted within two years the By-law should lapse. It was in order to give the Council power to extend this time limit that the amendment had been carried. The By-law stands to-day exactly in the same position as it always did. As to the charge of fraud he would say, and the gentlemen of the Council knew full well that no step had been taken in the matter without the concurrence of both town and county, and that all these matters referred before this Board, no corporation had later husbanded their resources than the Toronto and Ottawa Railway company. The Company were to begin that before long work on the line would be commenced, and employment given to the people of this town and district. He hoped that no one would contradict the statement made forth. Nothing had been done without the concurrence of the Councils of both town and county, and he read a letter from the Warden of the county stating that "both he and the members of the County Council were cognizant of the proposed amendment."

The MAYOR stated that he had also been notified of the proposed amendment.

Mr. D. W. DUMBLE also addressed the Council. Recently gentlemen had called on him in reference to the Grand Junction and the Toronto and Ottawa. Norwood and Belleville were both eager to get a railroad. The people of the town did their best not to give anything to the Grand Junction if they could help it. Now they spoke through the township of Cavendish. The Toronto and Ottawa would however boast of the most favourable terms with the Grand Junction if they were to cross the narrows and utilize their proposed route through this county. He, however, had been informed because of the position of that road that it would be impossible for them to get into the town on the Grand Trunk track unless they went by the Grand Junction. He was told before that the Grand Trunk was unable to use Toronto and Ottawa. The whole trouble of the road was caused by the Grand Trunk refusing to allow the Toronto and Ottawa to enter the same track as they did. He believed in a few years Quantities would be

The People Want Proof.

There is no medicine prescribed by physicians or sold by druggists, that carries such evidence of its success and superior virtue as HOSMER'S GERMAN SYRUP for severe Coughs, Colds settled on the Lungs, Consumption, or any disease of the Throat and Chest. It has been proved that any person afflicted, can get a Sample Bottle for 10 cents and try its superior effect before buying the regular size. "What are you Going to do About it?"

Because the penalties of physiological laws are not executed speedily, some fancy they are void. But when the system breaks down, and almost hopeless complications arise, which family physician, by reason of his limited experience, fails to relieve, the pertinency of the above inquiry is apparent. Many remedies have been compounded for these cases, and many physicians are bidding for their patronage, but in making a purchase of hand, a "search" is required, and the title carefully examined, as invalids should carefully investigate the claims of any physician offering to cure chronic diseases. Dr. Pierce's Family Medicines are well known, and have effected many cures where eminent physicians have failed, yet to accommodate surgical and complicated cases and those desirous of being treated speedily, Dr. Pierce has erected an elegant sanitarium, at a cost of nearly half a million dollars. No institution in the world offers the advantages superior to those found in this establishment. Half a score of physicians are in attendance, several of whom have been prominently connected with [illegible] American and European hospitals. Every approved facility for hastening a cure that a liberal expenditure of money could secure can here be found. Before fully deciding where to go, address Invalids' and "Common Sense" for circular.

Christmas Comes but Once a Year.

Christmas is coming, ho, ho, and ho, ho!
Have you no room lucky, and do not snore slow?
If you can find the whole house with the knocker no answer)
On you can all picture the leaves shall be gone.

Oh! merry the time when we all meet together
In spite of the cold, and the wind, and the weather!
When friends, parents, uncles and cousins we see
All gathered around the mahogany tree.

It stands in the hall, that prodigious tree,
And very nice fruit it will bear, you'll agree.
Could you look on the turkeys and puddings and pies
That on Christmas Day feast—something more than our eyes.

The poor and the needy they come to our door,
And carry off with them a bountiful store
Of all the good things that we have for ourselves,
In cupboard and cellar, on table and shelves.

When dinner is ended, what sleigh do we hear
From the belly-decked parlor that merry and clear?
'Tis Uncle Tim's fiddle! The tune is a call
To all the aged people to come to our ball.

They come, old and young, and partake the merriment,
For Christmas comes on us but once in a year;
Then hand up the ladly, and let us prepare
The house for the frolic in which we must share.

LOST IN THE SNOW.

A CHRISTMAS TALE.

CHAPTER I.

"My dear, you'll not start off home too late, will you? If it comes on to snow heavily, Lolla, I'm sure they would give you a bed. And have you got on your thickest boots, child?"

As earnest given to all the mother's anxious queries, Lolla Calderon set briskly off on her morning's walk, which lay the greater part of the way across a bare common, very pretty with its green fringe and yellow gorse in summer time, but a dreary white space in the winter, as it was now.

And what could take a delicately-made girl across that plateau in search of the bleak season of the year? The usual plea in this hapless world—poverty!

Lolla Calderon was the daughter of the late vicar of Clydesdale, who had died twelve months before, leaving his widow and child in absolute poverty; for his death had been sudden, and his purse, good, kind man, too much drained by divers poor relations and past debts to render it an easy matter to live on £150 a year.

So after enjoying the benefice for eighteen months Mr. Calderon died, his widow and daughter removing to Dalbury, the little town divided from the village of Clydesdale by the sterewald waste land.

Mr. Calderon was succeeded at Clydesdale by the Reverend Percival Ponsonby, a man as rich in worldly goods as his predecessor had been poor.

Mrs. Percival Ponsonby, too, was wealthy, and as she brought her husband a baron each year, the also contributed duly towards its maintenance.

Now, as the Ponsonbys had already nine olive branches, and there was evidence of the parent-tree putting forth more shoots, it was deemed essential that they should have proper instruction; and who could better instruct them than poor Lolla Calderon—a thorough lady, and highly accomplished?

Accordingly, at a very handsome salary, Miss Calderon was engaged; and as she could not leave her mother, and was a good walker, it was arranged that she should go over to Clydesdale Vicarage daily.

Their residence there from the London envoy had been so brief that it did not bring to Lolla the pain it might otherwise have done to go as governess to that spot which had been her home.

Now for nearly eight months she had toiled to and fro, three miles a day; when raining, in her waterproof, closely protected by an umbrella; and when fine, with her pretty, fair face flushing rosy with the exercise, she tripped briskly along.

Now, on this particular morning, the day before Christmas, the sky was dark and leaden as with a heavy fall of coming snow. The ground was already whitened with a brief shower, herald of the approaching storm; and there was every reason for Mrs. Calderon's warning and discomfort, but her daughter danced off, laughing merrily.

'I think I could walk across the common blindfold,' she said to herself, in scorn of her mother's fears. 'Mrs. Ponsonby did ask me to stay this evening, but I could not leave poor mamma alone, as Christmas Eve. They were going to have a Christmas-tree for the children, and I promised I would stay as late as I dared, to help to dress it. Certainly, it does look very dark, and there's a flake of snow.'

Her speech was now changed to reflection, and this was the substance of it.

'I declare I can hardly see Desborough Manor, which generally stands out so white and grand on the other side of the moor, among the bare trees. Poor old Sir Warren! how sorely he is missed! It seems sad for his only son to have been so far away when the father died, but they said he was disappointed in love, and never would settle at home afterwards. The lady died, I fancy. I wonder if Charlie will know his multiplication table to-day, and if Bessie will be as tiresome over her music? I am sure their mother was wise to give them only a week's holiday, dating from to-morrow, for it would have been terrible work to have to pick up again what these children had forgotten, for their little minds are like sieves! Everything, taught is soon obliterated tiresome monkeys!'

And with a pleasant laugh, Lolla trudged bravely on till the Vicarage came in view, and its hospitable gate received her.

CHAPTER II.

'But, my dear, you had better not go. It is almost dark, and John says it's snowing heavily,' said Mrs. Ponsonby, anxiously, as Lolla put the finishing touches to the Christmas-tree, and then stepped back to give a final inspection.

The two ladies were in the dining-room of Clydesdale Vicarage—a comfortable, warm apartment; and locked doors kept out for the present the noisy little crew of anticipating revellers.

'I must really go, dear Mrs. Ponsonby, answered the girl, decidedly. 'I would stay if I could, but I cannot leave mamma alone on the night of all others in the year. Thank you, in her name and my own, for your pretty gifts;' and she stepped to kiss her friend as she placed in her pocket two little parcels in silver paper.

'I wish you could have stayed, dear, for I should like you to see young Sir Warren Desborough,' said the vicar's wife. 'He only came down to the Manor yesterday, but Percy called on him to-day, and he promised to look in to-night. He is a very nice fellow, Percy says; handsome, too.

Lolla hesitated. 'I am afraid I must postpone the pleasure, and I'm sure Sir Warren would not care for the presence of such an obscure little body as I am.' And the young governess tripped away.

'I'm not sure of that,' answered Mrs. Ponsonby; 'I only know if I were a young fellow I should fall head over ears in love with that child. Sir Warren must not [illegible]

'Oh,' she cried, coughing, 'it is so horrid to enter dirty

Bits of the weather; then she remembered a notice where three goods met—one led to Dalbury, another straight on for the town of Benton, the third to Desborough Manor.

She ought to have reached that spot by now. Oh, no; she had not walked fast, probably; so on she went again for some minutes, then paused and looked around.

There was naught save 'Darkness visible;' nothing but the white snow at her feet; no landmarks were to be seen.

Then Lolla remembered a frozen pond somewhere in the vicinity of her usual path. She felt the crackling of the grass beneath her feet, and knew that she was out of the road.

Paralyzed with cold and terror, fearing to take another step, she sank down on the snow-covered ground with a bitter cry.

'Lost! lost!' she shrieked, piteously. 'Oh! what shall I do? Mother, mother,' she wailed in her anguish, 'I shall be frozen to death, and never, never see you more!'

Still the snow fell with cruel, blinding force on the poor little figure, made already half insensible to cold by its stupefying effects. The wind moaned in cruel gusts, and the night grew blacker as it waned on.

* * * * * *

Mrs. Calderon had lighted her lamp, and sighed as she did so, shutting out the dismal prospect.

'The child won't come back to-night! Well, I fancied Mrs. Ponsonby would not let her. She would want her with the Christmas-tree, and it would have been quite dangerous for her to come alone!'

So the widowed mother turned round to her tea-tray, with the two cups on it, and set one aside, with a sigh for the absentee.

As she took her evening meal, it was well that she could not know where her darling lay—each minute bearing her precious life with it—stark, cold, and white, in the middle of Dalbury Moor.

CHAPTER III.

'Pan my word, it's no joke turning out to cross this common on such a night!' laughed a tall, broad-shouldered fellow, as, with a lantern in his hand, and a cigar in his mouth, he strode over the deep snow that now lay on Dalbury Moor.

'Here, Turk!' And he whistled to a large black retriever that gamboled on in front of him. 'Don't desert your master, or he'll be in a ram pickle!'

Then he held a small pocket compass that dangled from his watch-chain to the light, and consulted it.

'I thought I was getting a little out of the track. More north like Clydesdale, of course!' And on the traveller sped again.

'What a night—ugh!' he continued, as the snow fell thickly on his Inverness cape, and he shook himself, 'This Mont Blanc, Mont Blanc, Monte itself!' and he laughed. 'Oh, my dear friend Ponsonby, I doubt if your Christmas festivity, and witnessing the reasonable delight of your numerous progeny, will repay me for this fearful amount of exposure and peril. It this is one of the pleasures of old England, I think the Continent will soon see me back again! Now then, Turk, where are you off to, you rascal?'

A whistle; no reply, as usual, in praising canine gambols. The master stood still, and whistled again. This time there was a distant whine.

'Hollos! the old chaps in some scrape—a trap, or something?' was Sir Warren's thought; for, as the reader may have guessed, it was none other than the young Baronet, on his way to pass Christmas Eve at the Vicarage.

By tramping boldly over hidden gorse, Sir Warren came up to his dog, at perfect liberty and unharmed; but he was sadling and scratching at some inanimate heap that lay before him, being rapidly covered by the falling snow.

'Ah!' cried the Baronet; 'what have we here? Turk, my brave fellow, here's work for something more than your rough paws!' And he stooped to lift the now inanimate form of Lolla Calderon from the earth.

As he held her in his arms, with her head against his shoulders, he turned the lantern upon her face, and started, while a deep flush rose to his bronzed cheek.

'Poor little love!' he sighed. 'And she looks like my Rosalie!'

Then he gathered her closely to his heart beneath the folds of his large cape, and turned his footsteps back again to Desborough Manor.

Once or twice he paused on his homeward way, resting his fair burden on one knee as he did so, and fervently praying that life might so restored to that now inanimate form.

In his anxiety, he even pressed his lips to Lolla's, and laid his hand upon the seemingly pulseless heart.

Warren Desborough was a good man, but he had a man's passion; and ere he reached the Manor that night, the Rosalie, so well and faithfully mourned for seven years, was laid to rest—not forgotten; no, never that; but pretty Lolla Calderon reigned in her stead.

Now, when he reached his home, Sir Warren was somewhat puzzled. He had established himself there but the day before, and was alone. A woman from Clydesdale had been for the day to attend to culinary and other domestic duties—and his establishment consisted of an old deaf steward and a raw clodhopping boy.

He let himself in with his latch-key, and was not sorry that the care of his beautiful burden must depend on himself alone, when the momentary perplexity had vanished.

Sir Warren recalled the medical knowledge he had scraped together as he laid Lolla down upon the hearth-rug in his study, at a moderate distance from the fire, moistened her lips with brandy on a feather, and chafed the small, delicate hands gently; so small and delicate that he could not refrain from kissing them frequently; then, as she continued cold and dead to his kindly exertions, a chill of horror stole over him.

'How will it look for me if she is found here, a corpse? I am a stranger! What may not be said and thought?'

Horrible ideas, which made Sir Warren's blood run cold, stole over him as the fire flickered mockingly upon the still ghastly, beautiful face upturned to his.

CHAPTER IV.

But at length his exertions were rewarded. There was a slight quiver through the delicate form he clasped to his heart—a quivering in the pretty lips. He laid her gently down, with a pillow beneath her head, and stood a little aloof from her. Presently she opened her eyes, and looked round dreamily. Her glance did not at once fall upon her host and preserver.

'Where am I? How strange! What a beautiful place!' she murmured.

Then, seeing Sir Warren, a look of terror overspread her face, and she strove to raise herself up but fell back exhausted.

'Oh, my poor mother! Take me home please! She will be so frightened about me!'

Sir Warren knelt down beside her; and raising the pretty head, whispered gently, 'Be a little more of this spirit. It will do you good.'

She slipped in [illegible] trust.

'Oh,' she cried, coughing, 'it is so horrid to enter dirty

no relations to whom your fate may be of consequence—no one to be apprised of your safety?'

'My mother!' cried Lolla, clasping her hands.

'I will go to her at once,' said Sir Warren, hastily.

'No, no; one minute!' and the girl put her hand to her head. 'I remember, mamma will think I have stayed at the Vicarage. I promised to remain if it was bad weather.'

'But you did not,' answered the Baronet, severely.

Lolla coloured and hung her head. Then she looked up at him so timidly, his pulses bounded.

'Please don't be angry. I did not wish to keep away from mamma on Christmas Eve.'

'Poor child!' he replied; 'but you run the risk of taking yourself from her for life by venturing to cross the common on such a dangerous night.'

'The snow came down so fast, and the darkness seemed to close upon me all at once. I had thought to get home easily. I knew the way so well.'

He shook his head.

'It was a most fortunate circumstance that I had to cross the common on the way to the Vicarage—the very place you had left, I think you say?'

'Yes; I am governess to Mr. Ponsonby's children; and you—you are Sir Warren Desborough. Of course, they expected you.'

And she looked shyly up at him.

'I have been otherwise engaged,' he replied, shortly.

'But—but,' she cried, in sudden tremor, 'I ought not to be here! Please take me home, Sir Warren!'

And her eyes filled with tears as she clasped her hands and looked up at him.

'Suppose you were to try and stand first,' he suggested, quietly, stretching out his hand.

She made the attempt; but was so weak she would have fallen back had he not passed his arm firmly round and upheld her.

'Now, do not think or speak of going home till morning,' he said kindly. 'Surely on such cushions before this fire, and with carriage-rugs over you, you might fare worse. Next to this you will find a dressing-room; and quite early to-morrow I will take you home Miss Leler.'

She smiled gratefully as, with his arm still around her, she leant perforce against him.

'You are so good—so very good!' she replied, tremulously.

'I will drive you home to-morrow morning, I promise. Mrs. Leler shall have her child safe back again.'

The girl smiled.

'Mamma's name is not Lolla,' she said 'although mine is. It is my Christian name. My father was the late vicar of Clydesdale—Mr. Calderon. He knew Sir Warren Desborough well. Perhaps you have heard of him?'

'Indeed I have. And you are good old Mr. Calderon's pretty little daughter, of whom I have so often heard my dear father speak? This has been a strange beginning of our acquaintance; but it has had a good foundation, has it not, Miss Calderon?'

Mitchell's Belladonna Improved India Rubber Porous Paster.

There never has been a time when the healing of so many different diseases has been treated by outward application as the present. It is an undisputed fact that over half of the entire population of the globe resort to the use of ordinary plasters.

The principal ingredients used in making these Plasters are Gum Olibanum—or better known as the Frankincense of the Bible—Rubber, and Burgundy Pitch; which, when chemically compounded, is full of electricity and when combined with the pure medicinal gums, is found to be one greatest healing medicines ever brought before the human race.

They are acknowledged by all who have used them to act quicker than any other Plasters they ever before tried, and that one of these Plasters will do more real service than a hundred of the ordinary kind. All other Plasters are slow of action, and require to be worn continually to effect a cure; but with these it is entirely different; the instant one is applied the patient will feel its effect.

They possess all the soothing, warming, supporting and strengthening qualities of all other Plasters. Many who have been relieved of RHEUMATISM, TIC DOLOREUX, and various other pains in the KIDNEYS, BREAST or SIDE, and believe it is solely done by the electrical qualities which the Porous Plasters contain, and which is imparted to the system, thus restoring them to a healthy condition.

They are very soft and pliable, still very adhesive; and a sure cure for WEAK BACKS PAINS IN THE SIDE AND BREAST, and are invaluable to those who have a COLD of long standing, and often prevents CONSUMPTION. Some even tell us they believe they were entirely cured by the use of them of a long seated Consumption.

PETITT'S SALVE.

An Infallible Remedy for all Diseases of the Eye (acute or chronic), Granulation of the Lids, Ulceration of the Lachrymal Canals, Film, and Weakness of the Vision from any cause.

THE AMERICAN EYE-SALVE is presented the public with the assurance of its efficient as a curative of the most diseases of the eye acute or chronic inflammation, whether induced by scrofulous origin or otherwise, weakness or defect of vision, diminished tone of the optic nerve, or a diseased state of the tissues constituting that organ. Also for all persons whose vocation requires an incessant action of the eyes, the Salve will act as a charm in restoring a uniform healthy action, where weakness, pain, and misery may have long threatened a fatal termination. It is the most simple, safe, and effective remedy ever discovered. The materials of which it is made are pure, perfect, and costly, compounded with elaborate care and exactness safe in its application, being used externally and, of course, lessening the pain and danger which necessarily attes landthroduction of, minerals and eye-washes. Rinewors and Old Chronic Sores, of scrofulous origin, or resulting from whatever cause, yield to the AMERICAN EYE-SALVE. It is used successfully for Piles. Its soothing effect is immediate, permanent cure requires but a few applications. The proprietors of "DR. J. PETITT'S AMERICAN EYE-SALVE," while making new and improved machinery for making a more perfect box for the Eye-Salve, have changed the Trade Mark on the cover so as to correspond with the Cut on the Wrapper, Circulars, Advertisements, etc. We call attention to this, as it might otherwise be regarded as counterfeiting.

JOY AMONG THE CHILDREN

COCKBURN'S SWEET CASTOR OIL, equally suitable for children and adults. Endorsed by over 600 doctors in Canada. The difficulty of administering nauseous medicines and the desirability of having them pleasant to the taste, induced T. Copeland to undertake researches, which resulted in the discovery of a Sweet Castor Oil, perfectly palatable, of the same strength and medical qualities as the ordinary Castor Oil: and while equally safe and harmless yet acting with more certainty, and producing neither nausea nor griping. Some children say it is heavy: others call it syrup—they all say they like it. One paper says—By children drink it like water;" another—"We had to hide the bottle or they would have finished it right off;" another—"My little girl has taken it twice without any trouble, and does not know what it is, though she hates the ordinary Castor Oil, and we never could get her to take it without a fight;" yet another—"I wish you success of your Sweet Castor Oil; it is a splendid thing—sure to supersede the place of all castor oil."

The unnecessary demand for this improvement of a simple household medicine has induced many parties to attempt imitations of the genuine article, and in order to protect the public against fraud, the genuine Castor Oil is put up in bottles of the following shape, and with the name of the manufacturer blown in the glass, and bearing the fac simile signature of T. Copeland, Chemist, Toronto, Ont., in red ink across the label. Ask for Cockburn's Sweet Castor Oil, it is both cheaper and better.

The Old Year and the New.

The Old Year's going; the nibbling wind
Is trailing its icy fingers,
As old men stir by the dying fire,
In its mumbling embers,
Watching the embers' final glow.
The darkly-falling shadow;
Lower his head from the light of his breast—
Master the firelight flakes.

"To me!" The new! The fair New Year!
But I welcome it not," he cries;
"And gladly I lay down my burden now,
As I, the Old Year's,
For I am weary of living with all its ills,
Weary of sin and strife,
Weary of winning just Dead-Sea fruits,
Of toiling for changeless vain.
Take me, Old Year, to your peaceful grave,
Where they've heaped the friends of my life;
Take me to rest, for I'm wearied now
With my long, long day of strife."

"Peace, peace," sang the hoarse old cock;
"I hear it now in the wave,
The Old Year sleeps in his grave.
The silence grows deeper; a peaceful light
Rests on the old man's face;
The Old Year's dead, and he sleepeth, too—
The last of an honored race.

"Farewell to the Old! Hail, hail to the New!
The New of joy and of pain!
How can man bear to die and leave
Their haunted Mother-Earth;
Fair, shining world, with its wealth and fame,
And noble hearts and true;
Bright, glorious life, whose rainbow-tints
I do burst upon my view!
Your battles I fear not, for I will be
The victor in every field;
Long may I live to taste the sweets
Your stores of bounty yield!"
Thus spake the youth of the sunny brow
As he greets the New Year entering now.

The world so trusted will soon deceive;
Then will there be as glad to leave
As the weary man whose flickering fire
Went out on the Old Year's parting night.

The Husband's Happy New Year.

Bright and fresh, if a trifle too frosty
For scent we were after the hare—
The morning is splendidly bracing;
The country delightful, though bare;
The sky is a turquoise in color,
The sun, while it dazzles the eyes,
Warms the skaters, but six solid inches
The ice on the brook water lies;
The wood in the distance is purple,
With barely a leaf, green or sere;
It is surely a good omen
That brings in a Happy New Year.

What, darling, astir, and so early?
Your hands, both your hands, within mine:
Your face is as fresh as the morning.
Your eyes with its happiness shine:
The sun turns your hair to its color
There's nothing in nature so bright;
Forgive if my words seem to flatter,
They only express my delight.
My heart like a bubble is floating,
So buoyant and yet so sincere,
As with all its innermost devotion,
I wish you a Happy New Year.

All that happiness means I desire you,
All that heaven bestows on its own,
May it be without bounds, or its limits
Be set by your wishes alone;
Life is cheapened, but then the pure metal
Is lightened, yes I now, by alloy,
And life sometimes gives by its sorrow
The zest that we find in its joy.
But there, I am growing didactic
And wrongly detaining you here,
Hand in hand, while I only intended
To wish you a Happy New Year.

The Chieftain's Incompetency.

(From R. W. Phipp's Letter.)

To give the last instance—I might almost call it a confession—of inability I observe that Sir John Macdonald, in a late reply to the Ottawa workmen, stated that the delay in bringing out the National Policy was owing to the fact that, until the meeting of Parliament, the Government had not power to alter existing laws. This is utterly and helplessly incorrect. It any such routine course were necessary. Parliament might have been summoned. But it was not necessary. If Sir John had only taken competent men into his confidence, private understandings given to foreign manufacturers would have already set hammer and trowel, builder and lumberman, at work, in a hundred towns, villages, and forests, for such men would have known the reasonable margin to promise, and Parliament would undoubtedly have passed a tariff sustaining such a margin. No system of protection plans to merely employ the present manufacturers. The main object of such systems is to bring foreign ones. Now no manufacturer coming here cares what the tariff is now. What he wants to know is what it will be in a year, by which time he will have built his factory, got in his machinery, and prepared to turn out goods. And this, in all the important lines, a competent Administration could have told him sufficiently near to set him at work.

A Story of Hard Times.

(From the London Telegraph, Dec. 9.)

What is truly called a "distressing story" was lately unfolded in most painful detail before a coroner's jury at Westminster Session House. It concerned the death of a child just two months old, James Matthews by name, whose father, an artisan out of work, had parted with one little chattel and fragment of property after another rather than go to the work-house, but, although sober and steady, had been unable to get employment. His wife and he, with an independence of spirit which all must respect, would not "come on the parish," but preferred "to fight on as best they could in hope of something turning up." We know how this generally ends at a time of dull trade and enforced idleness. Mr. Macawber's good fortune turned up in Australia, but the English working man's future, if he be unfriended, hardened, and out of employment, is destitution and semi-starvation, deepening gradually in suffering, until he has his choice between the pauper's home and the pauper's grave. As a last resource, it seems, the wife of the unfortunate Matthews took her child in her arms and went out singing in the streets. Crippled, feeble, starving, half-clad, and sick with the heart-ache, which only such unfortunates can realize, she for three days in succession, wandered about; but her poor efforts did not attract pence enough to keep body and soul together. The baby was scantily clad, and the mother wrote; and on the third day of this desperate attempt to win compassion by the help of street ballads, the child wrapped up in a shawl so thin that its wan, pinched face could be seen through the folds, died in her arms. Such a tragedy is absolutely shocking, and in a city like London should be impossible. If Matthews and his wife avoided the workhouse, were there no charitable associations, we may ask, which would have helped them? The truth seems to be that when the poor have reached their lowest stage of despair which is always a blank, apathetic stupor, they do not seek assistance—they have lost its simple use.

MR. SPURGEON ON MARRIAGE.

It is [illegible] that Mr. Spurgeon, in the same speech, related an anecdote of a black man and his wife, whom he received into the Church at the Metropolitan Tabernacle. When the negro came before the church, Mr. Spurgeon said: "Well, friend, I suppose you can speak well of your wife—she is a Christian woman?"—to which the negro made the following remarkable answer; "Yes I believe she is a good woman; but even black women are provoking sometimes." But they received her into the church.

CURIOUS VARIATIONS.

Plodding readers will doubtless be interested in the following curious variations of the well-known line from Gray's "Elegy" which we copy from the Graphic:—

The weary ploughman homeward plods his way.
The weary ploughman plods his homeward
The homeward ploughman plods his weary way.
The homeward ploughman, weary, plods his way.
The homeward, weary, ploughman plods his way.
The weary homeward ploughman plods his way.
Homeward the weary ploughman plods his way.
Homeward, weary, the ploughman plods his way.
Homeward the ploughman plods his weary way.
Homeward the ploughman, weary, plods his way.
Weary, the homeward ploughman plods his way.
Weary, homeward the ploughman plods his way.
Weary, the ploughman plods his homeward way.
The ploughman plods his homeward, weary way.
The ploughman, homeward, weary, plods his way.
The ploughman plods his weary, homeward way.
The ploughman homeward, weary, plods his way.
The ploughman, weary, homeward plods his way.
The ploughman, weary, plods his homeward way.

ESTIMATE OF A WIFE

How objectionable is a melancholy, moping wife; we would not exist in the same house with such a thing for a single month. The mopers are, too, all giggle at other times; the gaiety is for others; and the moping for the husband, to comfort him (happy man!) when he is alone; plenty of smiles and of badinage for others, and for him to participate with others; but the moping is reserved exclusively for him. One hour she is capering about as if rehearsing a jig; and the next, sighing to the motion of a lazy needle, or weeping over a novel; and this is called a sentiment! Music, indeed! Give me a mother, singing to her clean, and fat, and rosy baby, and making the house ring with her extravagant and hyperbolical encomiums on it. That is the music which is "food of love;" and not the formal, pedantic noises—an affectation of skill in which is now-a-days the ruin of half the young couples in the middle rank of life.

Let any man observe, as we so frequently have with delight, the excessive fondness of the labouring people for their children. Let him observe with what pride they dress them out on a Sunday, with means deducted from their own scanty meals. Let him observe the husband, who has toiled all the week like a horse, nursing the baby while the wife is preparing a bit of dinner. Let him observe them both abstaining from a sufficiency, lest the children should feel the pinchings of hunger. Let him observe, in short, the whole of their demeanour—the real, mutual affection evinced, not in words but in unequivocal deeds. Let him observe these things, and then, having cast a look at the lives of the great and wealthy, be will say with me that, when a man is choosing his partner for life, the dread of poverty ought to be cast to the winds. A labourer's cottage on a Sunday, the husband or wife having a baby in arms, looking at two or three older ones playing, is the most interesting object that eyes ever beheld. As amber attracts a straw, so does beauty attract admiration, which only lasts while the warmth continues; but virtue, wisdom, goodness, and power. These are the true graces which are linked and tied hand in hand, because it is by their influence that human hearts are so firmly united to each other.

A Convict Dies With a Pardon in His Hands.

The Columbus, O., correspondent of the Cleveland Plain Dealer says, John Smith was pardoned by Gov. Bishop on Friday. Smith came from Wood County three years ago with a sentence of fifteen years hanging to his neck, and a future dark with the gloom of despair and death staring at him from the portals of the prison. However common and vulgar his appellation would indicate him to be, the man's personal appearance was such as to impress all that he was one of many within the walls of that huge workshop who "had seen better days." During the past year he had suffered much from consumption, and it was for the reason that he had not long to live the Governor pardoned him. Friday evening when Warden McWhorter handed the poor fellow his pardon, he read it, kissed it and then died, with a smile on his face and the long-looked for pardon clutched in his hand. Yesterday his body was put in a rough pine box and buried in the O. P. graveyard, with the coarse ribaldry of the guards for a burial service and but one mourner, nature, who dropped sweet tears from heaven in a soft and gentle rain. Last evening a lady rickly dressed and heavily veiled called at the prison, and exclaiming her right as the wife of the deceased convict, had the body disinterred and departed with it for her home in Wood County, where to-day the remains of the poor consumptive will probably be laid away in their last resting-place.

THRIFT.

Life would be impracticable unless it were the primary rule to believe what is told us. There [illegible] reason in which this is [illegible] not compelled to depend upon the word of another—of a merchant, a wife, a friend, or agent. We believe servants' wages represent [illegible] their services; we believe [illegible] that when we ask for a pound of sugar we shall get it; we believe that when we pay a penny for a newspaper we shall receive it; we believe that when we ask for a ticket, pay for it, and take our seat in a railway carriage, we shall be carried to the station we have named. Without this belief life would be impossible. Yet how many people there are who do not believe that thrift is the road to wealth, and that a penny saved is a penny earned. Many a man who has been trusted, and who has for years borne an unexceptional character, has proved faithless; and it is quite impossible we can be sure upon grounds of evidence respecting any peculiar man that he is incapable of this baseness. But the first condition of a genuine and honorable friendship is to believe this, to refuse to entertain a doubt of it, and, if need be, to uphold a friend's honour until he is absolutely proved dishonorable. With respect to trust, exercised in commercial relations, it might perhaps be said that it is a mere application of the principle of probabilities. As a matter of experience, if customers are trusted, the majority of them will fulfil their engagements. It may be doubted whether tradesmen really do act in practice on this mere calculation of probabilities; at all events, the principle does not apply to the other relations of life just referred to. It would be an insult to a friend to say you trusted and loved him because you thought it more probable he was true than that he was false. He expects from you, as the primary condition of true friendship, that you believe firmly concerning him that of which you cannot possibly have certain evidence.

Princess Louise on Education.

Considering the addresses of the Montreal Ladies' Educational Association, Princess Louise put her opinion on education in the following words:—

"Education is one of the greatest objects of the age, and most important, not only because it is the noblest in itself, but because it is the means of the complete development of our common nature, and a due discharge of the duties of life in their bearing on the future destiny of the race.

"The fruits of education are so attractive that we are often tempted to forge them prematurely, without sufficient tillage, and thus lose sight of the true object of education, which consists much more in the development of the intellect than the mere putting in of so superficial knowledge and of cramming. Hence our necessity of grounding in the rudiments of knowledge, and thoroughness in all that is done. Knowledge thus got never dies—knowledge got otherwise never lives.

"Again it has struck me whether there is not a fear of our making, through our very facilities of teaching, the acquisition of knowledge too easy for the pupils. For it is from the meeting and mastering of difficulties that intellectual strength grows and increases, just as physical exercise develops physical strength."

VARIETIES.

Love and pity are twin sisters, that go over hand in-hand.

An excuse is worse and more terrible than a lie, for an excuse is a lie guarded.

White ferrets are believed by the Norman peasants to be the souls of unbaptised infants.

The worst tyrant in the world is the woman who is superior to her husband, and lets everybody know it.

We are often more cruelly robbed by those who steal into our hearts than by those who break into our hearts.

In France the bridegroom presents the bride with three dresses—a visiting dress, a travelling, and a reception dress.

Read not to contradict and confute, not to believe and take for granted, not to find talk and discourse, but to weigh and consider.

We are often harsh when we feel ourselves strong, and show indulgence only when conscious that we are in need of it ourselves.

We must not speak all that we know—that were folly; but what a man says should be what he thinks—otherwise it is knavery.

Whenever Lady Holland heard that a person of any consequence had said an ill word of her, she immediately invited him to dinner.

An indiscreet man is more heartful than an ill-natured one; the latter attacks only his enemies; the other injures friends and foes alike.

Sincerity is speaking as we think, believing as we pretend, acting as we profess, performing as we promise, and being as we appear to be.

It has been said that women are the connecting link between men and angels but marriage is the connecting link between men and women.

Trees in great cities cool the air. A great deal of heat is neutralised by evaporation from the leaves, another portion by the decomposition of carbonic acid. The temperature of the trees is in forest, and even in the tops of them, is always lower than the air in the forest. Besides this, shade in the open air always causes a certain draught, which acts as a kind of fan. Anyone walking in oppressive heat, when the air seems still as death, must have noticed that a refreshing breeze arises as soon as a cloud casts a shade. The same thing may be observed in summer in walking through a street with close rows of houses.

When you hear an evil story of one you know to be good, discredit it, and say so. Grapes are not gathered from thistles; neither do thistles grow on a grape vine. The fruit tells you from what tree it came, but you also know what fruit a tree is likely to bear.

When thinking of matrimony, look more than skin deep for beauty, dive further than the pratee for worth, and search for temper beyond good humour for the moment, remembering it is not always the most agreeable partner at a ball who makes the most amiable partner for life. Virtue blooms fairest in the shade, often.

"Habit" is hard to overcome. If you take off the first letter, it does not change "a bit." If you take off another you still have "bit" left. If you take off all, it still remains; the "habit of" totally remains. All of which goes to show that, if you wish to be rid of a "habit," you must throw it off altogether.

EDUCATIONAL NOTES.

The Roman Catholics of Kingston have contributed $1,500 towards Queen's College.

With but one exception, the male teachers in the high and public schools of Aylmer intend to enter the ministry.

In the correspondence of the Montreal Witness from Toronto, we find that "a Model school is now spoken of for that city," because young ladies who want positions in the city schools ought to have a chance of being trained in the city."

The St. Catharines News says:—We are led to believe that pupils in many of the public schools of our city suffer from the rooms not being properly ventilated. In visiting some of these schools there were unmistakable evidences in the foul odor of over-heated air, of want of proper ventilation. Into every district that teachers and inspector should give special attention to having the rooms properly ventilated, particularly during the cold weather, when the windows and doors are kept closed.

We notice that Inspector Glendenning, of East Bruce, has announced to the teachers and trustees of his district the conditions on which he will recommend third-class certificates for extension. The classes who may enjoy this privilege are (1) third-class teachers whose certificates expire in July, 1879, and who avow their intention to attend some school in 1880, with a view to preparing for the second-class examination; (2) candidates who succeed, or almost succeed, in passing the non-professional second-class examination in December or July next, and may wish to teach until an opportunity occurs of either attending a Normal School or preparing for the second-class examination; (3) third-class candidates who at any non-professional examination gain ten per cent. more than the required number of marks, with, perhaps, the addition of attendance at a Model School.

The Belleville Daily Ontario has had some sensible remarks on the benefits of teachers' conventions, in raising the standard of intelligence and earnestness among the teachers. The day has gone by for inefficient men in our schools, and the means offered for the improvement and education of our instructors must be taken advantage of.

The News at a Glance.

BUSINESS NOTICE.

A Few Words to Our Patrons.

We have now arrived at the season of the year when it becomes the bounden duty of every honest man to cancel his obligations to his fellow man. One of the great difficulties attendant upon the publication of a country newspaper is born of a vicious system of credit. While thousands of people pay promptly for their papers, printing and advertising, there are those who never think of paying save after a tedious process of dunning which exasperates the creditor and lowers the debtor in the esteem of honest men. These remarks apply to all trades and professions alike, but more especially to the newspaper proprietor, whose efforts are only too frequently cramped in consequence of the want of punctuality on the part of many of his patrons. Few people take thought of the large amount of money required for the current expenses of a first-class newspaper. There is a constant weekly drain in the shape of wages; then there comes the heavy drafts of the paper dealer, to say nothing of rent, taxes, fuel, &c. All these must be promptly paid in hard cash—there is no such thing as indefinite credit or delay. When we mention these things those indebted to this office will recognize the reasonableness of our demand for a prompt settlement of accounts. We dislike dunning in any form but we feel that in justice to ourselves no further advantage shall be taken of our forbearance. We are now sending out our accounts and it is hoped that the response will be such as to encourage the publisher to make still greater efforts to please and serve the public.

THE COMING SESSION.

The Session of the Ontario Legislature which opens on Thursday the 9th of January, will be the last of the present Parliament, and will probably be a short one. The most important subject that will probably be mentioned in the address, is the tax-exemption abolition. Of course there will be the usual amount of railway projects to be attended to; and it may be that some new reform may be foreshadowed in the matter of municipal or parliamentary elections, or both. Notice has been given of the introduction of a host of private bills, on which there will be considerable committee work, if not discussion in the House. The Orange Bills will, of course, bring about a discussion, as is their purpose. We shall not attempt to anticipate its probable result. One other question that may lead to some debate is that of salaries and indemnities, of which so much has been said since last session. It is not unlikely that a resolution will be passed without, or with comment by members, for a reduction to the old amounts. In that case none will be more sorry than those Conservative members of the House who have tried to make capital against the Ministry through the increase, though they were the first to petition for that increase. What may be done in the affair in which Peterboro' is most particularly interested, it would be hard to say. With its President in the midst of party friends eagerly pushing him forward in the preparations for the coming struggle at the polls, the chances are that the Toronto & Ottawa Railway project, will receive no more attention than is absolutely necessary to its existence for the time. Indeed, the member for West Peterboro' is placed in rather an awkward position by the very exaggerated representations of his party friends as to the great good he is supposed to do for the road by the House. Then two wards should be opposed of him must again. His either envy the member for this East Riding.

It is probable that Mr. Stewart, of Renfrew, being the youngest member of the House, will move the address, which will likely be seconded by Mr. McCraney of West Elgin, or Mr. Lyon, of Algoma, possibly the former. Whether it will not form small disorder at the commencement of the session, is to be seen. It is just possible that, in view of his inexperience in Ontario affairs, and the liability this would create to blundering in his policy, he will not assume the duties of leader during the approaching short session. Should he wisely shrink from the danger of wasting for his party the brief skirmishing time before the general engagement at the polls, who will act as leader? Will it be the President of the Toronto & Ottawa Railway, or Mr. Meredith, of London? We should think it must be one or the other.

LOCAL POLITICS.

We have before alluded to the absurdity of the charge that the influence of the Ontario Government was used for Mr. Mackenzie in the late Dominion elections. Where is the influence which affected nothing? In what way must it have been used? Mr. Mackenzie and his political friends expected a majority, and particularly in Ontario; but they came out of the contest with a minority in the House of Commons, even in this Province. Yet people are told by Tory journals that the Ontario Ministry tried to influence the result in favour of Mr. Mackenzie! It is quite true that men who are Ministers of the Province spoke in favour of the policy of the late Dominion Government; and they cannot be justly blamed for so doing. They are men who have a larger knowledge of public affairs, and who must naturally take an interest in the concerns of the Dominion, as well as of their own Province. It were indeed strange that the acceptance of office in a Provincial Ministry should close the mouths of able men, that they should not express their views on Dominion matters. Such a contention is especially absurd coming from people who speak of the Provincial Legislature as nothing more than a big County Council. Yet such folks lament that a greater number of able men do not seek election to the Provincial Parliament. As well hold that the Reeves and Deputy Reeves who have seats in the County Councils must not act or speak in Parliamentary elections, and then wonder that the better class of men will not seek these positions. A prominent member of either party, be his position what it may, has a right to use all legitimate measures to defend and advance the principles of that party. It is better too that public opinion uphold a Provincial or Dominion Minister in decently discussing Dominion or Provincial affairs, than that he should be driven to indulge in underhand scheming in the interests of his party in the House from which the law excludes him, but of the concerns of which he has a perfect right to speak. Party principles are the same in either House; and the men who are Reformers or Conservatives in one will very naturally be Reformers or Conservatives in respect to the other. That they should be expected to sink any active interest in their political principles simply because they become the most prominent members of their party is preposterous. Their interest in all that pertains to their party principles we would expect to increase rather than diminish. When an accusation comes to involve the use of official power for party purposes the case assumes a grave aspect, and should be put with the utmost promptness, and discussed with judicial calmness. First, there must be the evidence to sustain any such charge, and the proof should be unmistakeable. But the Tory papers that reiterate such charges against Mr. Mowat and his colleagues, by omitting to cite anything in evidence of their accusation, lay both the matter and motive of their plea open to the gravest suspicion. Such phrases as "if rumor is to be believed," and "we suppose," with sundry "if's" and "mights" will not do in a case of this kind. They are the language of a coward and a slanderer. Let us have evidence, or silence.

THE LATE DOMINION LOAN.

Conservative journals that have been injudiciously comparing Mr. Cartwright's last loan in the British market with that of Mr. Tilley, and talking nonsense about the success of the latter, are far from being as patriotic as they are partisan. In any case it can do no good to provoke such a discussion upon our country's finances. This has been proved plainly enough by the late loan itself. The comparatively low amount produced by the sale of the new bonds, in spite of the Imperial guarantee on half of them, is not so much the fault of Mr. Tilley as a negotiator as of himself and his party friends as arbiters during and before the late election campaign in the Dominion, and of their retrograde fiscal policy. For several years they have been constant in their cry of ruined industries and depleted finances within the Dominion, and so have led up to the ruin of Canadian credit. But the last straw that broke the back of financial Canada, so far at least as British capitalists are concerned, was the very preoccupied attitude assumed by the party that has proved successful, for the time, at the polls. The combined silence of this country by residents, and the danger of its further embarrassment by trying Protection as a remedy, naturally caused Englishmen to lose faith in it as a debtor, and made them chary of lending money to such a country. These are the reasons why Mr. Tilley's loan did not bring more in the market, and why part of it remains still with brokers for negotiation. Dread of the humiliation of acknowledging the fault causes the Tory ruined to search about for other excuses. One that most of the party organs seem to have foolishly grasped at, in time of scarcity of money in the British market, owing to the unsettled condition of financial affairs. Now, it is well known that a time of commercial depression in Britain, capitalists turn eagerly to foreign investments as paying and safe. For this reason, the unsettled state of the home money market should have scattered rather than hindered the quick placing of our Canadian bonds, had the credit of the Dominion only been fairly regarded. As it is, however, Conservative detraction has pleased this country at a disadvantage; and forcenmesses in other things cannot be preferred to purchase of Canadian bonds, though they really do seem to challenge attention. It is the Reformers and not Tories cannot should be credited for this. Then, when in fact that continues to run to those Tories that must be ruled in favour of the country and the passing of Protectionist doctrines.

PHIPPS' LETTERS.

Alluding to Phipps' late letters a Tory paper says the Globe "is always ready to use anybody or anything that is calculated to damage the Conservative party." This is a clear admission that the letters referred to are calculated to damage the Conservative party. The same paper is very anxious that Phipps should see what a laughing-stock he is making of himself, but the trouble is that he is making a laughing-stock as well of those who stood on his level before the Dominion elections. Though he was just as big a fool then, as he is now, the Conservatives, little and big, were ready to swear by him, and pinned their faith firmly to his pamphlet. Let's see! Wasn't it Sir John Macdonald who occupied the same platform with Phipps on one occasion, and introduced him to the assembled faithful, as the man who had done more for Protection than any other six? Phipps has at least sense enough to see that he has been a fool, and there are more sensible men than he in the Dominion—yes, hundreds of them—who have already realized that they too were fooled out of their votes on the 17th of last September by a specious and insincere cry.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

If Mr. Carterright sank himself into a chattel and a traitor in disposing of Canadian 4 per cent. bonds at 90, of what crime has Mr. Tilley been guilty in disposing of them at 84½?

The Globe of Thursday states on the authority of a special cable despatch that nearly half the Canadian loan still remains untaken by the public, it being still in the hands of middlemen.

Ladies who follow the Princess Louise in the carrying of a cane, would do well to also strive to imulate her in her domestic and charitable practices. If they imitate her little vanities, they should also copy her virtues.

The EXAMINER has during the past year been a welcome visitor to thousands of homes. We feel sure all our old friends will continue to read it, and introduce it to as many new ones as possible during the year.

The Toronto Telegram condemns the inconsistency of those who demand that Mr. Mowat should be turned out of office because, as they allege, he helped Mr. Mackenzie at the recent elections, but who saw nothing wrong in the first Premier of Ontario, Mr. Sandfield Macdonald, going on the stump with his illustrious Chieftain.

The following verse, being apropos of the present season of mourning, is suggested as a suitable addition to the National Anthem :—

God save our gracious Queen,
Long may Victoria reign :
God save the Queen.

In Her sore grief, O Lord,
May Thy consoling Word
Turn peace and hope afford ;
God save the Queen.

At a meeting of the Osgoode Hall literary and legal society held last week, a discussion took place on the subject whether actions for breach of promise of marriage should be abolished. Chief Justice Hagarty occupied the chair, and in summing up made a humorous speech in which he said that this kind of action was a stain upon our judicial system, and he looked forward with pleasure to the time when it would be abolished.

While all the world seems to howl "the Chinese must go" Cuba offers to take the giant eyed heathen in. In the treaty which Spain has just ratified with China, the Chinese are to have in Cuba all the rights, privileges and immunities that other foreigners enjoy. Chinese consular officers are also to be appointed on that island. Spain's liberality in this matter, however, savors somewhat of Artemus Ward's magnanimity in sacrificing his wife's relations on the altar of his country. It is remarkably easy for Spain to grant all sorts of liberties to the Chinamen in Cuba.

The Tory prints are trying to make it appear that the dismissals of Dominion officials that have of late taken place are proceeded with simply on the score of economy. It is strange, however, that all those whose services the new Ministers think they can dispense with are Reformers appointed by the late Reform Government. It is queer economy, too, which can effect a saving by sending a Reformer adrift and filling his place by a Tory, at the same salary. We scarce think the people of Canada will endorse this Yankee system of filling offices with party friends.

THE AFGHAN CAMPAIGN.

LAHORE, Dec. 30.—There is risk of too great importance being attached in England to the Ameer's departure from Cabul, and of its being regarded as virtually terminating the campaign. Some persons here think the Ameer's flight may have been greatly influenced by the fact that if he had remained during the winter at Cabul he might have found himself caught in a trap. The roads on this side of Cabul are usually passable earlier in the spring than those on the other side of the Afghan capital. Thus our army might have been able, in the event of the Ameer's staying in Cabul till spring, to advance on him before he could retire. From this point of view his flight may be only a retreat to a safer quarter, whence to prolong resistence. He has fourteen, or according to another account seventeen regiments at hand, and if he can retain his hold over them, and thus maintain his supremacy in Afghan Turkestan, he may still offer formidable opposition to Yakoob Khan, or whatever ruler is set up in Southern Afghanistan. He released Yakoob Khan only under pressure from the Ghilzoi Chiefs, who would not allow him to leave Cabul without appointing a successor. If Yakoob Khan becomes our ally, we shall probably guarantee him against his father.

The Viceroy of India telegraphs that Major Cavagnari reports that there is no further news of the Ameer or of Yakoob Khan. He also announces that the Khan of Khelat desires to join the British in the advance on Candahar.

A despatch from Bombay says the Government of Chamdahar has ordered a levy of the whole population to resist the British advance. The people have responded heartily.

CAVAN.

DEATH OF AN OLD RESIDENT.—On the 28th December last, Cavan, in the death of Reuben Mahaffy, lost one of the very early pioneers of that Township. Mr. Mahaffy a father came to Canada in the year 1818, and located the lot upon which he has since died. At that time there were only four outlets, who had come in the previous year in the township, and on leaving his lot (50 in all) he had to carry his goods miles—there being no roads then. In the following year (1819) Mr. Robert Mahaffy (then a boy of ten or twelve years of age) came with his father, and from that day until the day of his death (over 59 years), resided on the same farm. Mr. Mahaffy was of a quiet unassuming disposition, and a good neighbour, and was much respected by all who knew him. He was a member of the Methodist Church for a long life, and will be much missed in that body, and hence will be much missed in the community at large. He was in his seventy-fifth year, and was buried on the 31st December, his funeral being largely attended by friends and relatives from all parts of the township. He was a kind husband and father, and his children and grandchildren will long cherish the memory of his many virtues. He was also a member of the Masonic Order, and was buried with the honors of that fraternity.

The Fiscal Policy of Canada.

(From the London Economist.)

We are told that Canada produces scarcely enough of grain to suffice for the food of her own people, and if so, the injury inflicted on the country by the import duty of 20 cents per bushel imposed by the United States is not apparent. Nor can we see what benefit she would derive from increasing by protective duties the cost of the supplies which she receives from the United States, and with which she can supply her own deficiencies. Moreover, when we hear of American ironmasters being able to pay out of the large profits they are making in the States the losses they incur in Canada, we become incredulous. That American ironmasters are not making large profits, but, on the contrary, are in many cases suffering heavy losses, is notorious, and is shown by the great proportion of furnaces that are now out of blast. And even if it were otherwise, we may be certain that a combination to throw away profits in Canada, if attempted, could not long be maintained. That Canadian industries are depressed is no doubt true. But so are the industries of every other nation, because there is everywhere a great diminution of purchasing power. The remedy does not in imposing protective duties, which by increase in the price of all commodities, must impoverish the country still more, but in the further adoption of free trade, through which they will be enabled to supply their wants more cheaply.

AN ABANDONED SCHEME.

(From the Preston Pilot Gazette)

From information which has reached us we understand that the long talked of railway scheme from Bobcaygeon to Lindsay is given up by the leading promoters, the reason being that to which we made reference in a late issue, viz., that the Provincial Legislature were sure to refuse a grant in its aid. This is of course a matter of regret to them, as they have spent much time and money in the way of placing its claims for the Provincial aid in a position that they thought would secure it. Only a few thousand dollars were wanting, a bonus for the necessary amount from Lindsay was expected, and, that granted, the affair sure to float safely on to completion. We never thought that the railway, if carried out agreeably to the designs of its promoters, would have yielded them half the benefit they expected, and, impressed with this opinion, gave utterance to some observations which in one case at least did not meet with their approbation, and we were accused of being opposed to the interests of Bobcaygeon; but our remarks were made rather in their interest than otherwise, as we considered they were about to sink money for which they would get no adequate return, and their after thoughts on the scheme may yet be as ours. We do not think that the parties who expected to profit by the line have the slightest reason to fear that they will be in a worse position than they were, as they have the same access to markets as formerly, and not having got the railway they have not to pay for it. They will retain the interest on the bonuses they granted, and that will amply suffice to pay for the transport of all their produce and merchandise, and they will, we doubt not, continue to flourish as heretofore, as they will deserve to do.

THE DISTRESS IN ENGLAND.

The New York Times, alluding to the reports of great distress prevalent in several parts of England, finds an opportunity to state that "the distress of our most formidable commercial competitor means also for the present, a diminution of the purchasing power of our chief agricultural customer." The above remark by the Times would be equally appropriate, as to the principle contained, if made by an English paper in reference to the almost unparalleled distress which has existed in the United States, for several years past. We in Canada, have also found our country affected by a commercial depression, which, in our case was brought upon us by causes entirely external. The "purchasing power" of our principal foreign customers has greatly decreased. The distress in the United States alone has lessened our export trade by many millions of dollars within the last half dozen years. Thus the prosperity or poverty of one country affects the welfare of all countries which have commercial relations with it. The Canadian Tory party darting the late election campaign took an unfair advantage of circumstances which were beyond governmental control. They now find themselves facing a country in which "hard times" are rather increasing than decreasing; and behold they are after all nothing but "flies on a wheel," and as incapable of regulating the commercial relations of a country as they charged their predecessors with being.

Commercial Items.

Japan is to be a great wheat producer.

The world's production of gold is one-third less than in 1856.

The English duty on tobacco amounts to some $45,000,000 a year.

Scotland, says the Edinburgh Daily Review, is $75,000,000 poorer than it would have been estimated by an actuary a few weeks ago.

Recent investigations in Chicago showed that eight per cent. of the samples of pork in that market which were examined were trichinous. This is pleasing news for American pork eaters.

Last year America and Canada sold England $120,000,000 worth of grain, live stock, meats, cheese, and eggs. We sent over 200,000 cattle, 1,080,000 sheep, 50,000 swine and 30,000 horses.

Negotiations are now pending between a large firm in London Eng., and Toronto exporters, for 20,000 head of cattle and 50,000 sheep, of first-class quality and grade, to be delivered by the end of June, 1879.

The laying of a third rail on the Erie railway from Buffalo to New York is completed, and that corporation now has an outlet to the seaboard, of the standard gauge, which will prove very valuable to it.

At present 8s 6d. per barrel for flour from New York to Liverpool is considered a good freight, while from Halifax 3s. is charged, although the distance is about 500 miles less and the port charges and general expenses smaller.

Iceland aspires to ready communication with the outside world, and Dr. Thomsen, a member of the Althing, is now in Copenhagen with a proposition to have a cable laid between the island and continental Europe. The high intelligence of the Icelanders makes such communication very desirable.

Chinese are being imported into the Sandwich islands for plantation labor, but according to the Commercial Advertiser of Honolulu, they do not seem to be desired there any more than in other parts of the world. There is need of laborers in the Islands, but Portugese, Swiss or Italians would be greatly preferred.

According to reports from interior points in the east, the hog crop is likely to be much larger than last year. At the six leading centres in the U. S.—Chicago, Cincinnati, Louisville, St. Louis, Indianapolis, and Milwaukee, the aggregate packing to date is 2,126,000, or 760,000 more than at the same date last year.

The Atlanta and Constitution of the Atlanta Fair, of Georgia, says, that on a certain occasion the proprietor of the show, Scotchman proposed publication, and came out with the announcement :—"My dancers and contortionists are worth, and now I shall strike. I have paid high salaries and great wages have been my ruin. Hereafter the fat ladies will have to walk for a spell as my employees have done."

Some illustrations are constantly occurring of the tendency of steam railways to increase the carrying trade. The experience of the Grand Trunk Railway of Canada, as given in the report of the Directors, is a case in point. The total receipts for the year 1878 were £1,000,000 sterling, being £100,000 more than in 1877, and £200,000 more than in 1876. The working expenses were £600,000 in 1878, £570,000 in 1877, and £500,000 in 1876. The net profits were £400,000 in 1878, £330,000 in 1877, and £300,000 in 1876. The increase in the net profits in 1878 over 1877 was £70,000, and over 1876 £100,000. The increase in the working expenses in 1878 over 1877 was £30,000, and over 1876 £100,000. The increase in the receipts in 1878 over 1877 was £100,000, and over 1876 £200,000. The increase in the net profits in 1878 over 1877 was £70,000, and over 1876 £100,000. The increase in the working expenses in 1878 over 1877 was £30,000, and over 1876 £100,000.

RETALIATION.

Barrie Gazette.

As was to be expected, the Americans are taking up the gauntlet fearlessly thrown down by the Canadian "reciprocatory tariff" party. Retaliation is sure to work both ways; and making it a basis here is certain to cause a commercial war with the United States. This was plainly foreshadowed at a late meeting of the Buffalo Board of Trade. The delegates there appointed to attend the National Board were instructed to urge that Congress be petitioned to enact a prohibitory duty on lumber and other Canadian products, if the "National Policy" be carried out in the Dominion. This is especially significant coming from a city so very closely connected commercially with Canada as Buffalo. If such be the feeling there, how strong must it be in other sections, not having such intimate trade relations with Canada? Such a proposition will meet with a quick response from the west, eager for release from Canadian competition; and will be backed up by those eastern influences which seem to draw the trough trade by way of New York, Boston and Baltimore as oppressed to the Canada through route. These powers have before proved immense in influencing Congress, and may not unnaturally be expected to do so again. In this they will be aided by an appeal to the national spirit of the people, who though they will be injured by the inauguration rather extension—of the Prohibitory policy, may be swayed by arousing their passions against those Canadians who have dared to "buck against" their "great and glorious country" as will undoubtedly be the language of their Fourth of July orators and protectionist politicians. Thus the danger pointed out by the Reform press before the late Dominion elections is looming up. Will Sir John Macdonald and his fellow ministers take heed to this warning, if not to others?

POLITICAL NOTES.

The horde of politicians who have been infesting Ottawa for the last two months have now left it to spend their Christmas holidays at home.

R. W. Phipps calls on all Conservative M.P.s who owe their narrow majorities to him—"if they are of the nature which remembers a benefit"—"to replace this Administration by one more capable." Speak now, Mr. Hilliard.

The French Canadian Tory papers threaten all sorts of dire calamities to the country should their demands for the dismissal of Lieut.-Governor Letellier not be complied with. One of them says :—"We are very loyal now, but we cannot answer for the consequences if our remonstrance is disregarded." And another hints about "our being allowed to govern ourselves in this province," conveniently forgetting that there are others besides Quebec Tories to be consulted in the matter of government. These treason spouters are evidently worth watching.

Montreal Star : Sir John Macdonald said that "the weevil had come in with the Grits." It appears to have also gone out before their term of office expired. According to Sir John Macdonald the commercial and industrial depression has also vanished, but, singular to say, the irony of events has ushered in with the new Government a severe financial depression, which, since the advent of the new Government, has brought about a depreciation in stock in this country to the extent of no less than $5,000,000.

Our Railway Interests.

Norwood Register

We are very much pleased to notice the degree to which the discussion has arrived on the proposition emanating from a meeting of the ratepayers of Norwood, and opportunely introduced by Mr. Wm. Sargent. The papers of all the localities interested are vigorously discussing the pros and cons of the leading features of this proposal. In this connection we notice a criticism on the proceeding of the Peterborough Town Council in the Belleville Intelligencer, which, while candidly admitting the object of Belleville to be their own interests solely—or what is supposed to be—we regret to see an attempt to attain their purpose by expressing erroneous statements.

It is not true, as stated by the Intelligencer, that the line between Campbellford and the Narrows presents engineering difficulties to weigh against that route being selected, while really (and we speak on indisputable authority) the roughness of that part of the route had down as the northern route being nothing compared to that towards Hastings, as the great circuit of the latter line clearly proves, and say Engineer of the Grand Junction company who gave such information to our contemporary is certainly mistaken,—to put it mildly. Besides any such difficulty is more than compensated by the absolutely level grade from the Narrows to Norwood and all the way to Peterborough.

OCTOBER.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.—The annual meeting of the Otonabee Reform Association, was held at Keene on Thursday last. After discussing matters pertaining to the coming election and other routine, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year :—Wm. Lang, President ; John Gilleapie, 1st Vice-President ; James Millar, 2nd Vice-President ; James M. Drummond, Secretary-Treasurer.

LAKEFIELD.

(From our own Correspondent)

—Snowed up.
—Dug out again.
—A stormy Xmas.
—Dull holiday season.
—The Indian Band Concert at the Village at Chemong Lake, had to be given up owing to the lonesome state of the lake, but was held at Selwyn instead. The attendance was not so large as expected owing to the stormy night and the bad state of the roads. On their way home they remained for an hour or two in this place and played several selections on Queen Street.
—The entertainment given in the P.C. A. Hall on Friday evening in aid of the building fund of the C. M. Church, was a great success. The large hall was filled and the audience seemed to thoroughly appreciate the bill of fare provided for, their entertainment, and for which the managers deserve every credit. Where everyone tried to do their best to contribute to the enjoyment of the evening it would be unfair to criticise. The following is the programme :—

The Chicago Times has a new reporter on its staff. He evidently knows how to write, as witness the opening of a description of a recent snowstorm :—"All day long the sky was heavy with snow, which at the very last moment, in just such a way as to cause the most disappointment, began to be falling for the people of the town. On top of the snow, which had been falling for the previous twenty-four hours, there was now a fall of about two inches, and more was coming. Where it had been put down in the morning it was now about three inches deep, and it was coming down as if it meant to stay there for a week."

The Chicago Times says :—"Mrs. Langtry has sold her diamonds to raise money to pay her debts. She has refused to take Canada money in exchange, and the First National will accept it only at a discount. Now that she has disposed of her diamonds it is impossible for her to pay her debts in full, and she will be obliged to compromise with her creditors. Mrs. Langtry is a woman of great spirit and will make a desperate effort to pay her debts in full, but she will find it impossible to do so. She is a woman of great beauty and will be able to secure a husband who will pay her debts, and then she will be happy."

A singular incident with reference to the Glasgow Bank is made public. It seems that a lady entrusted $2,000 to an agent or broker to invest for her in bank stock and since he regularly paid the amount of dividend thereon followed he had done so. Since the failure, however, it has transpired that he appropriated the capital to his own use and has been regularly paying her dividends out of his own pocket. Charles Cluthe's Patent Spiral Truss Pad has been the result of many years' study and material experience. Its perfect adaptability for Rupture is proven by the thousands now in use. Among its many advantages are, gentle, constant and even pressure; it gives to the motion of the body without friction; complete ventilation (as shown in engraving); a clasping pressure which does not open (as all oval pads) but closes the aperture of hernia—the whole being under one pressure is required. It is this latter feature that has made this truss so eminently successful and proved a Radical Cure of from 90 to 95 per cent. of cases treated. This Truss cured persons of over 90 years of age. Only one belt round the waist, no leg straps and no springs required for its use.

Apparatus for straightening Spinal Curvature, Hip Disease, Bow Leg, Wry Neck, Club Foot, etc., made on most scientific principles. Price same as at my other.

LOCAL NEWS.

A Happy New Year!

Ice.—If this weather holds a little longer, the ice harvest can be gathered.

Appointment.—Mr. Wm. Campbell has been appointed postmaster at Keene.

A Question.—What minor New Year's gift, for a friend, that a person ticket for the rink?

Absurdity.—The musically inclined of our citizens were delighted last Friday evening by some choice selections, played by a band of Indians from Rice Lake.

"The Quarterly."—The holiday number of The Quarterly, published by the pupils of the Hamilton Collegiate Institute, is a credit to that very popular and successful institution.

Larceny.—Some burglariously inclined individual broke into the house of Mr. David McCoy, on Christmas Day, and relieved him of some bedding, potatoes, and a number of other articles.

Snow Shoeing.—The Ashburnham Snow Shoe Club held their first tramp last Friday evening. A pleasing feature of the organization is the including of ladies and gentlemen in its membership.

The Pulpit.—Rev. Mr. Burns, of Bobcaygeon, who is in town obtaining subscriptions for the erection of a Baptist church in that village, occupied the pulpit of the Baptist Church, on Sunday evening.

Not Forgotten Yet.—Editors—a hitherto much neglected class—have been taken in hand by the Evangelical Alliance. They are to be prayed for on the 16th of January. Like John A., they no doubt need it.

Personal.—Mr. Moyna, of the R. C. Separate School, on the occasion of his leaving our town, was entertained by some of his numerous friends to a supper at the Peterborough Club, lately opened by Capt. Turner.

For Pleasure.—Mr. D. G. Heathorn, with his usual business tact, has added a very beautiful sleigh to his numerous stock. It is comfortable and commodious and is just the article for those who desire a pleasure drive during the winter season.

Disgraceful.—The rowdy element of this town seemed to vie with one another on Christmas eve in their rough and disgraceful conduct. The police force were conspicuous for their absence. It is high time such a state of affairs was stopped.

Personal.—We hear that Mr. J. G. Hands, who has made for himself a reputation in this section as a teacher, has accepted a position in the Collingwood Collegiate Institute, and he will prove an acquisition to that institution.—London Advertiser.

A Good Paper.—The enterprising proprietors of the Woodstock Sentinel-Review deserve high commendation for their enterprise in publishing ten thousand copies of their valuable Christmas number and distributing them gratuitously through Oxford county.

Complimentary.—As is customary at this season of the year, the Fireman's Band has been honoring several of our citizens with visits. The favourable appearance of the members and the sweet strains produced have been the subject of universal comment.

Extension to Midland City.—We learn that Mr. Cox has given the contract for the extension of the Midland Railway to Midland City to Messrs. Gibson & Dixon, the contractors for the Whitby line. Traffic will soon be commenced as there are only a few miles to be completed.

Advice to Callers.—A society paper says: "Never examine the cards in the card-basket. While they may be exposed to turn them over unnoticed is to do so." Of course not, because by meddling with them you may blunderingly put the nobodies under the swells. By all means let them alone.

Christmas Dinner.—On Christmas Day the guests of the Huffman House were entertained to a grand dinner by the proprietor. A splendid spread was partaken of, after which Mr. Shirley, in a neat speech proposed the health of Mr. and Mrs. Huffman. The usual toasts being honored, the company dispersed. The hotel was tastefully decorated with evergreens, English mistletoe, and beautiful [illegible]

Curling Club Meeting.—A meeting of the Curling Club was held in the Huffman House on Monday evening of last week, when the following gentlemen were elected skips for the ensuing season:—John Ledgate, Geo. Brown, Peter Connal, J. F. Dennistoun, John Bertram, W. Rennaugh, A. Hall, J. M. Irwin. A committee was appointed to carry out the first shooting carnival, which will be held on the first Tuesday in January.

Tenders for the Shanties.—The Ottawa Free Press says:—Mr. Barnhart, representing the large lumbering firm of Messrs Boyd, Peterborough, was in the city during the past couple of days. He engaged some twenty-five teams in the vicinity of Renfrew, which have been employed [illegible]

Business.—The town around and paid the boards bills [illegible] than who were engaged for the first by Capt. McKay. It was a blessing that shopmen were engaged by Messrs Boyd this winter, as a number of [illegible] hundred men who were in a [illegible]

The Kiss.

She kissed me. Not as lovers kiss.
Her yet as friends, who often meet,
And meeting kiss because—Oh! well—
Because—I think because 'tis sweet.

Not such as these, and only once;
Yet in that kiss was more to me
Than ever since kisses held.
It was the first, the last to be.

One, only one, she gave to me—
One, only one of all her store,
And through the long sad years to come
Our lips will meet—ah! never more.

One moment, one, of all her life.
She gave to me and only me;
One moment she was all my own,
In past, and she again was free.

Ah! well, so let it be—'tis best.
She'll go her way and I'll go mine;
Some other lips will claim her's sweet.
Some other eyes for her will shine.

Some other heart will cherish her,
Some other hand, with pleasp here soft,
Some other arm will hold her close,
Some other hand, low-bending, oft.

Will touch her head in tenderness,
Will feel her presence thrilling bliss;
And yet, perhaps, sometimes she'll think
Of that one kiss, tender kiss.

LOST IN THE SNOW.

A CHRISTMAS TALE.

The slight increase of pressure as the Baronet said these last words startled Leila's gracious timidity. She made an effort to disengage herself from the encircling arm, which he perceiving, gently seated her in the arm-chair, and then turned and busied himself with lighting his study-lamp, during which Leila watched him furtively.

'He is very handsome!—and what a splendid beard?' was her first reflection—commonplace enough. 'His eyes are very dark and kind; I am sure he is good! I owe my life to him, and I never saw his equal?' was her final passionate thought.

And then the owner of the kind dark eyes turned round, and the blood mounted to her cheek as she felt convicted of her very close observation.

He quietly arranged the cushions at the back of her chair, placed a stool at her feet, and said tenderly, 'You cannot think what it is to me to see you so far revived. There was a time when I feared that I had found you only to lose you again. But now I shall always feel that I have a claim on you—may I not?'

'Indeed you may, Sir Warren—none greater!' she replied earnestly, her sweet, brown eyes looking tenderly up to the man who bent over her. 'I never can repay you, but if——'

'Hush! hush!' he said, nervously. 'I am not sure of that. Perhaps, when you know more of me, you may find me exacting, for the reward you could give me is already on my lips, but its utterance would be premature Now, good night, Miss Calderon!'

And he held out his hand,
She looked absolutely frightened.
'You are timid?' he asked, hesitatingly.
'Indeed, I am!'
He passed his hand across his brow in perplexity.
'Stay; there is a sofa in the dining room next to this, and the remains of a fire, for I dined there. I will go no further. Look the door on the inside,' he said, abruptly as he left her.

She smiled innocently.
'As if I could not feel safe with Sir Warren so near!' she thought.
But she did as he desired her, nevertheless.
The Baronet threw himself down on the sofa in the dining-room to listen to the Christmas bells, to toss and tumble from side to side, to dream of Leila Calderon's beauty, and to wake with sincere rejoicing that she was alive and safe.

CHAPTER V.

But that evening was destined to bring trouble upon poor Leila Calderon.

When her mother learnt where her daughter had passed the preceding night, she was vexed and uncomfortable.

'Oh, mamma!' cried Leila, passionately, 'when I might have died but for Sir Warren Desborough's coachman!'

'My darling, I am truly thankful to him—do not think other wise; but what will the Ponsonbys—what will other people say when they know that you passed the night at Desborough Manor virtually alone with Sir Warren?'

A deep flush mounted to the girl's brow. She hid her face in her hands.

'Oh, mamma, how cruel?'

'Well, my child, it is a cruel world?'

And Mrs. Calderon's words proved true.

It transpired, as such matters will—possibly through the woman who was hired to attend to the domestic work at the Manor—that a lady had passed the night there—actually in Sir Warren's study. The room gave evidence of it. There was a hairpin on the floor, and a handkerchief, marked 'Leila,' beneath the sofa-cushions.

The woman did not come early, so the bird had flown, but it had left feathers enough behind to mark its flight. And the Baronet's cousin, too, had not been slept on. So Mrs. Taylor, with a severe face, carried the handkerchief and the awful fact to Mrs. Calderon.

It was in vain that the mother repeated her daughter's statement to Mrs. Taylor. That woman having erred in her youth, was now, as a natural sequence, a stern British matron.

'Ah well, mum, I 'opes you're right,' she replied, in that tone which seems to say 'But I believe you're wrong.' 'I 'opes you're right, I'm sure; but 'tis a strange thing for Miss to cross the moor on sich a night. And tho' Sir Warren seems a right-down good gentleman, we knows nothin' of 'im as yet; and young men will be young men.'

With which vague summary, and a tone of her virtuous head, Mrs. Taylor departed to circulate the story, with cruel additions, throughout Clydesdale and Dalbacy.

Poor Leila was so thoroughly cowed and ashamed at her mother's hints, that she dared not name the episode to anyone, and wonder ed at the perceptible nudges her friends gave each other at her approach, and the marked coolness with which she was treated.

At the end of the week she returned to her little pupils, and found them unchanged; but Mrs. Ponsonby's manner was peculiar.

She spoke little, and what she did say was under constraint; but she looked intently and coldly at Leila, till one morning when the children had been dismissed, the girl asked piteously, 'Are you vexed with me, dear Mrs. Ponsonby?'

'Miss Calderon, why should you think so?'

'You used to call me 'Leila,'' she replied her eyes filling with tears.

'Neither things nor people will always remain the same, child. I wish with all my heart they would. I might tell you there is a change in you; and she looked at her young governess intently.

Leila coloured, and hung her head. There was a change she herself knew—a change full of resentment, intense affection for the man who saved her life, and yet whom she now, from suddenly shyness and fear avoided as much as possible.

One of the children ran in to proffer some request, and the conversation dropped; but that afternoon was an eventful one to Leila Calderon.

The governess and the juvenile members of the Presbytery family had their dinner at the table that the grown-up household, and on this occasion, when Mr. Ponsonby, [illegible] commended by Sir Wentth Hamilton, [illegible] with which [illegible] with [illegible] with [illegible] with

Have you a toast
For the Passing Year?
No! No!
More it tour on you
Thou hast wrought for you.
Let it go!

For the wasted
Days and deserted
Shall another year restore!
Only dawning,
Bother, heather,
Then they ever were before—

LAKEFIELD.

(From Our own Correspondent.)

—Drifts.
—Pitch-holes.
—High winds.
—Heavy snow fall.
—Blocked up roads.
—School opened Monday.
—Vennor is a month behind with his storm.
—Dry sawed hardwood is only $2 a cord, a blessing these cold hard times.
—The road to Buckhorn from Lakefield is thro' the fields most of the way, while the traffic to Peterboro' nearly all passes through the village and down the Douro side of the river.
—Lakefield District L. O. L., held their annual meeting for the election of Officers, next Tuesday evening, the 14th inst., in the Orange Hall here.
—If the storm on Thursday and Friday did not centre round Lakefield, or vicinity, we pity the locality that was so favored, and we were quite satisfied with the effects of the margin.
—Owing to the absence of the W. M. elect, John Hall Esq., who is on a visit to friends in Ottawa, the installation of the officers of Clementi Lodge A. F. and A. M., and their annual supper did not take place on St. John's Day, but was postponed until the 7th inst.
—A young lady was heard to remark after reading last week's EXAMINER:—It I only knew the time when that youthful editor, will pay his next visit to Lakefield, he would receive a practical illustration of the sign of a lady's hands, as well as her foot." Look out! You have "put your foot" in it!
—New Year's day was observed as a general holiday, and being fine and bright passed off much more lively than Xmas. Large numbers enjoyed themselves sleighriding, skating or visiting friends. A runaway occured in the morning, but with no more serious result than broken shafts &c., and the disgust of the owner who had to patronize "shanks mare" for the rest of the day. In the afternoon a Turkey shooting match was on the "go," but by the time the boys had got their hands in, the turkies played out, and the waterprising owner retired with 35 cents to the good. In the evening quite a number drove down to visit the Good Templars at Nassau, who held a soiree in their Temple, while a few with a large crowd of boys patronized a magical entertainment in Leonard's Hall, given by some Peterborough amateurs.

NORWOOD.

CHRISTMAS FESTIVAL.—The festival held in the Presbyterian Church on Christmas evening was very well attended, and all the events in connection with it passed off exceedingly creditably to the participators. The Christmas Tree, the centre of attraction, was beautifully decorated and illuminated, and was profusely laden with such "fruit" as gladdened the hearts of those who were destined to be recipients from its branches. The distribution was happily and satisfactorily performed by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Fotheringham. Excellent readings, recitations and singing pleasantly diversified the evening's proceedings.

THE EXAMINATIONS.—The following candidates, we are happy to state, succeeded in passing at the recent entrance examinations held in Norwood:—From the Norwood Public School, Ella Higgins, Arthur Kempt, Kate M. Lewis, Kate E. McCarthy, Mary E. S. Pattyson, Bertha A. Reynolds, Edith Roxburgh, Lillie A. Scott, Edith L. Waters, P. P. Cope, Daniel J. McCarthy, and Walter Sargeant. No. 6, Dummer, Mary E. Knox. Hastings Public School, Annie Wilson and Gilbert Cleworth. Those recommended are—Norwood, Ella May Reynolds; Hastings, Maggie W. Anderson and Edward P. Cuffe; Blairton, Maggie A. Mark and Joseph Doupe.—Register.

—Where is Vennor!
—In a late issue of your paper some prophet predicted that in a short time the snow would be drifted five feet deep in the fence corners. It will soon be that depth if the snow does not stop coming down for a while. There are drifts on the road now a good deal over three feet deep, which makes very bad sleighing. I do not think Vennor's Almanacack would sell very readily up here just now, unless he predicted that we would be snowed up before spring.
—The Methodists raised $27.70 at their tea party in the Temperance Hall on Christmas day.
—A mock-tin social under the auspices of Maple Leaf lodge I. O. of G. T. was held in the Temperance hall on New Year's night.

Potency of School Teachers

SKILL, EXPERIENCE AND STURDY MORALITY ARE THE TRUE QUALIFICATIONS.

Education means that the latent intellectual power of the pupil shall be drawn out and made of the best service to the world; made to play some part, however small, in the general progress of the country to stable peace and prosperity. The school teacher becomes, consequently, an individual who moulds and shapes the forces which either retard or stimulate healthful national life. The teacher has a conspicuous responsibility in shaping the growth of the young sapling. It may be said that children do not get their 'training' at school. That may be the theory, but in practice all the training that most children get is at the public schools. Parents have found it convenient to shift much of their responsibility upon teachers. That this is true a very slight investigation of the subject will adequately demonstrate. This being the case, it must be conceded that if it is considered necessary to elect fit men to govern people in the state, it is far more necessary to select fit men and women to direct the human mind at its most critical period in that direction which will make its out-workings a blessing and not a curse to the world.

Manifestly the State accomplishes her duty when she provides every child in the country with the firm foundations of a good English education; when under fit teachers the child is inspired to seek, by means of the habit of study and reflection, yet greater treasures of knowledge. More accomplishments it is not the province of the State to teach. That which will make the boy a good citizen, in the highest sense of the word, must be taught. That which will make the girl an industrious and virtuous woman is like wise to be taught. It cannot, therefore, too strongly be urged that the men and women who are to do this transcendently important work for the State—for the future of the country—should be not only skilful and experienced teachers, but possessed of those sturdy moral qualifications whose influence will permeate their daily ministrations in the school-room.—Louisville Courier Journal.

TWO GERMAN SCHOLARS.

There are so many parallels between Geo. Henry Lewes and Bayard Taylor that their deaths, only a few days apart, can scarcely fail to be considered a remarkable circumstance. Lewes was generally regarded, and probably was, the best German scholar of Great Britain; Taylor was, no doubt, the best German scholar of America. Both had made long and deep studies for a biography of Goethe. Lewes had published his years before his death, and it was esteemed, on the whole, the best, as it was the most popular, of his works. Taylor was still preparing his life of Goethe (much of it had been written) up to the hour of his decease, and had expected it to be the intellectual crown of his life. Both were exceptionally conspicuous for the extent and variety of their attainments. Both were accomplished linguists, though the American had command of many more languages than the Englishman. Both had shone in many departments of literary art, Lewes inclining, latterly, to science, and Taylor to pure letters. Both, though of religious nature, as true artists of any kind are apt to be, were avowed rationalists, who kept fully abreast of the advanced thought of the times. Both evinced from their earliest years a passion for authorship which could not be repressed in one case in the counting-room, in the other in a printing office, and which asserted itself long before manhood proper had began. Both were journalists as well as men of letters, and retained their connection with journalism to the last. Both had been drawn to Goethe in boyhood, and had been much influenced and partly formed by the study of his works.—New York Times.

THE NEWS AT A GLANCE.

Edward Payson Weston, the American pedestrian, will commence on the 16th inst. the task of walking 2,000 miles on the highways in six weeks, resting from midnight on Saturdays to midnight on Sundays. He will consequently only have 556 hours to accomplish the feat. His first route will be through the southern counties.

It is said that there is a probability of the Duke of Connaught being appointed Lord-Lieutenant of Ireland.

The report that the Governor-General refuses to sanction any interference with Lieutenant-Governor Letellier seems generally believed in many quarters at the Capital.

A petition is being prepared in British Columbia for presentation to the Dominion Parliament, praying that the immigration of Chinese into Canada may be prohibited, and that none of the same race be employed upon the Pacific Railway.

On Christmas Eve Samuel Smith, Treasurer of the Newcastle County Insurance Company, left to spend Christmas with his friends in Philadelphia, and has not been heard of since.

The Chinese have a very effective if somewhat primitive, way of preventing the directors of a savings bank running the institution they control into insolvency. They reckon the president's head among the assets.

As compared with those of December, 1877, the business failures last month in the United States, present a splendid exhibition in both the amount and number. This is conditional another encouraging sign of the times.

RECEIPTS FOR THE TABLE.

TO ROAST A GOOSE WITH CHESTNUT SAUCE.—Take 50 chestnuts; put them over the fire in a pan with holes pierced in it; move them about, and take them off, when the inner skin may be removed; chop them up and put them into a stewpan, with half a pound of sausage meat, the liver of the goose chopped up, a bit of butter, chopped parsley, green onions, shallots, and a clove of garlic; fry these together for 15 minutes; put the stuffing into the body of the goose and sew it up. Chestnut sauce.—Chop fifty chestnuts, after having prepared them as above; put them into a sauce-pan with half a glass of white wine, three or four spoonfuls of good stock, and some salt; reduce by boiling to a good rich sauce.

CHESTNUT STUFFING FOR GOOSE.—(As prepared in Southern Germany.)—Cut the shells from two pounds of chestnuts, scald them until the brown skins slip off easily; remove these also; stew and wash one-half pound of raisins; put nuts and raisins with one tablespoonful of fresh butter and one teaspoonful of boiling water, a pinch of salt, to gently stew until the chestnuts are almost soft; fill in the goose. We make an imitation of the above by substituting the chestnuts sweet potatoes, pared and cut into pieces the size of a nut, otherwise the ingredients and preparation being the same. It is cheaper and much less trouble to make. For these fillings it is important that the goose be not too old or fat; should be slowly roasted and very often basted during the process.

CRANBERRY JELLY.—Take two quarts of large sized cranberries; add one pint of cold water; put them in an earthen saucepan; let them stew slowly two hours; then strain and add one cup of granulated sugar to each cup of juice; let them simmer very slowly one half hour more; try it by putting in a spoon and dipping it in cold water; if it should jell on the spoon it is done, if not let it cook a little more; pour in jelly molds. This will be fit for use the next day after being made.

CRANBERRY JELLY, II.—Put one quart of cranberries, covered with boiling water, in a close-covered vessel, stewing fast until dry; rub the pulp through a sieve; fill molds half full of pulp, the remaining half with sugar; stir well, and set on back of range to harden, when cold your molds will turn out fine.

CHICKEN PIE.—Take two chickens weighing about two pounds each; cut in pieces the size you wish to serve; put them in water enough to cover them, add one tablespoonful of salt, half a teaspoonful of white pepper; let them cook slowly until tender—that should be about one hour—then remove them to a plate and take out the largest bones—such as drumsticks and neck, make a crust of two cupfuls of chopped beef suet, one of butter, and three of flour—prepared in the best. Line a four-quart earthen pie-dish with two-thirds of the crust, put in the chicken and the liquid they were boiled in, which should be a quart, if not, add cold water enough, one teaspoonful of pulverised sage, and a lump of butter the size of an egg. Let it cook one hour in a moderate oven.

A PRIEST'S MARRIAGE.

The people of Kilbourn City, Wis., are in a state of extraordinary excitement. The following will explain:—For some time the Rev. Father J. E. Becket has been pastor of the Catholic church. He is a young, smart, and handsome man. Mrs. Lintner is a widow, and the daughter of one of the oldest, wealthiest, and most respected residents. She is still young, handsome, and vivacious. The priest and widow met. On the part of the woman it seemed to be a case of love at first sight. Of course the priest did not think of such a thing as love at first. But there came a time when he did. He found himself deeply in love with the handsome widow. He looked at his profession, church and congregation, and then at the pretty woman. He finally decided to give up his priestly office, leave his pleasant church and kindly congregation, and become a happy husband. About four weeks ago, soon after dark, the couple sought the home of a justice, were married, and left that night, going to Camp Douglas, where they remained a day or two, and then took a train for Chicago. The father of the widow thinking that they had departed as single people, prepared to follow them, but just before starting he thought to call on the man who do marrying. He soon found that his daughter was lawfully married, and, as he did not particularly object to the priest for a son-in-law, he let the matter drop. The friends of both bride and groom succeeded in keeping the matter from the general public until yesterday, and now that the public has heard the news, it is full of talk and excitement. This, it is believed, is the first instance of a Catholic priest in Wisconsin taking to himself a wife. The happy couple are now in Ohio. Both are comfortably off in this world's goods.

The Pacific Railway.

It is said that the Pacific Railway staff at the Capital are busily engaged in preparing specifications for the construction of the 100 miles of road on the Thunder Bay Branch of the Canada Pacific Railroad, with a view to facilitating the immediate letting of the contracts after the completion of tenders on January 15th next. This arrangement on the part of the Commissioners has been rendered necessary by the non-appearance of the [illegible] of the provincial [illegible]

SCIENTIFIC AND USEFUL.

DIPHTHERIA.—This fearful disease belongs to the malarial group, and its prevention can be secured through the faithful observance of hygienic laws in our habits and relations. Its early indications are similar to those of an attack of sunstroke, with which it is confounded by many physicians, because it is a frequent accompaniment of that disorder, and consists mainly in lassitude, weakness, dull aches and pains in different parts of the body, with chilliness. The diphtheric character is exhibited generally by a feeling of uneasiness in the throat, and of stiffness in the back of the neck; the throat in such cases will be found to be inflamed and somewhat swollen. A few hours later the formation of grayish-white patches may be observed, which rapidly spread and thicken if the disease be not checked. As a high temperature and quick pulse accompany the attack, the first application of water to the trunk is important in the treatment to reduce the fever and bring the pulse to its normal rate. The membranous formation is poisonous and gangrenous, and when extensive, a gargle of carbolic acid or chlorine water may be necessary to destroy it. We would not advise the application of caustic, except in very severe cases. The solutions mentioned are generally sufficient. Nutrious food (mainly farinaceous) should be carefully administered to the patient. Milk is excellent, being both nourishing and sedative. The bowels will be assisted in their functions by giving fresh, ripe, or cooked fruit.

AN INDIAN PUDDING.—Stir half a teacupful of cornmeal into one quart of sweet milk while boiling hot. Let it cool. After you have stirred it perfectly smooth, add four well-beaten eggs, one teacupful of either currants or raisins,—apples, or other good dried fruit, if you have not fresh—and a little sugar; lastly, add one pint and a half of sweet milk. Bake slowly.

APPLE TEA, which is very grateful to most sick persons, may be made as follows:—Peel, core, and quarter one pound of apples; boil for half an hour in one quart of water; strain; add the juice of one lemon and sweeten a little. Strawberry or other fruit may be prepared in like manner. Black currant tea is much liked in England.

FERTILISING WITH CLOVER.—Nothing helps land so much as clover. Old worn out fields can be put in a state of fair productiveness by sowing to clover and keeping in clover a few years. Clover makes good pasturage and is especially valuable in seasons of drouth, as it resists it better than any other pasturage crop. It likewise makes excellent hay. If cut at the proper time, saved in a proper manner, and put away in sheds or barns, it is the best hay for most kinds of stock that farmers can have. Plow the ground for clover eight or ten inches deep if you can. Harrow it nicely, and in March on a light snow, if it falls, sow the seed. It is better to sow it without any other crop.

OUR RECIPE FOR CURING MEAT.—To one gallon of water take one and a half pounds of salt, one-half pounds of sugar, one-half ounce saltpetre, one-half ounce potash. In this ratio the pickle can be increased to any quantity desired. Let these be boiled together until all the dirt from the sugar rises to the top and is skimmed off. Then throw it into a tub to cool, and when cold, pour it over your beef or pork. The meat must be well covered with pickle, and should not be put down for at least two days after killing, during which time it should be slightly sprinkled with powdered saltpetre, which removes all the surface blood, etc., leaving the meat fresh and clean. Some omit boiling the pickle, and find it to answer well, though the operation of boiling purifies the pickle by throwing off the dirt always to be found in salt and sugar. If this receipe is strictly followed, it will require only a single trial to prove its superiority over the common way or most ways of putting down meat, and will not soon be abandoned for any other. The meat is unsurpassed for sweetness, delicacy and freshness of color.

LUMBER NOTES.

The following lumber notes we clip from a Muskegon, Mich., paper, and will be read with interest.

The manufacturing season at Muskegon closed on 17th December.

The mills shut down, not because of bad weather or shortage of logs, but because their docks were filled from one end to the other with lumber.

The last of the fall drive of logs reached Muskegon about a month ago, and contains nearly 40,000,000 feet.

Three new mills will be added, and it is confidently expected that next season's cut will be upwards of four hundred and fifty million feet.

The amount of lumber now crosspiled on the several mill docks on that lake is from the very best information to be had at present, about 75,000,000 feet—four-fifths more than was ever piled on our docks at any one time before.

Notwithstanding the unfavorable winter for logging, the season has been a prosperous one for the manufacturers, who as we showed last week, are making [illegible] preparations for the [illegible]

Importance of a Clean Skin.

Most of our invalids are such, and millions of more healthy people will become invalids, for the want of paying the most ordinary attention to the requirements of the skin. The membrane is too often regarded as a covering only, instead of a complicated piece of machinery, scarcely second in its texture and sensitiveness to the ear and eye. Many trust it with as little reference to its proper functions as if it were nothing better than a bag for their bones. It is this inconsideration for the skin that is the cause of a very large proportion of the diseases of the world. If, as claimed by some scientists, four-fifths, in the bulk, of all we eat and drink must either pass off through the skin or be turned back upon the system as a poison, and that life depends as much upon the exhalations through the skin as upon inhaling pure air through the lung

PETERBOROUGH, JANY. 9th, 1879.

Meeting of Reformers.

The annual meeting of the West Riding Reform Association for the Election of Officers for West Peterborough, will be held in the Reform Club Rooms, in the Town of Peterborough, on Thursday, the 16th inst., at 2 o'clock p.m. In view of the work to be done and the near approach of the Local Elections, a full meeting is desirable, and is earnestly called for. After the Election of Officers for the year, other important business will be brought before the meeting. It is not necessary to urge that every Reformer that possibly can, should be present. The meeting is in the interest of all, and should be attended by all who can find time. As there is a full week to arrange for that day, other business can be disposed of, so as not to interfere with there being present a full representation of Reformers from all parts of the Riding. We need only add that all Reformers are expected to do—as every Briton should—his duty.

PAYING UP ARREARS.

We desire to acknowledge with thanks the hearty response given by many of our subscribers to the request made last week in reference to the payment of arrears. At the same time we would again remind those who have not called upon us that we expect they will do so at once, in order that we may meet our own engagements promptly. Like all others in business the newspaper man needs money, and as we have been to more than usual expense this season in fitting up our office, we expect and require all those in arrears to pay up promptly. The amounts owing to us we admit, individually, are small, but taken collectively, amount to a large sum. If all would pay up promptly it would be of a small matter to them, but it would be of great benefit to us. We hope all interested will respond to this call.

The "Mails" Estimate of Messrs. Scott & O'Sullivan.

During the session of the Provincial Legislature which opens to-day, the remonstrances of influential journals both Reform and Conservative, against the increase of the sessional indemnity to members will likely be taken into account. Seeing the probability of a return to a smaller membership indemnity, the Mail tries most frantically to make a little capital out of the increase, and becomes loudly denunciatory of those who brought it about, of course the Mail inferentially blames the Reform majority in the House; because it cannot accuse them directly. The increase was first proposed by a Conservative member. Conservatives worked the oracle in its favour and canvassed the proposition; Conservative hands circulated the "round robin" praying for the increase; and Conservative members as a whole became zealous in obtaining it. Nor was this all. When the question was tested in committee of the whole, when Mr. Crooks moved for a reduction of the amount mentioned in the resolution to a round sum of $600, the majority of Conservative members present voted against him, while the majority of Reformers present were with him. An analysis of that vote in Committee shows that out of 43 Reformers 23 voted for the $600 indemnity, while 18 out of 20 Conservatives voted for the $600 allowance. And among this eighteen were Mr. Scott & Dr. O'Sullivan; and they therefore, according to the chief organ of their own party "have exaggerated notions of their own importance," and "too little regard for the products and general circumstances of the people." The Mail delinquents then foreseen, as it says, "where every [illegible]

THE RAILWAY AGITATION.

Mr. Sargent, of Norwood, deserves high praise for the active part he has taken in trying to advance the railway interests of this County, and for the perseverance he has displayed even in the face of discouragements from professed friends. He was misrepresented at first as trying to take the ridiculous position that Peterborough County could force the line of the Grand Junction to be changed, in spite of everybody; whereas he was only pointing out that the line might be changed, with the consent of this county. That consent will only follow the general desire of the people of the County; and we are glad to see that the efforts to bring about such desire are taking definite shape. The views of the people of Peterborough, expressed through Mr. Sargent and others, have commanded something like the respect due them; the railway scheme proposed in these columns only a few weeks ago is about to be discussed at a conference as also suggested by the EXAMINER. We have strong hopes that the Grand Junction Directors, and the Toronto & Ottawa Company will see the inevitable benefits to be derived from a compromise that will land the line of the former to Norwood, and at once begin the construction of the T. & O. road between that village and this town. We have only faith in the actual existence [illegible]

THE POLICE COURT CONTROVERSY.

If the paper attacking Mr. Hatton, and the one defending him also, would but be wise enough to leave that gentleman's personality out of the question, they would doubtless not only relieve the principal victim of the combined abuse and praise, but also please, all those who take any interest in the question of Police Court reform. The official actions of the Police Magistrate are of course legitimate matter for criticism, but neither violent denunciation in which dishonest motives are applied to him, nor hints at his complete dissipated as to him, nor hints at his complete diminution will or can be of any use to anyone. Probably the violent censors of the Police Magistrate were they in his position would have read the law even more to their own pecuniary advantage than the present incumbent has done. He took what he deemed his due. If he were mistaken in his estimate, those who think so can only weaken their own contention by personal abuse, while they must by such tactics rouse the official to make a stronger grasp on what they would have him yield, and to exact to the uttermost the rights of his position in his own widest interpretation of what constitutes those rights. Nor does a personal defence with attempts at offsets help the position in the least. There are certain matters with alarm the approach of an outlay larger than income, and the dire vision of Provincial bankruptcy. He would at once seize the pruning hook and trim the Ministers' salaries, the sessional allowance of members, and the costs of legislation, and of the departments. He need not be alarmed. The expenditure will, as it has been, be kept well within the means of the Province, and that too without any needless hoarding of surplus funds. The alarmist way in which this financier (?) writes of the increase of population leading to greater cost in governing the Province, and the question "where is the money to come from?" is really amusing, coming as it does from a journal that but lately defended the cutting off of the Dominion revenue by Protection, on the ground that as increase of population would make up the loss. Truly the reasoning (?) of the unfortunate who ambitiously gets beyond being satisfied with the publication of a weekly paper, and prates a weekly one, is past the analysis of anyone but a mad doctor.

"THE MENTAL STRAIN."

While the Tory journal of this town was only a weekly it was not such a weakly paper as it is now. It could rise to something like respectability in reasoning once a week; but the diurnal strain has proved too much for the minds on which it depends for its original remarks. Sophistry, of the olden time, was not inconsistent with some dignity and impressiveness; but the inane twaddle it now serves up must engender mirth, contempt and disgust, according to the attitude, political, of those who read it. If the poor writer who has to grind out a daily dose of "something," were equal to the requirements of his position; or even if he took time to make himself somewhat acquainted with those subjects on which he pretends to be oracular, there might be some little chance of his escape from doing an injustice to himself. But as it is he fails, either from want of time or inclination, to read sufficiently to enable him to write intelligently and safely. He even, in his haste, forgets his former utterances and arguments; and sadly jumbles up his logic from time to time. A few days ago he undertook to discuss Canadian finances with evidently imperfect information beyond Hon. Mr. Mowat's Woodstock speech, which, of course he attempted to criticize. Well, he talked of "what should be held sacred as capital," and the "average annual revenue," which latter he seems to have imagined should never be exceeded by the expenditure in any one year. He asks, too, querulously, concerning "average annual expenditure," though that can be got from the public accounts by a little calculation in simple addition and division. After several conflicting admissions and denials this precious editor of a daily paper, boldly challenges some one to show him where the present expenditure can be permanently reduced, in order that he may prove it to be extravagant. With his very original idea, that every years' expenditure must come within an average arbitrarily obtained from a consideration of several other years, he sees with alarm the approach of an outlay larger than income, and the dire vision of Provincial bankruptcy. He would at once seize the pruning hook and trim the Ministers' salaries, the sessional allowance of members, and the costs of legislation, and of the departments. He need not be alarmed. The expenditure will, as it has been, be kept well within the means of the Province, and that too without any needless hoarding of surplus funds. The alarmist way in which this financier (?) writes of the increase of population leading to greater cost in governing the Province, and the question "where is the money to come from?" is really amusing, coming as it does from a journal that but lately defended the cutting off of the Dominion revenue by Protection, on the ground that as increase of population would make up the loss. Truly the reasoning (?) of the unfortunate who ambitiously gets beyond being satisfied with the publication of a weekly paper, and prates a weekly one, is past the analysis of anyone but a mad doctor.

A DESERVED NOTICE.

It is amusing to observe the anxiety displayed by the weekly journal of Peterborough to obtain the honor of notice and mention by the EXAMINER. Besides, were we so silly as to regularly gratify the desire of the laborious scribe of the weakly sheet, it would enable him to furnish spicy space-annihilators for it, based on the ideas furnished him by the remarks he so much covets. So that there is a method in his madness after all. Well, we intend to gratify our bumptious and longing admirer this week, to the extent of noticing a neat attempt to compass his end,—one so neat and clever, in fact, that it deserves success. A recent article in this paper on the "Date of the General Election" was written, as will be seen by reference to it, in order to show up the absurdity of the remarks of the Tory press generally, in opposition to the idea that the writ for Algoma should be taken into account in considering the four years for which the Parliamentary term in Ontario shall last. Now mark the petty cunning of the editor of the weekly journal. He fondly imagines and astutely declares that our remarks on that particular subject, were evidently intended as a reply to an article in the weekly of the weekly, and then proceeds to demolish his own hypothesis by citing discrepancies which show its absurdity. For whereas the EXAMINER'S article referred specially to the remarks of Tory journals concerning the writ for Algoma, the weekly declares that its former production was particularly based on "the 35th Section of the Act of Confederation," and this is the kind of logic for notice of which by the EXAMINER its producer aches! Well, now that the longed for attention has been vouchsafed, it is quite possible that the weakly will display still wilder flights. In order therefore, to furnish some ballast, and give the weakly a chance to build an intelligent and judicious argument, if it can, we shall consider briefly its stand upon the rights guaranteed by the Imperial Act it calls the "Act of Confederation" and "our Magna Charter." That Act was in force when the Ontario Act which we mentioned in our reference to the howls of the Tory press was introduced in the Legislature, discussed and passed. If the Provincial Act is so constructed as in any way to conflict with the Imperial Act, as the weakly hints as strongly as a weakly can, is it not strange that some of the wiseacres of the Opposition did not discover the fact when the Bill was before the House? Strange too that Mr. Scott, with all his legal acumen, and great aptitude for the interpretation of statutes did not see and point out this blot on legislation since he has been in Parliament! Truly his organ is laying out plenty of work for Mr. Scott during the session that commences to-day. By the time he reconciles the terms of those Acts in accordance with the views of the weakly journal devoted to his interests, kicks up a bobbery with his namesake in the Attorney General's office, complains about the wreckless expenditure of the Administration, including railway grants, Municipal Loan Fund disbursement, &c. he will have little time or chance to further or get favors for the important line of projected railway of which he is President.

Now that we have noticed the weakly journal's very puney remarks about the end of the Parliamentary term, we will offer one suggestion. It is that when it next treats of the date at which a four years' term should end, it would be well to take into consideration the time at which that four years' term may begin. Such little things as these may not seem to the great-minds of writers on weakly journals of much account, but it is well to remember that ordinary mortals have strong prejudices concerning trifles of that kind, and one must humour people in such matters in order to convince them.

TAX GRAND JUNCTION RAILWAY.

Here are some extracts from the report of Mr. Hollingshead, of the Grand Trunk Railway, who lately inspected the Grand Junction line:—

"For the first two or three miles "the road is unballasted; thence "to the Junction there is a little "ballast, but the road requires surfacing "and lining."

"It would be quite safe to run a train "over the lines in their then condition at "a speed not to exceed twelve miles per "hour and nine miles an hour around the "sharp curves near Moira Lake, provided "that the running be all done by day.

"The embankments are narrow and not "properly sloped; the cuttings not properly sloped and ditched; the ties are "poor, and many wanting; very little "ditching done."

"Seven or eight culverts require either "trestles or stringers, and the Moira "bridge requires screwing up."

"From Madoc to Eldorado the rails are "45 lbs iron from the Great Western, "some of it a little the worse for wear."

"The track is rough in many places "from lack of surfacing. The cuttings are "spoken of as being too narrow, but few "in number, whilst the embankments "are few and low, and too narrow."

"There is no engine house nor are "there any tanks. The engines at present "draw their water from ditches."

"The portion of the Grand Junction "from the junction to Stirling (5 miles) "will not, in the opinion of Mr. Hollingshead, be fit to run trains over this "winter."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

And now we learn that Peter T., son of Hon Isaac Buchanan, of Hamilton, has received an appointment in the Department of the Interior. That's the style of "economy" that is practised now-a-days at Ottawa —dismissing a Reformer and appointing two Tories in his place. Great is humbug!

The report that the contract for the construction of the Georgian Bay Branch of the Canada Pacific Railway has been cancelled, is denied by the North Star, a paper published at Parry Sound, which says :—

We know to a certainty that the work is being vigorously pushed forward; that over twenty miles of the road have been graded out one hundred feet wide; and that the contractor passed through our village a few days ago with additional supplies for carrying on operations during the winter months.

This news though gratifying to the people of north-eastern Ontario, and to generous minded Canadians elsewhere, will be disappointing to those small-souled persons who look with envy and distrust upon any work that does not immediately benefit their pet projects. It is a pity that men cannot be Canadians in Dominion matters, instead of [illegible]

[illegible] at joint? No. No! We must give the organ credit for its true inwardness on this point. It is not delighted at the election of Mr. Morris.

As the people of Belleville are greatly interested in the Grand Junction railway, and as their by-law granting aid to the line was made conditional on the completion of the road to this town, it would be well to consult them in reference to the proposed change of route. We would suggest that a deputation consisting of representatives of the Toronto and Ottawa Railway Company, of Peterborough county, of this town, of the village of Norwood, and if possible of the Midland Railway, be sent to confer with Belleville town council on this important question. It would be well too, that the townships of Hastings interested in the matter should be taken into the conference.

Will those Conservatives who with a declaration of total disinterestedness from a party point of view, propose the election of Mr. Scott by acclamation in the West Riding prove their position by a simple test? Their plea for Mr. Scott's unopposed return is that the Toronto & Ottawa Railway scheme may be furthered. As a guarantee of the genuineness of that plea will they also advocate the election by acclamation in the East Riding of an active promoter of the Toronto & Ottawa Railway who is a Reformer? It is a very easy question, and need not give rise to any shuffling. Anything but a prompt "yes" will mean "no."

Some one is going to a deal of unnecessary bother in circulating privately an extract from a Toronto sheet in which the Globe is charged with carrying out its "usual unfair, cowardly policy," by omitting from the report of the meeting of the Manufacturers' and Industrial Association, the statement, (was it boast or complaint?), of the Treasurer that all Mr. Fraser had received in two years had been $520; and out of this he had paid his own expenses. If the Globe had followed the Mails example, and said that only $400, instead of $520, had been paid to Mr. Fraser for his two years services and disbursements, it would have deserved censure; and, moreover, would have placed the Manufacturers' Association in a still more unenviable position than that in which it now stands. As for Mr. Fraser; if $520 is all he expects to get from the Association for his services, he was certainly inadequately paid. His relations to the Association are plainly enough acknowledged. Whatever he got it is certain that he was sent round the country at the expense of the Manufacturers, to advocate their cause. Dare he or his employers give the details of the bargain?

The Sarnia Observer says :—When your Conservative neighbor, rising fresh from the study of Senator Macpherson's latest criticism of Ontario finances, remarks that Mr. Mowat has not only squandered the surplus left by Mr. Sandfield Macdonald, but he has been spending annually more than he received in revenue, and that direct taxation must soon be resorted to, ask him how it is that the Ontario Premier could expend the old surplus, pay out yearly more than he received in revenue and still have the surplus left? He will likely reply that Mr. Mowat must have robbed somebody, or burgled a bank, or something of that sort, for that is about the style of argument our opponents use when the facts are so plainly opposed to their assertions. What the Ontario Government and the Reform party of the Province generally have to be proud of is the fact that notwithstanding the vast drain upon the treasury occasioned by the increasing business of the Province; by bonusing railways to the extent of $2,035,960, by the distribution of $3,117,325 of surplus funds to municipalities, and assistance to municipalities for drainage purposes to the extent of $328,380, the government still holds a clear surplus of $4,752,799. There is no getting over this fact.

The Late P. A. Tremblay, M. P.

Mr Pierre Alexis Tremblay, member of the Dominion House of Commons for Charlevoix, and editor of L'Ecloireur, of Quebec, died in that city at 4. 10 on Saturday afternoon. Mr. Tremblay was born in December, 1827, was educated at Quebec, and after completing his studies embraced the profession of a civil engineer. He was an unsuccessful candidate for Chicoutimi and Saguenay at the general election in 1867, but subsequently represented the constituency in the Canadian assembly from January, 1865, until the Union, and again from 1867 till the general election in 1872, when he was returned for Charlevoix. Mr. Tremblay was unseated on petition in 1875, his seat being subsequently filled by Hon. H L. Langevin. At the last general election in September, he was again returned. He had been ailing for some time past, and his death has of late been almost daily expected by his friends.

THE FENELON FALLS CLERICAL SCANDAL.

ANOTHER CHAPTER

The particulars of the scandal in which the late pastor of the Baptist congregation at Fenelon Falls, Kenneth Duncan McDiarmid, and the daughter of one of the most respected residents of the village, were implicated, with McDiarmid's confession, his resignation of the charge and subsequent departure from the village which was precipitated by the threat of indignant residents, are already known to our readers. The second chapter in this scandal was enacted on Saturday, the 28th ultime, when McDiarmid, who suddenly made his appearance in the village the night previous, was arrested and sentenced by Mr. James Dickson, J. P., to goal for three months or a fine of $25 and costs for carrying fire-arms, and in default of having procured sureties in the amount of $1,000 to keep the peace he was also committed for trial at the Quarter Sessions for threatening the life of his wife. He arrived at the goal on Saturday, and not having been sentenced to hard labour, has donned the regulation prison attire of black and grey, and enjoys the freedom of one of the wards in company with two other prisoners—an idiot and a vagrant. He acknowledges his guilt in connection with the young lady, and makes profession of great regret. He gives the following account of his doings since his departure from the Falls in the spring up to his arrest on Friday. After leaving the village he went to Toronto and got employment in a boot and shoe store. He corresponded regularly with his wife until the latter part of July, when she, through, as he says, the advice of false friends, ceased writing to him. The unmanly cruelty which he was suffering, and the separation from his family, to whom he professed to be attached, combined to make him unhappy, and he finally came to the conclusion that he would go to Fenelon Falls and get some [illegible]

THE CANADA PACIFIC RAILWAY

There is not the slightest reason to doubt that the Government will change the route of the Canada Pacific Railway from Burrard Inlet to Bute Inlet. Those who should be well informed on the matter make no secrets of the Government's intentions, and in defence of the proposed change, claim that the cost of construction will not be materially increased, as it is not at present intended to construct any bridge across the straits, but to adopt a system of transference by means of ferries similar to that adopted at Sarnia and Windsor, and for many years at Black Rock. The Government, it is said, has not at present determined upon any course to be pursued in regard to the "compensation" railway demanded by those Mainland people interested in the Burrard Inlet route. It is rumoured, but with no apparent authority, that it is proposed to change the Thunder Bay terminus of the Canada Pacific Railway from the Kaministiquia River to Prince Arthur's Landing.

The Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, JAN. 9, 1879.

LOCAL NEWS.

Appointments.—We observe by the Canada Gazette, that H. H. Smith and R. W. Erratt have been appointed Official Assignees for the County of Peterborough.

Runaways.—Runaways have been of frequent did occurrence in town for the past two weeks The number this week has been like the "Heath-en Chinee's" card playing. "quite frightful to see."

Convalescent.—We are pleased to learn that Sheriff Hall, who has for some time past been seriously ill, is now recovering rapidly, and is expected soon to be able to attend to his official duties.

The Press.—The Cobourg Sentinel has under its new management been enlarged to an eight paged paper. It contains considerably more reading matter than formerly, and should we suppose, be more acceptable to its readers.

Social.—A social in aid of the funds of the Charlotte Street Methodist Sunday School, will be held to-morrow evening, at the residence of Mrs. Geo. A. Cox. An interesting programme is promised, and a pleasant evening may be expected.

Poultry Association.—The meeting of the members of the Peterborough Poultry Association will be held on Friday evening, January 10, in the Police Court Room, instead of on Thursday, as formerly announced. A full meeting is desired.

Board of Audit.—The Board of Audit for the passing of accounts connected with the Administration of Justice will meet in the County Treasurer's office on Monday next, the 13th inst., at 11 o'clock a.m. Those interested will govern themselves accordingly.

Property Owners' Association.—A meeting of the Property Owners' Association was held in the Police Court room on Tuesday evening, for reference to our counsel proceedings the pith of the meeting may be obtained in the remarks of Messrs. Burnham and Mills.

Wrinkle Special.—To-morrow evening the members of Carswell Lodge will hold an oyster supper, and wrinkle social in their hall over Garvey's store. A similar entertainment held a few weeks ago gave such satisfaction that a splendid time is looked forward to at this one.

Personal.—Messrs. Hall & Ostrom are now in occupation of the old post-office building, having the front part fitted up as an office and shipping room, and the rear part as a "comfy room." This change will give them a great deal more room and better accommodation in their "biscuit room."

Y. C. and T. B. Hall.—The union social held under the auspices of the Young Canadians and Temtion Boys of this town, which came off on New Year's eve, in Bradburn's Hall, was decidedly a success. About seventy couples participated in the evenings enjoyment, which was kept up till long after the wee sma' hours had passed. Supper was served in the Charlotte House, and reflected credit on Mr. Chonte as a caterer.

An Aristocratic Mouse.—A mouse's nest was recently found, the material of which it was constructed having been selected with great taste. It included a lady's collar with cambric centre and lace edging, and several yards of lace, two and four inches wide. The nest had evidently been abandoned by the occupant, whose income was not sufficient to justify living in such a style as would be required in such a cosly residence.

Surprise.—The Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Malhern were the recipients of a superb easy chair, a beautiful card basket and several other articles, on New Year's day, from the young people of the Baptist Church, over which Mr. Malhern is pastor. Such acts have a great influence in cementing the ties of affection between Minister and congregation, and this especial one is indicative of the high esteem in which both the reverend gentleman and his amiable lady are held by those under his spiritual charge.

The Canada Educational Monthly and School Chronicle: edited by Mr. G. Mercer Adam, Toronto, promises to be an excellent magazine, devoted to the interests of schools and teachers, and aiming besides at a high standard of literary excellence. The name of the editor, who has all his life been connected with literature, and who is well known as a forcible and graphic writer, furnishes a guarantee that the Monthly will be ably written and conscientiously edited, and we cannot therefore doubt that it will be attended by a large and gratifying measure of success. It is published at 15 cents a number, or $1.50 per annum.

A New Health Almanac.—We have just received from the publishers the Illustrated Annual of Phrenology and Health Almanac for 1879, 72 pp., price 20 cents. This publication should be a necessity in all well-regulated families, for it is full of valuable reading matter on [illegible] Phrenology, Health, Human Nature, Diet, etc. This number, in addition to [illegible] poem, beautifully executed, etc., contains many practical suggestions; notes on observation, cure of the eyes, clothing, heart disease, dyspepsia, constipation, neuralgia, cure and force, dyspepsia, etc., with portraits and characters of Rev. Dr. Talmage, John Bennett Mitchell, Charles Macklin Foster, hydrotherapy and electricity, Mitchell, the murderer of Central Park, [illegible] of Rector Hamilton Disston, [illegible] Bell the brutal fast man out Paris—Canada is becoming milder, and each successive care put under cultivation only added to the torrid [illegible] in store for us. The opening up of the present winter gave promise that we were to have another easy time, so far as the providing of winter clothing was concerned. But a change has come. The winter is scarce yet half gone, and we have been favored with two storms to find parallels for which upon the memory of the oldest inhabitant to a high degree. From the Atlantic to the Rocky Mountains the story is the same—deep snow, drifts high piled, and traffic everywhere dulp. ed.

"Swearing Off."—There is a good deal of fun poked at the great American custom of "swearing off" on New Year's day, yet there are very few people who do not make some sort of good resolution on the first of the year. The trouble is that they generally undertake too big a contract, for too long a time. A man may undertake to keep a diary, to quit swearing, to use no tobacco, to give up stimulants in every form, never so quarrel with anybody, to get up early, to go to church sometimes, to abstain from cheating, not to bet on elections, and a dozen other commendable things, and all this for a whole year, bliss off—as Shakespeare remarks—more than he can chew. The trouble lies in the extraordinary conceit of mankind. There are very few men but believe they can do just about what they have a mind to. This it is needless to remark, is a mistake. If Satan loves an idle man, there is no doubt he has a great affection for the person who undertakes resolutions on New Year's day, for the person is sure not to keep them, and the result always leaves a balance in the sulphurous gentleman's favor. And yet this would be rather a poor world if nobody made any good resolutions. So it is to be hoped that all who receive at the beginning of this year will receive wisely and not too well. Perhaps it would be better to swear off in instalments, say a week or two at a time. It is hard to see why the first of January should be chosen as a day of reform any more than the first of any other month.

Steering Skiffs.—Every reader of the EXAMINER should this week pay special attention to the advertisement of Mr. John Elder. This establishment has so thoroughly established its reputation as one of the most complete dry good houses of the county, that such an announcement as they this week make is likely to prove considerable attention. Mr. Elder is well-known as a real live business man, who has built up a very large trade, and who will never be satisfied simply "to rest on his oars," but who must go on increasing his trade and securing his customers from more distant parts than even in the past. When "hard times" exist, Mr. Elder's motto seems to be, "Cut the times, within the limits able to do by cash and judicious buying, and less than last his business connection on the increase. He has on hand at present a very large stock of fresh goods, which, on the system in advertising, he is determined to sell at once for cash, in order to close up the stock and allow room for new purchases. His motto is to keep [illegible] and sell at small profits, and by this means secure a large share of the public patronage. He intends in future no note or apology shall be required from the parents or guardians of any child who may have been absent from school without leave of teacher; but in all such cases of absence the teacher shall take the earliest opportunity to give notice either verbally, or in writing to the parents or guardians of the child of such absence from school. Lost.

TOWN COUNCIL.

Council met on Tuesday evening last. Present—His Worship the Mayor and Councillors Cahill, McBride, Ormond, Paterson, Hughes, Telland, Douglas, Rutherford, Carlisle and Deane.

The minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From E. Burnham, ammending that a deputation from the Property Owners' Association had been appointed to wait upon them in reference to securing amendments to the Toronto & Ottawa Railway.

From the Chief and Assistant Constables, reports of the cases brought before the Police Court during the past year.

From the Treasurer a statement of the receipts and expenditure for the month of December.

From J. B. Collins and Octave Benavais, in reference to assessments.

From Jeremiah Ibbs asking to be allowed to work out his taxes.

A [illegible] were presented, and referred to the Finance Committee.

Mr. E. [illegible]NHAM, a member of the Property Owners' Association, addressed the Council in reference to the amended Act of the Toronto & Ottawa Railway. He said the original Act provided that the debentures should not be issued till one million dollars of Municipal aid had been secured, and that in the event of further time being required to accomplish this, they could extend the time from year to year, but by the amended Act the Council had the power to extend the time for any number of years, thus virtually leaving us with this debt hanging over us, and preventing our giving assistance to any other scheme. What we want is to have the Act amended so as to have the time extended from year to year and for only a year, and also to have clauses eight repealed at least so far as the Town of Peterborough is concerned. We would also like to have a clause added providing for the Town having a director on the Board. Another clause we want is that the Company have not the power to sell the Charter without the sanction of the Town of Peterborough. The Grand Trunk is a competing line and would willingly give a hundred thousand dollars to get rid of it. If this were done, while we might not be called upon to pay it, our hands would be tied and we could not assist any other road. He was a decided friend of the road, but he did not believe in the people of the Town being placed in a false position.

Mr. MILLS asked to have the matter decided upon to-night, as the time previous to the meeting of the Legislature was short.

The MAYOR said it remained with the Council whether it would be decided to-night.

Councillor PATTERSON asked if the President and Directors of the Railroad had been consulted about the change; as Mr. Scott had at a previous meeting agreed to make any changes wanted.

Mr. MILLS said Mr. Scott had promised to give him in writing a statement of what he would do, but as far nothing had been received from him. The present Company might be honest enough, but if the Charter was sold, the succeeding Company might not be so honest, and our position be greatly changed.

Mr. SCOTT desired to correct a misapprehension of Mr. Mills. He undertook at the last meeting of the Council to act in conjunction with the Property Owners' Association in obtaining legislation. His opinion he had given was incorrect. He suggested subsequently to Mr. Mills that a new by-law be submitted with [illegible] upon second thought he had thought Mr. M[illegible] wanted to get him into a t[illegible] to have nothing to do with him. He was glad to discuss this matter with Mr. Burnham, who treated it in a spirit entirely different from what Mr. Mills had done at the last meeting of the Council. Mr. Burnham had not expressed himself of the same opinion as Mr. Mills. He would produce the opinions of the best legal talent in the Dominion that the opinion which he had given was correct, and that the act had reference to the time limit and not to the payment of the money. He was glad that Mr. Burnham had not made use of the same language that had been made at the last meeting, that he as member of the Legislature, and President of the Railroad had smuggled the Bill through. What he did was to give power to the Council to keep alive the Act. In almost every charter given to railway companies for years the same clause had been inserted. The passage of railway legislation was well guarded in the House, as the chairman of the Railway Committee was a member of the administration of the day. The right of the town to have a director on the Board was a fair one, but the charter of the Muron & Quebec did not provide for it, and it had not been inserted in the Toronto & Ottawa by-law. As to the sanction of the people of Peterborough to the selling of the charter, it should be remembered that the Toronto & Ottawa passed through more territory than the town and County of Peterborough, and that if Peterborough was to have the whole leg other places would not touch it. If the people of Peterborough have a mind to endorse the present promises of the sub.ment, let them appoint others in whom they have. It was impossible to obtain legislation this session as the House met this week. As to the charge of his going back on the work shops being located in Peterborough, he explained that what he promised was that the Company would locate the principal shops had to be located here, employing not less than 150 men, but that all above this number would be divided equally between the three places.

Mr. BURNHAM said he did not impugn any wrong motives to Mr. Scott or any member of the Board. The time should be extended year by year instead of indefinitely as the amended Act provides. He also thought the Act allowed the Council to pay over our bonus before the million of dollars had been secured.

Mr. SCOTT still maintained that Mr. Burnham took a wrong view of the meaning of the clause, and was willing to leave it to the highest legal talent of the country.

Mr. BURNHAM believed Mr. Scott would do what was right. He was prepared to accept the advice which he promised to obtain.

Moved by Councillor DEANE, seconded by Councillor CARLISLE.—That the Toronto and Ottawa Railway Company obtain the best legal authority in the Province as to the effect of this Act and report to this Council.—Carried.

HIGH SCHOOL TROUBLES.

Moved by Councillor PATERSON, seconded by Councillor DEANE.—That Geo. E. Shaw and John McClelland be appointed Grammar School Trustees.

In amendment, moved by Councillor OSMOND, seconded by Councillor YELLAND.—That Wm. Towle be appointed a High School Trustee.

The amendment on being put was carried and the original motion lost.

Mr. Geo. E. Shaw was then appointed on the other Trustee.

Mr. JAMES STEVENSON addressed the Council in reference to school matters, after which the Council adjourned till next Monday night.

—Our local contemporary, like many other Tory organs, displays a good deal of brass just now, but not any more brain,—nor indeed any more sense.

—Received in to establish a "secret service fund" for the use of detectives. This is a good thing—for the detectives.

—The Peterborough Review rebukes Mr. Stewart for not having supported the National Policy. Unless the signs are deceptive, the N. P. will be so unpopular before the local elections that the Tory papers will deny having ever supported it.—London Advertiser.

—Women resemble books. When first published they are easily sold, and fetch a good price. Both in their first editions are read by plain people. Next year both appear in a more convenient getting up to be fashionable. The other they grow the more valuable they kept because the volumes of the renowned explorations and deft readers that are rampant in or Dominion. Then they are sought after by the curious and collectors, and command a high price. Sometimes an old edition is found to be worth more than a new one.

THORNHILL.

The Rev. I. Campbell the Recipient of an Address and Presentation.

The following from the Richmond Hill Herald speaks for itself:—

ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION.—On Christmas eve, the Presbyterian Manse, Richmond Hill, was the scene of a very pleasant occurrence, namely, the presentation of an address and many very valuable articles to the Rev. I. Campbell, by the lady members of his Thornhill Congregation. The [illegible] was conducted by Mr. A. Gallemough, and Mr. Joseph Cox, read the following ADDRESS.

To the Rev. I. Campbell:

SIR.—The Ladies of the Thornhill branch of the Presbyterian Church, having decided upon manifesting, in some tangible form, their warm regard for your personal and professional worth, they take this, the earliest opportunity of presenting you with these tokens of their friendship towards you; and they sincerely and heartily pray God that you may be long spared to preside over your present flock. Signed on behalf of the ladies,

JOSEPH COX.

The address was appropriately replied to by Mr. Campbell, after which the baskets full of refreshments were unloaded, and the very social evening continued.

On Sunday, December 22nd, the Anniversary Services of the C. M. Sunday School were conducted by the Rev. Mr. Campbell. The rev. gentleman's discourses were able and appropriate, and the singing by the children was very acceptable.

Life Dreams.

The world goes surging to and fro,
The wheels of life are turning,
We meet to part and meet no more,
And leave our hearts still yearning.

Life's transient day is but a dream,
A quickly flying vapor,
And soon the spark of life is done
As mists the evening's taper.

The sun shines bright its golden light
Upon life's river sitting,
While swiftly on and ever on,
Our curious boats are drifting.

And as we float adown life's stream
We pause but may not stay,
To bid adieu to scenes beloved,
And islands bright and fair.

But soon, "the isle of long ago,"
Must on the memory linger,
For towards its sad and lonely coast
Life points with nevermore fingers.

For on its hallowed banks of yore,
Our treasures deep we buried,
Then from its "isles" blessing shore
Our silent footsteps hurried.

And as our boats float on and on,
Adown life's mystic river,
Our minds brood still o'er memories past,
And scenes now gone forever.

And still the world goes to and fro,
The wheels of life are turning,
We meet and part, and meet no more
And leave our hearts still yearning.

LOST IN THE SNOW.

A CHRISTMAS TALE.

Lelia returned to Camden Villas much dispirited.

'I'll tell you what you must do, missy,' said Mrs. Crabbe. 'Try a 'orspital!'

'A hospital!' almost shrieked poor Lelia. 'My dear mother in a hospital! Oh, Mrs. Crabbe!'

'Well, Miss Cal'den, 'taint for such as you to turn up your nose at a 'orspital. My sister's 'usband's neice, who was well-to-do herself, went into one by choice; and so did Mrs. Collins as lived at the shop opposite, and knew as she'd get better 'tendance and skill there nor at home with only Collins and all them boys, so I don't see that you've any call to set your back up at 'orspitals, miss. You're tired now, so I won't be 'ard on you; but to-morrow morain' you must try at one o' them places for your ma'. You're welcome to bide here, but I can't have no fever patients. Doctor Nash will tell you all about the 'orspital when he comes to-day, and if you don't ask him I shall.'

This was decisive. So when the doctor came, a gentlemanly young man, who looked very intently and admiringly at Lelia, also, with tears in her eyes, told him of the landlady's cruel edict, and of her only place of refuge for her sick mother—the hospital!

'They will not let me be with her, I know, and it will break my heart!' she sobbed.

'Hush—hush, my dear young lady!' he said, much pained. 'Mrs. Calderon must not be moved on any account. I will speak to Mrs. Crabbe as I go out.'

Without much hope from this kind intervention, Lelia thanked the good doctor very warmly, and to her surprise, the landlady came up stairs soon after his departure, and knocked at the door. Lelia, her eyes red with weeping, responded.

'Oh,' said Mrs. Crabbe, a little awkwardly, 'I just looked in to tell you that as Doctor Nash says as your ma' is too ill to be moved, and her death 'ill lie at my door if it's attempted, I've been a thinkin' it over, and have concluded to let you stay.' And she bustled away without waiting for the thanks that Lelia had begun to pour forth.

But when she got to the landing window above, she took from her pocket five bright, new sovereigns, which she leisurely counted from one hand to the other with a glistening eye.

These might possibly have served to soften Mrs. Crabbe's obdurate heart.

CHAPTER IX.

'Dr. Nash, we have to thank you for so much kindness, such unremitting attention, that indeed you must set down as anything more,' cried poor Lelia, as some three weeks afterwards, when her mother could be moved from the bed to the couch, she stood alone with the physician in the adjoining room. On the table were grapes and flowers, towards which she pointed.

'Me?' and he laughed. 'You have not to thank me for anything more than medicine and attendance, Miss Calderon.'

'Oh, indeed, doctor, we have!' persisted Lelia. 'You did not disown the real turtle soup, and now these further gifts? You are too good!'

'I did not disown what you accuse me of, Miss Calderon, because I was then in honor bound not to do so. But you are not my debtor,' he answered, gravely, and held out his hand as farewell.

'Then to whom are we?' she paused, bewildered.

'Ah, that I am not at liberty to divulge.'

And he hurried away, leaving Lelia greatly puzzled.

She was on excellent terms with the young doctor, having learnt, through Mrs Crabbe, that he was engaged to be married, and therefore his evident admiration of herself remained a harmless and natural ebullition.

'From whom do all these delicacies, luxuries come?' she mused. 'If Sir Warren—But no, he cannot know where we are.'

And she heaved a sigh, for she loved him, brief as had been their acquaintance, and Quixotic as had been her rejection of him.

There were moments when Lelia's heart went forth to her lover; when all its pulses throbbed for him; when, could he have stood beside her and again have pleaded his cause, she would have yielded.

Now her mother was better, Lelia was bent on seeking some employment. She had been a daily governess, but this severe illness had broken her engagement. She could not leave Mrs. Calderon to be cared by strangers, and people soon filled up her place in London, teeming with young teachers.

Christmas was drawing near—at least, November was almost ended—and very dirty, foggy and dreary were her expeditions in search of employment.

But for one reason, Lelia rejoiced at the dull weather—it hid her poor, shabby attire. The black gloves, on the small, delicate hands, were stitched and mended; the black stuff dress terribly patched beneath the little jacket, so mean and poor. Yet, with all this evidence of poverty, Lelia Calderon shone forth not only as a strikingly pretty girl, but as a well-bred lady.

As she turned homewards, spiritless and unsuccessful from one of these expeditions, she was overtaken by a dense yellow fog—no unusual event in our great metropolis at that time of the year, but alarming, terrifying to the extreme, to poor Lelia, wholly unused to these local epidemics.

For a certain distance she journeyed on bravely; then, when still a mile from home, in an unknown region, she could not read the names of the streets, nor discern anything coming in her direction.

'I dare-say I am close to home,' she cheered herself by saying, and crept on, keeping close to the railings in one of the West-end squares, where she stood and shivered, uncertain whether a time of peril had not arrived for her, in the vain hope that the fog would lift.

[illegible] Lelia, shaking and trembling in [illegible] terror at her situation, spoke these words through his closed teeth. The tone in which she uttered was courageous and strong; that spoke beyond to them.

A Young Man's Description of a Turkish Bath.

(From the Hartford Times.)
Married [illegible]
Now take your choice!
Either [illegible] never doubt it;
Just go into a Turkish Bath and you about it.

First of all, you're shown to a cell;
Then you're told to undress and ring;
Next comes some one and rubs you all over [illegible]
Then you're dressed in a sheet,
Then led [illegible] to feet;
Again [illegible] use of your own,
If you [illegible] it turns out pretty well grown,
For you'll find, that you never really [illegible],
Then [illegible] rather narrow.)

Then [illegible] again in solemn procession,
Like a [illegible] sea, going to confession;
And you [illegible] on a marble slab—
[illegible] is hotter, or may be a crab.

To state that the room is extremely hot,
The sweats of [illegible] over-stepeth not.
Pretty soon you begin to melt,
And you wonder how Shadrack and Meshack felt.

Then you're put in a room that's hotter still,
And here, you really begin to grill—
And the perspiration bursts to flow,
And you think of your Aunt-ocracy.
There you lie, and think of your sins—
And all you've heard it will do for skins—
Till your very eyeballs begin to burn—

Then the pretty quiet comes and says it's your turn.

And then stretched out, as if you were dead,
On a steamy, slippery, marble bed,
With a rubber pillow under your head.
You are splashed, and soaped, and scoured and rubbed.
In fact, most comprehensively scrubbed—
And last, somewhat to your consternation,
Are played on, by hose, like a conflagration.

Then, tucked away in a clean, white nest,
You can go to sleep or can lie and rest;
Or everything in the whole arena
Is as clean as if it at home—or cleaner;
And when at last you dress for the street,
You feel so supple, and nice, and neat,
And even your temper has grown so sweet,
You feel no longer cold or hunger—
And you look at least 10 to ten years younger,
And be you fat as a sow, or thin as a lath,
Forever you'll bless the Turkish Bath.

LAKEFIELD.

—Clear.
—Cold.
—Good sleighing.
—Lively times.
—Quite a quantity of grain has been brought in these last few days.
—Large quantities of wood are being brought in and offered for sale, and quite a number pass through on their way to Peterboro', where they obtain 25cts. more per cord.
—A number of our village boys have started a skating rink on their own account on the pond below the old tannery, and excite the envy of some of the older ones who have not the pluck to go and do likewise.
—A report has been current for the past week in the village that Boyd & Irwin lost eight teams, and Gilmour & Co., eleven, a few days ago, by going through the ice at their respective dumps. I do not know how true this is, but give it for what it is worth. No doubt the ice on the lakes is very bad, and we will hear of many catralties this winter.
—G. Strickland of this village has started a shanty up in Harvey. He has sent in some 70 men under charge of Mr. John McCoy, and they will get out all the logs possible between now and spring, and will put them in the water mill here, which will furnish employment to quite a number who would otherwise have to go elsewhere.
—Messrs. Wm. Orr and John Todd have secured the use of the water mill for the winter, and are now engaged in cutting up all custom logs offered, which will be a boon to the farmers in this vicinity.
—The election of two school trustees to take the place of Messrs. Clarin and Graham, whose term of office had expired, took place on Wednesday, and caused a little more excitement than that of the Council election. Politics were more or less brought to bear by both parties, a circumstance to be regretted. The following is the state of the polls at the close:—W. C. Sanders, 86; John Clarin, 73; Robert Graham, 68; Dr. Armour, 33.
—On Tuesday evening the 7th inst., the following brethern were installed as officers of Clementi Lodge F. & A. M., No 313 G. R. C.:—W. M., Bro. John Hull; S. W., W. Bro. Dr. Caldwell; J. W., W. Bro. Edward Sawtell; Secty., W. Bro. Thomas Secret; Treas., W. Bro. Robert Graham; S. D. W. Bro. Fredrick Barlee; J. D., W. Bro. Geo. Cochrane; S. S., W. Bro. Robert B. Hall; J. S., W. Bro. Geo. Choate; I. G., W Bro. Fred. Lillycrap; Tyler, (pro tem) W. Bro. George L. Sheppee. After the installation the members of the Lodge and their friends to the number of about fifty sat down to an oyster supper, laid out in the Temperance Hall by the ladies. Speeches, music and songs followed, and a pleasant evening was spent by all, until the junior Warden's toast "Happy to meet, Sorry to part—Happy to meet again," brought the Festivity to a close.

BOBCAYGEON.

THE STORM.—Among the many incidents of last week was a very narrow escape from the most serious consequences by Mr. Capel and Mr. Hazlitt. They started into on Thursday afternoon to drive to Peterborough, with a pair of high-spirited and mettlesome horses. They had just started when the great storm commenced, and before they had [illegible] a couple of miles they encountered the blast in all its fury. The roads almost instantly drifted up with snow; the night came on an hour before its time; snow descended heavily an icy gale blew from the north, and the track became invisible. They sustained several upsets, but still pushed ahead, hoping the storm would subside. At length, on approaching Hunter's Hill the team got off the track, and dashed towards the lake into a level plain of snow concealing a quantity of prostrate trees. The team dashed madly forward and got their fore feet over a fixed hillock, each horse being balanced on his stomach. The sleigh stuck fast and precipitated their getting entirely over the log. Mr. Capel went to the horses heads, and tried to restrain them, while Mr. Hazlitt strove to free the sleigh from its [illegible]. Their efforts were unavailing, and the horses were [illegible] to their fury. At length [illegible] and the horses were [illegible] and [illegible] pulled, and it was [illegible] that [illegible] and [illegible] had [illegible] and [illegible] had [illegible] and [illegible] had

The Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, JANY. 16th, 1879.

THE OPENING OF THE SESSION

The probabilities of the Session's business published in the EXAMINER a fortnight ago were quite correct as far as they went. The address was moved by Mr. Harcourt, and seconded by Mr. McLaws, the newly-elected members for Monck and West Elgin respectively. The maiden speeches of both these gentlemen were creditable to themselves and their constituents, as also to the Legislature and the country. The speech, after alluding to the depression and the growing trade of the Province in exports [illegible] facts, refers to the change of Governor-General, the coming of one daughter of our Queen, and the death of another. Then the closer questions of the Legislature are taken up. Congratulations are expressed at the settlement of the debt question in favor of Ontario, and of the Provincial boundaries. The actual business foreshadowed relates to the preservation of order, the administration of justice, the encouragement of settlement and enterprise in the new territory acquired, on municipal assessments, exemptions from local taxations, sanitary matters, artificial lighting, election trials, and voters' lists, school trustee elections, the cheapening of the jury systems, the Reformatory for women, and drainage. This, with the private bill legislation of which notice has been given, and the necessary attention to current business of the Province, will furnish work enough for a short session such as the present one promises to be.

GRAND JUNCTION RAILWAY.

On Saturday last a meeting was held at the Huffman House to make arrangements for some amalgamation of the interest of the Grand Junction and Toronto and Ottawa Railway Companies between Peterborough and Norwood. Messrs. Bickford, Cowan and Rugel were present on behalf of the Grand Junction, and Messrs. Scott and Deamble in the interests of the Toronto and Ottawa Railway, as were a number from Norwood and several prominent gentlemen of the Town. The Grand Junction representatives would come to no understanding to construct their road from the Narrows by Norwood to Peterborough, unless they became the owners of the road between those points To these terms, it is needless to say, the Directors of the Toronto and Ottawa Railway Company would not agree, and so the matter for the present ends. The Grand Junction people say they are bound to go to Hastings. From a history of the Grand Junction since its inception, given in the Globe of Monday, and that, too, from a Belleville standpoint, it is very evident that that young city is doomed to disappointment. The Belleville roads are now in the hands of speculators who will have their pound of flesh before they proceed one mile further than at present. There is iron enough on the roads to pay them, and all concerned may look and wait a long time before another dollar will be invested in it, unless Belleville can raise money to buy itself out of the difficulty. We confess that we are not disappointed in this state of affairs. From the first the Belleville promoters of railway projects have appeared to grapple with the projects undertaken.

CONSERVATIVE SELF-CONDEMNATION.

The country has heard much of late concerning the so-called offence of members of the Ontario Ministry speaking during the last election campaign in favor of Reform government at Ottawa. But what else could they in prominent members of the Liberal Party do? Had they remained silent the declaration would have been promptly made that they were ashamed to uphold their Ottawa brethren in the Dominion Parliament. Had they thus shown their gratitude to their Party upon every possible platform for the last seven years? Certainly, for it would definitely have been understood that silence on any matter on their part was the native language. Time is always more or less short. Why not the Liberals of the Dominion know that the Ontario Ministers are conscientiously tied down by their executive duties, they might complain that these gentlemen did not take a more active and extensive part in the Dominion elections. Set the same complaint is just as applicable to every member of the Liberal Party. Each did little, being confident of the righteous success of his Party. None imagined defeat, hence the feeling in the mind of all that even ordinary exertion—much less any undue influence—was unnecessary. Ministers of Ontario, as long as they have the right to vote at Dominion elections, have the right to speak on Dominion questions to the same extent as any other elector—always provided they do not neglect nor abuse their official position, and it is the duty of those who assess them of so doing to produce proof of so grave a charge. The contention against the mere fact of Ontario Ministers speaking on Dominion affairs is absurd enough outside the Legislature, but when it is introduced there it becomes doubly ridiculous. For instance, during the debate on the Address in the House of Assembly last Friday, Mr. Morris, the would be leader of the Opposition, moved the following amendment to the resoption of the second paragraph :—

"That this House, while deeply regretting that our country continues to suffer from a period of depression, is of opinion that such depression might have been mitigated by judicious legislative action, and further regrets that the members of the Executive Council of the Province of Ontario did during the recent elections to the House of Commons of Canada identify themselves with the policy of those who opposed legislative intervention tending to the relief of the suffering industries of the country."

Here, in addition to the abstract idea that Provincial Ministers should have their lips sealed in Dominion affairs, there is the plain introduction in the Legislature of questions that belong properly to the exclusive domain of the Dominion Parliament. Mr. Morris has plainly shown himself as the puppet of the Dominion Government. If this be the position of himself and his colleagues in opposition, what might be expected of them did they succeed in attaining the Ministerial side of the House? Thus, the very thing they would accuse others of doing, they themselves fall into. In no way can they now get out of the close connection, mutual assistance given each other by Conservatives in either House. It is a sorry position in which they have placed themselves; but it is their own act.

Mr. Scott's Position in the House

The Mail says :—

"Mr. Meredith, the Opposition leader, occupies the Hon. M. C. Cameron's old seat and Hon. Wm. Macdonald's seat has fallen to Mr. Leader. Next to Mr. Leader sits Hon. Alex. Morris in the seat which Mr. Leader has occupied during the Parliament. Mr. Parkhill, the new member for North Simcoe occupies the seat next to Mr. Morris."

We have always been ready to grant the member for West Peterborough that measure of credit his ability as a public man demand for him. Ever regarding him as in the very front of the Ontario Opposition, we had compared his claims for the leadership with those of the gentleman who has taken the position, arguing that either one of them should obtain it. The only objection to Mr. Scott as leader that we could discover, and which gave Mr. Meredith an advantage over him, was the former's lack of nervous energy We are therefore not surprised to find that Mr. Meredith has been preferred to him the leader, by the Conservative members of the Legislature. But we do wonder at the way in which Mr. Scott has been snubbed in addition to a total non-advancement of his name by his party in connection with the leadership. If not first, he certainly should have taken the second position, but this has also been with-held from him. Not only so, he has actually been set back by his own party, by having two new men put before him. This is hard, but Mr. Scott is himself very largely to blame for it. His want of "go" has not very unnaturally been set down as lack of courage by men in the House to whom he should be more than a rival. These in a former session did not hesitate to push him into a ridiculous position, and their success then only urges them to further set him down now, their thought evidently being that he dare not resent it. Why should Abraham Leader take a position in the House before W. H Scott? Leader, of whom even the Irish Canadian says :—

"That polished and brilliant statesman possesses one rare gift—a strength of lung by which he is declared the right man in the right place performing the functions of bellows to an organ; but the mention of his name in connection with a position in the Cabinet, not so say with its leadership, is carrying the comedy of errors which Sir John Macdonald has continued to perform since the 17th of September, into side-splitting farce."

Mr. Scott, as a gentleman, a lawyer, an orator, and a parliamentarian generally, should not in justice be compared to Leader. Yet the latter manages to keep himself forward, and to push Mr. Scott back. The only explanation we can offer for this absurd state of things is that Leader is too active for the more deliberate and also let us hope more conscientious member for West Peterborough. It is a great shame, however, that Mr. Scott should not be appreciated at something like his true value by his own party. Though Leader took the position of Lieutenant on the first day of the session, Mr. Scott retained his old place of fourth from the leader. The indignity was also placed upon him of having the members elect for East Toronto and South Simcoe, entirely new men in the House, placed between him and Leader. With all these going on, Mr. Scott is permitted to retain his old position. Yet we are asked to believe that his influence in the House is so great that his presence is essential to the carrying out of a certain project. If his own party thus snub him with impunity, where must be his influence upon his political opponents who constitute a majority of the House? But while we believe that his influence has been over stated, we feel indignantly certain that he has been unfairly dealt with by the members of his own party in the Legislature, either through too low an estimate or through jealousy, or both.

A PRETTY APOLOGY.

The weekly journal of this town will persist in discussing matters with which it has not made itself ordinarily familiar. This fault has led to the following rebuke by the Globe :

"The Peterborough Review charges the Ontario Government with furnishing the Globe with advance copies of the Public Accounts for 1877, which have not yet been laid before Parliament. The charge is absurd on the face of it. So far from it being on the first day of the session, as the editor of the Review Hamphrey's pamphlet, stated the account of the ordinary expenditure for 1877 For the information of the Review we may state that the abstract of receipts and expenditure brought down during the present session, which Mowat's misstatements which Sir John Macdonald has continued to perform since the 17th of September, into side-splitting farce."

"overlooked" the abstract referred to, though it has been usual to issue it from year to year. Evidently pleased at notice from the Globe, and probably feeling like the donkey who thought it an honour to be bested by a lord, the weekly tries hard to get another kick from the same source. It professes to be unable to understand where the Globe obtains "nearly $800,000 to be deducted from the ordinary expenditure of the year," though the amount $740,000, was right before the eyes of him who copied four items out of those that go to make it up. Now that the session has opened, the Globe will doubtless have more to do than enlighten the stage ignorance of the weekly journal of Peterborough.

EAST RIDING.

At a convention of the Conservative of East Peterborough, at Indian River, on Tuesday, Dr. O'Sullivan was tendered the nomination as Candidate for the party at the coming election. The doctor being absent the convention adjourned for a week awaiting his reply. The wire pullers of the party who know perfectly well that the doctor has no idea of again being a candidate—in fact has not the ghost of a chance if he should—doubtless made this strategic movement to pave the way for the journalistic aspirant who seeks the nomination. That portion of the East Riding electorate with which the doctor is more intimately connected, and upon whom he relies for his support, will not have so soon forgotten the treatment received at the hands of the rejected of West Peterborough in 1871, as to be hoodwinked into submissive following through the farcial form of a nomination to one of their co-religionists who has frequently expressed himself as adverse to farther political honors. We await the denouement.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Mr. George Guillett, Mayor of Cobourg, has received the nomination as Conservative candidate for the Legislative Assembly for the West Riding of Northumberland.

The Reformers of West Durham have chosen a worthy candidate for the Local Legislature, in the person of Dr. McLaughlin. He is a capital speaker, exceedingly popular with all classes of the community, and has a knowledge of public matters that many in Parliament might be proud to possess.

The Tory press seems to take delight in referring to Bismarck's being in favor of Protection, but they do not say that he has been snubbed by the German Parliament and people over this very question. Protection may suit the ideas of an autocratic mind like that of Bismarck; but not the lives of a free as well as an enlightened people.

Tory papers that, following the lead of Senator Macpherson, have been accusing the Ontario Government with creating a surplus, will now be somewhat embarassed by Mr. Meredith's first speech as leader of the Opposition. He so far admitted the existence of a surplus as to complain that the Ministry had not forshadowed in the Speech from the Throne a policy for its expenditure.

The division in the House at Toronto resulted in the Government being supported by a majority of nine. Ten members were absent, who may be classified thus; Government 7; Opposition 2; uncertain, 1. The latter would in all probability have voted with the Government, and thus the majority in a full house would be 15, full enough in such a small chamber to carry on the business of the Province.

The News complains that the present mail arrangements between this town and Lakefield will not permit of the answering of letters the same day they are received. It is particularly severe on the contractors for allowing the mails to lie over here from Saturday till Monday during the snow blockade instead of sending them on by sleigh. The News has a legitimate grievance, and handles it in a way likely to be popular with the citizens of Lakefield.

The interest Belleville is evincing in the Grand Junction Railway as an independent line and the steps being taken to secure further legislation in its favour, makes it the more imperative that a conference should be had between that city and this town and between the counties of Hastings and Peterborough. An understanding is especially desirable, a misunderstanding is more than possible unless averted.

Wm. H. Vanderbilt has surprised his competitors in Railway traffic, by perfecting facilities for shipping grain to Europe so that very little delay will be experienced at New York. Piers and elevators are being built, so that two ships can be loaded at once directly from through cars, in as short a time as at any other port, and at as little expense. Seven ships have been chartered all sailing under English colors. The Erie Railway has lately laid a third rail, and started the first narrow guage cars on Tuesday last. She is also arranging for better terminal facilities; all of which is of great financial advantage to the property interests of the metropolis.

Doctors are often called on to give evidence in courts as medical experts, and the Medical Times and Gazette gives the following qualifications, without which a physician will be apt to come out of the hands of a cross-examining counsel rather the worse for the operation :—

"He should be a first-class chemist, a sound physician, a skilful surgeon, an accomplished obstetrician; and should join to these qualifications a fair acquaintance with the collateral sciences, a little knowledge of law, much common sense, and a power of readily expressing technical matter in popular phraseology; and in the present state of our law courts, if he have the gift of incisive repartee, it will be an advantage.

APSLEY.

(From our own correspondent)

ELECTION.—Mr. James Golborne has been again re-elected Reeve. The following are the Councillors elected:—Messrs. D. Anderson, J. Scott, P. Shorten and Wm. Wilson.

HALIBURTON.

NEW REEVE.—A correspondent of the Lindsay Post says:—"The town recently hired in Ottawa by Mr. Beaubien for Mr. Boyd's situations are to come here by the overland route by way of Dwyer's Corners, and will make the trip from Renfrew to Haliburton in two days and a half. They leave their homes on Monday morning and reach Haliburton on Tuesday night, after the many years on the verge of the timber limit of this section, but the increase will in future be transported to Quebec for the fitting of canoes, and to Lindsay for the purchase of supplies.

THE ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

FRIDAY.

In the Ontario Legislature on Friday last the business of the day was the adoption of the address. The speeches of the mover and seconder were of the ordinary character of such speeches. Mr. Harcourt made a sound practical remark, when, in alluding to the commercial depression, he advocated as the true commercial policy the accumulating of small savings and a cautious avoidance of short roads to wealth. Mr. Meredith, the newly-elected leader of the Opposition, who, after making the usual complaint in regard to the meagreness of the bill of fare, and also charging the Government with extravagance, struck the key-note of the Opposition campaign for the coming election when he asked, "Who were "responsible for the general business de-"pression but the gentlemen opposite?" and he prophesied that when they of the Opposition in the next Parliament sat on the seats now occupied by the member of the Government there would be no cry of depression in the land. This is the same old story which Sir John Macdonald used with so much success, and which recoils vigorously upon those who conquer under it if they get into power to soon. It is no longer the Dominion Government that is to be held responsible for hard times, but the provincial ones. "If stocks have fallen thirty per "cent," says the Mail, "which they "have not—would they have risen if Mr. "Cartwright had been kept in power? "If grain has gone down, would Mr. "Cartwright's presence as Finance Min-"ister have kept it up?" The difference is that Mr. Cartwright never pretended that it would, while Sir John was very prodigal of promises which he has not even taken any steps to fulfil. How Mr. Meredith makes the same promises the fulfilment of which is due a year hence The address was then adopted and the House was adjourned till Monday.

MONDAY.

The debate on the Address was resumed by Mr. Lauder, who had the floor when the adjournment took place on Friday. He referred to the satisfactory nature of the paragraph concerning the growing trade in live stock and meats, and ventured to hope that the Government would foster that branch of commerce. He advised caution in legislating with regard to the new scientific discoveries which had not as yet been shown to be practicable, and he was also pleased that a measure for the purpose of rectifying the voters' lists was to be passed. He then reproached the members of the Government for having assisted the Ottawa Government during the election, as the time thus spent must have interfered with their duties as Ministers, for which they were highly paid. He complained of the increase of the expenditure, especially in view of the fact that the revenue arising from sale of timber limits was not out off, as there were no lands to license. He moved an amendment to the effect that the annual expenditure should be kept within the annual revenue, of the province. Mr. Parkhill, another member of the Opposition, as he afterwards explained in fulfilment of a promise given his constituents, spoke in favor of retrenchment, and moved in amendment to the amendment that the salaries of Ministers and indemnity of members be reduced. Mr. C. Fraser replied for the Government, maintaining that the surplus has been wisely expended, that the expenditure was not extravagant but the reverse, and pointed out that the Province of Ontario was the most prosperous of the provinces of the Dominion. He held that it would be unwise in every respect, with regard to the settlement of the New Territory, as well as the welfare of its employees, to reduce their salaries, which were small enough.

TUESDAY.

The debate on the address was resumed and was kept up to a very late hour. Mr. Fraser concluded his speech, which had been broken off by indisposition the day before, and the latter portion of it was just as vigorous and scathing as the former. He began by quoting and commenting on the speeches delivered by various members of the Opposition at the time the increase was made in the indemnity, including Messrs. Cameron, Meredith, Scott, Creighton, Boulter, Macdougall, [illegible] Wood, all of whom expressed in the most emphatic way their approval of what was then done. He proceeded to point out how the two amendments to were framed for the express purpose of forcing a vote in a certain way, and then passed on to the related from the prevailing depression afforded by the judicious distribution of the surplus during the past five years. He discussed at some length the charge against Ministers for interfering in the Dominion elections, showing that it was never expected that Ministers of the Crown should devote more time to Departmental duties than was necessary to the efficient discharge of them and proving by actual quotation from Mr. Blake's much-quoted speech that he actually and pointedly reserved to himself as a citizen of Canada the right to take part for or against the Dominion Government, as appeared to him proper.

Mr. Scott continued the debate on behalf of the Opposition, going chiefly into the question of the extent to which the Opposition had in previous occasions moved to cut down the estimated expenditure. He also endeavored to prove by a legal argument that the general election ought to be held before the third of February, the day on which all the writs were returnable for the present Parliament except the writ for Algoma. In the matter of the increase of indemnity, he charged the Government with bad faith, and argued that the question was a perfectly open one to be dealt with by each member as he saw fit. Mr. Hardy replied, and in the course of his remarks succeeded in bringing several members of the Opposition to their feet. His reference to a letter written by Mr. Meredith, and obtaining any intention to make any political capital out of the indemnity question, led to a rather lively passage at arms, after which the House was somewhat calmed down by a few remarks from Mr. Bethune, at whose request the debate was adjourned.

THE MARCH TO CABUL.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—The Viceroy of India confirms Gen. Robert's victory over the hostile tribes, but says owing to rumors of threatened attacks by Mougols, Roberts intends to return to Khurum, concentrating his forces, which are now much scattered. Friendly letters have been received from several sirdars of Cabul. The general feeling in Afghanistan is very strong against the Ameer and Russia.

The enemy opposing Gen. Roberts on Tuesday numbered 6,000 The British loss was two killed and four wounded.

A Sifodin despatch says a hundred and forty British cavalry on Monday defeated a body of Afghans, killing twenty-four and capturing nine. Twelve hundred Afghan cavalry were subsequently forced to abandon the heights by a commando. Seven of the British were wounded.

The Ameer has been notified that he is to expect no mediation whatever from the Russians, but only hospitality. It is reported that Yakoob Khan is inclined to be friendly with the British, and shows signs of yielding. General Stuart has marched through Candahar.

BELLEVILLE.

ARRESTED.—A young man named Addison, employed here as a bailiff and collector, decamped last week with $200 which he had collected. He has since been arrested in Rochester on a charge of forgery, but it is now believed to be impossible to extradite him. It was supposed that the cheques on which the money he stole was drawn, but the cheque proves to have been made payable to bearer.

LAKEFIELD.

(From our own Correspondent.)

DISTRICT L. O. L.—At the regular annual meeting of the Lakefield District L. O. L., held in the Orange Hall, on Tuesday the 14th instant, the following officers were elected and installed for the ensuing year :—W. M., Wm. Thornton; D. M., Richard Watson, Sen.; Chaplain, James Horner; Secretary, Wm. Graham; Treas., Thomas Hall; D. of C., Wm. Preston.

NOT ACCEPTABLE.—On Sunday afternoon, a medical gentleman of this village while driving from Peterborough, accompanied by a lady friend, had the misfortune to upset. Besides the annoyance of the circumstance, a walk of about two miles lent its charms to the occasion.

MISSIONARY MEETINGS.—The Missionary Meetings in connection with the C. M. Church, took place on this circuit last week. The meetings were held as follows :—At Bethel on Monday evening; at Keene on Tuesday evening; at Zion on Wednesday evening; and at Hiawatha on Thursday evening. The attendance at all the meetings was large and the subscriptions very good. The eloquent addresses delivered were highly appreciated by the large audiences. The speakers were Rev. Messrs. McCullock (pastor of the circuit), Buchanan, of Warsaw, Andrews, of Hiawatha, and Weldon, of Lakefield.

COUNTY LODGE I. O. G. T.—The Peterboro' Co. Lodge of Good Templars met at Mather's corners (about two and a half miles from here) on Thursday the 9th inst. About sixty were in attendance the majority of whom were delegates. It was decided to hold the next meeting at Lakefield sometime in June. The following officers were elected :—W. C. T., Bro. Nesbitt of Peterboro' Lodge; W. V. T. Sis. Bennett of Balsam Grove Lodge; W. S. Bro. Duff of Selwyn Lodge; W. A. S. Bro. Paul of Bridgenorth Lodge; W. T. Bro. Stewart of Balsam Grove Lodge; W. M. Bro. Graham of Washington Lodge; W. D. M. Sis. Mather of Loyal Canadian Lodge; W. Chap. Bro. Campbell of Nassau Lodge; W. H. H. S. Sis. Mann of Peterboro' Lodge; W. L. H. S. Sis. Nethercott of Friendship Lodge; W. I. G. Sis. Ambrose of Petarboro' Lodge; W. O. G. Left unfilled until next meeting.

GRAND UNION TEA AND CONCERT.—The Good Templars and Grangers of Mather's Corners gave a very successful Union Tea and Concert on Thursday the 9th inst. At 4 P. M. it was served in the Hall used by both these bodies (Templars and Grangers) and a very large number partook of the good things provided by the ladies. Of the Tea it is sufficient to say, that it reflected great credit on those getting it up. The Concert was held in Mr. T. Mathers large show room, kindly lent for the occasion, and commenced at 7 P. M. but long before that time the large room was densely packed with people. Over four hundred were present. The programme was lengthy and was rendered more so by the audience positively demanding an encore in several cases. Although the programme was long yet it was so interesting and the different performers acquitted themselves so creditably that the audience had not begun to feel weary when the entertainment closed. Miss Kindred presided at the organ with her usual gracefulness and skill. The following is the programme :—

Where all was so good it is almost impossible to make special mention but we will venture to say that the songs by Mr. H. Cruikshank, the A. B. C. Duet by Miss Cotten and Mr. Kindred, and the Dramatical Performances (The Hash Brigade) were most highly appreciated by the audience. The Proceeds were over $60 and are to be devoted to furnishing the Hall.

COUNCIL MEETING.—Council met at Warsaw, on the 28th ultimo. All the Councillors present. On motion, Mr. Kidd, was appointed chairman. Minutes of last meeting read and signed. On motion the report of the Clerk was received and adopted showing (1) that Mr. Rose had been charged the full face of Collectors Roll of 1874, (2) that Mr. Rose had got no credit for abatement claimed by Collector for that year, (3) that $64 92 is the correct amount as compared with County accounts. Mr. Crowe was appointed to inspect the work done by Mr. Rose on White Lake road, and grant his order for the amount chargeable to No. 5 Division. Moved by Mr. Crowe seconded by Mr. Kelly that Mr. Wigmore be appointed a Commissioner by by-laws to act with the Commissioner from Asphodel in relation to the claim of Mr. Burgess for loss of horse on boundary between Asphodel and Dummer and to report to Council.—Carried. Mr. Robb's report as wood ranger was received and adopted. On motion the time was extended to first of February for Collector to settle his Roll with the Treasurer. On motion a road contract to amount of $5.33 was let on 6 line to Richard Wilson sen., order to be granted when the work is completed. Orders were then granted for the payment of a number of accounts. Two by-laws were passed, one to provide for the payment of money, and one to appoint a commissioner to settle a claim respecting a horse.—Con.

(From our own Correspondent.)

MEETING OF NEW COUNCIL.—The meeting of the Council elect will meet on Monday the 20th inst., according to statute, when in addition to Auditors, the Assessor and other township officers usually appointed at the annual meeting, will then be made.

THE ROADS.—Several new lines of roads have been opened through the township without the interference of the township fathers. The longest we know of is across Mr. Samuel's final between the 9th and 10th concessions. Long line by Mr. Long's not opened especially between Foster's creek and Shanley's corner. Gravel said yesterday bid and disappointed—nothing doing in that direction as contractors are busily occupied.

Sales, &c.—Mr. Jas. Golborne, P. L. S., Apsley, has sold a number of farms during the past year. Mr. Thos. Hall, Lakefield, has also been very successful in disposing of property entrusted to his charge.

WORK ON SHARES.—During last week have commenced operations on shares on the Peterborough Cemetery, Smith-Curtis Monument Company, Smith-Mr. Bruce, Township Council McDonald Cemetery.

While the population of Ontario has increased [illegible] per cent. and a half per cent. since 1871, the increase of the number of subscribers to the Toronto Globe has been over 100 per cent. Circulation in 1871, 7,000; in 1878, 15,000.

NORWOOD.

NEW PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.—The new Presbyterian Church here, the corner stone of which was laid with Masonic honors last May, was dedicated to divine worship on Sunday last. The opening services were conducted by the pastor, Rev. T. F. Fotheringham, the sermons being preached by the Rev. D. J. Macdonnell of Toronto. There was service again in the afternoon, when the Rev. A. Bell, of Peterboro' officiated. At the evening service the pulpit was again ably filled by the Rev. Mr. Mcdonnell. There were about 700 present. At each service the collections were large. The church is a handsome structure of white brick, and is an ornament to the village, and speaks much for the Presbyterian congregation of that place. Its total cost, including ground, is $6,000.

A REVOLTING SPECTACLE.

A Man's Body Eaten by Cats.

The Quebec Chronicle says a revolting story comes from the neighbouring parish of St Antoine de Tilly. Maxime Lebeuts, an old bachelor, about fifty years of age, resided upon his farm in the second range of St. Antoine de Tilly. He was a man of sober and exemplary manner. Last week his neighbours remarked that they had not seen him abroad for some days, and became anxious about him, as he lived alone. Forcing their way into his house, they found him seated in his chair, but stiff in death, which had evidently overtaken him a considerable time previously. The spectacle which his condition presented was rendered more painfully revolting by the fact that two cats, which had been shut up in the house with the unfortunate man, and, unable to get out, had eaten away the greater part of his face to appease hunger.

The Manitoba Wave.

From the Detroit Free Press.)

When Canada adopted Manitoba as a sort of offset to our own frigid Alaska, nobody had any fault to find. It didn't seem, at first sight, to be anybody's business. However, circumstances have changed since then, and the rather presumptuous manner in which Manitoba behaves makes it time for some one to step in and put a stop to this sort of thing. Allusion is here made to this manitoba cold wave business. Last summer, when a heat-stricken country lay panting and parched, and St. Louis was suffering the torment of a future Chicago. Manitoba [illegible] as a cold wave. Day after day the telegraph announced that the cold wave was just about ready to start, and this country shouted "long may it wave." It waved pretty long. Something went wrong with the wave-making machinery, evidently, for the Manitoba cold wave waived all ceremony, and refused to come. This was bad enough, but the sequel added insult to injury. Just as we got nicely settled for the winter, do we swoops the Manitoba wave like a robust friend from the country, who slings down his carpet-sack in the parlor, and boisterously announces that he has come to stay a month. And now the Manitoba wave waves over this frost-bitten land, and will take no hint to go. If Manitoba desires to maintain its friendly relation with this country, it will have to be a little more careful of its waves. It may wave away at the North Pole, if it wants to, but to have its wave settle down uninvited, with complete strangers, is just a trifle too neighbourly at this particular season of the year.

A SAD CASE OF WANT.

The Toronto correspondent of the London Advertiser says :—

The Rev. W. J. Checkley, assistant minister of St. Paul's Church, Bloor street, who died on Friday last, it was said of typhoid fever, but was in reality from sheer want. A few years ago he was engaged by the Bloor street congregation at a salary of eight hundred dollars, but the congregation found they could only pay half that amount, and on $400 per annum Mr. Checkley had to keep himself and his family of five or six children, including an adult son who some time ago had both his hands amputated, two children of a dead brother and an invalid sister. Nothing was known of the extreme poverty of the family until Mr. Checkley's death, when it was ascertained that the household had actually been existing for two years past on almost bread alone. Better during that time they had not had in the house, and the taste of meat was almost forgotten. Mr. Checkley was of a pleaky, noble disposition, and always had a joke for everybody. One day recently he was met by a brother clergyman, who remarked that he looked terribly cold, and asked him where his overcoat was. Mr. Checkley in a joking manner replied that he hadn't got one, and in this way he warded off any suspicion as to the real state of his family affairs. As soon as the real state of things became known, the neighbors and the congregation of St. Paul's offered assistance in abundance, and probably a fund will now be raised for the settlement on the bereaved widow and her family.

Wheat in Manitoba.

Says the Scottish American :—"The evidence accumulates every year that Manitoba will ultimately become one of the first wheat-growing countries on this continent. The crops grown in the Red River Valley last year amounted to about three millions bushels, while the land broken and ready for crops next spring is over three hundred thousand acres, and should produce upwards of five million bushels of wheat. There are some remarkable large and flourishing farms in the province. At one of these, 3,500 acres is extent, 42,000 bushels of wheat and 9,000 bushels of other cereals were harvested last season, the machinery used comprising forty ploughs, sixteen seeders, forty harrows, sixteen harvesters, three steam threshers, and three portable engines. Another farm contains 4,000 acres are ready to be sown with wheat next spring. The largest farm in the valley contains 20,000 acres, having a frontage of four miles on Red River. Over 4,000 acres were in crop last year and produced 160,000 bushels of cereals two thousand bushels of potatoes, and twelve hundred tons of hay."

THE YEARS OF HORRIBLE TORTURE.—Mrs. Sarah Hanlon, of East 32rd street, New York, for ten years bent, as patiently as she could, the agony of a leg swollen to four times its natural size, which was red and raw, and from which constantly oozed a blistering secretion. One week's application of Giles' Liniment Iodide Ammonia restored the kidneys member to complete soundness.

The Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, JAN. 16, 1879.

LOCAL NEWS.

Subscriptions to the EXAMINER for 1879 are coming in handsomely.

Personal.—Mr. W. C. Dobotham, of New York, hoops us well supplied with papers, for which we are duly thankful.

How is This?—The "idiot clubs" is what an exchange calls the groups of young men who congregate around church doors to gaze at the congregation.

Thanks.—The EXAMINER Carrier Boys tender their heartfelt thanks to the patrons of the EXAMINER for the liberal donations on New Year's, in response to their "address."

Not so Bad.—A shoe dealer informs us that if they mark "No. 8" on their No. 8 shoes they get a fit and please their customers, who would not for the world put on shoes a mile too big.

The Good Times.—Because the farmers of the country have not found the good times promised by Sir John, the Mail feels them in this wise:—"Farmers are proverbially discontented."

Commendable.—A man advertises in an exchange for "competent persons to undertake the sale of a new medicine," and adds that "it will be profitable to the undertaker. No doubt of it.

Presbytery Meeting.—A meeting of the Presbytery will be held in St. Paul's Church, Peterborough, on Tuesday next, the 21st January. Those concerned would do well to bear this in mind.

Terrible.—A young lady who has a young man "keeping company" with her, who is employed in a telegraph office, calls him "the electric spark." P. S.—Of course this has no application to this town.

Personal.—We observe with pleasure that at the meeting of the Board of Examiners of Provincial Land Surveyors for Ontario, held last week at the Department of Crown Lands, Mr. Richard Birdsall Rogers, son of R. D. Rogers Esq., passed a successful examination and was duly admitted a Provincial Land Surveyor for Ontario.

Easily Satisfied.—The Brantford School Board has voted $10 each to the local papers for reporting its proceedings. We don't ask anything from the Peterborough Board if they will only give us a comfortable chair and table, with an office elbow-room and light! The Town Council need not make the grant this year, seeing that economy is the order of the day, if they will only adjourn in reasonable hours.

Good Advice to Teachers.—"In whatever we do," says Prof. Roberts, of the Missouri State Normal School, "let us teach our pupils to think! Get them off these miserable crutches called rules, gently raise their faces from between the covers of the text-book and show them that there is a power in the mind stronger than the printed page."

The Almanac.—We have presented our subscribers with a copy of the EXAMINER Family Almanac for 1879. It will be found to contain a large amount of interesting reading, and not the least interesting feature in it are the advertisements of our principal business men. We have no doubt these, as well as the other portions of the almanac, will be eagerly read.

Opera House.—A company travelling under the name of the "New Orleans Minstrels and Brass Band," gave an entertainment on Thursday evening last, in the Opera House, to a very fair audience, composed principally of the steerer sex. This company, although a strong one, were not well up in minstrelsy. Their jokes were stale and failed to meet the applause expected, whilst the singing was most miserably rendered.

The Civic Elections.—Take it altogether, we believe the electors may felicitate themselves upon the result of the municipal election—for while a sufficient quantity of the old blood has been retained, the infusion of new will prove to be very appreciable. All the retiring Councillors who were candidates save two were re-elected. This is a good feature, if for no other reason than to show, as it does, that the people were, upon the whole, well satisfied with the Council of 1878. Those Councillors who were so unscrupulously slandered by a supposed champion of the people's rights, it is needless to say, have been returned with majorities that prove that their fellow electors appreciate their desirability to keep the expenditure within the receipts.

Babies to School.—One of the New York papers has been calling attention to the fact that the primary schools of the metropolis are crowded with children under age for passing to learn and who only suffer physical injury instead of gaining mental vigor. There is no doubt this while some few people are apt to deprive their children of an early education by turning them from school through neglect or because they want their services at home, yet the tendency of the age is rather to cram them to school too early and thus the growth of character becomes poor. It is a serious mistake to cram an infant's brain after the fashion favored by some people. Fond parents are often to blame in urging their children who enjoy their ages of "pantalets" to learn more and thus foster in either a premature development of mental faculties or a physical weakness that renders them permanently unfitted to both their age and station in after years. The children of to-day are not to be blamed for the mistakes of their parents, but the latter should be careful not to overtax the brains of their children, and thus lay the foundation for a life of misery to the latter.

Words of Wisdom.—"Do not put off your work with the remark that you will do better by and by. You will not do better by and by. You will be just like what you are now, only older. Do it now. Do it with your might. Do it with your whole heart. Do it with your whole soul. Do it with your whole mind. Do it with your whole strength. Do it now. Do it always. Then you will be sure to do well."

Literary Notice.—We have received from the publishers, Messrs. Belford Brothers, Toronto, a copy of the first number of the Canada Farmer, a monthly publication devoted to Agriculture, Horticulture, Stock Breeding, Dairying, Bee Keeping, Poultry Raising, Rural Economy, Domestic Matters, Literature, Science, Art, Amusements, Markets, Commerce, Finance, Statistics, Legislation, Law, Miscellaneous Matters, and Current Events. The publishers have spared no pains to make the first number a success, and we have no doubt they will succeed in their laudable endeavor. The publication is issued at the low price of 50 cents per annum, and we would recommend it to the favorable consideration of our readers.

Andrews' American Queen.—The first number of this new and illustrated Publication devoted to Art, Music, Literature and Society, is before us. Its departments are full and complete, covering the freshest society news and gossip from all parts of the United States and Europe, book, musical, dramatic, and art criticisms, essays, sketches, stories, poems, etc. A continued story by one of the ablest of contemporary writers of fiction will be an attractive feature, and its editorial expression of opinion will be keen, bright, and fearless. The editor and proprietor pledges himself to make the American Queen a leading journal its class, and to spare no trouble or expense to make it a favorite in all family circles of culture and refinement. The new journal will cover a field in some respects different from any other and present fresh and attractive features throughout. The first number in its variety and interest justifies the expectations held out by its editor and proprietor, whose brilliant venture, Andrews' Bazar, has now become a household word throughout the land. A sample copy of Andrews' American Queen can be obtained by enclosing 15 cents to W. R. Andrews, Tribune Building, New York.

Uranine.—This is the most recently discovered, and perhaps the most remarkable, of all the coal tar or aniline group of colouring substances. It never so extensively used for the adornment of the finest fabrics. Uranine is said, by chemists, to be the most highly fluorescent body known to science. Its coloring power is astonishing: a single grain will impart a marked color to nearly five hundred gallons of water. A most interesting experiment, which anybody may try, consists in sprinkling a few atoms of Uranine upon the surface of water in a glass tumbler. Each atom immediately sends down through the water what appears to be a bright green rocket; and the tumbler soon looks as if it were crowded full of beautiful plants. The rockets now begin to coalesce, spread and combine, until we have a mass of soft green-colored liquid. Viewed by transmitted light, the color changes to a bright golden or amber hue; while a combination of green and gold will be realized, according to the position in which the glass is held. For day or evening appurtenants nothing can be prettier than these trials of Uranine, which are especially entertaining for the young folks. We are indebted for examples of the color to the editors of the Scientific American, who are sending out specimens, free of charge, to all their readers.

New Literature.—One of the chief duties of parents is to look after the literature which finds its way into the hands of their children. They require to be supplied with good books and periodicals; and, at the same time, those which are debasing and demoralizing should be kept out of their way. Probably not many parents have an idea of the extent to which the latter kind of reading matter is circulated through the country. It is true that the law endeavors to keep out obscene books, and to a great extent succeeds, though not completely. But there is a class of heathenish papers which under ordinarily apparent cover contain the seeds of vice—though it is scarcely suspected. These are the stories of the Adventure class—full of overdrawing but with reputable and clean. The persons are frequently carvicus and ruffian; the plot usually includes every variety of passion, culminating in murder, drowning, and all other methods of violence. The love. The Course of True Love.

(From the Oil City Derrick.)

For ought that ever I could read,
Could ever hear by tale or history,
Or worse on, of the oldest inhabitant,
The course of true love never did run smooth.
Either it was different in blood,
Miss Nancy being O'Rourke, her's Swartzinger or Spyon Yale;
Or else misgrafted in respect of years.
The love-sick boy being seventy-five or eighty,
And the girl sixteen or thereabouts.
Very like it stood upon the choice of friends
Her mother wanting him to take to wife
Two parts mountain's daughter, while the youth
Had a lumbering after the girl that Kept the tall-gate.
Or if there was a sympathy in choice,
The Governor and the boy
Bottom of the same contract, gone, dumb,
Or steamer did lay siege to the Old Man's Old maid; "No; your money cannot be,"
Or wanted to find cause, some reason for it,
Misconstrued; or else the Governor's son,
Smart as the [illegible] would Rebel at the [illegible] might
That, in a flash, tumbles best on age earth.
And, ere a man hath power to say
"Jack Robinson," the lovers' goodness
Is out over it up. So quick bright things
Come to confusion, and a proper man is left
Or ever I have said "Jack Robinson."
Hear of the [illegible] of [illegible] course.

FROM DEATH TO LIFE.

There were six of us seated before a blazing fire, which cast a generous glare into the otherwise unlighted room. Outside a winter storm bellowed over the chimneys, and beat seriously at the window panes. Afar off we could hear the gust roaring among the naked hills, now plunging shrilly through the skeleton branches of the trees, and again whirling overhead with a weird, shouting sound that might well have proceeded from the throats of evil things riding upon the wind. The ghostly spirit of the storm seemed to have penetrated even into our comfortable circle, for we, for I know not how, upon that most dismal of all subjects—death.

We had canvassed the theme pretty thoroughly before we discovered that two of our number, the Professor and the Doctor, had taken no part in the conversation. They were sitting a little removed from the rest of us gazing gloomily into the fire. Their ordinary cheerful expression of countenance had given place to a sober, troubled look, and more than once we had detected the exchange of a strongly significant glance between them.

As may be readily supposed, we were not slow to press them for an explanation of their conduct. But for a considerable time our efforts were fruitless. At length, after much pantomime, it was the Professor who spoke:

'Gentlemen,' said he, gravely, 'no man cares to gain for himself the reputation of a liar or a maniac. Yet that is exactly what you are pressing both of us to do. I have no doubt that the experience which I am about to relate, and in which my friend the doctor bore no unimportant part, will appear absolutely incredible to persons of your advanced views.'

There was a touch of sarcasm in the worthy Professor's tone, but in our eagerness to hear his story we found it convenient to disregard it.

'However,' he continued, 'I shall risk it. If you choose to disbelieve it, why I shall endeavor to have charity for your ignorance and conceit. Now, Doctor, if you will hand me the tobacco and one of the pipes—the ranker and bleaker the better—I will proceed.'

Having filled his pipe, and settled himself comfortably in his chair, he began thus:

'It must be fully ten years ago that the Doctor and myself were engaged upon a geological survey of the northern part of this State. We had labored diligently during the summer and fall, when toward the close of a cold November day we shouldered our knapsacks and turned our faces homeward.

Our way led through a chain of black and rugged hills towards a frontier town, twenty miles distant, where we intended to take the railroad. A more forbidding region it has never been my misfortune to see. It was a chaos, blackened and warped by primeval fires, and destitute of the smallest trace of vegetation. Tall cliffs towered a thousand feet above our heads, shutting out the light of the dull November sky. Sluggish streams filtered between crevices in the rocks, and poured noiselessly into the deep and melancholy turns. It seemed that the blight of death had fallen upon the whole country.

Well knowing the peril of attempting to proceed through such a region after nightfall, we halted at sunset, and, building a fire at the foot of a crag, disposed ourselves to rest as well we might. Exhausted with the toils of the day, the Doctor was soon asleep.

How long I had slumbered I knew not, when I found myself sitting upright, peering nervously into the darkness around me. It seemed to me that some one had uttered a wild, appealing cry in the very portals of my ear. For some moments I sat so, wondering and anxious. Then I reflected that, as there could be no human being in the neighborhood besides ourselves, the sound which had alarmed me must have been the shriek of some bird or animal. Explaining the matter thus, I was on the point of lying down again when I was arrested by a repetition of the cry. This time there could be no mistake. Wild, long, and, it appeared to me, full of intolerable anguish, it reechoed among the crags with fearful shrillness. With an uncontrollable start I turned and shook the doctor to awake him.

'Be quiet,' he muttered; 'I am awake and heard it all.'

'What can it be?' I asked anxiously; 'surely nothing human; no one lives in this region for miles around. Perhaps it is a wild cat.'

'No,' he said, between his teeth, such a sound never came from the throat of a wild cat. There it is again. Listen!'

The cry was repeated. It was a woman's voice, but it expressed such supreme misery as I believe women never felt before. It came ringing up the gorge with a weird and mournful intonation that chilled the blood in my heart. By the Doctor's quick breathing I could tell that he was as much affected as myself. Neither of us spoke or moved; both waited for a renewal of the cry, in the hope of arriving at some rational explanation of it.

Again it came; but now like a low, tremulous sob. I am not a superstitious man, gentlemen, but I confess that I sat there shivering with a species of horror that was utterly new to me. What could it be? No living woman, surely, alone and walking in an inaccessible fastness where we were morally certain nothing human dwelt. And then what misery was it that gave itself such inhuman expression? Not fear or bodily pain, but something nameless to us. While we were debating these questions in smothered tones, the cry came once again. This time in words we understood:

'Help! Oh, God! help!'

At this intelligible appeal to our manhood, our superstitious weakness at once disappeared. Seizing a torch from our smouldering fire, we made our way hastily toward a pile of rocks a few hundred yards distant, whence the sound seemed to have proceeded from. Scrambling up the height, we came suddenly on a strange and mournful scene. Before us stood a small and wretched-looking hut, evidently constructed by hands unused to such labor, unplaned and without a chimney. Through a dim light within, and through the open door we saw the body of a man [illegible] lifeless, lying prone upon the terribly [illegible]. Beside him with arms flung wildly over head, knelt the figure of a woman, evidently the one whose utter [illegible] It needed but a glance to assure us [illegible]

MR. SCOTT SPEAKS.

Mr. Scott, member for West Peterborough, has been speaking again in the Ontario Parliament. There is nothing at all wonderful in the mere fact, seeing that he is plainly the best speaker,—as to matter and arrangement at least,—on the Opposition benches. The only wonder is that he did not speak before some others of his party, and give a greater air of respectability to the earlier part of the debate in the address—on which, by the way, the Opposition waste a great deal of breath and time, if, as they say, there's little or nothing in it. Why raise a debate on nothing? When we say that Mr. Scott's has been the best speech on his side of the House, we are not praising him very highly, for it needs no great oratorical power to excel all others of his party who have seats in the Ontario Chamber. He spoke on Mr. Parkhill's amendment, and attempted by special pleading to defend the action of the Opposition in dragging the membership indemnity question in as a bone of party contention. He and his friends evidently feel the need of some excuse for their dishonourable conduct in this matter. They were quite ready to press for the increase, and were at least equally eager with members on the Ministerial benches in sharing in the "salary grab," as it has been called. Where is the proverbial "honour among thieves," that they now turn round and try to lay the blame on the government, and, by a manifestly insincere resolution to take a mean advantage of their fellow "grabbers". Their motion being made as an amendment to concurrence in a paragraph of the Ad dress, was really one of want of confidence in the government, and as such must need be voted down by the Ministerial majority. Those who prepared the resolution knew this full well, therefore their action suggests that they would rather the indemnity be not decreased, though they shrink like cowards, from an avowal of their feelings. Is it fair,—is it decent,—is it manly, that men should thus connect a plan by which they must mainly themselves? Every man who, having formerly agreed to the increased indemnity, supported Mr. Parkhill's amendment voted direct want of confidence in himself And Mr. Scott got up, or was put up, to defend this kind of thing. His only plea was that two Reform papers and one Reform speaker had blamed Conservative members for the "grab". But what these papers said were in answer to former efforts of the Tory press to lay the whole responsibility on the Government, as was also the case with the speaker to whom he referred. And the ground for accusation against the Conservatives as being more to blame than Reformers is the following division list, published in the Mail, of the votes in Committee on a proposition to return to $600 per session :—

CROTCHETY CONSISTENCY.

. "An Old Teetotaller", of Peterboro', who would persist in writing to the Montreal Witness in severe criticism of the exertions of other temperance men in this locality, simply because they did not exactly agree with his views, was referred to by the Witness as being "honest" "crotchety" and able. In another letter to the same publication he promptly affirms the first adjective, and does not deny the third as being applicable, but will not admit the second. In arguing that he is not crotchety he gives the very clearest proof that he is. For instance he refers to the Sons of Temperance, the Good Templars, the Dominion Alliance and the Dunkin Association as crotchety organizations. "Each person belonging to any of these organizations no doubt has his eccentricities and whims, but all have been able to rein these regrets so far as to concede an equal standing to others, but "An Old Teetotaller" is so crotchety he, the one, can't even give credit to the many for good judgment and honest of purpose at least equal to his own. He claims the right to discriminate as to what are "laudable exertions" for the banishment of intoxicating liquors, but seems eager to deny others the privilege of such discrimination. He somewhat bootingly refers to his consistency for forty-eight years. Either he must have had a life peculiarly free from temptation (in which case the less credit to him) or he is sadly deceiving himself regarding his vaunted consistency. Another of his crotchets perhaps. He cannot apparently see that an honest and able man can be crotchety. But the most tenaciously crotchety men are of necessity dogmatic in their conviction — however narrow they may be—and they are sure in time to obtain a considerable degree of ability in continually advancing those views which they have all along studied and enlarged upon, to the utter exclusion of others. Even this "Old Teetotaller" will scarcely judge that those composing what he calls crotchety organizations—or at least many of those are honest. Neither can he deny that many of them are able, or that those organizations have been able enough to accomplish good in their time, and surely he who chooses to be like the heathen—"a law unto himself"—should be the last to talk of the crotchets of others.

A CHANGE OF BASE.

The Montreal Star has been all along noted as one of the most rampant advocates of Protection, but since Protectionist theories begin to be pressed to a dangerous extent, even the Star makes a complete change of base. It will be remembered by our readers that the EXAMINER before the late Dominion Elections took the ground that all commercial prosperity depended on protective labor, such as that bestowed on the soil; and that no legislative enactments could effect that. If events had not already proved our position on this question to be the correct one, it could now be shown by the acquiescence in it of journals that formerly paraded the fallacy that the prosperity of farmers depended on the encouragement of manufactures by a Protective tariff. Thus even the Montreal Star, taking cognizance of the continued depression is constrained to ask, "What must we Do?" It then proceeds to answer itself thus :—

"We must not forget the old fable of Hercules (sic.) and the waggoner, and if we expect help we must put ourshoulders to the wheel. And first we must avoid all extravagance, and endeavor if we cannot bring our circumstances to our mind, to bring our mind to our circumstances. Then the rush spirit of speculation must be put down, and we must bear in mind the saying of poor Richard, that while

"Great estates may venture more,
Little boats should keep near shore."

Another thing is required, and that is to remember that all lawful, honest work is honorable, and those that cannot work with their hands must be willing for the present at least, to work with their hands."

After alluding at some length to the folly of those who prefer other businesses to farming, this Protectionist journal concludes with the following good, sound Free Trade advice :—

"Let agriculturists take a right stand, storekeepers and merchants will soon have a good market for their goods; but till the senseless prejudice against farm labor is done away with continued prosperity is not to be expected."

Yet, this comes from one of a class of papers that has been guilty of inducing a prejudice against farming, by arguing that it depended upon manufacturing. Then papers frantically cried out against the principle laid down by the EXAMINER and other Liberal journals, that the labour bestowed on the earth to the production of some useful, (and hence valuable,) commodity, is the basis of all wealth, but now they are forced to acknowledge it. Before, those Protectionist oracles pointed to the Government as the source of aid, now they say "if we expect help we must put our shoulders to the wheel." Just what the Liberal press and Liberal politicians told the people, honestly, before the elections, —and tell them still. The journals that but lately told us what imports were not actually shut out must be made dearer, and that production of saleable commodities at home must be vastly increased, now advise an avoidance of all extravagance, and the curtailing of the very purchases on which both revenue and the sustaining of expended home manufacturing would of necessity depend. Those who have pointed to growing colours pictures of smoking chimneys and busy workshops, established by capital, the venturing of which has been encouraged by a Protectionist tariff, now tell us "the rush spirit of speculation must be put down," and refer us to poor Richard's proverb! Now it all depends on whether "agriculturists take the right stand." This is exactly what those who strove to keep the tariff within the bounds of revenue requirements tried to impress upon the popular mind. This is how the expounders of a truly National Policy tried to calm the excitement into which the country had been thrown by an aggravated attack of hard times. It must be gratifying to the advocates of a revenue tariff to see their arguments thus coming back to them, and that too, from those who were foremost in causing a popular frenzy, that will not now be staged till it has involved those who labored in behalf of it in the punishment they richly deserve. It is indeed a spectacle which gentle beings, be one ab-

REFORM CONVENTION.

WEST PETERBOROUGH.

A convention for the selection of a candidate to contest the West Riding in the interest of the Mowat administration, will be held in the rooms of the Young Mens Reform Association in this town, on Saturday next, 25th instant, commencing at 2 o'clock. We hope to see a full attendance from all parts of the Riding.

EAST RIDING.

The convention called for Monday, 27th instant, for this Riding has been postponed till Friday, 7th of February at 12 o'clock, in the Town Hall, Norwood. We desire to impress on the township associations throughout the Riding the necessity of having their delegates duly appointed, and present, so that all sections may be represented.

NOT WORTHY OF NOTICE.

Dr. O'Sullivan made a speech in the Ontario Assembly on Monday night in which he stated that he did not care what the press said about him, yet complained of statements in this paper. We defy the member for East Peterboro' to show wherein we have misrepresented him. On the contrary we have dealt generously with him; and he knows it. Nor shall we now give him the exposure he so richly deserves, seeing that it is useless to seriously notice a man of no influence who is retiring from political life. We will therefore content ourselves with pointing out the laughable figure cut by the worthy Doctor, when he declared in one breath, that he was opposed to the reduction of the indemnity, and in the next, that he would vote for such reduction. But he was perfectly killing when in the midst of an eloquent flight on the evil of party warfare, he acknowledged that this question should not have been made a party one and immediately said he must vote with his party. Poor O'Sullivan, it is no wonder his party wants to get him out of the House, where he makes himself, and it ridiculous.

THAT NOMINATION FARCE.

That Conservative gathering at the Indian River on the 14th inst., was a pretty "thin" farce. It was not a convention of delegates; for we are told on authority that a number of gentlemen met on invitation of the Ossabee Association. It does seem a piece of cheek on the part of the Ossabee Conservatives, that they should thus try to rue the Riding, by inviting just such persons as they chose to consult as to "arrangements for the coming campaign." The arrangements were probably all pre-arranged, and must have been of such a character as to give rise to a fear that a properly regularly constituted convention of party delegates would upset them. The very best proof of the bogus nature of the meeting is furnished in the tendering of a party nomination to Dr. O'Sullivan by those self-constituted makers of arrangements. It was known months ago by the electors on both sides of politics that Dr. O'Sullivan did not intend to again be a candidate : hence those who went through the farce of offering him the nomination, knew full well what his reply would be. The adjournment for a week for the purpose of receiving that negative reply seems to have been planned to give the re-assembling of the cabal a sort of foundation, and lending it an air of party representation. But will any man say that the gathering was a fair representation of the feelings of the Conservatives of the Riding? No one was sent there as the representative, all were invited by the convener of the meeting. By what authority did these conveners act? On what principle did they issue their precious invitations? There is something eminently Tory in this exclusive way of running a party nomination. The few arrogate to themselves the right to declare who shall be the party nominee, and say virtually to the common rabble that it is none of their business further than to vote for the man chosen for them.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

According to the Toronto Telegram Mr. Morris is far from being an acquisition to the speaking power of the Legislature.

When will "hard times" come to an end? is the anxious query. The moment the "great statesman" unfolds his N. P. But when will he do it? In three weeks—three short weeks. Hurrah!

The answer to the suggestion that West Riding Conservatives should show the sincerity of their proposition for Mr. Scott's election by acclamation, by agreeing to the election by acclamation of a Reformer in the East, has been answered by the Indian River conspiracy.

At a convention of the Conservatives of the East Riding, held at Indian River, on Tuesday, Mr. H. Calcutt, of Ashburnham, received the nomination as standard-bearer for the Conservative party in the East Riding for the coming elections, Dr. O'Sullivan having declined to accept the nomination tendered him at the meeting held last week.

One of the Peterborough woollen has commenced publishes a daily edition, and the other local paper keeps mentions of ridicule on its "weekly" neighbor as it calls it. We can sympathize with our Peterborough contemporary, as we have been there ourselves and lived through it.—Brockville Recorder.

It is difficult to tell on which of the papers concerned this is most severe. It is certainly complimentary to neither of them. The Peterborough weekly being newer, is certainly better looking than its sympathetic brother of Brockville. It is another case of "How we apples swim."

The Seaforth Expositor says :—

If the people of Toronto and Peterborough, and Ottawa, would move railways to assist in building up their cities, let them show the necessity for them by subscribing liberally towards them themselves, instead of looking to the Ontario Government to shoulder the lion's share of the burdens.

We quite agree; and do not know that anyone thinks of getting Provincial aid except on the regular basis of liberal municipal subscription and claims as a colonization road.

Mr. Wallington Blewitt writes to the Bobcaygeon Independent in answer to the letter of Mr. Brodie in the EXAMINER. From Mr. Blewitt's letter we make the following pertinent extracts :—

Our views would have been carried from Bobcaygeon to Lindsay by Hastings, and the trade of a large section of country would be carried off, of course, to Peterboro', and Bobcaygeon would be a small village, the same as Mr. Brodie says it is.

The change in Bobcaygeon did not have that effect, but it has made it a place of importance, and it is now the centre of a large trade.

The imposition of fees in connection with the Ottawa Collegiate Institute has created a good deal of dissatisfaction, and has very materially affected the attendance. An Ottawa school-boy the other day wished to find out the sensation caused by the tongue resting on frosty iron. He accordingly placed his tongue on a bridge railing, and drew it away minus the top. Almost immediately it came in contact with the iron it became firmly attached, and the boy vainly endeavoured to get free, until, with a jerk, he tore it away.

He is popular with all who have met him on the continent, and great French ladies are fond of themselves in his society last year at Nice are never tired of speaking of the Prince Charming. He is an excellent musician like his brother, the Duke of Edinburgh, and has an agreeable tenor voice, which he is perfectly willing to exercise when asked to sing. But the best rumor is that Prince Leopold desires to turn his powers to the singing of anthems, and is pressing his mother to allow him to take orders. Some of his brothers and sisters are averse to this, and fear from his High Church views he might go further than they wish. It would be very awkward were a son of the Queen of England, Defender of the Faith, to die a Cardinal of Rome, like the last of the Stuarts. It is the intention to make Leopold, Duke of York.

GERMANY AND SOCIALISM.

From Germany we get tales every day of oppressive acts done by the Government with the design of eradicating Socialism. Fifty-five newspapers have been suppressed within the last six weeks, one hundred and eighty-eight books and pamphlets seized, and two hundred and thirty-two societies of different kinds—ranging in political importance from singing schools and yard—have been broken up and forbidden to meet again :—

THE AFGHAN CAMPAIGN.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—Jallalabad despatches report that the Khan of Kumur, app peared to be the most influential leader of the frontier tribes, has come into the British camp. It is generally believed Yakoob Khan is disposed to treat for peace.

LONDON, Jan 17.—A telegram from Candahar, dated the 8th January, says the advance guards of the advance guards of General Stewart's and Riddulph's forces have filed out of the Cabul gate of Candahar, crowds lining the streets and covering the roofs. Not a shot was fired prior to entering the city. It is reported that anarchy prevails at Cabul.

CANOTTA, Jan. 17.—An official despatch says :—The Kohistani chiefs attempted to create a disturbance and plunder Cabul, but Yakoob Khan induced them to withdraw. The Ghilzai chiefs are urging Yakoob Khan to make friends with the British. Afghan deserters confirm the reports of the disorganization of their army. There were slight marauding disturbances in the Khojuk Pass, but the marauders were punished.

The Asia Minor Reforms.

There seems to have been a good deal more of earnestness than the public were aware of in the negotiations between the British Government and the Porte as to the reforms to be introduced in Asia Minor in return for the protection of that country by Great Britain against Russian aggression. The correspondence between the two Governments has been published. As finally agreed upon the scheme of reform will involve the formation of an effective gendarmerie, officered and administered partly by Europeans, and a system of farming revenues is to be reorganized or abolished. The Provincial Governors are to hold office by a more stable tenure than at present, the Sultan's right of recall being abridged. Europeans will be appointed to act as Inspectors of the Administration of Justice, and they are to be duly supported and invested with sufficient authority. The reforms in the collection of taxation are to be confined for the present to one or two provinces in which the new system will have the fairest chance of success. As a whole, the scheme is perhaps as radical a reform as could be introduced at one time, its workings must be relied upon to pave the way for a more sweeping measure.

DISASTROUS CONFLAGRATION.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—Another destructive fire occurred to-night, the total loss by which will not fall short of $2,000,000. Shortly before 8 o'clock flames were seen issuing from the third floor of the five story building, 64 Worth street. An alarm was immediately sounded but before the arrival of the fire engines the fire had made rapid headway, and in a few minutes the whole building, which was occupied by Yeaw Walkenberg & Co., dealers in woollens and general merchants was in flames. The loss is estimated at $150,000 on the buildings, and one million on stock. The buildings of H. B. Claflin & Co., the great dry goods merchants, were for a time in great danger, and it was only by the extraordinary exertions of the firemen that the flames were kept from communicating with the entire dry goods district along Worth and Church streets. The chief of the fire department said to-night that it was one of the most dangerous fires that have occurred here for years.

LATER.—The loss on buildings and stock is variously estimated at from three to six millions, probably about four millions. The Manhattan Real Estate Association owned the whole block of buildings, which was valued at a million and a half; about two-third insured. There were no accidents but several narrow escapes.

What Mr. Meredith Thought in 1876.

The following letter fully explains itself :—

Toronto, January 29, 1876

My Dear Sir,—With reference to the proposed increase of members' salaries by the new Act, my own idea is that $2000 is a sufficient sum; but I have no desire to stand in the way of the increase should the majority of the members of the House consider it necessary. Under no circumstances, however, should the proposition, whether acted on or not, be made the subject outside the House for political purposes. Mr. Lauder takes the same view of the matter as I have expressed.

Yours truly,
W. R. MEREDITH.

LOCAL NEWS

Independent Order of Foresters.—We are informed that a movement is on foot to establish a Court of the Independent Order of Foresters in this town. Already the promoters have secured a large number of names as charter members.

The Midland.—The prompt payment of the employees on the 15th, notwithstanding the serious falling off in receipts and interruption of traffic by the snow blockade and the increased expenditure necessary to open the line, has given great satisfaction and still further increased the confidence in the new management.

One Way of Doing It.—Pleasure and business were never more nicely combined than in the following New Year greeting by the editor of a Belleville paper, the same being in lines indented at both ends, and kept since the birth of the new year at the head of the editorial column:—"We greet our readers and wish them all a Happy New Year. Those who have not yet paid their subscriptions will make us happy by calling and doing so at once."

The Canadian Meteorologist.—This very useful monthly, issued by the Fruit Growers' Association of Ontario, comes upon its second year. The January number is now before us replete with valuable and interesting information on the cultivation of Fruits, &c. It should be in the hands of every man who has an orchard or a garden. Now is the time to send a dollar to D. W. Beadle, Secretary, St. Catharines, and secure this welcome monthly visitor. Also a copy of the Annual Report for 1878, and a tree of the "Ontario" apple.

State of Business.—Christmas tide and New Years being over there exists the usual reaction in business circles which is pretty general in all houses. There are, however, a few exceptions, amongst which is Dolan & Co's. This establishment has become a great and general favorite with dry goods buyers, and enjoys even in dullest seasons a continuous influx of buyers. The shrewd proprietor at all times considers the interest of his customers, and consequently offers his goods accordingly; by low prices, besides always having a very full selection in all lines.

Neuralgia.—A very simple relief for Neuralgia is to boil a small handful of labella in half a pint of water till the strength is out of the herb, then strain it off and add a teaspoonful of fine salt. Wring cloths out of the liquid as hot as possible, and spread over the part affected. It is not like a charm. Change the cloths as soon as cold till the pain is all gone; then cover the place with a soft, dry covering till perspiration is over, to prevent taking cold. Rheumatism can often be relieved by application to the painful parts of cloths wet in a weak solution of sal soda water. If there is inflammation in the joints, the cure is very quick. The wash should be lukewarm.

Advice for 1879.—This is said common ocean. Cut it out and paste it outside your pocket book, or put it some where that you can not help seeing it:—If it is possible for you to act along the present year without running up a bill at the store do it. Store bills grow very fast—faster than weeds or wares. Pay as you go. Have no heavy bills hanging over you at the end of the year. Give up the extra money, if you ever have any, and tell her to use it in buying such goods and groceries as are actually needed, but run up no accounts. Subscribe for THE EXAMINER—and pay in advance.

Woman's Rights.—A Woman's Rights journal declaims against the custom of giving a bride away at a marriage ceremony, declaring that it is a relic of the old opinion that daughters were slaves of a father, and could be given or sold to any suitor who pleased him. "No woman," says the journal in question, "of proper self respect, will submit to be given away." This may be all right, but on the other hand, is there to be no sympathy for the man in the case who is often so much "given away" by the performance as anybody concerned? Nothing is ever lost by looking at a matter in its bearings.

The Sparrows.—A great many hard things have been said of the English sparrow, who has now become thoroughly naturalized in Canada, and is apparently much at home as any of our native birds—the objection has been raised that he is of such a pugnacious disposition and so quarrelsome that he drives away the other birds, but Dr. Thomas M. Brewer, of Boston, who has made birds a life study, says that when the sparrows were introduced in that city there were only five species of native birds to be seen on the common, while now there are seventeen. Thus is another peculiar delusion exploded, and an additional reason furnished why the homely little chirpers should be looked after by our citizens.

Harper's.—Harper's Magazine for February, while making a marked impression by the extraordinary beauty of its illustrations, is even more remarkable for the temptations by which it solicits a reading, and for the satisfaction it gives the reader. The exquisite illustrations of Mr. Beard's article, "The Treasures of the Deep," do not sugar-coat a pill; the letter-press is as entertaining as the pictures. Mr. Benjamin's column paper on [illegible] makes pretension and is [illegible] but he tells a story of what he saw in a recent trip in a way so interesting that we should even ignore the peculiarities of the action. Phebe Earle Gibbons writes about "French Flowers," without the [illegible] of many others. Mr. Howells [illegible] and thinks that every paragraph is a sermon. The illustrations of the "Modern Prophet," in the March of the Americans," and of Mr. C. G. Bunner's humor appear in Carlyle's [illegible] Bret Harte's story of "Jeff Briggs's Love Story" is [illegible] Mr. Howell's charming [illegible] poem, "Florentine to Florentine," reveals a new power in the author. Mr. Curtis's [illegible] of the week of the Department of Trade [illegible] in Boston—but it already requires too much explanation to be [illegible] Mr. Curtis's [illegible] of national elections. We notice in this number of Harper's "Old French Forests," to be continued, and hope it will be followed by [illegible] on French Rivers.

Personal.—We are pleased to learn that Sheriff Hall has so far recovered from his recent illness as to be able to be out again.

Bible Society.—Remember the meeting of the Bible Society this evening in the George Street Methodist Church.

Sentenced.—William F. Doyle, who was arrested for stealing $35 from Mr. Mulvihill, of Oshawa, has been sentenced to six months in the Central Prison.

Scalded.—Duncan McIntyre, a man working at Stevenson's foundry was badly scalded, on Monday, by the steam from the boiler, which escaped from a crack that was blown out.

Unlawful Use of Firearms.—Michael Gendy of North Monaghan was fined $20 and $5.65 costs on Tuesday last for pointing a revolver at Andrew Dobbin on New Years Day.

Vennors Almanac.—We have received from the publishers a copy of Vennor's Almanac for 1879. Besides the forecasts for the coming year, and a review of the weather during 1878, it contains much valuable information.

Preparing for Business.—We clip the following from the Journal of Commerce:—Messrs. R. C. Strickland & Co., of Lakefield, lumber merchants, who assigned about a year ago, and whose estate, with the exception of a heavily mortgaged saw mill, has been disposed of by the assignee, have just succeeded in effecting a composition at 15 cents on the dollar, and are again preparing to begin business.

Ten Nights in a Bar-Room.—This popular Temperance Play was reproduced on Monday evening in the Opera House, by the members of Peterborough Temple. The leading parts were all well taken, especially "Sample Switcher" by Mr. Sid Heathorn. A laughable farce entitled 'the Boy from Limerick' concluded the entertainment. Miss Nettie Martin during the evening gave several songs the execution of which it is needless to say was loudly applauded.

Oddfellowship.—The Omemee Herald understands it is the intention of the Oddfellows residing in this community to give a dinner to which will be invited brother Oddfellows of Lindsay, Peterborough and other places. This event will take place about the end of the month; and the result, no doubt, will be to show to outsiders that Omemee is not such an odd place as is generally supposed, even if she does number some odd fellows (in more senses than one) among her inhabitants.

Sudden Death.—Mr. John Ivy, a teamster in the employ of Mr. McQuade, Timberman of Trenton, fell dead in his sleigh on Monday, on the road between the Narrows and Campbellford. He had stopped at the Narrows to warm himself, and had not proceeded far on his way when without speaking a word he fell over in the sleigh. He was driven to Campbellford as speedily as possible where medical aid was called in, but without avail. An inquest was held on the body on Tuesday, but we have not as yet heard the verdict.

Feeting the Parson.—Since twenty and fifty dollar gold pieces have become somewhat scarce clergymen called upon to tie the nuptial knot have perforce been content with an envelope containing bank notes. The envelope system, however, has its disadvantages—to the solicitatior clergyman. He does not know whether he draws the price of a suit of clothes or a blank. Not long ago a Guelph clergyman made a coming couple inexpressibly happy by pronouncing them man and wife, and for performing the act he received from the bridegroom a fat looking envelope. On opening it after the couple had departed, all that could be found was a note which read as follows: "Dear sir, I have not got the money to-day, but I will come and see you in a few days."

Pugh Him Round.—A sneak, claiming to be the proprietor of a patent medicine called "Empress Relief," hailing from Toronto, is sending advertisements to country newspapers, requesting the publication of the same, and promising to remit promptly every three months. This journal will victimized, and when in Toronto the other day making enquiries regarding the whereabouts of this promising concern, found that he had lately changed his boarding house, and neglected to pay a widow who had been lodging and feeding him for several months. Exchanges that have received advertisements from him can take warning. His brother is an M.P.P., and he tries to support himself at the expense of the public, on account of his respectable connections.—Port Hope Guide.

Glass Ball Shooting.—The Lindsay Post says:—Glass ball shooting is becoming popular with Lindsay sportsmen, and bids fair to supercede live bird shooting in matches. A very interesting match took place on Wednesday, the 15th instant, between two of our crack shots, Messrs. J. H. Dunsford and Geo. Cary, resulting in a victory for the latter by three balls. Each man shot at ten balls—alternate fires. Dunsford polished off his first five in excellent style, as did also his opponent, but in the second heat he succeeded in only breaking two whilst Cary in magnificent style broke all. Cary afterwards shot thirteen balls in succession. We understand that there are several more matches on the tapis and it is pleasing to think that Lindsay, which is essentially a sporting town, is at last prepared to show what she can do. The 'knowing ones' are bonnily expecting challenges from Port Hope, Millbrook, and Whitby.

Important Chancery Changes.—Extensive changes have been made in the practice and procedure as to mortgage and administration suits in the Court of Chancery. Instead of the regular tariff of costs in force heretofore in administration and petition suits a commission proportionate to the value of the estate will be allowed to the solicitors. The object of the new orders is to do away with the great expense of winding up estates of small value, and the consequent loss to suitors. The commissions are as follows:

On sums not exceeding $60	20 per cent.
For every additional $240 up to $1,200	5 do
For every additional $240 up to $4,200	3 do
For every additional $1,000 up to $10,000	2½ do
For every additional $1,000	1 do and such remuneration shall be in lieu of all fees, whether between "party and party" or "between solicitor and client," or "between solicitor and client."

Separate School Board.—The inaugural meeting of the Board of Separate School Trustees took place on Tuesday last, in the Separate School, Murphy Street. The Secretary read the election returns as certified by the Returning Officer, Mr. C. D. Macdonald. The members elect filed their declaration and took their seats. The Board then proceeded to the election of Officers for 1879, resulting as follows:—Chairman, C. McGrath; Treasurer, T. Dolan; Secretary, J. Cargey; Local Superintendent, Rev. Father Clouter. Messrs. Dolan, Lemay, O'Connell and Sullivan were appointed School Supervision Committee. A number of communications from teachers were received. An account from Messrs. Pope & McPherson, suspending to $32.00, for repairs made in the School was received—and ordered to be paid. The Auditor's report of the School monies for the year 1878 was read, and on motion adopted. Mr. Lynch sent in his resignation as a member of the Board, which on motion of Mr. Cahill, seconded by Mr. O'Connell, was accepted, and the Secretary was instructed to fill the vacancy. A motion by Mr. Dolan, seconded by Mr. O'Connell.—That non-resident pupils be charged a monthly fee of $1.00. Messrs. Jas. Hogan and John Garvey were appointed Auditors for the year. A further insurance of $1,000 was ordered to be effected on the School Building, making a total insurance of $4,000. The regular monthly meeting of the Board will be held on the first Thursday of each month at 7.45 p. m. The Board then adjourned.

The Boy on Skates.—There is something planted in the human breast which prompts to do whatever nature did not intend that a human being should do. Man was not made to soar in the air, yet all boys since and before the time of "Darius Green and his flying machine," have attempted aerial navigation. Nature also intended that a boy should only get over the surface of this planet at a certain rate, and this is what gives the juvenile his immense liking for velocipedes in summer and skates in winter in order to get a little ahead of nature's gait. Velocipedes and balloons are well enough in their way, but the very essence of a boy's happiness is reached when he first becomes the possessor of a pair of bright new skates. Then is when he loves to "steel" an hour away, from every conceivable care, and slip and slide, and skate and fall, and cramp the remnant of a Valentine and balloons are well enough in their way, but the very essence of a boy's happiness is reached when he first becomes the possessor of a pair of bright new skates. Better than Gold.

(From the Catholic Herald.)

Better than sycamore, better than gold,
Than rank and riches a thousand fold.
Is a healthy body and mind at ease.
And simple pleasures that always please;
A heart that can feel for another's woe,
And share its joys with a genial glow;
With sympathi-e large enough to afford
All men as brothers, is better than gold.

Better than gold is a conscience clear,
Turning aside for bread in an honest sphere
Loving labour with content and health,
Undefiled by the lust or the curse of wealth;
Lovely living and lofty thoughts,
Adorn and ennoble a poor man's cot;
For mind and morals, in nature's plan,
Are the genuine tests of a gentleman.

Better than gold is a purpose stern,
Of the men's of toil when their hands discern;
Better than gold is the inner man's sleep,
And the balm that drops on his weary deep,
Bring sweeter dreams to the drowsy head,
Where honest pillows its aching head,
But no his simple couch denies
A shorter route to the land of dreams.

Better than gold is a thinking mind,
That in the realms of books can find
A treure surpassing Australian ore,
And live with the great and good of yore;
The sage's lore and the poet's lay,
The glories of empire pass away;
The world's great dramas will Clio unfold,
And yield a pleasure better than gold.

Better than gold is a peaceful home,
Where all the family gathers come,
The choice of love, the heaven of life,
Hallowed by mother, or sister, or wife;
Wherever bestrides the human race,
Or wiled with sorrow by heaven's decree,
The blessing that never were bought nor sold,
And centre there, are better than gold.

St. George's Society.

Annual Meeting and Election of Officers.

On Wednesday evening, January 15th, the annual meeting of the Peterborough St. George's Society was held in the Police Court room, Mr. S. Courtney, the President, in the chair.

A communication was read from the Chaplain, the Rev. T. Clementi, regretting his absence, and asking for a grant for Mr. Close, to assist him in the funeral expenses of his wife. A sum was subsequently granted.

The PRESIDENT read the annual report of the Committee as follows:—

Annual report of the President and Officers of the Peterborough St. George's Society, presented at the annual meeting, held on Wednesday, January 15, 1879:

It is with deep regret that we are called upon to report the death of our late worthy President, George Barlee, Esq. He was one who always took a most lively interest in the welfare of the Society, and was ever r dy to add to the comfort of his fellow-countrymen. As a mark of the esteem, that he so well merited, his mortal remains were followed to their last resting place by the members of the Society.

It will be seen by the report of the Relief Committee, now laid before you, that the calls made upon the Society for help, during the past year, have been considerable, the amount given being in excess of the income of the Society during the same period.

It is to be regretted that so much trouble and time is lost in the collection of the annual subscriptions, considering that the funds raised is used only for procuring the necessities of life for our fellow-countrymen, when they themselves are unable to do so. Members should endeavour to help, (and it would be no small amount), the officers, in their not altogether easy task, by promptly paying their subscriptions, and endeavouring to increase the membership roll, the smallness of which is to be deplored, considering that Englishmen and their descendants are numbered by hundreds around us, and the members of the Society only by tens.

There was no festival on St. Georges Day, but on the 6th of August a pic-nic was held at Idyl-Wild, which unfortunately, owing to a heavy rain on that day, did not prove a financial success.

The financial position of the Society is laid before you by the Treasurer's report.

E. COURTNEY, President.

The report was adopted.

The TREASURER read his financial statement as follows:—

GEO. B. SHAW,
Treasurer St. George's Society.

Peterborough, Jan. 15, 1879.

The Treasurer's report was referred to Messrs. Bagaley and Ormond to audit, and report that day week.

Mr. W. HELM, as Chairman of the Relief Committee, reported as follows:—

REPORT OF THE RELIEF COMMITTEE FOR THE YEAR 1878.

To the President and Members of the St. George's Society:

Your Committee beg to report as follows:—That they have expended during the year 1878 the sum of fifty-nine dollars and thirty-five cents, ($59 35) leaving a balance on hand of sixty-five cents. Twelve families having received assistance, making a total of forty-nine persons.

Your Committee regret that they were obliged to expend far relief a larger amount than was expended for the same purpose the year previous, owing partly to the difficulty of procuring work, and partly to an increased amount of sickness.

Your Committee begs also to report on the special grant for Christmas. They distributed beef and groceries to twelve families, composed of seventy-two persons, giving to each family an average of ten or twelve pounds, and groceries, flour, tea sugar and currants, an average of sixty-five cents to each family. In every case the recipients expressed thanks for the acceptable present. The amount expended was $12.92, leaving a balance in the Chairman's hands of $3.60.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

(Signed) WM. HELM, Chairman.

On Diphtheria.

Dr. E. M. Snow says in his last report as Registrar of the city of Providence: In connection with this subject I think it my duty to ask the attention of the people of Providence, and especially of parents, to the following statements:—1. No case of diptheria occurs without an adequate cause. This is self-evident. 2. The cause of nearly all cases of the disease exists in the houses or premises, or within a few feet of the houses where the cases occur. 3. The cause of nearly all the cases that occur in the city is breathing impure air from privy vaults or sink drains, or cesspools; or drinking impure water. Much observation and long-continued and careful investigation have perfectly satisfied me of the truth of these propositions, and they are applicable to all cases, whether in the tenements of the poor or in the mansions of the rich.

A Sad Event in Lobo.

A Young Lady Dies Suddenly—Dire Consequences to her Mother and Lover.

The community near Allen Craig, in the township of Lobo, were pained last Monday by the announcement of the sudden death of a young lady named Elizabeth Walker, who was well known and highly respected in the neighborhood. She was engaged to be married to Mr. John Cousins, and the ceremony was shortly to be celebrated. As soon as the young man heard of the sad event which had happened to his betrothed, he was seized with a frenzy of grief, and retiring to his room, cut his throat from ear to ear. He was found weltering in his blood, but still alive. Medical aid was promptly summoned, and everything done that was possible to stanch the flow of blood, but it is feared all to no purpose, and that he cannot recover. The young lady's mother, upon hearing of her death, was so affected that she died also. The sad affair has cast a gloom over the neighborhood, the young couple being both well known and respected.

Ventilation.

Many persons complain of always getting up tired in the morning. This is very often due to defective ventilation of the bed-room, or from using an undue amount of warm bed-clothes and bedding. Feather beds are too soft and yielding, and partially envelop the sleeper, thus producing profuse perspiration. The habit of lying too much under blankets is also very pernicious by reason of the carbonic acid exhaled by the sleeper being respired. Again, it is a common error to suppose that by simply opening a window a little at the top, a room can be ventilated. People forget that for proper ventilation there must be an inlet and an outlet for the air. In bed-rooms there is often neither, and if there is a fire-place, it is generally closed up. Again, it is a mistake to suppose that foul air goes to the top of a room. Certainly the heated air goes to the top, but the chief impurity, the carbonic acid, falls to the bottom. There is nothing so obnoxious in removing the lower strata of air as the ordinary open fire-place, especially if there is a fire burning.

Wheat Statistics.

The wheat statistics of Canada for the past four years are interesting, in view of the proposed duty on that grain for the benefit of our farmers. A table compiled by Robert H. Lawder, of Whitby, shows that in each of the years since 1874—spring 1876—the exports have largely exceeded the imports. The crop of 1876, Mr. Lawder remarks, was the smallest produced in Canada for many years; it fell short of the demand for home consumption by more than two and a half million bushels, and the only effect of a duty upon it would be to increase the cost of it to our own people by the amount of the duty. In 1874 and 1875 we had an average crop, and in each of those years we had a surplus for exportation of [illegible] bushels, after providing for [illegible] bushels, and [illegible] bushels, and [illegible] bushels.

How to Buy a Horse.

An intending purchaser should have the horse brought out before him, and watch the animal as he stands at rest. If the owner is continually starting the horse into motion and urging him to 'show up,' something may be suspected, because it is when the horse is at perfect rest that his weak points are developed. If the horse be sound he will stand square on his limbs without moving any of them, the feet boldly placed flat upon the ground, and all of his legs plump and naturally formed. If one foot is thrown forward, with the toe pointing to the ground and the heel raised, or if the foot be lifted from the ground, and the weight taken from it, disease or tenderness may be suspected.

Fattening Stock Under Shelter.

The following statement by an English breeder, in regard to feeding sheep, demonstrates the nature of shelter while fattening this class of stock. Three sheep, of nearly equal weight, were selected and fed for four months under the following conditions:—One was wholly unsheltered, another in an open shed, and another in a close shed and in the dark. The food was alike, one pound of oats each per day, and as many turnips as they would eat. The first consumed 1,012 pounds of turnips, the second 1,264 pounds, and the third 856 pounds, or less than half of those eaten by the first. During the four months the first gained 23½ pounds in weight and the second 27½ pounds, and the third 26½ pounds. For every 100 pounds of turnips eaten the first gained in weight 1½ pounds, the second 2 pounds and the third 3 1-16. The one confined in a close building and in the dark ate less than half as much and gained more than the unsheltered one. Dark barns are, however, unfavorable for breeding and dairy stock as well as horses, but fat in such stock is not the point aimed at.

How Scotch Funerals were Conducted in the Good Old Times.

(From the Churchill Magazine.)

Talking of funerals in the good old times, and in the mansions of the lairds, these used to be the most enjoyable of our parochial festivities. The kith and kin came from great distances to be entertained in a style befitting the occasion. There were grave faces at the gathering when the guests assembled 'round the coffin to listen to a suitable prayer. Then glasses of wine were handed 'round, once, twice, or oftener,—the poorest people would procure wine for the occasion—and "the memory of the deceased" was toasted in silence. Then the long procession moved off to the kirkyard, and the body was laid silently in the grave. That duty being solemnly discharged, a load was visibly lifted from the assistants. Acquaintances came together in carriages and mourning coaches, and there was plenty of animated conversation. When the guests took their seats at the tables in the dining-room, all were in excellent spirits and appetite. The near relations might be sad at heart, but they felt hospitably bound to stifle their sorrow, and there were ample appliances for drowning it. When the old fashion of drinking healths and "taking wine" prevailed, mourners were apt to get merry in spite of themselves, while, as may be supposed, the more acquaintances of the deceased gave themselves over easily to boisterous joviality. It was a churlish thing to be the first to break up good company, and even the minister might well sit it out till convivial example upset his decorum.

Making Roads in Winter.

The Fenelon Falls Gazette says:—A long time ago a piece of road between Lindsay and Omemee was gravelled in the middle of winter, and we remember that, while riding over it and commenting on its excellence, having the time and method of its construction explained to us by the other occupants of the buggy, who said that the gravel was all drawn in sleighs and laid in the middle of the highway, leaving room to pass on either side, and that the next fall a little of the same material was put in the few hollow spots there happened to be. The advantage of doing the work in winter was its cheapness, as the farmers, not having much to do at that season, were glad of employment—and especially in making good roads for themselves—at a low figure, while more could be done in a given number of hours than in summer, as sleighs are more easily loaded and unloaded, and, as a rule, could be more heavily laden than waggons. To dump gravel on low wet spots would probably be a waste of labor, as it would be likely to sink into the mud and totally disappear during the next spring; but we should think that upon high ground, or upon corduroy roads through swamps, it might be deposited to as much advantage during winter as at any other season of the year, while the assertion that it can be done at less cost seems a reasonable one. At any rate, nothing can be a more "ridiculous waste of township funds" than the ordinary method of road-making in the fall.

Relics of '37.

A Bullet and a Buckle in a Man's Breast for Over Forty Years.

(From the Fenelon Falls Gazette.)

Mr. William Jamieson, of Point Fortune, Quebec, who died in this village on Monday last, at the residence of his sister, Mrs. Cunningham, requested a few days ago that, if the attack of heart disease from which he was suffering should prove fatal, his body should be opened before burial and a search made for a pistol bullet and a portion of a brass buckle which he had been carrying somewhere within him for about forty-one years. In 1837, the memorable year of the rebellion in Canada, Mr. Jamieson, then a young and strong man, was residing at Carillon, in the Lower Province, and one day in the post office there, got arguing politics with a "rebel," whose language became so insulting or otherwise provoking that at last Mr. Jamieson struck him, whereupon he drew a pistol and fired at his loyal opponent. The bullet broke the iron buckle of the right suspender, and then entered his breast, inflicting a wound which came near proving fatal and from which he was laid up for six weeks. At the expiration of that period he was nearly well again, and never afterwards felt any ill effects from the hurt; but as the bullet had not been extracted, and as it was believed to have taken the missing part of the buckle in with it, Mr. Jamieson often expressed, and repeated during his last illness, the wish that after his death the locality of the "foreign" bodies, as medical men would call them, should be ascertained, and Drs. Allan and Bryant marched for and were successful in finding them, on Monday last. They were kept together and close to the backbone, the bullet resting on the diaphragm and entirely enveloped by the connective tissue formation of [illegible] the buckle [illegible] the bullet [illegible] the [illegible] the [illegible] the CONCERT.—The "Hackett Young Canadians" gave a Concert in the town hall, Keene, on the evening of Wednesday, the 22nd inst. The entertainment commenced at 7 p. m., Miss Moore, presiding at the organ. The programme was lengthy and few changes were made in it until near the end, when, owing to the lateness of the hour, several pieces were omitted. The audience numbering about 300, received the programme with attention, the parts which were most favorably received by the audience were the singing and acting by Miss Campbell, of Keene; and the comic songs by Mr. G. Cruikshanks, of Mather's Corners. The latter gentleman is quite a "Star" in the line of comic singing, and the Keene amateurs feel deeply grateful to him for so kindly rendering his assistance for the evening's entertainment. The audience manifested their appreciation of Mr. Cruikshanks by loudly encoring him every time.—Com.

The Library.

If I were to begin life now and to lay anew the foundations of a library, it should be largely a biographical one—literary portraits, memoirs, and correspondence. There is no way in which so much anecdote, wit, and sparkling truth can be acquired, and in which moral impressions, so healthy and deep, may be left on the conscience and heart.

Think of it: each week may introduce you to some man or woman of genius—monarch, general, statesman, philanthropist, scientist, inventor, discoverer, poet, artist, may see his whole life—the dawn of his genius, his struggles and sorrows, his wrongs and triumphs, his intellectual strength. You may take a look through him at his century; you may see how he treated his wife and children; you may know what he had for dinner, and the best things he and his guests gossip about; you may even rummage his private letters.

Eavesdropping and keyhole listening are contemptible, unless we do it at the remove of a generation. Then it is biography. His tories are the large landscapes and biographies are the stereoscopic interiors of the past.

Have System.

Whatever you do have system about it. It is the greatest labor saving machine in the world, and the cheapest, but it is not the easiest governed. It requires reason and management to control and exercise it. Yet, whenever it has been introduced, this great labor-saving machine has been a success, demonstrating to the world that it has saved its operator unnecessary manual labor, a multitude of perplexities, kept his workshop in order, and enabled him to perform correctly more by far than in its absence would have been possible. It has many a time kept its possessor from exasperating entanglements; it has saved him time and trouble; it has kept his business rectified while others have been confused. System! It has ever been a victor in war, is the powerful sceptre that the true statesman and political economist sway in government, and it has been and still is the commonest stepping-stone to individual fortune. Have system in your management, and you will find eventually it will outweigh the physical forces of empry without it.

The Mystery of Dreams.

A man fell asleep on the clock tolled the first stroke of 12. He awakened ere the echo of the twelfth stroke died away, having in the interval dreamed that he had committed a crime, was detected after five years, tried and condemned; the shock of finding the halter around his neck awakened him to consciousness, when he discovered that all these events had happened in an infinitesimal fragment of time. Mohammed, wishing to illustrate the wonders of sleep, told how a certain man, being a shrift, found himself, for his guilt, made a poor fakeerman, that he lived as one for sixty years, bringing up a family and practising hard, and how upon walking up those his long journey, a short incident had he been asleep, that the camel-conductor passed hastily with water, which he knew to be converted as he fell asleep, had not then to empty itself. How has the soul traveled when the body is asleep? Often when we awake we shrink from the look into the dull routine of everyday life, and long to return to the world of dreams from which we are so rudely awakened. Sleep is a mysterious thing. Who can tell us where we go to when we sleep? Who can tell us where we go to when we die?

SOME SPECIMEN TORY STATEMENTS.

A reckless Tory journal last week made the following statement :—

"Notwithstanding that Parliament is in session, and the members of the Ontario Government in general and the Premier in particular, are a very hard worked and poorly paid set of men, Mr. Mowat has found time to prepare and deliver before the Toronto Reform and Literary Club an address on Reform Rule in Ontario."

Now the delivering of an address before the Reform Literary Club of the Provincial Capital is a something that even the Premier need not be ashamed of, and certainly there can be no wrong attachable to the fact itself, even though it had been during the session. But the reckless sheet begins its poor complaint by basing it on an erroneous foundation ; for the speech referred to was delivered before the session opened.

The same fault-finder says that "although Mr. Mowat only a few days ago, "when his attention was called thereto "by Mr. Bethune, declared there was "nothing in the Macpherson pamphlet, "he devotes nearly three columns of this "same address to what is evidently intended as a reply to this obnoxious "pamphlet. We say intended, because "from first to last Mr. Mowat does not "take up and deal with a single state-"ment of Mr. Macpherson's." Here again the criticism proceeds on error, both of plan and purpose. Mr. Mowat's declaration of the nothingness of the pamphlet was made in the House, hence after the address before the Reform Club. The Premier's opinion, that the thing was not worth wasting the time of the House and the money of the country over, will be generally concurred in by the people ; and to show that he was of the same opinion before the session, and when he spoke before the Reform Club, we have only to quote his words at that time. He said :—"The Senator pays a "good deal of attention to me in his "pamphlet, and he invites me to discuss "his charges on the floor of the House. "Well, I do not think that pamphlet is "worth discussing there, and I do not "purpose accepting the invitation which "he gives me in that respect." As for the remark that in the speech alluded to "Mr. Mowat does not take up and deal "with a single statement of Mr. Macpherson's," it is deliberately false ; for the writer of it shows that he had the speech of Mr. Mowat before him, by his allusion to the number of columns it occupied in the Globe, and how many are devoted to Senator Macpherson. Mr. Mowat disposed of one statement—or rather misstatement—of the pamphleteer as follows:

"The Senator gives a so-called history of the proceedings which led to the fall of the first Local Government and to Mr. Blake's accession to office, and he ascribes the change to "the absence of a number "of members who had gone to their constituents for re-election." (Laughter.) If he had looked at the Journals he would have found that Mr. Sandfield Macdonald's Government did not resign until there was a vote against them of 64 to 36—nearly two to one. The House consisted of 82 members, so that a majority of the whole House voted against the Government—(hear, hear)—and during the subsequent proceedings of the session, after the gentlemen who had gone to their constituents had returned to the House, all the measures of Mr. Blake's Government were supported by immense majorities." (Hear, hear.)

Yet a reckless Tory journal can say he "does not take up and deal with a single statement of Mr. Macpherson !"

Mr. Mowat also said :—

"Mr. Hamberson is very fond of stating that Mr. Brown is the head of the Provincial Government, and was the head of Mr. Mackenzie's Government. (Laughter.)

. . . . . .

"During the time that I have been Pro-"vincial Secretary I never came over "here earlier on any occasion for anybody. (Cheers.) He has never consulted me on an opinion, so far as I remember, on any "question. (Cries of hear, hear.) Further, "I never received any money of Parliament "for any object in which he had been "charged with any duty. I never had "from the Crown any money for any pur-"pose which was not fully accounted for. "(Cheers.) All the vouchers are on file, "and I challenge the most searching investigation into my accounts. (Cheers.) "Now, I say that I have been charged "with duties which I have performed, and "I have received money for the purposes "for which it was voted, and I have accounted for it. (Cheers.) I have never "received a dollar for any purpose which "was not voted by Parliament, and I have "accounted for every dollar that I have "received. (Cheers.) I have never had "any money of Parliament in my hands "which I have not accounted for. (Cheers.) "I have never had any money of Parliament in my hands which I have not accounted for. (Cheers.) I have never had "any money of Parliament in my hands "which I have not accounted for. (Cheers.) "I have never had any money of Parliament in my hands which I have not accounted for. (Cheers.) I have never had "any money of Parliament in my hands "which I have not accounted for. (Cheers.) I have never had any money of Parliament in my hands

PETERBOROUGH, JAN. 30, 1879.

LOCAL NEWS.

January Thaw.—The weather having turned mild again the usual January thaw has appeared.

School Board.—The regular monthly meeting of the School Board will be held next Tuesday evening.

Thanks.—We have to thank W. H. Scott, Esq., M. P. P. for copies of parliamentary reports and sessional papers forwarded us since the opening of the House.

Town Council.—A meeting of the Town Council will be held next Monday evening in the Council Chamber at the usual hour.

Friendship Temple.—The twenty-second anniversary of Friendship Temple No. 148, I. O. G.T., will be held next Friday evening in their Hall, over Long Bros' store. A very interesting programme is provided, and a pleasant evening may be expected.

Social Entertainment.—We are informed that the members of Young Canadian's L. O. L. are arranging for a series of social entertainments during the winter. The first of the series is to be held in the Orange Hall, on Friday evening, February 7th.

Poultry Society Show.—The annual exhibition of the Midland Poultry Society will be held in the Old Music Hall, on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, 18th, 19th and 20th of February. About $200 in prizes is offered, and a large number of entries are expected.

Our Ottawa Letter.—Our Ottawa correspondent's letter on fourth page will be found highly interesting and worthy of our readers attention. His reference to the National Policy is terse and pointed, and shows its fallacies in a very clear and logical line of argument.

Bible Christian Anniversary.—The anniversary services of the Bethesda Christian Church, Peterborough, will be held next Sunday, when three sermons will be preached, at half-past 10 a. m. by the Rev. Mr. Harper, and at half-past five and half-past six by the Rev. J. Kenner. On Monday a public tea will be served in the basement of the church, after which the Rev. Mr. Kenner will deliver his highly instructive and popular lecture on "Man."

The Weather.—As will be seen by our report of the proceedings of the County Council in another part of this paper, John Burnham, Esq., M. P., Master of Ashburnham, has again been elected Warden of the County—this being the third occasion upon which he has been elected by acclamation to the honourable position. It must be highly gratifying to Mr. Burnham to receive this tangible proof of his efficiency in discharging the onerous duties of Warden for the past two years, and the confidence reposed in him by his colleagues in re-electing him for a third term.

Preparing Shrubs.—To think that the mere a man eats, the fatter and stronger he will become. To believe that the more hours children study, the faster they will learn. To conclude that if exercise is good, the more violent it is the more good it does. To imagine that every hour taken from sleep is an hour gained. To act on the presumption that the smallest room in the house is large enough to sleep in. To argue that what ever remedy causes one to feel immediately hot or is good for the system, without regard to mere ulterior effects. To eat without an appetite, or to continue to eat after it has been satisfied, merely to gratify the taste. To eat a hearty supper for the pleasure experienced during the brief time it is passing down the throat, at the expense of a whole night of disturbed sleep and and a night of weary waking in the morning.

Singing of Hymns.—The singing of hymns by congregations has always been somewhat unsatisfactory on account of part of the people not knowing the tune and many others ignorant of the words. For those who don't know the time nothing can be done, but various methods have been adopted to to supply the words to the vocal multitude. The backwoods method of reading a line and then singing it always had its drawbacks. Many mental people with rather appish ideas about music didn't like this way of singing a hymn in sections. This instalment plan never had a very firm footing in towns, where the method was generally taken of distributing hymn books in the pews. Boston, however, has improved on this idea and has in one of her prominent churches the words of the hymn thrown on a white screen by means of a powerful magic lantern. The words and music are photographed on glass and used in the lanern at pleasure. Philadelphia claims that this idea was adopted in that city in 1831, but this is no doubt the Quaker City's method of showing its tendency of the Hub.

Presentation to the G. W. W.—A very handsome Bible was presented on Monday evening to the members of Victoria Lodge, No. 28, O. Y. B. The presentation was made by Miss Emma Olok, and the following address read by Miss Frances Rutherford :—

To the Worshipful Master, Officers, and Members of Lodge No. 28, Orange Young Britons.

GENTLEMEN.—Having repeatedly been the recipients of many favours at your hands as a Lodge, and feeling that some mark of gratitude for the many pleasant hours we have spent together in your Lodge, we have unanimously consented to present this Holy Bible as a present. Therefore it only remains for us to express the wish and sincerely trust that the instructions of all its Leaves, Chapters and Verses may be in the hearts of those who peruse it now, that others may be led to read it, and that we may all meet in that happy land where we shall be free from all sin and sorrow, and where we shall be united in the bonds of love and friendship for ever. Signed on behalf of the Lodge,

[illegible]

Peterborough, Jan. 27, 1879.

The Chancellor, Vice-Chancellor Mills, made an application yesterday for the release of the children of Joseph Gilbert, the father having been sentenced to seven years' penal servitude for the murder of his wife. The application was refused, the Chancellor remarking that there was no power to release them by his order, but he would communicate with the Home Secretary on the subject.

Bloomerville.—Remember the masquerade skating carnival next Tuesday evening at the Rink. The committee are making every effort to make it a success.

Personal.—Mr. T. P. Pearce, Reeve of Monaghan, and brother of J. B. Pearce, Esq., Reeve of Norwood, has been chosen Warden of the county of Hastings.

Grammar School Trustees.—On Wednesday Dr. A. B. Hemigan was elected Trustee of the H. C. Separate School for number two ward in the place of Mr. Lynch, resigned.

George Street Methodist Church.—Services will be preached in this church on Sabbath next, in the morning, by the Rev. Looking Taylor, and in the evening, by the Rev. Mr. Harper. Mr. Keogan's Sunday-school will take the form of a lecture to young men and women.

Found Dead.—On Friday last, an unknown man, but supposed to have been a shoemaker who had worked in Lindsay, was found dead on the gravel road between Fenerville and Springville. Dr. Elliott was summoned and held an inquest on the body. A verdict of heart disease was rendered. Deceased appeared to be about 35 years of age.

Removed.—Mr. George Chamberlain has removed his fish, oyster and fruit store to George street, three doors north of Hunter's hotel-formerly occupied by Mr. Hall. With the advantages of a more commodious shop, Mr. Chamberlain will be better able to meet the requirements of his increasing trade. He has at present a full stock laid in. Housekeepers would consult their own interest by calling on him.

Spring Epidemic.—According to the Belleville papers there is an epidemic among the horses in that section. It takes the form of lameness, the leg swelling and quarking in the heel, in some cases the hoof separating from the foot. It appears to be very prevalent and is of a malignant character. One veterinary surgeon has had as many as 20 cases a day. Parties who have horses that are affected require to be very careful in handling them, as several individuals have been poisoned by the virus from the wounds, their arms swelling to an enormous size. Horse owners in this section of the country had better be on the lookout for this latest visitation.

Lakefield Cemetery Co'y.—At a meeting of the newly elected Directors of the Little Lake Cemetery Company held on Monday last, the Rev. V. Clement was re-elected President, and Mr. James Edwards Secretary-Treasurer. The President, and Messrs. Stevenson and Lemoy, were appointed a committee to consider the propriety of purchasing the small gore of land lying between the approach and the lake, and in front of the care-taker's residence, from Mr. Sargent. The auditor's report was received and adopted, and the usual fee ordered to be paid. The subject of erecting a new fence was discussed, and laid over for action until the spring.

A Tea Meeting.—A tea meeting and entertainment in aid of the liquidation of the debt of the Manse, was held in the Baptist Church, Smith, on Thursday evening last, and was moderately well attended. John Walker, Esq., occupied the chair, and in a few well chosen remarks gave an interesting review of his connection with the church, after which the Rev'ds. Messrs. Mathews and Bell, of Peterborough, Messrs. Weldon and Clark, of Lakefield, the pastor of the church, and the Rev. Mr. Geary addressed the meeting. The choir of the Baptist Church, Peterborough, and Mr. Davis, assisted in making the evening a most enjoyable one.

Another Fire.—Another fire broke out on Saturday morning between five and six o'clock in the premises occupied by Mr. John Maloney and owned by R. S. Davidson. The fire is supposed to have originated in the back kitchen. After fruitless endeavors to quench the fire, Mr. Maloney, with much difficulty removed his horses from the stable which had been ignited, and only in time to save them. Again, owing to the want of a team to draw the engine, the fire brigade were a long time in reaching the fire, but succeeded in saving the main building from destruction. Mr. Maloney's loss is about $200. Mr. Davidson's loss is covered by insurance. Mr. A. Elliott also suffered considerably by the loss of buffalo robes, rugs, harness, &c.

Fire.—On Thursday morning last the carriage shop of Mr. William Methorel, on Aylmer street, was destroyed by fire. The alarm was given at about one o'clock and the brigade promptly turned out, but owing to the depth of snow on the street they were unable to reach the fire,—it being impossible to procure a team at the time to draw the engine. Fortunately the location of the building was such as to cause little fear of the fire spreading. Had it been otherwise it is difficult to say what the result might have been. It would be well, we think, to have the engine placed on runners during the winter, or make such arrangements that a team of horses can at all times be a reliable for drawing it when an alarm is sounded. The building was insured for $400 in the Queens, and its contents for $1,400 in the Imperial. Loss estimated at about $2,000. The cause of the fire is unknown.

The Newspaper.—There is probably nothing so common of which so little is known, or about which there is so much curiosity, as the newspaper. Men read it every day; they abuse it, threaten to give it up, praise it, advertise their wants in it, write to it, search it to see if their letters are in it, call it hard names, pay for it year after year—and still to ninety-one out of a hundred of them its production is a complete mystery. To them it is a business office, a news-boy, or a post office, who are simply carriers, and that is all. It is the exemplification of effect without cause—an impersonal institution with plenty of vitality, and sometimes even with genius; but it is always mysterious, even to those most intimately connected with it. The whole of its secrets are known to no single individual. Its personality is swallowed up in the editorial "we," into whose depths no man penetrates, and even the inquisition of the law never gets behind its innermost curtain.

Locals.—We clip the following from the Journal of Commerce :—

"A judgment has been recorded in the suit of Sanderson vs. Dixon, Peterborough, Ont., under the following circumstances : The defendants, Dixon Bros., dry goods dealers of that town, were insolvent, and at the time of their insolvency were liable to plaintiff under a covenant on a mortgage for $4,000. The plaintiff's name was not included in the schedule, and no notice of insolvency was sent him. It was shown, however, that he was aware of the insolvency and of the proposed meeting. Instead of compounding with their creditors, paying 15 cents in the dollar, but no amount was reserved for, or offered to, the plaintiff. Among other discharges, the mortgaged property not being of sufficient value to cover the amount due on the mortgage, the defendants brought an action against defendants and recovered judgment for the whole amount. Mr. Justice Gwynne, who tried the case, decided that the failure of the insolvents to put Sanderson's name on their schedule, and the concealment of formal notice to plaintiff, deprived them of the benefit of their discharge so far as he was concerned.

The Bible Society.—The annual meeting of the Peterborough Branch Bible Society was held in the George Street Methodist Church on Tuesday evening last. The following are the officers elected for the current year :—

PRESIDENT.—R. Kingan, Esq.

VICE-PRESIDENTS.—Ministers of the Gospel resident in Town.

TREASURER.—Geo. R. Shaw, Esq.

SECRETARY.—R. Fairbairn, Esq.

COMMITTEE.—Gen. MacLean, John Campbell, M. A. J. F. Dennistoun, John Walker, W. G. Thomson, W. Yelland, W. G. Nichols, James Edwards, Col. Haultain, Wm. Aldridge, T. W. Robinson, John Carnegie, D. Pentland, D. W. Dumble, A. P. Poussette, Joseph Ford, W. H. Taylor, M. D., A. Rutherford, Sheriff Hall and J. F. Jellett, with power to add to their numbers. An able and instructive address was delivered by the Rev. Dr. O'Meara. A vote of thanks was tendered Miss Beckett for the collection of a handsome sum in aid of the Society, which is in a healthy condition. The Treasurer's report showed a balance on hand of $183.20

Gossamer.—Another of the early pioneers of this county has been removed by the decease of the late Wm. Fowler, Esq., of North Monaghan. Deceased was a native of Clarifiaw, in the Parish of Bowden, Roxburghshire, Scotland. Early in boyhood he was a farm servant to the Duke of Buccleuch. He immigrated to Canada in the year 1817, and settled on Lot No. 1, in the 11th Concession of North Monaghan, on which he resided to his decease. Coming to Canada at so early a period, he had to undergo all the hardships of a pioneer settler's life. He was a man of wonderful energy and determination, and bravely and earnestly met all the privations of backwood's life. He became the largest property holder in his township, and at his decease left his family more than a competency. He was on the whole a good neighbour, a kind and affectionate father, and faithful husband. He was Treasurer of the Township for several years—was early honored by receiving a commission of the peace, as a testimonial to the old settler's worth. He had the position of captain, and was entrusted by his fellow-townsmen to serve his fellow-citizens in the capacity of Councillor, but always declined. In religion he was a Presbyterian; in politics a Reformer and consistent Reformer. For a year or two he suffered from the infirmities of old age, and gradually declined, and was able to attend church only a few months before his death. For some time he felt that his end was approaching, and he calmly awaited the summons. He had nearly completed the 90th year of his age. His decease is deeply regretted by a large circle of friends and acquaintances. His remains were followed to their last resting place by a very large number of relatives and neighbours.

Warden's Supper.—The Warden entertains all the County Council and a number of friends to a complimentary supper yesterday evening at the Queen House.

To Teachers and Subscribers.—The following circular has been issued by the Minister of Education :—

"The Honourable the Minister of Education desires it to be announced that the Regulations, as published in the Correspondence, are to be strictly followed, as far as the authorization and use of the new Text Books are concerned ; and Teachers and Trustees have full discretion with reference to recommending the use of the Text Books formerly authorized. The General Regulations on Text Books (No. 6) provide that Trustees are not compelled to use any of the old Text Books any newly authorized Text Book, until such old book has been read the examination of the Trustees and of the Public School Inspector.

The Minister, further desires it to be understood in answer to enquiries on the subject, that Regulation No. 5, numbered Text Books, explains itself, and means that the use of any new Text Book in an old class can only commence at the beginning of the term, that is, at the end of the old Text Book, and that there can be no change in the Text Books authorized to be used in the Public Schools, until the next Departmental Examination shall occur."

Entertainment.—The second of a series of entertainments under the auspices of the Methodist Church, of Lakefield, was given in the People's Christian Association Hall, Lakefield, on Friday evening last. The connections Hall was comfortably filled, the object of the entertainment evidently having the sympathy of the entire community. Rev. Mr. Weldon, pastor of the church, occupied the chair, and made a few appropriate introductory remarks. In an entertainment of this kind, and where all who took part endeavored to do their "prettiest," it would be out of place to criticise the abilities of those who so cheerfully took part in the concert. Everything went on in smoothness, and an enjoyable evening was passed in a pleasing manner. A number from Peterborough took advantage of the "thaw" and wended their way thither. After the entertainment the Misses Harris and Mrs. Sewell entertained a large number to an "after entertainment" at which an enjoyable time was spent.

The Gourlay Piano Manufactory.

The Hon. Edgar's New Directory for Ontario contains the following interesting information regarding the Gourlay Piano Manufactory, which is one of the most extensive establishments of the kind in the Dominion, and is a credit to the city of Toronto. The business was established in 1865 by the late David Gourlay, who died in 1872, and was carried on by his widow and sons until 1877, when it was incorporated as a joint stock company, with a capital of $100,000, all paid up. The present officers are Mrs. David Gourlay, President ; Mr. James Gourlay, Secretary-Treasurer ; Mr. Wm. Gourlay, Manager. The factory is situated on Wellington street, and is a large four-storey building, with a frontage of 100 feet and a depth of 150 feet. The number of pianos manufactured in 1878 was 1,000, and the number of hands employed is 100. The pianos are sold by travellers and by agents in the principal towns throughout the Dominion, and the company has also a warehouse in Montreal. The Gourlay pianos have received the highest awards at the Provincial Exhibitions, and at the Centennial Exhibition in Philadelphia, 1876, they received the highest award for upright pianos, and the highest award for square pianos. The Gourlay pianos are also highly spoken of by the musical critics of the press, and by the leading musicians of the country.

GRAND JUNCTION RAILWAY.

To the Editor of the Examiner :

SIR,—My letter which appeared in your paper of the second of this month would lead your readers to think I was stating what was not correct, when I said the Belleville people were quite willing to compromise matters with Peterborough in regard to the Grand Junction Railway There was no room seemed more willing among the gentlemen who met with W. H. Roxburgh and myself, than Mr. Cowan, to have a fair understanding with Peterborough. For the correctness of which I would refer your readers to W. H. Roxburgh. After we returned from Belleville I saw Messrs. Scott and Dumble, and a meeting was agreed on for the third of this month, between the Directors of the two railroad companies. We telegraphed to Mr. Kalso, the President of the Grand Junction Railway, to know if they could attend the meeting in Peterborough on the third, but they could not come. I again arranged in Peterborough for the eighth. We again telegraphed for Mr. Kalso, and his answer was, "your telegraph forwarded to Mr. Bickford." This telegraph brought from Mr. Bickford the following letter :

Toronto, Jan. 2nd 1879.

DEAR SIR,—Your telegram to Mr. Kalso has been forwarded to me by him. For my part I may say I am anxious to meet you and discuss the whole matter. You can readily understand I have no prejudice or preference in the whole question which to my mind is simply one of ways and means. It is impossible to carry the line further than Hastings which ours more aid from some source, while with the bonuses voted to both lines—the Grand Junction and Toronto and others—it is impossible to build one of them from Omemee via Peterborough to Tweed, and no where more than seven or eight miles off the proposed route of the Toronto and Ottawa line. I am getting up a map which will explain my meaning more clearly, as soon as I get them I will mail you one. There is to be a meeting of the Grand Junction Board on Wednesday the 8th inst., to discuss a policy. Should you and your friends not make it a point to attend there, after the meeting is over myself and partner, propose driving through with our engineer to inspect and estimate on both routes, and meet the people of the Township interested to see what can be done. We shall be at Campbellford about the 10th, Hastings 11th, Norwood 13th, finishing at Peterborough say the 15th. We hope then to hear all views and shall be glad if some plan satisfactory to all can be found agreed upon. It will need the united efforts of all to build the road, without it we can go no further than Hastings, if so far. Yours truly.

E. O. BICKFORD.

P.S.—I would strongly advise you coming to Belleville on the 8th.

E. O. B.

My answer to him.

Norwood, Jan. 6th 1879.

DEAR SIR,—We received yours of the 2nd inst., stating that there would be a meeting on the 8th in Belleville, of the directors of the Grand Junction. I am sorry to say, that it is not in my power to be present, there are so many different meetings to take place this week, however, we will be glad to meet you and Mr. Cowan, or any other gentleman who may accompany you to Norwood on the 13th. If the Board of Directors will abandon their present route, you will find no opposition from the county and town of Peterborough. Should the directors adhere to their present route, there is but one resource left, viz : forcing your road to Peterborough. If you would cross the river Trent at the Narrows and then direct to Peterborough you will have no trouble with the people. The trouble was and is with the present route.

Yours &c.,

W. SARGENT.

Mr. Editor, I expected of course Mr. Bickford would drive over the proposed route with his engineer, and be in Norwood on the 13th. I sent post cards to Messrs Scott and Dumble that Mr. Bickford and staff would be in Peterborough on the 15th, but Mr. Editor to my surprise I received the following telegram :—

Belleville, Jan. 9th 1879.

To W. Sargent or Roxburgh—

Can we all meet at Peterborough to-morrow and Saturday.

E. O. BICKFORD.

In accordance with this telegram there was a meeting in Peterborough. There were several proposals made to Mr. Bickford and Co., one was to build the Toronto and Ontario Railroad from Peterborough to the Narrows and give the Grand Junction running powers. But to the surprise of all present Mr. Bickford could see nothing but through Hastings glasses. The county must and shall be taxed to build up the village of Hastings that forms no part of the county, so says Mr. Bickford.

Yours truly,

W. SARGENT.

Norwood, Jan. 25th 1879.

LAKEFIELD.

(From our own Correspondent.)

—Bright days.
—Cold nights.
—Lumpy roads.
—Village very quiet.
—Lots of cedge teams passing north.
—Good salmon fishing through the ice on the back lakes.

—Several bears have been seen in the north of Smith, and Harvey the past week, starved out of their dens.

—The track of the M. E. R. between Lakefield and Peterboro' is in very bad condition, owing to the upheaval of the ice, there being little or no frost in the road bed.

—On Saturday afternoon we had another "Polar Wave" which came with a suddenness that was astonishing to those who happened to be out walking or driving, and seemed to put fresh life into both man and beast, judging by the manner in which all put forth extra speed to reach their destinations.

—Three Peterboro' boys about the age of 10, 12 and 14, respectfully, tramped it up to Lakefield on Saturday morning, on snow shoes, after lunch and a good warming they started on their return tramp and no doubt arrived home in good time for supper. Eight miles on such a day as Saturday would take the vim out of some of your older snow shoers.

—Last week a couple of slight accidents occurred to children which might have been of a more serious nature. A son of Mr. George Rowe, and a little daughter of Dr. Bell fell off sleighs into which they had swung on their way home from school, although the back bob's passed over them no bones were broken. Bad bruises being the extent of their injuries.

—Teachers and farmers would do parents a favor by assisting to put down the dangerous practice.

—Besides the memorial mentioned in my last as having been adopted by the Council, a petition signed by nearly all the ratepayers in this village and a large number in Smith and Doure, has been sent to the government praying them to take charge of the dam in Lakefield, and keep it in a proper state of repair at its present height. Report has it, that it is in a very unsafe condition especially on the Smith side of the river, part of the cribbing having started out of its place, and leaking very badly underneath. In case of high water in the Spring is would stand a good chance to go, which would lay up the boats here for the summer, stop the mills and shops and cause great trouble to the lumbermen. While in Peterboro you would have a supply of "cold water" which would satisfy the most ardent "Dunkenite."

—A short time ago a couple of young gentlemen from down the river up to Lakefield and arranged with "Mine Host" of the Midland Hotel for a dance and supper to take place last Wednesday evening, some thirty couple were to come up, rigs were hired music engaged and all other arrangements made to make the affair a success. The hour of departure from town arrived when it was discovered that thirty five gentlemen were on hand, while but six ladies could be found willing to enjoy a moonlight drive and trip the "light fantastic" for a few hours. There is no need to tell the disappointment of those who had exerted themselves for the enjoyment of the rest, several of the gentlemen drove up and informed the landlord of the state of affairs, paid the bill for the supper ordered, departing with the determination that the next time they get up a driving party or dance they will seek partners elsewhere than in Peterboro.'

NORWOOD.

(From our own Correspondent.)

—January thaw is on hand.
—Spring with its attendant mildness is on the way.
—Messrs. Pearce and Burgess left the Village on Tuesday to attend the County Council which is in session in Peterborough this week.
—Mr. Calcutt's name has not been received with much eclat with the Conservatives in this part. The Reformers should have their man in the field at once.

Don't Stop My Paper.

Don't stop my paper, printer,
Don't strike my name off yet;
You know the times are stringent
And money hard to get;
But tag a little further
In what I mean to do,
And scrape the dimes together
Enough for me and you.

I can't afford to drop it;
I find it doesn't pay
To do without a paper,
However others may;
I have to set my notches
To give me their's on long;
Your dun! just say, but stop it,
Why dun! you have paid only!

You can't tell how we'd miss it,
If it, by any fate,
Should happen not to reach us.
Or come a little late;
Then all is in a bubbub,
And things go all awry,
And, printer, if you're married,
You know the reason why.

I cannot do without it,
It is no use to try,
For other people take it,
And, printer, so must I,
I, too, must keep me posted,
And know what is going on
Or feel, and be accounted
A lazy nincompoop.

Then take it kindly, printer,
If nay be somewhat slow,
For cash is not so plenty
And wants not few, you know.
But I must have my paper,
Dun what it may to me,
I'd rather deck my corpse,
And do without my tea.

So, printer, don't you stop it,
Unless you want my frown,
For here's the year's subscription,
And credit it right down:
And send the paper promptly
And regularly on,
And let it bring its weekly
It's welcomed bantam.

TWELVE THOUSAND POUNDS.

A RAILWAY ADVENTURE.

The hour grew late and Mr. Brand paced his chamber in moody silence. The train had come in, but his messenger had not returned and the merchant was troubled—troubled by a vague sort of doubt which haunted him in spite of his faith in Lake. A staid, sober old trader of long experience had said that Lake was too young to hold the important position which he held, but Mr. Brand had never found his trust in Tom misplaced.

Having heard rumors concerning a house with which he had extensive dealings, the merchant had despatched Lake to Londontelling him to make enquiries, and in any case to get the partners of the firm in question to settle the account.

So Lake had gone from Liverpool to London. The time for his return passed and still he did not come.

A lady entered and stole to the merchant's side. Her own sweet face was anxious, and there was a tremor in the music of her voice as she said: 'Do you think he will be here to-night, dear papa?'

'I hope so, Mary; but it is very late.'

'Is there no other train?'

'Only the night express, and that does not stop except at the central stations.'

'Perhaps he will come, papa; he would not mind coming ten miles, even if he had to walk.'

'He should not have missed the train,' said Mr. Brand, sternly; 'punctuality is an imperative duty with men of business.'

'But, papa, something may have happened to detain him.'

'Nothing should detain a man who has given his word.'

The fair pleader was silenced; her father was angry, and, knowing his strictness of principle, and how inveterate was his dislike to any breach of discipline, she did not venture to speak again.

The time dragged slowly on: Mr. Brand continued his restless walk, and Mary sat subdued and quiet watching him. She saw that he listened as the night express went whirling by, and from the depths of her heart there went up a prayer that Lake would come safely home. The girl loved him, would have staked her life on his truth, and knew that he was not beyond his time through any weakness or wrong.

Two slow, weary hours passed.—Mr. Brand was reading the Commercial News, but, for the first time in his life it did not interest him.—He was thinking of the young clerk and the large sum of money that would be in his possession should the London firm have paid him. And Mary, reading her father's countenance felt chilled and pained at the slur cast on her lovers honesty by his suspicions; her every thought was a denial of his doubts, and as the rapid clatter of a horse's feet rang out, she ran to the window.

'Look!' she said, clasping the curtain aside with eager hands; 'look, papa; I said he would come—I knew he would.'

The merchant's stern face relaxed with a smile of pleasure; he was not emotional or demonstrative, but his daughter's gladness pleased him.

There was a few moments of expectancy, and then Tom Lake came in. He went straight to Mr. Brand only noticing, with a bow, the lovely face whose glance thrilled his soul.

'They have paid,' he said, quietly, as he placed a thick pocket-book in the merchant's hand; 'but I think we were only just in time.'

'Indeed?'

'There was a consultation at the banker's before I could get cash for the cheque.'

'Do you think they will break?'

'Hopelessly. They have given me an immense order, but it would not be wise to forward the goods.'

'You did not hint that we had the slightest fear?'

'No, but I was glad to get the money; £12,000 would have been a heavy loss.'

'It would have done me a serious injury just now.'

'And yet,' added Tom, gravely, 'This morning the chances were considerably against its ever reaching you.'

'How?'

Tom took two chairs and placed them side by side near the fire, led Mary to one and seated himself on the other. He had done his duty as the merchant's clerk, and was now Mr. Brand's prospective son-in-law and partner.

'I had an adventure,' he said. 'I was the hero of a strange story in a ride by express.

Mary bent forward to listen. Tom clasped her hand in his own. Mr. Brand sat opposite him, interested in the speaker's manner as he began:

'When I got the cheque I had an idea that all might not be well, so to make sure I pronounced it at the banker's. There was, as I told you, a consultation before they cashed it, and while the consultation was going forward I noticed a stranger gazing at me intently. I knew the man in my younger and wilder days. I had met him on the race course, and in other places more or less respectable. How he was changing a cheque for some petty amount, and was evidently astonished at the humanity of the order I had presented. I left the bank with my pocket-book full of notes and found that I had lost the train. PETERBOROUGH, FEB. 6, 1879.

TO OUR FRIENDS.

Some few weeks ago we appealed to those of our subscribers who were in arrears, and we are pleased to say the appeal was responded to promptly by very many. However there are a number still indebted to us and we would again urge on them the necessity of prompt remission in order to assist us in meeting our own liabilities. We are adverse to dunning, but as this is the season of the year when the business man has to provide for those yellow envelopes containing the announcements—"accounts rendered in January" &c—we believe it only requires us to draw the attention of those of our friends who have allowed their paper to fall one and more years in arrears, to the fact, and they will readily respond without delay.

Mr. Scott and the Farmer's Sons

During the debate on the address in the Legislative session of 1877, on the 5th of January, Mr. Scott, member for West Peterborough, sneered at the proposition to give the franchise to farmer's sons, ridiculing its introduction at all.

Later in the session, when the question came up for debate, on the 15th of February, Mr. Scott supported it by his voice, and voted for Mr. Cameron's amendment against the farmer's sons franchise. He declared that it was giving an exclusive privilege to one class, ignoring altogether the fact that it was only admitting that class to a privilege already extended to all others. He called it manhood suffrage, but it would be well if the suffrage altogether were based on such sturdy manhood. He even said it gave the suffrage to those who were not charged for the support of legislation. To the minds of the best political economists the charge of legislation, like all other charges, falls on those who produce wealth for professional spouters and railway promoters, like Mr. Scott, to play with afterwards. His special pleading against the measure actually went so far as the miserable plea that it would confer a greater number of votes on one family than another; by which paltry nonsense he begged to have the voting by families instead of individuals. Then he professed to fear that the son's vote would kill the father's, and to see ill-will and estrangement in it. In fact he said all he possibly could against the bill, and ended up by voting with the 37 who opposed it in division, 51 voting for it, and carrying it in spite of Mr Scott and his twenty-six fellows.

The farmer's sons of West Peterboro' should not forget this phase of Mr. Scott's political history.

A DOUBLE CHARGE ON THE CONSUMER.

The Dominion Millers Association wants a duty of 12½ per cent, or 50 cents specific duty, per barrel, on flour. The members of the Association, who would grind more than grain, pretend that such an imposition would not be a charge to the consumer, as the home competition and other trade influences will keep prices down. But the duty is wanted principally to prevent the effect of trade influences, if we are to believe Protectionist theorists; and if the duty be not on a charge on the consumer who pays it? Do the Millers? Not likely! If there be any importation at all the consumer must pay the extra cost, while our grinding friend of the Association will not fail to grind out of their customers a price as nearly as possible approaching the natural value of the flour, plus the duty. It is true that Protection induces unhealthy competition, which brings over production and a consequent fall in price, falls in business, and loss of money invested in unproductive buildings, plant, &c., money which if left in its original place might have remained remunerative to its possessor and useful to all. But while this inevitable result is being brought about, will not the Millers charge the highest price obtainable? It is their business to make the largest possible margin on their goods—to give as little for grain as they can, and sell their flour, bran, &c., for the most it will fetch. Any one of them will tell you he would be a fool if he did'nt do this, and a duty on flour will plainly give him a chance to increase his gross yearly or quite to the amount of the duty. But if, as the Millers say, the proposed duty will restore the trade to the Canadian miller, and entirely shut out foreign flour, the consequence will be that no revenue will be raised from this source, and the loss will have to be made up by general taxation. Is not this a charge on the consumer? It is easy to say that the people who buy flour will not only have to pay such prices as borrowed trade influences will enable the miller to charge, but they will also be compelled to make up the deficiency in revenue caused by a prohibitory tariff. The consumer will thus be subjected to a double charge by reason of the duty. No wonder then that a duty on breadstuffs is condemned by the enlightened Anglo-Saxon mind—even apart entirely from any consideration of its barbarity as a tax on food.

CANADIAN CATTLE EXPORT TRADE.

The arrival in Liverpool of a cargo of Canadian cattle slightly diseased, the slaughter of the animals at the docks in that city, and their condemnation by government, must cause a check to the cattle export trade, for a little while at least. From the fact that the cattle were subjected to rigid inspection before being shipped, it is presumed that the disease—pleuro pneumonia—broke out on board ship, and this position is further strengthened by the fact that several cargoes that have since reached Liverpool have been found quite free from any sign of disease. It is to be hoped that this discrepancy in favour of sound Canadian cattle will weigh well in showing that disease in the Ontario's cargo was quite exceptional, and that the event will prove it to be singular. However there exists still a difficulty in the renewal of an unrestricted trade in cattle between the Dominion and Britain. Pleuro-pneumonia is found to be quite prevalent in the Eastern States of the American Union; and English people seem to know little or no distinction between Canadian and United States cattle, classing them all as American. If the present difficulty breaks up that practice it will do some good. The London Times points out that it is almost impossible to admit Canada to this trade while excluding the United States, seeing that the Dominion might be made a place of shipment for American cattle. But the Canadians in their own defence would prevent that, and preserve a strict quarantine or a positive prohibition. If, as we fondly hope, our Canadian cattle be free from disease, we cannot afford to admit even one beast from the United States whereby the epidemic might be introduced here. If it can be shown that Canada is free from this cattle disease, we cannot see why the trade should not be kept up from this country even though the United States be prohibited from continuing shipments. Under such circumstances as we have supposed, we consider that it would be manifestly unjust not to permit the colony to profit by the advantage to her trade development offered by the grievious misfortune of her neighbor and rival. Should it be found, however, that the misfortune is common to both, the inevitable is plain. The export of live beef must give place to the more expensive, yet profitable, trade in dead meat, kept fresh in refrigerator vessels fitted up for the purpose. England now cannot afford to do without our meat, and between her demand and our desire to cultivate and preserve the market, a way out of the trouble will surely be found sooner or later.

Since the above was in type, we learn that an Order-in-Council has been passed at Ottawa, prohibiting the importation of American cattle into Canada, or their passage through any part of Canada, for the space of three months. This being done, the importation of live Canadian cattle into England will be permitted to continue.

The Disgrace of Peterborough, East and West.

We learn from a published paragraph, no doubt inspired by Dr. O'Sullivan, that he in his speech in the Legislature alluded to the EXAMINER as a Reform paper which had tried to make political capital out of the increase of the indemnity. He merely tried to ape Mr. Scott, who had before quoted from a couple of Reform papers in trying to sustain the contention, that the Reform press had been the means of breach of confidence of which the Tory members have been guilty in this matter. But neither Reform nor Conservative journalists entered into a compact to say nothing of the indemnity, and many of the Reform papers at the time the increase was made were prominent in denouncing it. Such was the case with the EXAMINER, and it has so far expressed no change of view on the question. As we have already pointed out in reference to the quotations from Reform papers made by Mr. Scott, so with those read by Dr. O'Sullivan: They were portions of articles written in answer to frantic accusations of opposition journals against the Ministerialists on this very question. So, on the very face of them they bore proof that they were not primary references in a party light. For instance we find on application to one of the reporters in the gallery of the House, that the EXAMINER's article quoted from by Dr. O'Sullivan, both in its heading and in body, referring to former remarks of the Mail, whereby the attempt was made to throw the whole blame on the Ministry. Copying Mr. Scott faithfully, Dr. O'Sullivan suppressed the main purpose of the article, and quoted only such a slice of it as suited his purpose. It will be easy to see from the article itself, which we reproduce below, the misconstruction that might be made, and was made by Dr. O'Sullivan, by leaving out the beginning and the ending, and reading three or four sentences from the middle. Here in full is our article, on which Dr. O'Sullivan so exercised his surgical skill :—

THE "MAILA" INTIMATE OF MESSRS SCOTT & O'SULLIVAN.

During the session of the Provincial Legislature which opens to-day, the remonstrances of influential journals both Reform and Conservative, against the increase of the sessional indemnity to members will likely be taken into account. Seeing the probability of a return to a smaller membership indemnity, the Mail tries most frantically to make a little capital out of the increase, and becomes loudly denunciatory of those who brought it about, of course the Mail intentionally blames the Reform majority in the House: because it cannot screen them directly. The increase was first proposed by a Conservative member. Conservatives worked the cards in its favour and canvassed the proposition; Conservative hands circulated the "round robin" praying for the increase; and Conservative members as a whole became zealous in obtaining it. Nor was this all. When the question was tested in committee of the whole, when Mr. Crooks moved for a reduction of the amount mentioned in the resolution to a round sum of $600, the majority of Conservative members present voted against him, while the majority of Reformers present were with him. An analysis of that vote in Committee shows that out of 49 Reformers 23 voted for the $600 indemnity, while 19 out of 30 Conservatives voted for the $600 allowance. And among the eighteen were Mr. Scott & Dr. O'Sullivan; and they therefore, according to the chief organ of their own party "have exaggerated notions of their own importance," and "the little regard for the pocket and "general circumstances of the people." The Mail denounces them because, as it says, "when every man's pocket was "feeling the pinch, they determined, "without any sympathy or respect for "the public exigencies, to elevate their "own standard, and increase their already generous allowance." With such a character as this from their own side of the house it will hardly do to send Mr. Scott, or Dr. O'Sullivan, back to Parliament again.

What we have said above will show the smallness to which men hitherto esteemed as honourable have been forced to descend after once yielding to the pressure in that direction. Mr. Scott has surprised friends on both sides of politics by his action in this affair. Dr. O'Sullivan probably only followed his lead, but it is a screaming farce to see the meanness of the man, even while trying to raise his voice against the degradions of party warfare in general, and talking about his conscientious convictions. Could arrant hypocrisy go further?

INSULTING THE FARMERS

The Lakefield correspondent of the Review evidently thinks Mr. Scott's chances of success so sure that he is able to insult the Farmers of the Riding by sneeringly referring to Mr. Bell, who is a farmer, as a "cultivator of potatoes and turnips." We believe the farmers of the West Riding have independence enough to resent such an insult, and will do so when the day of polling arrives. The editor-in-chief of the Review should not so soon forget that he was at one time a tiller of the soil, and still claims to be a patron of husbandry, so to now allow the use of his paper to a "tramp" to belittle and insult the bone and sinew of our country.

EAST RIDING CONVENTION.

We would remind our Reform friends of the Convention to be held in Norwood to-morrow commencing at 12 o'clock for the purpose of selecting a candidate to contest the East riding at the coming election. We hope to see a full representation from all the municipalities present.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

"BARON" GRANT, the once great London financier, has failed for nearly 3½ millions of dollars.

Is it possible that we have failed to appreciate the true inwardness of the Doctor's character after all?

The cattle recently slaughtered at Liverpool were a mixed lot of Canadian and American beeves belonging to Crawford & Smith, of Toronto.

Mr. HUGHES has been disqualified for Niagara, but Mr. PLUMB does not necessarily take the seat, as the enquiry into the charges against him will come off the second week in March.

The London Advertiser says:—It will strike some people as rather strange that a man should prolong the sitting of Parliament by a lengthy speech arguing that Parliament is sitting too long. But Mr. Scott, of Peterboro' is not one of that kind!

The proposition by the new Tory Cabinet to divide the Public works Department between two Ministers is a grand tribute to the ability of Hon Alex. Mackenzie, who while Premier managed the whole Public Works Department alone, and did it well too.

We must go from home to hear the news. Here is a view of the case that may encourage the member for East Peterboro' to persevere in his pledge that he will eschew party politics for the future. The Sarnia Observer says:—

"Dr. O'Sullivan is so disgusted with the conduct of the Tory leaders on the indemnity question, that he has declined to be again the party candidate in East Peterboro."

The Right Rev. A. M. Bethune Episcopal Bishop of Toronto, died on Monday morning. The immediate cause of his death was erysipelas of the head. His Lordship has not been in good health since his return from the recent pan-Anglican Synod. He had reached the advanced age of 79 years.

LOCAL LEGISLATURE.—Very little business of importance has been done during the past week excepting the introduction of a number of private bills. $50,000 has been added to the Drainage Fund, and the Poultry Association of Ontario has been added to the extent of $600 Mr. Scott re-opened the question of the duration of Parliament but was ably answered by Mr. Mowat.

WEST RIDING CONVENTION.—An adjourned convention of the Reformers of West Peterborough was held in the rooms of the Young Men's Reform Association, on Saturday afternoon last, to receive a reply from F. J. Bell, Esq., who had been tendered the nomination as candidate for the Local House. Owing to business interference he was unable to accept the nomination, and the Convention adjourned for three weeks.

The Report on Public Works in Ontario, for the year 1878, shows that there have been expended during the year $418,642.88. Notwithstanding the continued depression 136 miles of railways have been constructed ready for traffic in the year. There are now 3,218 miles of completed railways in the Province. At the time of Confederation there were only 1,464 miles. There are 324 miles in course of building, exclusive of 349 miles of the Canadian Pacific Railway west of Thunder Bay, of which about 183 are now in hand.

Says the Sarnia Observer:—Out of the thirty-one Tory patriots who sought to condemn the Ontario Government for increasing the indemnity to $600, twenty-three signed the "round robin" praying that the Government increase their pay not to $600 only but to one thousand dollars! This document was also endorsed by Messrs. Meredith, Scott, Lauder and Merrick. And yet these men had the unblushing impudence to place a resolution on the records of the House condemning the Government for partially yielding to their importunings. Such scoundrelism is unique in its mendacity.

A deputation has been urging on the Dominion Government the claims of Cobourg harbour to an appropriation for improvements, as a harbour of refuge. The Minister of Public Works held out no hope that anything will be done in the matter this year. The Cobourg Star remarks on a hope entertained that some work will be done during the coming summer, that "it would probably give work to some of our workingmen who are idle." From former observations of the Star and other papers of that fit it might have been inferred that the "National Policy" would give all the work the idle workmen required or could do. But opinions have evidently changed on the N. P.

The total amount of money raised for Public Schools in Ontario during 1877 was $3,473,185. The salaries paid to teachers amounted to $2,038,099, the largest known since the present school system came into operation. The total pupils of all ages entered on rolls was 490, 960. The daily average attendance was less than 50 per cent, of the number entered. There were 5,140 Public Schools, in which there were employed 6,456 teachers. The total value of school property in the Province was estimated at $6,624,169. The number of High Schools was 104. The number of pupils was 9, 229. The total number of students admitted to the Toronto Normal School since it was instituted was 7,883. The grand total paid for educational purposes in the Province for the year 1877 was $3,587,481.

London Advertiser:—Mr. Scott thought he had made a find when he unearthed the proclamation calling the Legislature together on the second of February, 1875. that is six months before the Algoma writs were returnable. Mr. Mowat has, however, disposed effectually of that flimsy argument by explaining that these are all prorogation proclamations and are mere fictions in so far as the calling of Parliament was concerned. As a matter of fact, Parliament is prorogued every forty days by proclamation, each proclamation calling the House together for a new day. This is an old practice, which nobody has ever cared to interfere with; but to base a serious constitutional argument on a time-honored fiction would scarcely be creditable to even a fifth or sixth rate lawyer.

By a recent decision given in the Supreme Court, it appears that the appointment of Queen's Counsels by Provincial or Dominion Governments is illegal, and the Mail in endeavoring to make political capital out of it points derisively at the appointments made by Mr. Mowat. It forgets that the two appointments made in this county were to leading conservatives—Mr. W. H. Scott and Mr. Jas. F. Dennistoun—who surely would not "clamour" for favours from a Reform Government. The editor of the Mail is evidently hard up for a case when he has to resort to such subterfuge to abuse Mr. Mowat. We presume however that this is one subject at least upon which Mr. Scott, will not dilate when addressing his constituents. The Tory Dictator perhaps will be charitable enough to leave out this question when arranging Mr. Scott's programme of subjects for stumping at the coming election.

In spite of all the talk indulged in by Opposition members, led by the very studied sophistry of Mr. Scott, they were each and all afraid to make a distinct affirmation in the shape of a resolution in the House on the duration, —or rather termination—of the session. As we before remarked, Mr. Scott was either honestly advancing his own opinions, or merely pleading at the suggestion of others when he urged that the session must end on the 2nd of February. In the one case he neglected a duty in not placing a point of so much seeming importance in his mind plainly on record. In the other, he did wrong from the start, for his constituents do not send him to Parliament to waste valuable time and spend the money of the public in vain exhibitions, whether they be for his party or otherwise. As on the indemnity question he has succeeded this season in disgraceful doubling on himself. If he do it willingly he is too dishonest, and if he do it unwillingly, too weak for a representative of West Peterborough, and should be replaced as soon as possible by a more consistent and more conscientious man. By the by, he has'nt yet gone for the salary of that other Scott in the Attorney General's office. Nor has he done aught for that railway of which he is President. His whole time has been taken up in useless discussion.

A slight injustice was lately done to Mr. W. E. Roxburgh, of Norwood, in the publication of his name in connection with the Tory gathering at Indian River. As that meeting was said to have been merely a coming together of "a large number of gentlemen" there was just a bare possibility that Mr. Roxburgh might have been asked as a "gentleman," But when it came to make Mr. Roxburgh the mover of a resolution of thanks to Dr. O'Sullivan for the manner he has represented the East Riding in Parliament, it was clear to those who know Mr. Roxburgh that there must be some mistake. The error evidently arose from the fact that the man who was so weak in knowledge or so strong in party loyalty—or both—as to father that resolution bears the name "Riseborough"—one somewhat similar when written to "Roxburgh". Probably, too, the printer and proof-reader in the office of the Tory journal had never heard of the former, while the latter name is well known. So the obscure was dropped for the illustrious, and the deed was done. The injustice to Mr. Roxburgh was in connecting him in any way with such a motion,—to say nothing of the gathering, while Mr. Riseborough has reason to complain of a forced comparison that must prove to him odious.

THE GLASGOW BANK FRAUDS.

Lenient Sentences on the Convicted Directors.

EDINBURGH, Feb. 1.—The directors of the Glasgow Bank, Stronach and Potter, convicted of fraud, theft and embezzlement, have been sentenced to eighteen months imprisonment. The five other directors convicted of uttering false abstracts and balance sheets have been sentenced to eight months' imprisonment. The sentence created considerable surprise on account of their leniency. The presiding judge said they considered the circumstance that the prisoners had not falsified the accounts for their personal benefit, but in a mistaken idea that it was for the public good.

From the Christian Union, August 28, 1877.

Ever since Dr. Wm. M. Giles, of 451 Sixth avenue, extended a frank invitation to owners of lame horses to bring their equine property round to his place of business for free treatment, the corner of Twenty-seventh street and Sixth avenue has come to resemble a horse fair. The Doctor's bold defiance, which if thus thrust upon the curious attention of his neighbors is based on his earnest belief in his Iodide Ammonia Liniment, which is now preferred to all others by the chief stock raisers and sporting men of this country.

A valuable horse of the writers was kicked on the hock. Swelling and lameness ensued, rendering the animal nearly worthless. We were advised to try Giles' Liniment, and are gratified to say it acted like a charm. About two inches of bone came away, the sore healed up, and the lameness and swelling are fast disappearing.

OUR OTTAWA LETTER.

(From the EXAMINER's Correspondent.)

The Capital has been much moved during the past week in commercial, social and political circles.

IN COMMERCIAL CIRCLES

the failure of a large wholesale dry goods house, and the effect it will have on trade here, is the general subject of conversation. Garland, Mutchimer & Co., the house referred to, have been engaged in business here for a good number of years, at first as retailers, latterly as wholesalers. They have a long list of supply accounts in this city, and it is anticipated that some seven or eight retail houses will have to shut down with them. If this turns out to be correct, and all these stocks are sold out by an assignee or by the creditors in the composition way, one naturally asks what is to become of the legitimate trader who is struggling to pay one hundred cents in the dollar. The number of these now in Ottawa is not large. So great have been the losses of Garland, Mutchimer & Co., that it is said their estate will not pay more than fifteen cents in the dollar now, while a year ago they showed a large surplus. The failure has caused an already existant feeling of depression to deepen very much and create great anxiety about the future. Things do not appear to be any better in Montreal, in fact you would fairly shudder did you hear the merchants there talk about the present and the outlook for the future.

Now, during last summer we heard very much about caused, it was said, by Mackenzie and his Government. We also heard that if Mackenzie was put out and the chieftain put in, things would change instanter. I know I have said something like this before, but there is no harm in saying it again. It ought not to be forgotten. For four months Mackenzie has ceased to rule and the chieftain has been installed in his stead, and mark the condition of things today and things as they were four months ago. We have apparently been travelling down hill at a lively rate. I do not say that the Government is responsible for the present condition of things; but I do say that the public are feeling great disappointment, and the farmers have a right to hold them to be deceivers and not honest men. The cry in the country places was, 'put out Mackenzie and put Sir John at the helm, and the capitalists in the cities and towns will start factories and make a home market for your produce and at increased prices.' Has this been realized? No. When the Mackenzie Government fell, things became unsettled. Did the present men do anything, or have they up to this hour done anything to settle matters? There is a shadowy something which nobody but Mr. Phipps appears to understand called

THE HARD TIMES

THE NATIONAL POLICY.

But we don't want shadows.—We want something definite. But we shall not now have much longer to wait. Meantime the people should be educated in some of the foundation principles of political economy, for it is very evident from the result of the elections in September last that the subject has not been well considered by the mass of the people. Do we not affirm a true principle when we say that it is the duty of a Government to govern in the interest of the great majority of the people governed, granting all the facility and aid they can to the minority, consistent with the interest of the majority. If this be a true principle, then the National Policy, so called, is a delusion and a snare. A true national policy must be a policy that looks to the interest of the many, not to that of the few. What are the great interests in this country? Farming and lumbering,—mining might be added. Will the National Policy benefit the farmer? Not a whit He should never forget that the price of the surplus exported out of the country governs the price of all. To put the matter in another way. I would ask every farmer on what principle he supposes the miller to whom he sells his grain fixes the price at which he will buy? Is he not governed from day to day by the rise or fall in the English market? When he drops our price does he not explain by saying there has been a fall in the London or Liverpool market? Apply this by asking yourself the question:—What legislation of our parliament can effect the price of grain in London? and you must come to the conclusion that all this talk about protecting you is a delusion. What good can the protection policy do the lumberman? He has to sell in a foreign market as well as the farmer, and consequently the price of his product is fixed abroad and is beyond the control of our Government policy. The policy of protection thus, while it can do the farmer and lumberman no good by raising the price of this production, it can do them most decided injury by raising the price of all he has to buy. They may suppose it is taxes, but remember it is not taxes to go into the hands of the Government, but it is taxes on you, the many, to go into the pocket of the few. To get out lumber cheap, supplies must not be increased in cost. Does the lumbering shantyman suppose that he can be benefited by his boss being heavily taxed? The boss must grind down the wages of his men to get even, or he must give up the business.

STATISTICS PROVE BEYOND ALL DOUBT that the manufacturers in Canada are today the most prosperous of the trading class. Farmers and lumbermen, you have no doubt heard of the U. E. Club in Toronto, the headquarters of the protectionist, and the place whence the cash comes to carry on the election campaigns. There is no doubt that the funds come from the large manufacturers. Do you in your innocence suppose that they don't intend to get their money back? If they are to get it back, from whom are they to get it? Why, from you! Just think this over a little.

IN SOCIAL CIRCLES

the coming opening of Parliament and the drawing-room to follow is the subject of conversation. Society is excited over it, and the Flora McFlimseys are studying what they shall wear and how it shall be cut. The Senate Chamber is being frescoed, and the coming opening will no doubt far eclipse any previous one as a brilliant spectacle. There will be a jam to see the Princess make her first public state appearance. Well, we shall endeavour to get a sight, and without going much into details give your readers a general idea of the display.

Yesterday the Governor-General and the Princess attended St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church at the morning service The service was conducted by the Rev. Dr. Jenkins Moderator of the Montreal Synod, who preached a most eloquent sermon. The pastor Rev. Dr M. Gordon, Moderator, is at present in ill health. The Marquis has taken a pew in the Church.

POOR MR. TILLEY,

he passes up early to his office and down late, he looks anxious and care-worn, and finds it hard lines to reconcile the conflicting interests of the deputations by which he is beset. I would recommend him to adopt the method of a certain Priest in Ireland, who being but lately appointed to a parish, came forward after mass the first Sunday and addressing his people said: Understand that your late Priest was found much fault with, because he would not influence the voucher. There has been too much rain or it has been too dry. I am correct this on one condition, and that is that you all agree about what kind of weather you want. So I shall just leave you as dinners the matter, and when you agree you can let me know. At last accounts they had not moved. Mr. Tilley had better call a convention of all the manufacturers in the country, and when assembled, find out about what kind of a tariff they want. It would be a fine opportunity, and would be the best way to get at the views of the people.

SINGULAR SUICIDE.

A Young Lady Encourages her Pall-Bearers, and then Takes Poison.

MITCHELL, Jan. 31.—On Thursday a daughter, aged eighteen, of Mr. Thomas Mutton, a well-to-do farmer of Fullarton, died under the following circumstances. On Wednesday afternoon she was seized with vomiting, which continued at intervals all the evening and during the night. About one o'clock on Thursday morning she asked her mother for some water, and, shortly after drinking it, she expired. Search showed that a package of Paris green had been opened, and some of it mixed in a cup. There were also traces of its having been spilled. A letter in the deceased's pocket, named six young gentlemen whom she wished to be pall-bearers, and closed by bidding "good by e to all." Two youths stated at the inquest that she had asked them on the Sunday previous if they would carry her to her grave that week, and, thinking she was joking they laughingly answered they would. Their names were on the list of pall-bearers she left behind. The jury returned a verdict to the effect that death was the result of a dose of Paris green administered by her own hand. No possible cause is known, or can be thought of, for the poor girl committing the rash act. She was good-looking, intelligent, bright and lively and generally beloved. She never suffered from depression of spirits, but invariably seemed happy and cheerful. Further she had not been crossed in love. That the act of self-destruction was premeditated is proven by her request to the young men before mentioned, and by the fact that while her mother was attending her in her last hours of life, she never once murmured or even hinted at what she had taken.

REFORM LEGISLATION.

(From the London Advertiser.)

The Premier of Ontario gave an address a short time ago before the Reform Literary Club of Toronto, in which may be found an interesting summary of the various acts of beneficial legislation for which the Province is indebted to the Reform Government. As Mr. Mowat's Administration has now to give an account of its stewardship, and go before the people for their approval, it will not be out of place to note the leading acts passed by the Ontario Government under the present Premier and his predecessor, Mr. Blake. Commencing with the first important measure introduced after the fall of Mr. J. S. Macdonald's Cabinet, we have the following:

Abolition of dual representation.

The disqualification for seats in Parliament of all who are in receipt of pay from the Government. Previously those who were paid salaries were disqualified but the law was not made to apply to those paid by fees as well.

Securing the rights of married women to their own earnings.

The settlement of the Municipal Loan difficulty, and the distribution of a portion of the surplus.

The introduction of the ballott in elections for the Assembly, for municipal Councils, and on money by-laws.

The extension of the franchise to those who pay an income tax, and also to farmers' sons living with their parents.

The judicial revision of the voters' list before an election.

The improvement of the machinery of the Courts, preventing unnecessary delay, removing old anomalies, and preventing cases being decided on mere matters of form instead of on their merits.

The payment of witnesses in criminal cases, thereby facilitating the administration of justice, by securing their attendance.

Relieving the magistracy from liability for acts done in good faith, but which may subsequently turn out to have been informal.

The revision of the Municipality laws, which had previously been scattered through many statute books, and were largely incomprehensible to all municipal officials and others who were not lawyers. The revision of the School Law and the appointment of a Minister of Education, thus bringing the work of that important department more immediately under the observation of Parliament.

Securing to mechanics and laborers a lien for their wages on the property on which their labor is expended or their materials used.

Facilitating agreements between employees and employers for sharing the profits of business in which they may be engaged.

Facilitating the settlement of disputes between employers and employees.

Enabling societies of all kinds to become incorporated under a general act, without expense.

Legalizing marriages by clergymen of all denominations, and relieving from disability marriages which had been consummated in good faith, but which were illegal from informality.

Providing for the public health when contagious diseases threaten the country

Giving repose to land titles by shortening the period after which a man's title to the property he possessed may be free from danger.

Providing additional security for holders of policies of insurance, by preventing the companies taking advantage of unjust conditions.

Besides those special acts of legislation, there are other liberal measures in the interests of the people, as for example:

Investing a considerable sum in the purchase of municipal debentures, for the purpose of encouraging the drainage of wet districts.

Grants of money in aid of a large number of railways; in connection with which was the principle of giving Parliament a voice in granting the money, instead of leaving it exclusively in the hands of the Government.

A liberal policy in establishing and supporting a number of charitable institutions for the insane, the blind, the deaf, the dumb, and all other afflicted persons; and at the same time regulating the amount of aid granted to hospitals and charities by the amount of work done and of contributions received from private sources.

Re-arranging the representation in the Assembly on a just basis, according to population, even though the Government had the distinct assurance from those qualified to judge that such an arrangement would be to the advantage of the Opposition, as the result proved it to have been.

A record of this kind shows the advantage of having a Reform Government in power, and will be appreciated by the people when they are called on to pronounce their verdict at the coming election. It is not likely that they will care to turn out a Government which has been so beneficial to the country, and replace it with untried men, even though headed by so enormously able and experienced gentlemen as Mr. Meredith.

KEENE.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Noticing in the columns of last week's issue of your valuable paper, a communication respecting the concert held in this place on the 22nd of last month. Allow me the privilege of correcting a few mistakes, which were very prominent in that communication. The writer, in dilating upon the length and changes of the programme, says that owing to the lateness of the hour several pieces were omitted therefrom. A few changes were made in "Part First of the Programme," but the omission of "several pieces" is erroneous. There were but two pieces omitted, viz: two songs, "The Old Oak" and "The Prince of Wales," and one of these were supplied by a song from Mr. George Cruikshanks. The writer also says that the audience numbered about 300. According to the number of tickets sold, there were nearly 400 persons present. The entertainment throughout was a splendid success, and has out-rivalled anything of the kind that has previously been held in the village, and was also appreciated by the audience to the utmost degree of satisfaction. We might remark here that the "Young Canadians" spared no pains to make it as entertaining and pleasant as possible. Long may they continue to use their noble exertions for good in such a noble cause.

CHARGE TO THE JURY IN A VERY CIVIL CASE BY A ST. THOMAS JUDGE. Gentlemen: It appears to me that the plaintiff is a skunk; I observe you look blue at such language from this bench, but that didn't effect my decision. He is a liar, and a sneak, and a mean dirty ignoramus. If this is not borne out by the evidence, all I have to say is that you, gentlemen of the jury, are a truculent lot of vile knaves, and it affords me gratification to be able to tell you so to your faces.—Grip.

Mr. J. H. Moores, the most extensive pine land dealer in Michigan, believes that timber lands are a better investment than Government Bonds. Last Saturday this gentleman closed a sale of 733 acres, located in Montcalm County, Mich., for the snug sum of $25,000, a little over $34 per acre. F. N. Wright & Co., of Greenville, were the purchasers, by whom the timber will be manufactured.

St. Louis received in 1878, 25,000,000 feet of lumber from Toledo, Ohio, all over the Wabash road. The general rate was $25 per car, although at one time during the season it was as low as $20.

As a rumor has been circulated that I am about leaving Peterborough for Manitoba, I wish to contradict it, as I feel contented with business matters here. However, health permitting, I intend visiting Manitoba on business in June, in the same way as I go to the back country for furs; but for living there permanently, I have no more intention than to fly to the moon.

LOCAL NEWS.

The Holy Land.—The Rev. Lachlin Taylor lectured on Monday and Tuesday evenings, to small audiences on "The Holy Land, Egypt and Sinai."

The Price Conference.—The costume of the "Twin Valentines," which carried off the prize at the Masquerade on Tuesday evening was made at T. Dolan & Co's. This is another feather in the cap of this well known establishment.

Vital Statistics.—The number of Registrations made at the Town Clerk's office during the month of January were as follows:—Births, 16; Marriages, 3; Deaths, 6.

Snow Shoe Season.—A committee has been appointed to arrange for the annual races of the Peterborough Snow Shoe Club, which will, it is expected come off some time next month.

Changed Hands.—We learn that W. H. Taylor, M. D., has purchased over 200 acres of the estate of Mr. Wm. Wood, of Harvey, including the fine residence of that gentleman, for the sum of nearly $6,000.

Valentines Day.—A break from to-morrow will be Valentines Day. A lively trade in these missives of love, and hatred as well, must be expected from the elaborate display made in several of the shop windows.

Personal.—Owing to a severe attack of inflamation of the lungs, Mr. Bonnako has been unable to attend to office duties for several weeks past, but we are happy to say he is now recovering, and expects in a short time to be able to resume his practice.

Board of Trade.—What has become of the Peterborough Board of Trade? Surely our merchants and business men have enterprise and energy enough to sustain such an institution. Perhaps the N. P. White Elephant has cursed it out of existence.

The Committee Room Chair.—We have lately been presented with one of the above easy chairs, manufactured by Mr. W. Tools. They are an article of furniture admirably suited for offices, reading rooms and libraries, being comfortable, durable, and in every way practicable for "common sense" people We believe they are sold at very reasonable prices.

Penny Readings.—The second of a series of penny readings in aid of the furnishing of St. John's Sunday School building, will be held next Tuesday evening, 11th instant. The first one was very satisfactory—as excellent progress being presented—and it is promised the coming one will be even more so. The entertainment will be held in the new school building adjoining the church.

County Orange Lodge.—At the general meeting of the West Peterborough County Orange Lodge held in the Orange Hall, here, on Tuesday afternoon the following officers were elected:

J. B. McWilliams	County Master
Samuel Nance	Deputy Master
S. N. Norbury	Chaplain
John Smith	Secretary
Richard Warne	Treasurer
Wm. Graham	Lecturer
Geo. W. Mall	Lecturer

St. Paul's Presbyterian Church.—The annual meeting of the St. Paul's Presbyterian Church was held on Wednesday evening of last week. Quite a number were in attendance and sat down in the early part of the evening to a plenteous spread provided by the ladies of the congregation. The finance report read by Mr. Perkins, showed quite an addition to the Communion Roll, while the report of the Dunoons Court was also satisfactory. The financial report presented by Mr. J. H. Roper, Treasurer, showed the receipts during the year to be $3,797.-32, and the expenditures $3,723.93, leaving a balance on hand of $73.39. The Missionary report read by Dr. Taylor showed the amount collected during the year, exclusive of the amount raised in the Sabbath School, to be $260.52.

I. O. G. T.—At the regular meeting of Peterboro' Temple No. 302, I. O. G. T., the following officers were installed for the ensuing quarter:—

Sist. Mowray	W. R. H. S.

The Grange Movement.—Without saying a word in prejudice the Order of Grangers, we may copy a paragraph from the report of the Secretary of the Rose Valley Division which recently met in Lindsay. Referring to the society generally, Mr. Jenkin said:—

"During the year that has just closed our noble sister has made great progress. It is true there has not been so large an increase of members as at the commencement other years of our history; in fact, in some sections of the country there has been a decrease. This fact, however, is no indication of a decline of the Order. When the movement was first introduced into this country, its rosters were swollen by men who had no higher object in connection with themselves with it than a selfish motive of gain Farming, however, that the Grange must be not a money making machine for the growth of such. Our society forms a common brotherhood in the best by a desire for virtue to ensure that a man's character is the same in all the seasons. I am glad to see in two instances, Granges, and an auxiliary society, have been organized in connection with the Order, which will be productive of much benefit to the agricultural community. In these organizations, the farmers, and their families can meet together, and by discussing matters connected with their occupation, can do much good. In fact, they cannot fail to improve in the knowledge of their business, and thus become better farmers. Every member should be a subscriber to the Grange paper, and thus keep himself posted in the movements of the Order. Let every member of the Order be a missionary, and endeavour to bring into the Order all the good men and true in the community in which he lives. Let us endeavour to make the Order what it is designed to be, a blessing to the agricultural community."

At the recent Revelstoke Tea Order will be ordered at an early date. Those who have ordered are requested to call at once and settle their accounts, and those who intend to have an order should send in their names at once, as the Committee will not be responsible for any orders that will arrive after the meeting.

DON'T GIVE IT AWAY."

From the simplest flowers by the wayside
Fair Wisdom may cull a bouquet;
A street phrase may oft point a moral:
There's sense in—" Don't Give it Awer."

If you hear of a choice piece of scandal,
Be it "spicy" or truth as it may,
Don't eagerly hurry to spread it,
Its better—" Don't Give it Away."

When a gossip persistently bores you,
Your fellows or friends to betray;
Be polite as you can, but remember
Be firm and " Don't Give it Away."

When a confidence rests in your keeping—
When a friend to your self feels unwary
Keep secret he trusts to your keeping—

COUNTY COUNCIL.

THURSDAY.

The Council met. The Warden in the chair, and all the members being present.

The minutes of yesterday were read and confirmed.

ANNEXATION OF HARVEY WITH VICTORIA.

On motion of Mr. Moloney, the Warden appointed Messrs. Hicks, Moloney, Miller, Collins and Pearce, a committee to consider and report upon the proposed annexation of a portion of Harvey to the County of Victoria.

At a subsequent stage of the proceedings Mr. Pearce on behalf of the Committee presented a report recommending:

1. That this Council oppose the annexation of any part of the Township of Harvey to the County of Victoria.

2 That if any portion of the said Township is to be united to the County of Victoria, it should only be that portion lying South of, and including Lot No 18 in the 19th Concession and West of Pigeon Lake, in the said Township of Harvey; and that only upon condition that the County is relieved from all future liability for the Scheargeon Bridge.

3. That memorials be passed and forwarded by this Council to the Lieut.-Governor in Council, and the Legislative Assembly of Ontario, praying that the Legislation asked for may not be passed.

THE COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE GRANT.

During the afternoon a deputation from the Board of Education of the town, consisting of Messrs Jas. Stevenson, Geo. A. Cox, D. W Dumble and G. R. Shaw, were heard regarding a county grant to the Collegiate Institute, and asking for a further increase in the grant over last year. They invited the Council to visit the Institute and judge for themselves of the manner in which the teaching was conducted. They pointed out the many advantages which would accrue from farther assistance, and hoped they would give the matter their most serious consideration.

During the afternoon the Committee on Schools visited the Collegiate Institute and Public School.

On motion of Mr. Moloney the application was referred to the Finance Committee.

FISH AND GAME.

Mr. Rentland and Mr. Green on motion addressed the Council regarding a grant of $30 to assist them in stocking the inland waters with fish, and for the prosecution of the laws in reference to the protection of game. They stated that they had already been at considerable expense in connection with the propagation of the fish, and that they could not be expected to furnish teams, hay, and steamboat expenses out of their own pockets for something in which everyone would participate. They asked for the Council to give the matter their earnest consideration.

GRAND JUNCTION RAILWAY.

Moved by Mr. Pearce, seconded by Mr. Kidd,—That this Council memorialize the Ontario Government at its present session in reference to further legislature being asked on behalf of the Grand Junction Railway Company, on a by-law voted upon by the ratepayers of this county in the year 1870, granting by way of bonus to the said Grand Junction Railway Company the sum of $75,000, on certain conditions therein named, which the said Railway Company have failed to comply with, and as this Council have again and again repudiated the validity of the said by-law on account of its never having received its third reading, and lapse of time, and other valid reasons, pray that the Government will not in any way enact any further legislation that will give any effect to the said by-law, and that the Warden and John Carnegie, with some member of this Council, to be named by the Warden, draft the said memorial and present the same before the Committee of the House.—Carried.

The Warden named Mr. Pearce.

DOG TAXES.

Moved by Mr. Miller, seconded by Mr. Laing,—That a by-law be passed by this Council to levy a tax of one dollar on all dogs, and two dollars on all bitches, but that no part of this tax be paid for any sheep or lambs that may be killed by dogs or bitches, but that the tax form part of the corporation funds.

Mr. Miller in moving the motion, said he was under the conviction that a by-law to that effect would be of great benefit to the public. It would have the effect of materially lessening the number of sheep and lambs worried annually.

Mr. Bell opposed the motion, and said he thought that the matter had been settled long ago.

Mr. Dixwoodie thought that if the matter had been settled long ago, Mr. Miller had a perfect right to still urge the motion.

The Council then divided on the motion as follows:—

YEAS.—Messrs. Miller, Laing and Golborne.

NAYS.—Messrs. Barnham, Dixwoodie, Kidd, Pearce, Rourke, Welsh, Burgess, Maloney, McCliggott, Costello, Clarke, Hicks, Sanderson, Bell, and Collins.

NORWOOD HIGH SCHOOL.

On motion of Mr. Pearce, Messrs. Roxburgh and Stephenson addressed the Council on behalf of the Norwood High School.

Mr. Roxburgh said that when the Council had given them a grant of $300 they were enabled to struggle along pretty well, but last year they had cut it down to $150, and they were consequently very much pinched. They had now forty-eight names on the roll, with an average attendance of thirty-nine or forty, and every seat in the School was occupied, so that if more scholars offered they would be obliged to turn them away. The Inspector said them they required increased accommodation, which meant increased expense, for additional buildings and additional teachers. For the want of these they also suffered financially, as they could not carry their pupils further than the intermediate, thereby causing them to lose the increased Government grant which they would draw were they able to retain them. The Peterborough School was no doubt doing a good work for the County, but the Norwood School was their own School. They appointed all the trustees, while in the Peterborough School they had not a single representative. In giving to the Norwood School they were only giving them what they were in common with the rest of the County taxed for, while what they gave to Peterborough was purely a gift. He had seen a list of 28 pupils, said to be attending the Peterborough School from the neighborhood of Norwood, and after examining it carefully, he could only find three who really came from that municipality. Middle Norwood sent only two pupils, Lower Norwood other two pupils, Upper Norwood [illegible] Warden's municipality.

The Dying Child.

Come closer, closer dear mamma,
My heart is filled with fears;
My eyes are dark—I hear your sobs,
But cannot see your tears.

I feel your warm breath on my lips,
Your arms so very cold;
Come closer, closer, dear mamma—
Give me your hand to hold.

I quite forget my little hymn,
How doth the busy bee,'
Which every day I used to say,
When sitting on your knee.

Nor can I recollect my prayers—
And dear mamma, you know
That the great God will angry be
If I forget them, too.

And dear papa, when he comes home,
Oh, will he not be vexed!
"Give us this day our daily bread"—
What is it that comes next?

"Thine is the kingdom and the power"—
I cannot think or more,
It comes and goes away so quick—
It never did before.

Weep, darling, you are going to
The bright and home on sky,
Where all God's holy children go,
To live with him on high.

But will he love me, dear mamma,
As tenderly as you,
And will my own papa one day
Come and live with me too?

But you must first lay me to sleep
Where grandpapa is laid—
Is not the churchyard cold and dark.
And shan't I feel afraid?

And will you every evening come,
And say my pretty prayer
Over poor Lucy's little grave,
And see that no one's there!

And promise me that when you die
That they your grave shall make Next unto mine, that I may be Close to you when I wake.

Nay, do not leave me, dear mamma,
Your watch beside me keep;
My heart feels cold—the room's all dark—
Now lay me down to sleep.

And should I sleep to wake no more,
Dear, dear mamma, good bye;
Poor aunty is kind, but, oh, do you
Be with me when I die.

A SUCCESSFUL LIFE.

A remarkable example of success through perseverance, is Peter Cooper, of New York City, aged 89 years, hale and vigorous, worth two millions, first learned the trade of hatter, but not succeeding in that line, next went into coach-making. Failing in this, he next tried the grocery business, and failing again was next to discouraged. But at this period he was on the eve of a brighter dawn. As a mechanic, he had noticed the inferior quality of glue used and with a pot he went into the glue business, and through it was enabled to give the city a "Copper Institute," worth three quarters of a million. Seldom has the beginning of a business man been more insupicious, and seldom has the success of an effort to amass wealth been more complete.

A Good Riddle and Answer.

The following riddle is attributed to Macaulay, the essayist:

Cut off my head—and singular I am:
Cut of my tail—and plural I appear;
Cut off both head and tail, and perhaps be tall,
Although my middle's left, there's nothing there!
What is my head cut off? A sounding sea.
What is my tail cut off? A roaring river.
Without my wandering heart I'm merely play.
A parent of soft sounds, though mute forever.

Shortly after the publication of the above, a correspondent furnished the following:

Good! I've guessed it! 'Tis a cod,
Cut off his head, he's very od:
Cut off his tail, and you have a Co.
And that is "plural," all men know.
Cut off his tail and head, you leave
A middle nothing, (0) you perceive.
What is his head? A sounding C.
What is his tail? The river D (Dee).
And where, the epicure, but cries: "Odd Zounds, I know the cod produces sweet sounds."

Human Judgment.

How are we to measure the chances and opportunities, the means of doing or even judging, right and wrong, awarded to men; and to establish the rule for meting out their rewards? We are as unthinking in judging of men's morals as of their intellects. We sing Te Deum for the hero, who has won a battle; and De Profundis for that other one who has broken out of prison. Our measure of rewards and punishment is absurdly inadequate, utterly worldly, and we wish to continue it into the next world. Into that we strive to pursue men and send after them our impotent verdicts of condemnation or acquittal. We set up our paltry little rods to measure Heaven; but the Great Reckoner takes count of all, and the small is not small or the great great to his infinity.

A New Game.

A new game has been introduced on the Pacific coast, to which section we are already indebted at least for the name of "California Jack." It is generally played by three persons, though more can take a hand in it, if necessary. Two persons invite the third to a rubber. It is begun by ascertaining if the third man has any money in his possession or in the bank. If so, he is informed of a bank which pays a high rate of interest, and in which the player or his partner is about to put his money. A satchel like the one which holds the other man's money is then loaned to the third party, in which he places his gold, and on their way to the bank they stop for a drink of beer. Subsequently they stop at a candy store, and a twenty-dollar piece is given to the third party to buy some candy. When he comes out his new friends have disappeared. But still having his satchel he goes to the bank, opens his bag and finds it filled with lead. "Look turns" in this game while the parties are in the beer saloon, the satchels being changed at that time.

Farmers' Meetings.

The winter season is the time when agricultural and horticultural societies, great and small, convene for mutual improvement in all that pertains to the practice of the art or the well-being of the fraternity. If every neighborhood could hold closed meetings during this season of comparative leisure, for mutual improvement and comparison of notes, it would in a very few years add considerably to the prosperous capacity of the district in question. [illegible] small, the social features connected with the gatherings are not the least important of the features. We hope to see farmers' clubs and gatherings increase from year to year. They certainly must be of great value to the fraternity, just as conventions relating to other industries are of benefit to those organizations.

Alcohol—Its Effect on the System.

Dr. Brunton, in the Contemporary Review, says:—Alcohol appears to excite the circulation through the brain reflexly from the mouth, and to stimulate the heart reflexly from the stomach, even before it is absorbed into the blood. Shortly after it has been swallowed, however, it is absorbed from the stomach, and passed with the blood to the heart, to the brain and to other parts of the nervous system, upon which it then begins to act directly. Under its influence the heart beats more quickly, the blood circulates more freely; and thus the functional power of the various organs in the body is increased, so that the brain may think more rapidly, the muscles act more powerfully, and the stomach digest more easily; but, with this exception, the effect of alcohol on the system may be described as one of progressive paralysis. The higher centres suffer first, and the judgment is probably the first quality to be impaired. One of the most esteemed novelists of the present day informs me that, although he can take a great deal of wine without its having any apparent effect on him, yet a single glass of sherry is enough to take the the fine edge off his intellect. He is able to write easily and fluently in the evening after taking dinner and drinking wine, but what he then writes will not bear his own criticism next morning, although, curiously enough, it may seem to him excellent at the time of writing.

DOG STORIES.

Intelligent dogs readily adapt themselves to their condition, as the following anecdote will prove. A deaf and dumb lady living in a German city had as a companion a younger woman, who was also deaf and dumb. They lived in a small set of rooms opening on the public corridor of the house. Somebody gave the elder lady a little dog as a present. For some time whenever anybody rang the bell at the door, the dog barked to call the attention of his mistress. The dog soon discovered, however, that neither the bell nor the barking made any impression on the woman, and he took to the practice of merely pulling one of them by the dress with his teeth, in order to explain that some one was at the door. Gradually the dog ceased to bark altogether, and for more than seven years before his death he remained as mute as his two "companions." When expression by sound was useless, it fell with him into absolute disuse. Not such a complete master of the situation was the hero of the second story. A brave, active, intelligent terrier belonging to a lady, one day discovered a monkey belonging to an itinerant organgrinder, seated upon a bank within the grounds, and at once made a dash for him. The monkey, who was attired in jacket and hat, awaited the onset with such undisturbed tranquility that the dog halted within a few feet of him to reconnoitre. Both animals took a long stare at each other, but the dog evidently was recovering from his surprise, and about to make a spring for the intruder. At this critical juncture, the monkey, who had remained perfectly quiet hitherto, raised his paw and gracefully saluted by lifting his hat. The effect was magical; the dog's head and tail dropped, and he sneaked off and entered the house, refusing to leave it until he was satisfied that his polite but mysterious guest had departed. He evidently fancied he smelt sulphur.

Our Wives.

A woman ten years after marriage is often a tiresome sort of a person whose whole mind is absorbed in her housekeeping and children, her conversation seldom rising above the level of gossip and servants.

There is a great evil somewhere, but what is it? The husband acknowledges to himself that he is disappointed in the wife he has chosen, and yet he finds difficulty in pointing out his mistake, and hardly finds cause to blame her, for is she not a faithful wife, a devoted mother and a most frugal manager? The mistake is a national characteristic. So passionate and intense is the American mind in pursuit of its temporary interests, the men will suffer the chains of business to bind them down and throttle them, while their wives bend beneath a similar yoke of duty at home.

What is lacking is the power to rise above the petty annoyances of daily life; we need to learn to distinguish trifles from affairs of moment, to know that every mole-hill is not a mountain. We need not forsake the upper stratum of sentiment, thought and ideality—the atmosphere of the soul—because we know there is a lower one of routine and small vexations, in which our feet are told to tread. To breathe in the one is to receive strength and refreshment for exertion in the other. It is a good plan to pick up needles and pins from the floor, but picking pins ought not to be made the chief object of existence; for if we move along with our heads constantly downward we most assuredly will see nothing better than pins and needles to the end of our days.

A red-nosed gentleman asked a wit whether he believed in spirits. "Ay, sir," replied he, looking him full in the face. "I see too much evidence before me to doubt it."

The day before a Turkish girl is married she is taken to the bath by her lady friends and lumps of sugar are broken over her head as a forecast of the sweets of matrimony. A year or so afterward her husband breaks the whole sugar-bowl over her head.

DOWN CELLAR.

John Barroughs is right: "The small boy is your true apple-eater." What a good thing it is to have such an enthusiastic small boy about the house! An "undefined longing," a "nameless yearning," seizes us as we sit by the fire of the farm house. Our faces reflected in the andirons look long and wistful. We look around with a questioning glance, and whisper 'Apples!' The small boy gives a start. Comprehension beams from his countenance. He winks, gives a gesture which expresses "Wait a minute," as plainly as words, and vanishes. He returns with a candle in his hand, and half turning back, crooks his thumb over his shoulder and marches ahead, whistling. We follow. We feel that we should follow that cheery whistle through the darkest dungeons—and we do. Down we plunge into utter gloom. The boy's face grows finely colored with orange and crimson from the flickering flame which he makes dance with his breath.

The air gets cold. We cannot see our way—but we touch bottom at last, and we smell. What delight! What freshness and fragrance! The fragrance supplies light. It is tinctured with sunshine. It is fraught with reminiscences of the time when we, too, were an enthusiastic small boy. We plunge into the barrels and bins. The boy sets the candle on the floor, puts both hands on the edge of the largest bin, gives a spring, and becomes nothing but legs. His feet dangle, but his body is lost in darkness. Only his whistle remains in full. We are taller, and so pick and choose at ease, and retiring from the well stored cellar to the light, with as many mellow, sweet-fleshed beauties as we can carry, sit down before the open fire to eat them in the true apple-lover's way: without the intervention of knife or dish.

Beau Nash and John Wesley.

We have always thought Wesley's recontre with Beau Nash, at Bath, a fair illustration of his quiet and almost obscurely sarcastic method of quite sufficiently confounding a troublesome person. Preaching in the open air at Bath, the King of Bath, the Master of Ceremonies, Nash, was so unwise as to attempt to put down the apostolic man. Nash's character was bad; it was that of an idle, heartless, licentious dangler on the skirts of high society. He appeared in the crowd, and authoritatively asked Wesley by what right he dared to stand there.

The congregation was not wholly of the poor; there were a number of fashionable and noble persons present, and among them many with whom this attack had been pre-arranged, and who expected to see the discomfiture of the Methodist, by the courtly and fashionable old dandy.

Wesley replied to the question simply and quietly, that he stood there by the authority of Jesus Christ, conveyed to him "by the present Archbishop of Canterbury, when he laid hands on me and said 'Take thou authority to preach the gospel!'"

Nash began to bustle and to be turbulent, and he exclaimed—

"This is contrary to Act of Parliament; this is a conventicle."

"Sir," said Wesley, "the Act you refer to applies to seditious meetings; here is no sedition, no shadow of sedition; the meeting is not, therefore, contrary to the Act."

Nash stormed, "I say it is; besides, your preaching frightens people out of their wits."

"Sir," said Wesley, "give me leave to ask, Did you ever hear me preach?"

"No."

"How, then, can you judge of what you have never heard?"

"Sir, by common report,"

"Common report is not enough," said Wesley; again give me leave to ask is your name not Nash?"

"My name is Nash."

And the reader must imagine Wesley's thin clear, piercing voice, cutting through the crowd—

"Sir, I dare not judge of you by common report."

There does not seem much in it, but the effect was overwhelming.

Not Generally Known.

Frogs live from twelve to fifteen years (if not eaten.)

Ducks can fly at the rate of ninety miles an hour.

The crow can fly at the rate of twenty-five miles an hour.

The sparrow can fly at the rate of ninety-two miles an hour.

The falcon can fly at the rate of one seventy-five miles an hour.

Hawks can fly at the rate of one hundred and fifty miles an hour.

Fair winds may make their flight three times greater.

The Australian dog and [illegible] dog of Egypt never bark.

In [illegible]

The skin is composed of three layers, and varies from one-fourth to one-eighth of an inch in thickness. Its average area in an adult is estimated to be 2,000 square inches. The atmosphere pressure being about fourteen pounds to the square inch, a person of medium size is subjected to a pressure of 28,000 pounds.

Leuwenhock has computed that 10,000 threads of the full grown spider are not larger than a single hair of the beard. He calculates, further, that when young spiders first begin to spin, 400 of them are not larger than one of full grown—allowing which, 4,000,000 of a young spider's threads are not so large as the single hair of a man's beard.

The average weight of the brain of an adult male, is three pounds and eight ounces; of a female, two pounds and four ounces. The nerves are all connected with it directly, or by the spinal marrow. These nerves, together with their branches and minute ramifications probably exceed 10,000,000 in number forming a "body guard" outnumbering by far the greatest army ever marshalled.

A Constitutional Walk.

Few people walk enough in winter, yet it is precisely at that season that people of close sedentary habits should walk. How grateful the crisp air is to the lungs! How clear and sweet it is to the nostrils! How it inspires and sustains one in a swinging gait of four or five miles an hour! How the cheeks glow, and the eyes shine, and the muscles tingle with delightful vigor, after such a walk through the winter sunshine! A chaise ride is not half so good, for it robs the trip of the necessary exercise. Try it, you who seek health and strength. Winter walking as a "nervine," is a million times better than medicine, and for improving complexion it is worth a whole harbor full of lotions and washes. It will put an edge on appetite that you can't buy at the doctor's, and in promoting digestion is better than a corner drug shop's entire stock of bitters and pills. If you have never tried it, take a walk. Keep your mouth closed, your shoulders well thrown back, your head up, and remember that your legs—and especially your hips—were given you to walk with. Some people walk with their knees, bodies and shoulders, and no wonder they don't like it. We don't like to see them. There is an art in walking as in other things. If you don't believe it, observe the shape of some shapely woman who knows how to move, or study the gait of a man who has some spring and lithness in him. It is never too late to learn how to walk by walking.

Nothing Lost by Courtesy.

A courteous man often succeeds in life, when persons of ability fail. The experience of every man furnishes frequent instances where conciliatory manners have made the fortunes of physicians, lawyers, divines, politicians, merchants, and, indeed, individuals of all pursuits. In being introduced to a stranger, his affability or the reverse creates instantaneously a prepossession in his favor, or awakens unconsciously a prejudice against him. To men civility is, in fact, what a pleasing appearance is to women; it is a general passport to favor—a letter of recommendation written in a language that every person understands. The best of men often injure themselves by irritability and consequent rudeness; whereas men of inferior abilities have frequently succeeded by their pleasing and agreeable manners. Of two men, equal in all other respects, the courteous one has twice the advantage, and by far the better chance of making his way in the world.

Balky Horses.

The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals puts forth the following rules for the treatment of balky horses, which will bear reproduction:—

1. Put the horse upon the neck; examine the harness carefully, first on one side and then on the other, speaking encouragingly while doing so, then jump into the waggon and give the word go: generally he will obey.

2 A teamster in Maine says he can start the worst balky horse by taking him out of the shafts and making him go round in a circle till he is giddy. If the first dance of this sort doesn't cure him, the second will.

3. To cure a balky horse, simply place your hand over the horse's nose and shut off his wind till he wants to go and then let him go.

4. The brain of the horse seems to entertain but one idea at a time; therefore continued whipping only confirms his stubborn resolve. If you can by any means give him a new subject to think of you will generally have no trouble in starting him. A simple remedy is to take a couple of turns of stout twine around the foreleg, just below the knee, tight enough for the horse to feel, and tie in a bowknot. At the first check he will go dancing off and after going a short distance you can get out and remove the string to prevent injury to the tendon in your further drive.

5. Take the tail of the horse between the hind legs and tie it by a cord to the [illegible]

6. Tie a string around the horse's ear close to his head.

[illegible]

qnis, with Major De Winton, and taking them for servants, the Highland men asked if the Marquis would care to meet "twa Macdonalds," or if it would be etiquette for "twa Macdonalds" to call on the Marquis. His Excellency replied that the Marquis bore no malice to the Macdonalds and that Sir John Macdonald being his first Minister, it was clear the Macdonalds had forgiven the Campbells. "Forgi'en the Campbells!" cried one of the visitors, "Forgotten Glencoe! Sir John is paid for that, mon! he has eight thousan' dollars a year for it; but the deil tak' me 'gin we forgie or forget!', and with this the choleric Gaels turned their faces towards Ottawa. The Marquis, however, disclosed himself, and after a hearty handshaking the feud was temporarily healed. The visitors were turned over to the Argyleshire piper, who is a prominent member of the household, and by him treated so handsomely that on their departure they frankly acquitted the Marquis of all responsibility for the massacre.

How to Prevent Colds.

The Popular Science Monthly gives good advice in regard to the prevention of colds. The mistake is often made of taking great care to put on extra wraps and coats when preparing for out-door exercise. This is not at all necessary in robust persons. Sufficient heat to prevent all risk of chill is generated in the body by exercise. The care should be taken to retain sufficient clothing after exercise, and when at rest to prevent the heat passing out of the body. Indeed persons very often catch chills from throwing off extra clothing after exercise, or from sitting about in garments, the material of which is not adopted to prevent the radiation of heat from the body.

USEFUL RECIPES.

INDIAN LIGHT BISCUIT. — One quart of sifted Indian meal, a pint of sifted wheat flour, a very small teaspoonful of salt, three pints of milk, four eggs. Butter a sufficient number of cups, or small, deep tins; nearly fill them with the batter. Set them immediately into a hot oven and bake them fast. Turn them out of the cups send them warm to table, pull them open and eat with butter. They will puff up finely if, at the last, you stir in a level teaspoonful of soda, melted in a little warm water.

BAKED RICE. PUDDING.—Swell a coffee cup of rice, add a quart of milk, sweeten it with brown sugar, and bake it about an hour, or a little more, in a quick oven or baker.

TEA CAKE.—Take four cups of flour, three of sugar, one of butter, three eggs, one cup of milk, one spoonful of saleratus.

SPONGE CAKE.—Four large eggs, two cups of flour, two cups of sugar, even full; beat the two parts of the eggs separate, the whites to a froth; then beat them together, stir in the flour, and, without delay, put it into the oven.

INDIAN CAKE.—One pint sweet milk, one egg, two large spoonfuls of molasses, two of melted butter, one and one-half cups of corn meal, one cup flour, one teaspoonful cream tartar, one-half teaspoonful soda, a little salt; mix together, then chop some sweet apples about the size of raisins, and stir in and bake.

MARLBORO PIE.—One pint of sour apples stewed fine or soft, three eggs, one cup of sweet cream or milk, sugar to taste; flavor with nutmeg and lemon; cover with a good crust.

HOME CUP CAKE.—Two cups of sugar, one cup of butter, one cup of milk, three eggs, three tablespoonfuls cream tartar, one of soda, flour to make it proper consistency.

COLOGNE WATER.—One pint of alcohol, sixty drops of lavender, sixty drops of bergamot, sixty drops essence of lemon, sixty drops of orange water; to be corked up and well shaken. It is better for considerable age.

MR. SCOTT'S MISTAKES.

Mr. Scott opposed by every argument he could drag forth, the extension of the franchise to farmer's sons, so as to place them on an equal footing with young men in towns and cities who may vote on income.

Mr. Scott from the first supported the increase of the sessional allowance to members, and therefore must come in for a good share of the condemnation of that increase by papers of his own party. His vote this session, on Mr. Parkhill's amendment, was really not to decrease the indemnity for Mr. Scott, even if he did write the resolution, as currently stated, knew that it must be voted down as a want of confidence motion. No man can be blamed for fairly and honestly supporting his convictions; or for changing them either, when he can give good reasons; but when a parliamentarian embodies a sentiment in a resolution which must inevitably fail to carry, it is not unfair to suppose that he desired the defeat of the proposition made. Mr. Scott has never yet declared that $800 is too much to indemnify him for loss of time, &c., during a session of Parliament. When the question first came up he thought it little enough, and we see no reason why he should have changed his views now, except he has obtained a more modest estimate of the value of his time and professional usefulness. He certainly should be worth as much per session now as then, therefore if $800 be enough for him now $900 was clearly too much then; and he did wrong in supporting the increase to the latter amount. Furthermore, when a motion arose in committee to reduce the allowance to $800 again, Mr. Scott did not vote for the smaller sum.

Mr. Scott during the present session entered a contention against the duration of the parliamentary session after the 2nd inst, but instead of backing up his opinion by a resolution, he and those who agreed with him suffered the matter to drop without any formal record of their objections, or support of them beyond the raising of them on a question of privilege. The most definite statement that could be got out of any of them was that made by Mr. Meredith, more in apology than in declaration, that there was at least room for doubt regarding the validity of Acts passed after the second day of February. There is room for doubts, in some heads, regarding any Act in the Statutes, but we fancy doubts on the point raised by Mr. Scott will never carry any case into court. We have already stated, and are free to repeat, that the attention called to certain matters during the discussion has done good, but we cannot see why so much time should have been wasted over a mere question of privilege, especially by professed economists who might have been expected to try and shorten the session down to the briefest and least expensive dimensions. It is a very noticeable feature that Mr. Scott's doubts as to the legality of the House, do not prevent him from retaining his seat, nor will it keep him from drawing his full $800 indemnity.

In these matters Mr. Scott is more to blame than others of the Opposition, for if a leader of the party has no more power over them and less members of it, he certainly is the falsely styled a leader.

GRAND JUNCTION JEALOUSY.

Right or not readers will have a ready illustration of a proposition made some years ago, in favour of the earliest efforts of the Examiner, that the Grand Junction and the Midland Railways should be united, between Belleville and the back country, matters seemed to take a most favourable course, and Grand Junction stock began to look up in Peterborough county. Arrangements were made to send deputations from Peterborough county and town to confer with the Grand Junction Directors, and a time was mentioned at which the consultation from which so much was hoped might take place. But more mysterly clouded affairs when two or three days after their arrangement for a general consultation of all interests, a number of representatives of the Grand Junction Company visited Norwood and this town, and acted and spoke in a most unaccountable manner regarding the proposals made. They were strangely indefinite in their language, and took care to express themselves neither for nor against propositions emanating from the north. It is not wonderful that this queer style of proceedure on the part of these men renewed suspicions regarding the Grand Junction project that had nearly been laid asleep, thanks to the honest energy of a few men who held the interest of the people of Peterborough before private ends, either pecuniary or political. Little has since been said of railway interests here, in the way of urging on any enterprise, as men preferred to keep quiet rather that utter undefined suspicions. We believe, however, that we have now got a clue to the mystery. A map lies before us, as the title says, "showing the Grand Junction and Toronto and Ottawa Railway, and that too in a way calculated to surprise the people of this county, if not of Hastings. It is evidently issued by some one who has a big interest in the Grand Junction line, and who is particularly solicitous of that interest, though to our mind foolish, in that he takes a pretty sure way of making it more unpopular all round, if possible than before. The idea as shown on the map is to build the Grand Junction road to this town, and to use that line, by way of Westwood, Hastings, Campbellford, Stirling, West Huntington and Tweed, instead of the line of the Toronto and Ottawa road as at present proposed. This, it will be easily seen by a glance at the map of the counties, would cut out Norwood, Marmora, Madoc, &c., from connection with this town, and practically spoil the chances of providing a road through this county. This arrangement was probably in the minds of the Grand Junction representatives who visited Norwood and this town, and succeeded in putting a stop to things so effectually. It would seem now that their visit was to prevent the proposed consultation, to arrest the tide of popularity that was setting in all around in favour of the route by Norwood, and to gain time to work their own plans, in their own interest as against all others. But as we have before observed their plan is not likely to meet with any more favor than their untrustworthy tactics deserve. Certainly this town and county cannot fall in with it, and Belleville is likely to scout it utterly, if we may judge from remarks made at a late public meeting in that town. We do not know if the Directorate of the Toronto and Ottawa project have given this new departure any encouragement, but for their own sakes we hope not. It hardly seems possible that if they knew about it they would not have denounced it from the start, yet the only way of accounting for ignorance of it on their part, is that the Grand Junction party were practicing deceit upon them, while professing to treat with them. Thus the key opens up more mystery. But to evolve any theory concerning our friends would be both unjust and unwise, until they have a chance to explain their position and express their opinions. In the meantime we would advise all who have had anything to do with this precious map to suppress it, and to call in all procurable copies that may have been issued. We intend to keep ours for our own good purposes, and the satisfaction of those interested.

EDUCATION AND TAXATION.

It has for years been the boast of Ontario that her system of education is among the best, if not the very best in the world; but with that lack of patriotism for which the Tory out of office is peculiar, the Opposition in and out of the Legislative Chamber, attack most recklessly, honored institutions, if so be they but think they can raise enough excitement to give them some party capital at the approaching general election. It is but a repetition of the traitorous tactics they adopted before the late Dominion elections, in running down the character of Canada, merely with the purpose to create popular discontent that might fall on the then Reform Government; but really with the effect of doing lasting, if not permanent, injury to the Dominion. This unscrupulousness gives the Tories a certain temporary advantage over the Reformers, who are generally more circumspect as to the ultimate effect of their contentions, and always less anxious for a snatched party gain than for permanent results beneficial to the whole country. That their efforts are in the end successful in ameliorating the evils wrought by the recklessness of their opponents, and in controlling the spirit of their own party from fighting with the same dangerous engines, is the present reward of the Reformers. That reward will be added to in after years by the acknowledgement of their wisdom and sacrifice by their successors—even as the men of to-day admit the patriotic labors of Reformers of "the brave days of old." In this matter of our schools, as has been the case in other matters, it now becomes the part of the Reformers of Ontario to take the Conservative attitude of supporting and defending the stability and honor of existing things, against the worse than ultra-Radical demagogueism of Tories ravening for office. The chief obstacle of late years has been the popular apathy with regard to our schools. This is evidenced not only in the lack of interest in the election of trustees; but also in the scarcity of visits to the schoolroom by the general public. The placing of the Education Department in the hands of a member of the general Government, responsible to the people through Parliament, has without doubt awakened popular interest in the schools and all connected with them. Many little abuses that had arisen imperceptibly, and had been unnoticed, have been corrected; and many improvements made, in the aggregate important, though when separately spoken of, apparently trifling. The object of Tories to pauperize education

Those, therefore, who cry out against the increased cost of our schools are scarcely mindful of their importance to the whole people, or that it is better to give our children, at whatever cost, all the advantages of the knowledge of the time in which we live, that they may in their turn go forward in the race of progress from where we, perforce, leave off. Free, full and broadly furnished education is the only thing that will ensure young Canada the victory against all rivals. It is the best investment to which public money can be put.

RESISTING A RAILWAY MONOPOLY.

The action of Messrs. Green and Trounce in serving an injunction on the Snowdon Iron Mine and Blast Furnace Company, whereby work was stopped on the branch railway to the Snowdon Iron Mine, has opened the eyes of the people of that district to the general interest involved in the question. It is now perceived that if Mr. Myles be permitted to build the road and hold exclusive privileges such as asked for, not only will the public right in the common carrying trade suffer, but the future development of the mineral interest will be at the mercy of a monopoly. It seems from a petition circulated, and largely signed in the locality, that Mr. Myles and his associate holds the only suitable route to the iron region, in which others are probably more largely interested than they. Of course Messrs. Green and Trounce are working for their own interest, but it certainly is as large as that of the Iron Company that asks an exclusive railway, for they own a larger slice of the mineral territory than does the company. All that the people require, is that the charter granted the railway shall contain the common conditions creating the company a common carrier, guarding the public against extortion and rival interests against undue pressure.

When these popular representations are made to the Government, they will doubtless have the desired effect; for aside from the well-known and wise averseness of the Mowat administration to the granting of special charters of any kind, the justice of the case is plainly in favor of the masses as against the creation of what might, and undoubtedly would be a strangling monopoly upon the iron interest of the Snowdon District.

OPENING OF PARLIAMENT.

The Dominion Parliament will meet today at Ottawa. Messrs. Burnham and Hilliard left on the evening train on Wednesday to be present at the opening ceremonies. These will occupy the greater part of the first day, and then, or some time after the N. P. Elephant will be trotted out to public gaze. It is useless to speculate on the peculiarities of this long looked for policy.

THE FARMERS' CANDIDATE.

The Reformers of the East Riding, as will be seen from our report of the Norwood Convention, have selected Thos. Blezard, Esq., as their candidate in the approaching local election. Mr. Blezard is a wealthy farmer, popular in the Riding, and is sure to receive a very large vote. As the East Riding is assuredly an agricultural one, for although containing several villages not one of them exceeds one thousand in population. The choice of the Convention having been made unanimous he will receive the hearty and earnest support of his friends, and we are fully confident of many who have been known as Conservatives.

It is true his opponent, Mr. Calcut, is well-known in the Riding, and has been, and still is, actively engaged in canvassing, and too great confidence in the struggle of party, or of a candidate, ought not to induce indifference. The only wise policy is to work earnestly, honestly and continuously, until the last vote is polled, and then comes victory or defeat. There can be no cause for regrets. We therefore advise the Reformers of the East, to be active and successful in their organizations.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

From the announcement of their Cabinet until this moment, the power of the Tories has continued to crumble.—Irish Canadian

The Montreal Post desires to see members of Parliament paid according to the ability they display. This is an insidious attempt to create a sinecure for the Dominion paymaster.

The reduction in the estimates for the indemnity to members and Ontario Minister's salaries takes the wind out of the sails of a great many cross road orators, who had puffed themselves up for the coming campaign.

After the first false step the down grade is easy. We find the Peterboro' Review circulating the views of the unlimited paper money men without a word pointing out their fallacy and danger.—Lindsay Post.

The late Mr. Johnston, publisher of the London Standard, a penny paper of large circulation, has left personal property to the amount of two millions in value. Courage, brethern of the quill in Canada, who knows but some of us may die millionaires!

Not very long ago the Mail complained that Lieutenant-Governor Macdonald did not give balls and receptions enough; but now another Tory paper has it that "the country has to provide balls for "upper-tendom" at the public expense." Amazing consistency!

A barrel of flour which costs $6 in New York city before it can reach the city of Mexico is subject to charges amounting to $25.25, so that in order to cover cost it must sell for $31.25.—(United States Miller.

In this country the protectionists argue that $33.03 would be paid by the miller.

As was expected before the opening of the present session, the Ontario estimates propose a reduction of the membership indemnity to $600. There is also a calculation to reduce the Ministers' salaries by $600 each per annum. The latter will require the passage of a Bill.

Those Tory papers which are now clamouring for the repeal of the Scott Act should recall the repeal of the Gavazzi Act. It only led to the Orange Society and Equal Rights Association, and Separate Schools, and Jesuits' Estates, and Double Majorities, and Representation by Population, and Secession, and Dissolution, and Annexation, and Confederation, and Repeal, and Disallowance, and Coercion, and Home Rule, and Fenianism, and Riel

Cricket.—The cricket season of 1879 promises three important events: The visit of the Lord Harris team, now playing in Australia, on its way home via San Francisco; the visit of the noted amateurs, the Lacelles Hall club of England, in August, and the arrival of a professional team under Daft, in September.

Church Collections.—Says the Toronto Telegram:—There are scores of people in Toronto who go to church and hardly ever think of contributing towards the collection. As it costs money to keep the churches going, and as the money has to be raised by pew rents and voluntary subscriptions, people who go to church, especially those who do not pay for pews, should in all fairness give their quota towards meeting the expenses. It may be a matter of opinion whether the sermon is worth the contribution or not; but people should remember that if they burn up the church coal and use the church gas, they are in duty bound to make some return for it.

Regular Advertisers.—We commend the following, taken from an exchange, to the consideration of business men:—"Take it as a rule, the constant advertiser is the one who does a profitable business, and not the one who flashes his announcements at irregular intervals upon the public. A merchant starts a business, puts up his sign and he keeps it there continually. He won't he considered a rara avis indeed, if he would pull down his sign when business was dull, and put it up again when business livened up. Still, that is the plan of some advertisers. They make a good show for a few times, hanging out a nice sign, telling people where to find them, and what they have for sale, and when trade slackens, they pull in their sign, and take a nap until better times awaken them. We think our advertisers, those who wish to make use of printers' ink to pay them, would find it more profitable to have regular, yearly cards running, changing them frequently to prevent them getting stale, then make their special announcements in separate advertisements when ready to do so."

A Doubt Removed.—Some people doubt whether Municipal Councils have the power to enforce By-laws requiring the removal of snow and ice. Upon this assumption several of our contemporaries have reproduced and favorably commented upon an extract from the judgment of a Judge in one of the Western States, which went to the effect that corporations had not the power in question and that they could not oblige people to forget their duties to their sidewalks any more than they could require businessmen to work on Sundays. Accordingly an assessment of $5 was made by the town way by predecessors of these gentlemen, and those who continue to be put to costs, as was done in the case of certain bill of the Municipal Act, which gives power to compel persons to perform statute labor.

Personal.—R. Tenley, Esq., M. P. for East Middlesex, was in town on Saturday visiting his friends.

Snow Shoe Races.—The annual races of the Snow Shoe Club will take place on Thursday next, 20th instant.

Painstaking.—Mr. Jos. Little has opened out a beautiful collection of water colour paintings by English artists, which are well worth inspection.

The Three Links.—A number of the Odd-fellows of Peterborough Lodge were entertained last evening at a banquet given by the Omemee brethren.

Sudden Death.—Mr. John Lillico, senior, of Monaghan, died on Monday of inflammation of the lungs. He was ill only a few days. He was 61 years of age—a comparatively young man.

The "Bung" of the Hour.—The Collector of Customs at this port, on Monday of this week, received over $1,600 duty. The greater part or nearly all of the sum was paid by T. W. Robinson & Co., and F. Consal & Co., on sugar.

Poultry Association.—A meeting of the Managing Committee to make final arrangements for the Society's Exhibition, which opens on Tuesday next, will be held this evening, in the Council Chamber, commencing at 7.30.

Legal.—We clip the following from the report of the proceedings of the Court of Queen's Bench on Saturday, before Chief Justice Hagarty and Justices Armour and Cameron:—

"QUEEN v. ROSEY.—Judgment.—This was a rule nisi to quash a conviction under the Dairy By-law removed into the Court by certiorari on the grounds amongst others that the By-law had not been properly proved before the Magistrate. Rule discharged. Armour. J., dissenting."

Cheap Goods.—As this is the season of the year when merchants are taking stock and are desirous to clear out their goods as much as possible, people can expect good bargains. They can, at least, secure them by going to W. Fairbrother & Co's, where many lots of goods are now being sold at immense bargains. Read their advertisement, examine their goods, and save money.

Missionary Services.—The annual missionary services in connection with the George Street Methodist Church will be preached on Sabbath next:—In the morning by John McDonald, Esq., of Toronto; and in the evening by the Rev. Dr. Young. On Monday evening a meeting will be held in the Church, in aid of the missionary fund, when addresses will be made by the above named gentlemen and others.

Ontario College of Pharmacy.—Among the names of those who passed at the late semi-annual examination of the Ontario College of Pharmacy, we notice the name of Mr. W. Fitzgerald, of Millbrook, formerly with Messrs. Ormond & Walsh, of this town. He took first place in "Prescriptions" and "Practical Dispensing," and carried off the special prize for proficiency in the practical departments.

Band Serenade.—Last Saturday evening the Fire Brigade Band played several selections, on the streets. Each member is now supplied with a small lamp or torch, a la Sir Humphrey Davy, which is worn in the cap and takes the place of the plume, at night. They were made at Mr. Adam Hall's, and are creditable to the establishment for neatness and workmanship, and are quite an acquisition to the "boys" while playing at all hours.

East Peterborough L. O. L.—At a meeting of the County of Peterborough, East Riding, Loyal Orange Lodge, held last Tuesday at the Hall of the True Blue L. O. L., Norwood, No. 568, the following officers were elected for the current year:—W. H. Stephenson, County Master; Thomas Campbell, Deputy Master; Archibald Anderson, Secretary; James Robb, Treasurer; Rev. W. Pattyson, Chaplain; Thos. Frame, Director of Ceremonies; D. McIntyre, Lecturer; David Andrews and C. Stephenson, Auditors.

Conversazione.—Remember the conversazione to-morrow evening in Bradburn's Hall, in aid of the George-street Methodist Church. Besides some of our own musicians, Miss Shaw and Mrs. Dr. Harrison will sing. A glee club from Lakefield will assist, and two of Cobourn's best readers, Mr. Burns and Mr. St. John, will give readings, while instrumental music will be rendered by Mr. Heathfield and others from town. The whole programme warrants us in anticipating a delightful entertainment. Reserved seats may be obtained at Wilson & Davis', Tickets, 25c. to all parts of the hall.

Passing Away.—We regret to announce the decease of Wm. Fife, Esq., of Peterborough, on Wednesday last, after a brief illness, at the age of 72 years. He was a native of Scotland, immigrated to Canada and settled in Otonabee with his father and family in 1833. He resided there until 1853, when he removed to this town, in which he resided to his decease. He leaves a widow to whom he had been married 51 years, and 11 children, all of whom are comfortably provided for. His illness, erysipelas, was very short—we believe he was down town only a few days before his decease. The funeral took place on Friday, and was largely attended by relatives and friends.

Property Owners' Association.—A meeting of the Property Owners' Association was called for Monday evening, but as there was not enough members present to form a quorum the meeting separated without transacting any business. As there seems to be a wrong impression regarding the qualification necessary for members, we have been requested to publish the following clause of the By-law defining who shall be eligible for membership:

"All owners of real estate in their own right shall be eligible for membership, but no person while a member of the Town Council, or whilst a permanent salaried officer of the town shall be eligible as a member of the Association."

We are informed that notice of motion has been given to remove that portion of the above at present disqualifying members of the Town Council.

Auction Sales.—The attention of those interested is directed to the following sales:—

On Friday, 14th instant, new and well kept household furniture belonging to Mr. Henry Cumming, at his residence, Chambers street, in rear of Bank of Commerce. Sale at one o'clock p.m. Chas. Stapleton, Auctioneer.

On Saturday, 15th instant, at Cavanagh's Hotel, the south fifty acres of the West Half of Lot 18, in the 17th Concession of Otonabee. Sale at 2 o'clock. Chas. Stapleton, Auctioneer.

On Tuesday, 18th instant, farm stock and implements, the property of Mr. Robert Turnbull, at his premises, Lot number 16, in the 4th Concession of South Monaghan. Sale at 12.30 o'clock. Chas. Stapleton, Auctioneer.

On Tuesday, 18th instant, farm stock and implements belonging to Mr. Leighton Nolan, Lot number 11, in the 6th Concession of Douro. Sale to commence at noon. George McIlmoyle, Auctioneer.

On Thursday, 20th instant, at Harwood, 600,000 feet of lumber, belonging to Messrs. Mc-Dougall & Leighton. A great chance for farmers and others to secure good lumber at their own figures. Chas. Stapleton, Auctioneer.

Does It Pay to Pay Cash?—This question has doubtless been asked at least once per week for years past, by every man in Peterborough who pays as he goes, and the answer to it has never been satisfactory. A man who has a horse to sell will sacrifice from $10 to $50 on him for cash in hand. A wagon-maker who sells $150 for a vehicle where the buyer pays only a small amount down and gets credit for rest, will let it go at once when you stake $130 cash at him. It is so in buying a house and lot and many other things, but it is not so in buying what we eat and wear. If Mr. Black is in the dry goods trade he can secure better terms in Montreal with cash than without it, and so can grocers, clothier and boot and shoe men. But when you come to buy at retail this principle is lost sight of. While all dealers claim to sell for cash, all of them give credit to such citizens as are supposed to be "solid." The family have a pass-book, and settlements are made once a month or once a quarter. "Not one family out of five is ready to settle with me on time," said a Peterborough grocer, when talking this matter over. "Ten ninety days which I allow are spun out to six months, and even to twelve, and sometimes they jump the whole bill. I lose ten dollars by one of these 'solid' families for every two shillings lost by laboring men. When they beat me it is for hundreds of dollars." It is the same with the dry goods men. They give short credits, and they charge hundreds of dollars to the good less account every year. When they say thirty days, the customer says sixty. They meet him, send a collector in chase, and are lucky if they get the sum total in a year. One dealer has of this debt $2,000 charged to "bills" and "dues. All is overdue at least thirty days. His figures as lenity at least goes, and an honest man of a stamp of the $2,000 for six months longer. Now, there is only the man who pays the money on the counter; the rest go unrewarded. The latter don't want it, because a credit account is a badge of honor as for many years. At each dinner party some one of the guests is selected as the victim of the evening, and he or them a "chaser" to the nearest. The guests are no thinner, and the table the same. Whenever a man dies he leaves his debts behind him. Why can't it be the same with the living? If it is the rule to pay cash for everything, the object to enter the market would be to secure the best bargain for the money. Now, the object is to get credit, and when given you are compelled to pay for it. Does it pay?

Personal.—We are pleased to learn that Mr. Ormond, of the firm of Ormond & Walsh, who has been suffering from a severe attack of a prevalent epidemic similar to influenza, is convalescent.

For Europe.—Mr. E. Mansell and family leave town this week for England. They sail from New York on the steamship Germanic, one of the finest vessels of the White Star Line, for which Messrs. Wilson & Davis are agents in this town.

G. T. R. Concert.—The G. T. R. Band, of Port Hope, gave an entertainment in the Opera House on Thursday evening of last week, to a very small audience. The evening's programme was concluded by a farce entitled "The Mischievous Nigger," in which Mr. W. J. Stevens proved himself a master of the "Black Art," and delighted the audience by his funny sayings and doings.

Dairymens' Association.—The annual meeting of the Dairymens' Association for Eastern Ontario will be held in Ottawa on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, 25th, 26th and 27th instant. Several of the best speakers in the United States and Canada will deliver addresses. Railway fare half price. Parties wishing to join the Association may obtain certificates of membership from H. Ashley, Secretary, Belleville, or P. Rissman, Gendron.

The following is the Report of the Inspector of Prisons:—

PETERBOROUGH GAOL.

Prisoners committed during the year, 97; greatest number confined at one time, 15; number of re-committals, 40; total cost of maintaining Gaol, $2,167.78.

This Gaol was visited by me on the 5th March. There were then in custody 7 men and 4 women, 2 of the former and all the latter being vagrants, three of the women were confirmed prostitutes, whose detention for a long period in a Reformatory for females would have been both in the interests of society and themselves. Three men were waiting trial upon a charge of rape and two were under sentence. It was submitted to me, whether prisoners waiting trial should be allowed to see their legal advisers beyond the hearing of Gaol officials, even though it were suspected that there was an illegal object in view. On the matter being referred to Hon. the Attorney-General, he decided that an attorney should have an opportunity of conversing with his client without being overheard, notwithstanding any suspicions that his object might be an illegitimate one, as a prisoner awaiting trial is retained in Gaol for safe custody only and not for punishment.

The Gaol throughout was very well kept, as were also the yards.

I was glad to learn that the Council had decided to relay the floors previously referred to in my report, and also to substitute matched lumber for the broken plaster ceilings.

The books were examined and the Register was found not to have been balanced off to correspond with the return sent in to the Government at the end of the official year. Instructions were given to have this done.

The Gaol Surgeon's book either did not shew all his visits or else he had not made a sufficient number to comply with the regulations.

I instructed Mr. Hayes to make the second statutory inspection of this Gaol. He did so on the 28th June and reported as follows:

"The Gaol was in good condition, although the wards required lime-whitewashing. The Turnkey, who accompanied me, is the Bailiff's son-in-law, and is not a suitable person to have the charge of the Gaol. The recommendations made by you in regard to the Gaol ceilings and floors had been acted upon and the Gaol was much improved in appearance thereby. The beds were neatly made up and the supply of bedding was reported to be sufficient.

"An order for a supply of the new regulation clothing had not been sent in, but I was informed that the question was then before the Council. The Sheriff was requested to report the result.

"In the female ward, I found that one of the cells was used as a store-room for the clothing of the sentenced prisoners, who could have access to it, as it was not kept locked. The Matron was instructed to see that the cell when used as a store-room was always locked.

"Eight prisoners were in custody, 2 being males and 3 females. Of the former, two were committed on Monday, one to three days' sentence for a short period for trespass, all the women were under sentence. Of the insane prisoners, one was a case of epilepsy, and the other was apparently working off an attack of delirium tremens. One of the male prisoners under sentence was not clothed in prison garb, although he had been over twelve hours in Gaol, the Turnkey was instructed to immediately carry out the regulation.

"The books were examined. The Register was fairly well kept, but had not been balanced off according to instructions. Frequent visits and orders had been recorded by the Surgeon. As no punishment book was kept, the Sheriff was requested to see that one was opened in the manner explained to him."

EAST PETERBOROUGH.

CONVENTION FOR THE SELECTION OF A CANDIDATE.

THE FARMERS' CANDIDATE.

Thomas Blezard, Esq., of Otonabee, the Chosen One—Election of Officers.

There was present at Norwood, on Friday afternoon last, one of the largest gatherings of Reformers ever seen in the vicinity. The meeting was called for the purpose of selecting a candidate to represent the Riding of East Peterboro' in the Local Legislature. Previous to commencing this, a meeting of the Reform Association was held, when the following officers were elected:—

PRESIDENT.—Mr. W. E. Roxburgh.
VICE-PRESIDENT.—Mr. G. J. Galvin.
SEC-TREAS.—Dr. Dean.

The Presidents of the different Township Associations to be Vice-Presidents by virtue of their office.

Moved by Mr. T. CAMPBELL, of Warsaw, seconded by Mr. A. R. KIDD, Reeve of Dummer,—That a vote of thanks be tendered to our retiring President and officers, for the able manner in which they have discharged the duties of their respective offices.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. A. R. KIDD, Reeve of Dummer, seconded by Mr. A. NELSON,—That the members of this Convention, pledge themselves to sustain and support the Candidate that is selected by a majority of those delegates now assembled.—Carried unanimously.

Moved by Mr. D. A. MCFARLANE, of Otonabee, seconded by Mr. WM. BURGESS, Reeve of Belmont,—That this Convention views with alarm the lack of principle manifested by the Opposition during the debate on the address, and afterwards during the election on the inclemency of members. Men who originated the movement for increase of sessional allowances, and who pledged their word and honor to accept their due share of the responsibility attached to that act, have so far forgot their word of honor, and their own counterpart as to try to make political capital at their own expense. We therefore hold, that it be our duty to do our utmost that these men shall not be supported in what is regarded by most whose opinions are worth having, as a dishonorable act, and we shall be required by most whose opinions are worth having, as a dishonorable act, and we shall be required by most whose desire and influence shall be to oust, truthfully, honestly and in the interests of their constituents, who send them to serve public interest and not merely their own pockets.

Moved by Mr. [illegible] Reeve of Otonabee, seconded by Mr. [illegible] of Douro,—That the members of this Convention have entered with deep interest into the discussion of the Mowat Administration, and are of opinion that the Government has fulfilled the pledges given to the country at the last election, and that the Government is entitled to the confidence of the country.—Carried.

The Child on the Judgment Seat.

Where hast thou been toiling all day, sweet-heart,
That thy brow is burdened and red?
Thy Master's work may make weary feet,
But it leaves the spirit glad.

Was thy garden nipped with the midnight frost,
Or smothered with the mid-day glare?
Were thy vines laid low, or thy lilies crushed,
That thy lap is so full of care?

No pleasant garden tells were mine,
I have sat on the judgment seat,
Where the Master sits at eve and calls
The children round his feet.

How comest them on the judgment seat,
Sweetheart, who set thee there?
'Tis a lonely and lofty seat for thee,
And well might'st tilt thou wert sure.

"I climbed on the judgment seat myself.
I have sat there almost all day,
For it grieved me to see the children around
Idling their life away.

"They wanted the Master's precious seed:
They wasted the precious hours;
They planted not for vines, nor gathered the vine,
And they trampled the sweet, meek flower."

And what hast thou done on the judgment seat,
Sweetheart, who set thee there?
Did the garden need thy care?

"Nay, that grieved me more: I called and I cried,
But they left me there forlorn;
My voice was weak, and they heeded not
Or they laughed my words to scorn."

Ah, the judgment seat was not for thee:
The servants were not thine!
And the eyes which adjudge the praise and the blame
See further than thine or mine.

The voice that shall sound there at eve, sweet-heart,
Will not raise its tones to be heard;
It will touch the hearts and hush the earth.
And none will resist its word.

"Should I see the Master's treasures lost -
The leaves that should feed His sheep,
And not lift my voice, be it weak as it may.
And not be grieved sore?"

Wait till the evening falls, sweetheart,
Wait till the evening falls;
The Master is near and knoweth all,
Wait till the Master calls.

But how fared thy garden plot, sweetheart,
Whilst thou sat on the judgment seat?
Who watered thy roses and trained thy vines,
And kept them from careless feet?

"Nay, that is saddest of all to me.
Tost is saddest of all:
My vines are trailing, my roses are parched,
My lilies droop and fall."

Go back to thy garden plot, sweetheart:
Go back till the evening falls!
And bind thy lilies and train thy vines,
Till for thee the Master calls.

Go make thy garden fair as thou canst:
Those weakest never shine;
Providence he whose plot is next to thine
Will see it and mend his own.

And the next may copy his, sweet heart,
Till all grows fair and sweet,
And when the Master comes at eve.
Happy faces his coming will greet.

Then shall thy joy be full, sweetheart.
In the garden so fair to see,
In the Master's words of praise for all:
In a look of his own for thee!

THE CENTRAL EXHIBITION.

Annual Meeting at Millbrook.—President's Address.—A New Basis Adopted.

On Wednesday last the annual meeting of the representatives of a large number of the Agricultural Societies within the bounds of the 5th Agricultural District of Ontario, was held in the Town Hall, Millbrook, at 1 o'clock, p.m.

The chair having been taken by the President, Geo. Cockburn, Esq., Baltimore,

The Secretary read the minutes of the last annual meeting, which were on motion confirmed.

The following delegates then answered to their names, viz:—West Peterborough, Messrs. Jas. Campbell, Rev. V. Clementi, Jos. Walton, T. E. Bell, and John Carnegie; Peterborough Horticultural Society, John McClelland; Township of Smith, &c., Society, Messrs. Samuel McKibbon, Thos. Young, and M. S. Dean; South Victoria, Col. Deacon; North Victoria, John Daniel; East Durham, Messrs. John Foott, and Richard Bowden; West Durham, Samuel Wilmott, and Marshal Porter; West Northumberland, Messrs. George Cockburn, Walter Riddell, and J. M. Carruthers; East Peterborough, James Miller; Hope, Johnston Reattie; Hamilton, Henry Lapp.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

The President then read the following address:—

Gentlemen, Delegates of the General Association of the Fifth Agricultural District of Ontario:

In accordance with the custom of previous Presidents, in addressing you on these occasions, I beg to offer a few remarks.

When this Association was organized, four years ago, the first Exhibition being held at Peterborough, in 1874,—it was merely looked upon as an experiment; and I feel happy to be able to say that, after holding four Exhibitions, alternately in each of the four Counties of this district, it has proved a success beyond what was anticipated when first originated, and has elicited from all who visited the Fair at Cobourg last October, the warmest expressions of praise.

The entries exceeded those of any former year; and in Live Stock, especially the Horses, the entries were about double those of the former fairs. Although the Grain, generally below the average in yield, the samples were good, the Root and Fruit departments, in quality if not in quantity, were not surpassed at the Provincial Exhibition at Toronto, as affirmed by many, who attended both Fairs.

Financially, I cannot speak in such glowing terms; but reasons can be given for the surplus being less than on the preceding occasion. In the first place, the amount paid over to Cobourg by contributing Societies was much less than last year; several (five,) Societies sending delegates on the surplus from Lindsay, and not contributing anything to Cobourg. But in mentioning this, I do not wish it to be understood as casting the least reflection; but only to show the position we were in, compared with former years; and because some very ungenerous remarks have been made in regard to the matter. In the next place, we paid more in prizes than was paid the preceding year; and again, but for the hard times prevailing, many more would have visited the Fair. It will appear evident to all that the reasons given are sufficient to show why the balance is less this year.

The success which has attended this Central Association is not to be measured solely by the amount distributed in premiums, but also in bringing together, Stock, Agricultural Implements, Manufactures, &c., drawing comparisons, and giving a stimulus to each in the various departments to excel the other; and this is what has brought things to such perfection at the present time.

The system of holding exhibitions in different places in the District, periodically, has a tendency to bring many of the manufacturing improvements, the excellencies of Stock, &c., more directly under the notice of the inhabitants, which would not otherwise be the case as was proved, I think, by the remarks of many who attended our fairs, who had no idea that such excellent Stock, Machinery, &c., could be found in this District, and considered it a great improvement on Township Shows.

As we have had four exhibitions, one in each county, as was at first proposed, and have been thus far successful, it seems almost needless to say that a different basis should be adopted in order to enjoy a continuation of our operations until [illegible] part of Secretaries of local Societies in forwarding their members' names to the Secretary of the Central, and also in members in making their entries at the proper time. I would recommend that the rules and regulations of the Society be more rigidly enforced in the future.

I would also suggest that in the future the exhibition be held four days, to give exhibitors of Stock, implements and other heavy articles more time to have them properly placed, without so much hurry and confusion as we have experienced in the past. I would also recommend that no tickets of admission be given to members, as in the past, which would prevent a great deal of confusion and dissatisfaction, and be a benefit to the Society.

Excepting a few unwarrantable criticisms, the Fair held at Cobourg last October under the auspices of this organization, has given very general satisfaction, and proves this system to be an improvement on our local Shows, meeting the requirements of the agricultural and manufacturing community.

In conclusion I beg to tender my hearty thanks for the honor conferred upon me in my appointment to this position, and for the courtesy and general good feeling which have prevailed during the year; and hope that still greater success may attend the efforts of this Central organization in the future.

Moved by Mr. Clementi, seconded by Mr. Wilmott,—That the thanks of this meeting be tendered to Mr. Cockburn for the address, and that he be requested to allow the same to be published.—Carried unanimously.

THE NEW BASIS.

It being suggested that the meeting should proceed to the election of officers for the ensuing year,

Mr. Carnegie said, before appointing a committee to nominate the officers for the year, he thought that they had better consider the clause of the President's address, with reference to the adoption of a new basis for providing the funds each year necessary for the proper carrying out of these Exhibitions. As they were aware that there was no surplus to fall back upon this year, and as he thought that the smallest guarantee fund with which they would be justified in issuing a suitable prize list would be $1,000, they had better consider how this sum could be provided in the future, before proceeding to appoint officers which would be useless without it. He had been favoured with a draft of a scheme for this purpose from Mr. Beale, of Lindsay, who was unfortunately prevented from being present. As it is its chief features coincided with his own opinions, he read it to them pointing out as he did so, wherein he disagreed with it, and concluded by suggesting that if the views he had indicated were acceptable, they might take Mr. Beale's paper as a basis for discussion.

Rev. V. Clementi said it was not necessary to accept Mr. Beale's plan of re-organization. He had serious objections to many clauses of the scheme. The West Peterborough delegates were prepared to support the scheme of their Secretary, Mr. Carnegie.

Mr. Wilmott expressed a fear that any change made in the constitution without due notice having been given would result in injury to the Society. He and his colleague —Mr. Porter—were sent as delegates by the West Durham Society in accordance with the existing constitution, and represented a grant of $100. If a change were now made in the organization, he and his co-delegate would have to retire.

Mr. Carnegie said he did not submit Mr. Beale's scheme as it stood as a basis for organization. He had pointed out when he read it that he objected entirely to some of its provisions but that as there was also much good in it he thought it might serve as a basis for discussion. With regard to Mr. Wilmott's position he wished to say that if any new arrangement adopted did not meet the approval of the society he represented of course they would not be bound by the resolution they had passed in sending them to the meeting. With regard to there being no notice given of intended change, the necessity for a new basis, since the result of the Cobourg show was known, had been freely discussed by the press of the district, and so strong was this feeling that at least a large majority of delegates present had come here to-day for the purpose of re-organizing on a new basis, and unbacked up by the usual grants under the old arrangement. In fact if the old arrangement was to be continued the delegates from his county would at once have to retire from the meeting, as their societies had not voted a dollar in accordance with the old arrangement.

Mr. Foott said he had always taken a great interest in this association and trusted that it would go on and prosper. He feared it would not do to adopt a new basis to-day, although he admitted some change must be made. He would recommend that they should not discuss the matter to-day but postpone action to a future meeting, so that they might consult their respective societies.

Col. Deacon said he for one came there for the purpose of putting the Association on a new basis, and he might as well tell them plainly that things could not go on as they had been doing. He coincided with the views entertained by Mr. Carnegie as to the basis upon which they should re-organize, and if they could not all agree to it he had no fear but that three of the counties, or even Victoria and Peterborough could keep these exhibitions going.

Another direction four incorrigible croquet players are wasting their energies over that obsolete game, while more than one couple are mustering among the flower beds, of course engrossed in botanical topics.

A few pages and mammas are watching the scene from a broad veranda, and among them stands the host. He is a large man of perhaps forty-five, with thoughtful brow and keen, dark eyes that are perpetually glancing from one object to another. At present they are resting affectionately on the face of a girl, who has just emerged from a side-path, accompanied by a young man. This is Mr Houghton's orphan niece, Winnifred Leigh, who, beside himself, is the sole occupant of the great stone house. She is a tall girl with graceful, well-poised figure, masses of yellow gold hair and great, passive brown eyes that gaze wonderingly out into the world beyond through their curtain of dark lashes. Add to these, clear-cut features and a certain haughty carriage of the head and you will have Winnifred Leigh before you. She has lived with Mr Houghton since she was 8 toad, her uncle adopting her when her father died. Eight years have now passed and she has blossomed into a wonderfully attractive woman. That is the opinion of all her friends and particularly of the gentleman with her.

Edward Ramsay, her fiance, is a handsome young fellow, four years her senior, and promising some worldly advantage, as he is the only son of a rich man, who is partner in a prosperous business firm. His manner, quiet, lady-like [illegible] on the evening [illegible] he does not altogether [illegible] manner. The gold [illegible] and grand [illegible] sense [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Never flood the woodland alone.

Hangs the ulster, for an X.

All the cedar panneling flies;

LUMBERMENS' CONVENTION.

VIGOROUS PROTEST AGAINST PROTECTION.

What the Conservative Lumberman except Mr. Hilliard think of Protection.

The Lumbermen's Convention held at Ottawa on Wednesday last was a most successful gathering. Indeed so successful was it that a Conservative M. P. present, admitted in the course of his speech that it was the most representative gathering which had been held for many years in this country.

MR. A. H. CAMPBELL'S OPINION AS AGAINST MR. HILLIARD.

A. H. Campbell, Esq., formerly of Peterborough, was unanimously called to the chair and said that this was one of the most important, if not the most important, gathering of lumbermen ever held in the city of Ottawa. A preliminary meeting was held in Ottawa a few weeks ago to consider the depressed state of the lumbering industry, and the effect which the proposed tariff would have upon it, by taxing such commodities as enter into the cost of producing lumber, and at that preliminary gathering it was decided to issue circulars to lumbermen in all parts of the country, inviting them to meet in Convention at Ottawa to day, for the purpose of taking counsel on what steps were to be taken to prevent the disastrous calamity which was threatening their business by the proposed tariff increases.

All present knew the depressed condition of the lumbering business for the past five years, and they had been drifting on, hoping against hope, with no possible shore in sight on which to land their vessels without actually running on the rocks. The accession to power of the Conservative Government last September was mainly because of its promise to adopt a protective policy. [illegible] change had taken place in the vote of the country, and more particularly that of the farmer, and it was time the lumbermen opened their eyes to the true state of matters, or what was likely to happen, and if posible endeavour to avert the evils which many believed would ensue if the Government put into operation its protective policy. (Applause.) There was scarcely an article imported into Canada, excepting perhaps champagne, which did not enter into the cost of producing lumber or of furnishing supplies for the laborers' families. The vessels employed, the immense machinery, the horses, the mills, and the thousand and one ways in which money was expended in this industry, all would be increased in price under the proposed tariff. Con siderable money had been advanced by the banks years ago to this industry, and they, too, were interested in its prosperity. The depression in the trade was such that if any lumberman had made a return of sales within the past four years covering the cost of production he was indeed a lucky man. He was obliged to say that was the experience all had had. During the September elections he was asked in Toronto to vote for a protectionist candidate, and he replied that he could not because it would ruin him to have the Protectionists returned to power The canvasser replied "Oh, but we will protect you too." That all present knew was impossible, and it showed the absurdity of the supposition that people could be protected into prosperity. (Applause.) The best way to protect the lumberman was to leave him alone. (Renewed applause.) The lumbering interest, next to the agricultural, was the largest in Canada, and employed more men than all the manufacturers combined. It was imperatively urgent that the Government should be informed that the adoption of the proposed protective policy would crush the lumbering industry. It was a matter of life and death. If the proposed tariff was adopted it would be better for them to shut up their mills, and sit down until something could be done, instead, of going on cutting down their timber, and practically giving it away, for the increased duties would prevent the possibility of any profits at all. It would be better to save the timber till better times, when it would be worth more money than at present. (Prolonged applause.)

Mr. Millar, M. P. P., moved a resolution asking that the Government do not interfere with the tariff as it would ruin the lumber trade, and opposed by wishing it to be distinctly understood that there were no party political considerations prompting him to attend the Convention, but he went there as an individual representing one of the largest industries in the country. Every gentleman present from the west had come for the purpose of averting, if possible, the impending calamity which threatened the lumber trade. The present Government had ridden into power on the promise of a protective policy, and it was but wise that [illegible] Government should [illegible] the [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] minion was closely connected with the prosperity of the lumbering business, for in the past as the latter had flourished so flourished the former; as the latter was depressed, so was the former. The trade and navigation returns for the year ending June, 1877, showed that the value of forest produce exported was $23,000,000 in round numbers, which was greater than that exported of farm produce, including cattle, horses, and sheep. It was believed that at least 65 per cent. of that sum was expended for labor, which represented $14,950,000. That sum was expended in labor for efforts of forest produce alone, independent of that expended for producing lumber for home consumption. Thirty per cent. was spent in farm produce, or $6,900,000 were distributed by the lumbermen among the farmers and agriculturists of Canada for oats, grain, pork, beef, and all other kinds of supplies used. The remaining 5 per cent. was spent for imported goods; that is, $1,150,000 alone were paid for imported goods. It must be clear to all that the lumber trade consumed more raw material than any other industry. It was the Government's duty, therefore, to see that the future prospect of such an important industry, employing so many men and so much capital, were not crushed for the sake of building up a few scattered manufactories. It was proper that the manufactories should be assisted and encouraged, but they should not be encouraged by destroying an industry which is much larger than all. If they took into consideration the large sum of $14,950,000 expended annually for labor, a mathematical calculation would show that it would give employment to 62,300 men at 75 cents per day for one year, and allowing five persons to the family of each adult laborer—by no means an abnormal average—it would be found that 311,450 persons were actually directly depending upon this industry for a living. When it was remembered what a long time it would take to build the manufacturing industries up, and these people could find new employment, the Government should exercise caution before it crushed the source of their livelihood by taxing the items which entered into the production of timber. There were about $75,000,000 invested in the lumbering and timber trade of the Dominion, which for five long years have not been paying one per cent. interest. For the sake of employing those dependant for their livelihood on them, and to prevent the destruction of their mills and machinery, which rotted and rusted much faster when not in use than when in use, the lumbermen had continued their operations, hoping to be able to lift themselves out of the slough of depression—a depression which was by no means confined to this country. It was felt in every part of the civilized world, and in Great Britain, one of Canada's markets, the depression was more intense than it had been for years. Canada had for sales of her forest produce to look to foreign countries—to the United States, to Great Britain, somewhat to the West Indies, to South America, and other States. Depression existed in Great Britain and the United States, Canada's principal markets, to such an extent that the demand for forest produce was so poor that lumbermen did not realize enough to make an adequate return for the money invested. The other Canadian industries, the manufacturing for instance, were not so much depressed as the lumbering industry. He referred as proof of this, to a fine circular saw rig manufactured in Milwaukee, which was erected some time ago on the Georgian Bay timber limits, and which cost $1,300. A manufacturer from Peterborough, Mr. William Hamilton, went there and inspected the saw, and afterwards, having obtained the patent for Canada, with models, he recently made one for himself, (Mr. Miller) and sold it for $750. An industry which could do that was not in a depressed state.

The motion after considerable discussion thereon was carried and a deputation appointed to wait on the Minister of Finance.

The Daily Life of Her Majesty.

The Queen leads a very quiet, and yet a busy life, and few great ladies find time to compress so many occupations into a daytime as she does. She breakfasts at nine, lunches at two, and dines at eight. From three to five she generally drives or walks out; but the remainder of her hours is devoted to State business, study, or correspondence with members of her widespread family. All the Queen's private letters are written in English, not in German, as many think; and, in fact, German is so little spoken among the royal family that even when the Crown Prince of Germany comes over he speaks English at Court like his wife's relatives. The Queen reads all the daily newspapers, and the proprietors of the Daily Telegraph, with the vein of toadyism that distinguishes them, print several copies of their journal for the royal palaces on special paper. The Queen's devotion to state affairs is well known, and her intervention in them, particularly when religious questions are involved, is not at all half-hearted. She also exercises her own discretion very freely in the appointment of Bishops and Piers. Dr. Tait was nominated by her to the See of Canterbury before Mr. Disraeli had recommended anyone; and about a year previously her Majesty had flatly refused to bestow a mitre on Dr. Wordsworth, owing to the protests which this divine had emitted when Dr. Stanley was made Dean of Westminster. A little later she consented to appoint Dr. Wordsworth to the See of Lincoln, but rather as a compliment to his scholastic attainments than out of any feeling for his views as a Churchman. The Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, FEB. 20, 1879.

PUBLICATION OF PROVINCIAL RETURNS.

Those public documents known as Parliamentary Reports, and which are of much importance in a statistical and business point of view, though rather dry literature for the average reader, require great care and labour in preparation. They must be reliable—free from errors—and this of itself in the collection of masses of scattered details necessitates [illegible] therefore it will readily be perceived that it would be an utter impossibility to present such reports as, for instance, the Provincial Receipts and Expenditure within narrow limits of time, no matter what staff of officials were engaged for the work. The employment of a comparative few insures greater correctness, at the expense of time. The placing of the work in the hands of many might answer up to a certain point, but with the danger of confusion as the labour was distributed. There is then a reasonable limit within which it were absurd to expect Parliamentary returns. The Ontario Opposition seem to lose sight of this fact, or choose to ignore it in their very unreasonable demands, for the presentation of last year's financial report in detail during the present session. We are led to suspect their motives the more because they can have no particular need for what they ask, as they already have an abstract statement. The expenditures therein enumerated they can easily compare with the estimates corresponding to them, and if there be any discrepencies concerning which they, or any of them, would like information, we doubt not they could get it by a respectful appeal to the Honourable Treasurer. It would seem, however, that they are not so eager for information as for party capital, and so they proceed to suggest impossibilities, and insinuate motives on the part of Ministers in holding back what they could not possibly or properly give. For instance, the proposal that Parliamentary Reports should be distributed during the recess is one in favour of unconstitutional procedure, for then there is no Parliament before whom to lay these documents. Besides, these Reports are first presented to His Honour the Lieutenant Governor, and by him transmitted to Parliament, therefore the sending of them direct to members would be an interference with a prerogative of the Crown. Yet such a suggestion comes from Tories! True, it may be argued that a late decision of the Supreme Court upsets the power to act in the Queen's name in Provincial affairs, but if this be the refuge, it will certainly lead to a worse situation than before. It is clearly impossible under the present constitutional order of things to distribute these public documents during recess.

The impropriety of such a proposal was well marked by the alarm lately evinced by a certain Tory paper because of a suspicion that a copy of the lately presented Provincial Treasurer's Report, had been given to the Toronto Globe before it had been laid before Parliament. Indeed the sentiment of the Tory journal referred to over the supposed offence against constitutional procedure, was only eclipsed by the Globe plainly showing that the figures it used were in the previous statement of Receipts and Expenditures duly presented to the House at the former session. This showed proper vigilance on the part of the Tory paper, but in the above [illegible] with the [illegible]

CROWN LANDS.

In an article in Saturday's Review the editor, doubtless with a double object in view, seizes the opportunity to find fault with the management of the Crown Lands department in general, and with Mr. J. B. McWilliams, Government agent in particular, because that gentleman received $2,000 a year for salary. When it is remembered that Mr. McWilliams was a strong political opponent of the editor, and one to whose energy and work in 1871, this same editor largely owed his defeat at that time, it will be easily understood why that gentleman is picked out as a pretext for a charge of extravagance against the Mowat Government. Why does he not tell his readers that Mr. McWilliams is the only agent employed by the Government by the year, and that he has to go over the returns of all the other agents and make out the accounts? If the editor of the Review thinks Mr. McWilliams is overpaid, let him get Mr. Scott to call for the reports of all the agents and compare the work done by Mr. McWilliams with that done by the other agents who are good Conservatives, and we will venture to state that we will hear of no more comparisons. At the same time is it not better to pay a competent, honest and efficient official, such as Mr. McWilliams has proven himself to be, a good salary than to have false returns made, as was the case under previous management, in this district, and the government defrauded in one instance alone to the extent of $36,000, or thirteen year's salary. The Editor of the Review is probably aware of a certain Lumberman, who has on more than one occasion, ventured to pawn off on the timber agent here, false returns, similar we suppose to those accepted by the previous agent. If our contemporary is desirable of more light on this subject, we can accommodate it at any time.

PROTECTION vs LUMBERMEN.

At a meeting held last week in Ottawa by the lumbermen of the Dominion, they took very strong ground against any additional taxation being placed on their supplies. Now, the West Riding of Peterborough elected a Protectionist lumberman last September, and it will be curious to note whether he now holds the same views he held on Protection when elected, or whether he is inclined to side with other lumbermen in the protection of their own interests. The beginning, the middle and the end, of Mr. Geo. Hilliard's speeches during the late election was Protection; that was the remedy for all our suffering industries, that would do away with the hard times, and raise the wages of workingmen and mechanics. But it was to the farmers Mr. Hilliard held out the greatest inducements, the outrage of any government allowing Yankee oats, corn, wheat, flour &c., to come into this country free of duty, when the Yankees charged a duty on all Canadian produce going into the United States, was depicted in the strongest language he could command. Turn out Mackenzie and put in Sir John and obtain a duty of 10 cents per bushel on oats, and corn, and 20 cents on wheat, cattle, horses, pork &c, all to be charged at the same rate that Americans charge on our produce. Many farmers who never voted for a Conservative before, voted for Mr. Hilliard, probably not putting great faith in his nostrum of Protection, but still willing that it should have a trial. What says Mr. Hilliard now? At a meeting held in the Huffman House lately to appoint delegates to represent the Lumbermen of this district at the Ottawa Convention. Mr. [illegible] motion to the effect that "no change be made in the tariff which will interfere with or raise the cost of the production of lumber and timber." Lumbermen are heavy purchasers of oats, hay, corn, flour &c., and although Mr. Hilliard the politician argues for and urges, in the interest of the farmer that a duty be put on these articles, yet Mr. Hilliard the lumberman, is against placing a duty on any of these articles which will enhance their price. It will certainly be more in order for all those farmers who voted for Mr. Hilliard because he was in favor of taxing all foreign farm produce coming into Canada, to ask him quietly to resign his seat. Having changed his views on this vital question, he has now no right to represent or misrepresent them in Parliament. Should he retain his seat he is guilty of bad faith to the electors, who believing him to be honest in his expression of opinion, sent him to Parliament.

FARMER AND REFORMER.

The Conservatives evidently fear the advent of a farmer as the Reform candidate in the East Riding, judging from the way their journal attempts to disparage him. That paper which was so eager for the protection of the industrial class and for the Protection of manufacturers but a few weeks ago, now deprecates any allusion to the rights of a class. But has not every great agitation for Reform that has taken place in Britain, her colonies, or elsewhere, been in the interest of some class? Every Reform bill has been for the securing of adequate representation to some class that was unjustly weighted down by a preponderance of other classes. The latest extension of the franchise in Ontario was on the same ground. It was to give the rural electorate something like an equal weight with the urban population, the latter having been augmented by the vast additional voting power of the income franchise, and that equalization Mr. Scott, and nearly all his party friends in the House, opposed tooth and nail, as the Tories have done every extension of the franchise that ever was proposed.

The true idea of Parliamentary representation is that all classes of the community shall be so nearly equally represented that none will have cause for complaint. Formerly political power was very narrowly restricted, and Toryism tried hard to keep it so restricted. But in spite of all efforts to the contrary, reform after reform has been effected till we now enjoy so liberal a franchise that no class can long tyrannize over another. But in Canada it is noticeable that for all this liberality, the agricultural element, on which all others are based, has not anything like a proportionate representation in Parliament. The effect has been seen in a good deal of neglect of the interests of that important class, and we [illegible] suspect that a further effect will be seen ere long in downright injustice as far as the Provincial Parliament is concerned. Toronto's Mayor, in some [illegible] Legislature [illegible] have many seats in the Legislature, and we [illegible] the representation, sometimes [illegible] time. If the leading commercial men of Toronto are [illegible] Legislature, [illegible] the [illegible] Toronto [illegible] the [illegible] Legislature [illegible] the [illegible] Parliament.

REVENUE AND PROTECTION.

When the Mackenzie Government was in power the requirements of revenue demanded an increase of the tariff from an average of fifteen per cent. to an average of 17½ per cent. on imports. Certain interests cried out for Protection to themselves as against all others and irrespective of revenue. The Reform Government appointed a commission, which took a great deal of evidence, and from that evidence it was deemed inexpedient to the best interests of the whole country to frame a tariff on any other basis than that of revenue. The Conservatives then out of power raised the cry for Protection, and promised if returned to the Treasury Benches that they would grant Protection to each and every industry in the land. Hard times favored them, as they did not hesitate to lay the blame on the Reform Government. The masses listened to the voice of the reckless demagogues, and shut their ears to the arguments of their true friends, drawn from the enquiries of the former Commission, and to the warnings and expostulations of those who sought to stem the torrent of excitement raised by mad hopes. There was a preference for pleasant visions for the future, rather than for the somewhat unsatisfactory reality of the present. The Tories carried the people with them, and the Reform Government was defeated on the square issue of a Protective as against a Revenue tariff.

Well, the country has waited with a considerable degree of patience for the enunciation of the new policy that was to bring back prosperity as if by magic. The new government has deliberated; and it has placed an exposition of its wonderful and "new" fiscal policy in the mouth of the Governor-General. And what is it? Not a shutting out of the abused foreign imports; not a locking up of Canada for the Canadians; nos a policy of retaliation on the Yankees; not even a primary declaration in favor of Protection! After all the bray, bluster and buncombe, the much-mouthed "National Policy" is simply and solely a coming back to the principle of a Revenue tariff. Here is what the Speech from the Throne says:—

"I regret that the receipts into the treasury from ordinary sources continues to be inadequate to meet the charges against the consolidated revenue. You will, I doubt not, agree with me in the opinion that it is not a desirable condition. By the application of the strictest economy to the public expenditure, and by the readjustment of the tariff with the view of increasing the revenue, and at the same time of developing and encouraging the various industries of Canada, you will, I trust, be enabled to restore the equilibrium between revenue and expenditure, and to aid in removing the commercial and financial depression which unhappily continues to exist."

Where are the promises to foster the manufacturing, mining, agricultural, and other industries? Where are all the brilliant visions with which votes were gulled? The tariff is not to be fixed on a Protectionist basis; but "with the view of increasing the revenue." This is just exactly what Mr. Mackenzie and his colleagues proposed; what they did; and what they contended for as a principle. And here are their opponents going back to it after all their vain boasting and lavish promising. The late Government clearly laid down a change of tariff only on a demand for revenue, and then a framing of such tariff with as little injury as possible to the trade and commerce of the country. Incidental protection they granted. But that was not enough for industrial rapacity, nor for Tory politicians. These latter were irreconcilable in Opposition, and were ready to promise anything. Now that they got into a exposition of official restraint, they have to come back to the demands of the tariff first, and then such protection as is best for Canada. This is simply the old theory of incidental protection; as practised by the Mackenzie Government. The only difference is that the new Ministry still keep up the pretence that by a tariff, and revenue tariff at that) it can develope and encourage the various industries, and aid in removing the commercial and financial depression which the speech adds "unhappily continues to exist"—in spite of the fact that the Reform Government resigned four months ago.

We wonder how Protectionist delegations and members elected on the strength of strong Protectionist pledges like this "National Policy" of a Revenue Tariff.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

"In utter indifference to any claim of precedence in the matter, we accept our contemporary's (Montreal Post) co-operation gladly in the determination to oppose any party of which Sir John Macdonald is the leader."—Irish Canadian.

The time of the Ontario Legislature has been occupied principally during the past week in discussing the estimates. With nothing really to oppose, a few items seemed to give the Opposition an excuse for raising their whining cry of economy. The promotion of Private Bills also occupied a portion of the time, among them the Orange Incorporation Bill, which was thrown out in committee with the preasable declared not proven.

The Mail and other Tory papers are again making extracts from the Cornwall Freeholder, having spiteful reference to the present Reform Ministers, and dishonestly stating that they come from a liberal Reform journal. We had occasion formerly to point out the animus that caused the Freeholder to speak in unfair terms of the former opponents of Hon. John Sandfield Macdonald, and of the kind of man who carries resentment in his heart as a Macdonald, while professing to act openly in the people's interest. We say again that a paper controlled by Henry Sandfield Macdonald cannot be a liberal Reform journal; and that the very fact of its control, by a person disciplined as he has been by the Courts, should stamp it as eminently untrustworthy.

It is a significant fact that returning prosperity in the United States is marked by an increase of imports and a decrease of exports. This does not agree at all with the Protectionist's "balance of trade" theories. There can be no doubt that the shutting out of exports had most to do with the deficit of $27,000,000, that met the nation at the end of the last fiscal year. It has been a Protectionist boast that the trade of New York has shown a large excess of exports over imports, but now we see a change, the [illegible] showing a large decrease in imports [illegible] of exports. It can be [illegible] that this will bring an increased revenue [illegible] Duty to meet the [illegible] on the [illegible] public. We see that even the most [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Returned.—Mr. John Rodgers, of Smith, who, it will be remembered, left these parts for the States about a year ago, owing to some difficulties in connection with the Strickland Estate, returned last week, a satisfactory settlement having been arrived at.

Delinquent Subscribers.—The Warder publishes a list of about a dozen delinquent subscribers with their addresses. A further list is promised. It is not a bad plan to adopt with hardened offenders. The Post expresses its approval, and says it will follow the example.

Lecture.—The Rev. G. Webber, of Toronto, will deliver his interesting and popular lecture on "The Restoration and Revolution of the Seventeenth Century," in the Bible Christian Church, to-morrow evening, Friday 21st instant, commencing at 7.30 o'clock. Admission ten cents.

Waggons for Manitoba.—We understand that Messrs. Fitzgerald & Stanger are at present filling an order for some five or six farm waggons for parties about removing to Manitoba. No doubt their excellent workmanship and good material will secure for them fresh orders from the prairie province.

Skating Tickets.—The Directors of the Peterborough Skating and Curling Rink Company, have reduced the price of skating tickets for the remainder of the season to the following rates:—Gents, $1.25; Ladies, 75 cents; Juveniles, 75 cents. Those desiring tickets at the reduced rates can procure them at Wilson & Davis'.

Selection of Sea.—Dr. Oldright, of Toronto, calls attention in one of the papers, to the selection of ice, which he regards as a matter of great importance. He says that though the process of freezing removes a great deal of impurity, yet it is quite possible to have ice so impregnated with decayed vegetable and animal matter, as to be excessively dangerous.

Comets.—We are to have a comet show, beginning this month—if the reckoners are not mistaken. They tell us that Brorsen's comet is to put in its appearance, to observers of telescopes at least, about the last of February. Indeed, it is asserted that astronomers in the southern part of the earth may see it earlier. Its periods are supposed to be five and a half years. Its atmospher ground is within the planetary system and its perhelion nearest to the sun's point is within the earth's orbit, and its aphelion beyond Jupiter's orbit. During April and May it will be easily observed.

Gems in Prison.—We clip the following from the Pontiac Pulp Company :—

"We have received a number of interesting letters from the Penitentiary at Kingston, which were written by convicts who were employed in making paper for the Pulp Company. Some of the letters were very creditable specimens of penmanship, and showed that the writers had received a good education. We have also received a number of specimens of drawing, executed by convicts, which are very creditable productions. We have not yet decided what to do with the letters and drawings, but they will be preserved for the present."

If the Company will only forward our Council report and rob the Kingston Penitentiary of its literary treasures, we will have no difficulty in communicating with the prisoners. Perhaps we could get some of them to write letters for the press, but we have no difficulty in communicating with them without the intervention of prisons."—in this town.

The Great Seed Hoax.—Joseph Vick, of Rochester, has received a world-wide reputation as a seed and flower grower. Printers' ink has been the real cause of his success.

Reunion of Oddfellows.—In response to the invitation of Mr. John Shaw, the popular Noble Grand of Lindsay Lodge of Oddfellows, and the members of the order in Omemee, a large deputation from Peterborough, Port Hope and Lindsay lodges, met around the festive board at Prince's Hotel, Omemee, on Wednesday evening last. Owing to the heavy fall of snow of the night previous, and the drifting wind which kept up during the whole day, many who would otherwise have attended were unable to be present, and those who braved the storm encountered many delays, which were calculated to put a damper on what, under favourable circumstances, promised to be one of the most elaborate and enjoyable entertainments of the kind ever held in the district. Under the circumstances the proceedings were exceedingly successful—there being between forty and fifty persons present—and will long be remembered as an occasion affording an opportunity of an interchange of kindly sentiments, between the members of the fraternity in this district never before promoted.

The New School Act.—The "Act Respecting Public, Separate and High Schools" has been laid before the House. It inaugurates several reforms in the method of electing school trustees. Chief among these may be mentioned the clause making the election take place one week after the nomination. This is a measure that will tend to increase the interest taken in the election, and possibly obviate a good deal of the complaint often made regarding the difficulty of getting suitable men to come forward. The suffrage in school trustee elections is also extended so as to include, in addition to the persons now entitled by law, every person named upon voters' lists of each municipality, and whether entitled to vote at municipal elections or elections to the Legislative Assembly, when such person has been assessed for, and has paid a rate imposed upon him for school purposes, within the last twelve months in the ward, town, village or school section in which he is proposing to vote at such election. We do not observe that the ballot is proposed to be applied to school trustee elections. Why not?

Wire Fences.—The condition of the roads in the country has given rise to the annual agitation for wire fences along the leading thoroughfares running north and south, and many suggestions are freely offered as to the best and surest means of bringing about this much needed reform. Some people are of opinion that if the Township Councils would furnish the wire, the farmers could be induced to put down the posts and attach the wires. Others again are not so hopeful of this plan, and favor legislation in the matter. At all events it is time some action was taken to abolish the present style of farm fences along the highways referred to. A wire fence is not much dearer than one built of rails, and in many parts of the country where rail timber is getting extremely scarce, we question very much if it is not even cheaper. It will last much longer at any rate, and look far better. In some places the farmers are now obliged to turn out and perform their work in shovelling, and as the roads are robbed of the labor which should be put upon them in the summer time, and in the fall and spring of the year they are almost impassable, in consequence of not receiving the necessary attention in due time. At the late session of the Wellington County Council, a petition was presented asking for a grant of fifty cents per rod to aid in the construction of these fences.

Theatrical.—The celebrated Shaughraun Company show in the Opera House for the remainder of the week. "The Shaughraun" will be produced this evening; to-morrow evening, "The Two Orphans"; and "Rosedale" on Saturday evening. From the well known character of this company, and the crowded houses with which they were greeted upon their appearance here before, we can safely predict crowded houses. The Toronto Globe in speaking of a recent performance in that city says :—

"The 'Shaughraun' was received in a manner which showed very plainly that it had lost none of its old time popularity. Mr. McDowell as Conn Kelly captured the sympathies of the audience before he had been on the stage five minutes. He is anything but the conventional stage Irishman, and of course this is a merit, no matter whether he tells short or surpasses the standard to which theatre-goers have long been accustomed. Cons in Mr. McDowell's hands is a thoroughly tangible character, which takes as firm a hold upon one's memory as would some very eccentric acquaintance of real life. It is seldom a Toronto audience is treated to so thoroughly artistic a piece of acting as the Claire Fielder of Miss Fanny Bowers. It was realistic from first to last, now full of tender earnestness, now overflowing with tender mischief, always bright and sparkling, and never by any possibility dull or commonplace. To a high degree of culture and intelligence she adds the charm of an exceeding pretty face, faultless figure, and all those peculiar graces that one expects to see accompanying these. The support was good throughout, and the play a thorough success from beginning to end."

Harper's Magazine.—Harper's Magazine for March offers an unusual variety of matter to its million readers, while it contains no article that is not especially noteworthy; and its illustrations, of which there are eighty-five, are remarkable examples of the best style of wood engraving. Two illustrated papers are devoted to art subjects, without perceptibly diminishing the space given to topics of more general interest. Alfred T. Story contributes a paper of great popular interest concerning the English home of Washington's ancestors. "A Few Seabirds," by H. W. Elliott, is exceedingly interesting and beautifully illustrated. Especially timely and important is Mrs. Lamb's comprehensive and entertaining account of the origin, development, and present situation of the United States Coast Survey. George E. Waring contributes the first of his series of papers on the Austrian Tyrol. E. M. Bacon contributes an interesting description of the magnetic motor and its inventor, Mr. Wesley Gary, with illustrations. There are other papers of timely interest : "The English in India," by Thomas Knox; "Climates for Invalids" (containing facts of the greatest importance), by Dr. T. M. Coan; "Afghanistan," by Z. B. Gustafson; and "The 'Tom' Side of Macaulay," by D. D. Lloyd. Miss Mulock's new novel, "Young Mrs. Jardine," is continued; and short stories are contributed by Miss Thackeray, Constance F. Woolson, and Allen Parr. Besides this bewildering variety of interesting articles and exquisite pictures, there are the always well-conducted editorial departments, including the timely and graceful gossip of the Easy Chair, a comprehensive yet critical record of recent books, a summary of scientific progress, a resume of current historical events, and an amusing "Drawer."

Conversazione.—On Friday evening last a very successful entertainment was given in the Opera House, in aid of the trust funds of the George Street Methodist Church. Although the evening was extremely cold a large number turned out and the Hall was well filled. The committee under whose management the Conversazione was carried through deserve special credit, for the very entertaining and choice programme set before our townsy copie, and the result pecuniary must, we feel assured, be such as to warrant another of the same order at an early day. The programme opened with an instrumental selection by seven members of the Peterborough Musical Society, which was rendered in that admirable style for which they are noted. Mrs. Dr. Harrison followed with a song "Waiting for the Tide," which received deserved applause. A reading, "Deacon good heart," by Mr. Burns, of Cobourg was delivered in a very pleasing and effective style, showing good elocutionary powers and the happy facility of enlisting the attention of the audience. "Aubade" a song by Mr. Wrightman, of Lakefield gave proof of a well trained voice, but perhaps a little weak for the capacity of the Hall. The next piece on the programme was a song "Sweethearts" by Mrs. Chambers and was rendered in that clear, distinct tone and pleasing manner that makes her a favorite with any audience. Her singing of this piece was exceedingly good and secured her a hearty encore. Mr. G. John, of Cobourg in a comic reading, entitled the "Wedding Fee" brought down the house, and provoked roars of laughter. "A Leaf from the Spray" a song by Miss Shaw, of Port Hope, who although suffering from a severe cold rendered, it in a very effective manner and was received with that hearty applause which is so well deserved. "The Last Hymn" a recitation by Mr. Simmons, of Lakefield, was well rendered and showed considerable ability. A Trio, by Messrs. Wrightman, Henderson and Graham of Lakefield, concluded the first part of the programme. The laughable memories in which this piece was rendered caused much merriment and secured for them loud applause. This second portion of the programme was taken part in by the same parties, who so creditably executed their pieces in the first part, with the addition of a song "With a Pulse of Golden Song" by Mr. Booth, of Peterborough. "A Life on the Ocean Wave" by Mr. Graham, of Lakefield, with deep applause encored Gentlemen modestly and were heartily applauded. The effect of each of the pieces rendered was greatly heightened by the excellent manner in which the accompaniments were rendered by Miss Graham, of Lakefield, whose efficient services on the piano were highly appreciated. The Chairman then proposed "The Queen," followed by "the Governor-General and the Princess Louise." He then referred to the honor conferred on Canada in the occasion that had been made by the appointment of the Marquis of Lorne and the Princess Louise to preside over the Dominion; the skill and science of the game, and the interest manifested in curling by the previous and present Governor-General of Canada.

Song.—"Jolly Good Fellows."

Dr. Kincaid in proposing "Canada our Home," expressed himself grateful for the honor conferred on him in his being requested to propose the toast, and after briefly referring to the many advantages of Canada, and the admirable way in which the House of Commons had been opened, and closed by stating that Canada should be to every Canadian "of every land the pride."

Song.—"Mr. E. J. W. Burrow, of Port Hope, briefly replied.

"The Roaring Game," was proposed by Mr. John Robertson, and honored by Mr. Robert Isaac.

Song.—"The Rocky Road to Dublin," by Mr. McNeil.

The Chairman in proposing "Our Guests" spoke in very complimentary terms of the reception recently given the Peterborough Club on Lindsay and Port Hope.

Mr. Burrow in response expressed the pleasure it gave him of being present, and eulogized the Peterborough Club for the handsome treatment they had received at their hands.

"The Army and Navy" was proposed by Mr. Jewison, eliciting a response from Messrs. Kincaid and Kennedy.

"The Curling Committee" was responded to by Messrs. McNeil and Davidson.

"The Peterborough Curling Club," by Mr. Ward, was duly responded to.

Song.—"British Lion," by Mr. McNeil.

Mr. Simmons was called on to propose "the Ladies," and by Messrs. W. A. Fraser, T. Fortye, A. McNeil and W. Gilbert they were duly honored.

Mr. R. S. Davidson proposed "the Press," which was acknowledged by Mr. Stratton.

"The Host and Hostess" was received enthusiastically, to which Mr. Huffman suitably replied.

The Value of Time.

As in a fog bank or fever dream objects upon the shore of the future begin to assume form and proportion, and we can partially discern what is coming, so in the distance of the past we can see what might have been done, and what we ought to have done. Especially is this true of the years that are gone. Then we had time in abundance, and to spare, and could have accomplished all that was necessary, and much that was not necessary, and still have had many hours to throw away. Then we were not hurried, nor flurried, nor worried, nor troubled with the thought that we had not time enough to do what we had to do. Then we were not perplexed with the question, "What shall I do next?" Then we were not obliged to keep thinking of the flight of time, and how fast it was passing away. Then we were not compelled to look at the watch every few minutes, and to feel that we were living under the lash of the taskmaster. Then we were not disturbed with the reflection that we were growing old, and that the shadows were lengthening around us, and that the night was coming on apace. Then we were not obliged to be constantly

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

FOURTH PARLIAMENT—FIRST SESSION.

Mr. Blanchet Elected Speaker—The Speech From the Throne.

The first Session of the fourth Parliament of the Dominion of Canada, was opened on Thursday last. The members of the Government and the leading members of the Opposition were in their places.

Sir John A. Macdonald nominated Mr. Blanchet, of Levis for speaker, and referred eulogistically to his Parliamentary experience and general fitness for the position. Hon. Mr. Tilley seconded the nomination.

Hon. Mr. Mackenzie said that there was no gentleman on the Ministerial side of the House that the members of the Opposition could have greater confidence in than Mr. Blanchet. He also twitted the Premier for not having proposed the Speaker of the late House, a practice he had formerly advocated.

The motion was then adopted, and the Speaker after being conducted to the chair, returned thanks for the honor conferred upon him.

The House then adjourned until 3 o'clock on Friday.

SPEECH FROM THE THRONE.

At three o'clock p. m., on Friday the House met and the following is the speech from the Throne :—

Honorable Gentleman of the Senate:
Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

In meeting the Parliament of Canada for the first time, I desire to express the gratification I feel at having been selected by her Majesty for the High and important office I now fill and to assure you of the great satisfaction with which I now seek your aid and co-operation. In acknowledging with profound gratitude the reception which has been accorded to myself as her Majesty's representative, I am also commanded by the Queen to convey through you to the people of Canada, her thanks for the loyal, generous and kindly manner in which they have welcomed her daughter.

The contribution of Canadian products and manufactures to the great national exhibition at Paris last year attracted much attention, and, it is believed, will have a beneficial effect on the trade of the Dominion with Europe. I congratulate you on the success which must in no small degree be attributable to the kind and unceasing exertions of His Royal Highness, the Prince of Wales, as President of the British section. The report of the Canadian Commissioners will be laid before you when received.

I am pleased to inform you that the amount awarded for the Fishery Claims, under the Washington Treaty, has been paid by the United States, and that Her Majesty's Government has arranged with Canada and Newfoundland for their respective shares of the award. The papers on the subject shall be submitted to you.

The important and rapidly increasing trade between Canada and England, in live cattle, has been seriously threatened by the appearance in various parts of the United States of pleuro-pneumonia. In order to prevent the contagion from spreading to Canada and the consequent interruption of trade I have caused an order to be raised under The Animal Contagious Disease's Act,' 1869, prohibiting the importation or introduction into the Dominion, of American cattle, for a short period. It is hoped that the disease will ere long be extinguished in the United States, and the necessity for continuing the prohibition removed. Your attention will be invited to an amendment of the Act I have just referred to.

My Government has made negotiations, with Her Majesty's sanction, for the development of the trade of Canada with France and Spain and with their respective colonies. I hope to be able to lay before you the result of these negotiations during the present session.

It is the purpose of my Government to press for the most vigorous prosecution of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and to meet the reasonable expectations of British Columbia. In carrying out this intention, due regard must be had to the financial position of the country. Communication by rail has been effected between Manitoba and the United States system of railways, by the junction at St. Vincent of the Pembina Branch of our railway with the St. Paul and Pacific Railroad. That portion of the main line which extends from English River to Keewatin is now being placed under contract, and will be energetically pushed to completion, in order to secure as rapidly as is possible the connection between Lake Superior and the great North West.

A bill for the amendment and consolidation of the Acts relating to stamps shall be submitted for your consideration, as well as a measure amending the Act relating to Weights and Measures.

The decennial census must be taken in 1881. I think it expedient that a measure for the purpose should be passed during the present session, in order to give ample time for the preparation of all the preliminary arrangements and to ensure the census being taken as accurately and inexpensively as possible. In connection with this subject, it may be well to consider the propriety of providing some means for the collection and collation of vital, criminal, and general statistics.

A Bill will be laid before you for the re arrangement of some of the departments of the Government, and also measures relating to the survey and management of the Dominion lands to the mounted police and to the post office departments; and also for the amendment in some particulars of the laws relating to Indians.

A measure will also be submitted to you for the vesting in her Majesty for the use of the Dominion of certain ordnance and admiralty lands in the provinces of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

The estimates for the ensuing year will be laid before you at an early day. They have been prepared with as much regard to economy as is compatible with the efficiency of the public service. I regret that the receipts into the treasury from ordinary sources continue to be inadequate to meet the charges against the consolidated revenue. You will, I doubt not agree with me in the opinion that it is not desirable that our finances should longer remain in this condition. By the application of the strictest economy to the public expenditure, and by the re-adjustment of the tariff with a view of increasing the revenue, and at the same time of developing and encouraging the various industries of Canada, you will, I trust, be enabled to restore the equilibrium between revenue and expenditure, and to aid in removing the commercial and financial depression which unhappily continues to exist. I have directed that the Public Accounts of the past financial year shall be laid before you.

Honorable Gentlemen of the Senate:
Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

Parliament has recognized the importance of providing for the safe deposit of the surplus revenues of the people by granting for their being placed with the Government at a fair rate of interest. It may be well for you to consider how far it is practicable to give a like security and convenience to persons who may desire to lay up moneys with their lives to enable provision for them in case of illness, accident or misfortune. I cannot but express the fervent hope that I may be enabled to, and to the utmost extent of the country.

THREE ROSEBUDS;

Or How the Kidnapped Count of Lake Otango Found His Mother and Bride.

BY MARY WORTHINGTON.

Doubtless if the crowd of pleasure seekers had seen the lonely woman they would have been startled by her sudden appearance; but they are absorbed in one another and the merriment continues till, at a loud exclamation from Mr. Houghton, the talk ceases and every eye is fixed upon him. He is still standing at the head of the table, but with ashen face and quivering lips, and clasping a letter tightly in his hand. For a moment he gazes vacantly around at the horror-stricken spectators, and then, throwing up his arms, cries, "Just Heaven! I am a ruined man!" and falls to the ground.

Frightfully distinct is the cry in the silence, and friends and servants stand in doubt and bewilderment, uncertain what to do or think. One there, however, shows no hesitation but, coming forward, says in a calm, clear voice: "Dr. Bodine, will you not help my uncle? He is ill and needs your assistance."

Bending over her uncle, Winnifred whispers words of encouragement to him, and, at a sign from her, three of the terrified servants lift their master in their arms and carry him into the house. The doctor follows and with him goes Winnifred. By this time some of the others have recovered presence of mind enough to offer their help, but she declines all aid, even repulsing Edward Ramsay with an imperious gesture.

The sad little procession disappears through the doorway, and hardly has it gone before there is a stir of excitement among the group on the lawn. Whispered conjectures and interrogations burn from ear to ear and an elderly man says positively, "The bank of —— has failed. I heard the news just before I came here this afternoon, but did not know that he was concerned in the failure. He must be in a bad way financially. I have been told that he is largely in debt and has, moreover, acted dishonorably in money transactions."

There is a general outcry. 'Impossible! It can't be true!' is heard on all sides, and Edward Ramsay springs forward a champion for the distressed. 'This is slander that I will not permit,' he cries. 'If you have anything to say against the man who has feasted you this very day, at least do not say it here. Go home and there, if you can, gossip and rejoice over the downfall of one who, till now, all were happy to call friend!'

His indignant words did not silence his antagonist.

'We must be just before we are generous, Mr. Ramsay. You, I presume, can scarcely be called a fit person to judge Henry Houghton. I have spoken the truth as time will show.'

With curling lip, Ramsay measures the man before him from head to foot; then with a look of unutterable scorn, flings himself upon a garden seat and folds his arms in silence. The others have got shawls and wraps and are preparing to go.

Mr. Bliss is adjusting Miss Reid's cloak over her pretty shoulders, and, while he does so, is muttering 'Poo honor, I'm awfully sorry. We were having such a jolly time, and this fit must be awfully dangerous.'

'Yes. How very fortunate there was a doctor present!' says Marion, sweetly. 'I must say good evening to Mr. Ramsay. He taken the place of our host;' and, suiting the action to the word, she advances to where Edward Ramsay is sitting in gloomy obstraction, while Mr. Bliss obediently awaits her return. A pair of flashing, dark eyes is turned upon her as she presents a daintly-gloved little hand and says softly, 'Good-night, Mr. Ramsay.'

His takes her hand as though he did not quite know what to do with it, and listens while the silvery voice continues: 'I am so very, very sorry for you. Indeed, I know I shall lie awake all night thinking of you and this dreadful thing that has happened.' 'Thank you!' he groans; and she adds, 'I wish I could say something to comfort you. Now don't look at me so fiercely; you frighten me. I sympathize with you deeply,' here comes a sigh which means 'and if Winnifred was unkind, I am not.' Then receiving some unintelligible reply, she says, 'Grandmamma and Mr. Bliss are waiting for me, so I must go. Good-bye.'

The fair consoler trips lightly back and joins her cavalier just in time to hear the doctor's verdict, as he stands on the stone steps, the centre of a curious throng. 'Mr. Houghton has had a paralytic attack and will not live till morning.'

At the solemn words, Ramsay springs to his feet and exclaims eagerly, 'Can I not do something, doctor, for—for—'

'Not now. The housekeeper and Miss Winnifred can do all that is necessary,' is the cold reply, and he falls back disappointedly into his old position.

The crowd has melted away. He is alone in the great garden, rapidly growing dark where the flowers are rustling and nodding on their stems as if whispering over the disaster. The black shadows fall around giving the well-known objects an unfamiliar aspect and closing round the lake, as if to shut it in with walls of darkness. Lights gleam from two or three windows of the house, and the summer wind sighs among the trees. Twilight deepens into night; the katydid's chirp ceases, and the stars come out, one by one, and gaze lovingly down at the lone watcher. He does not stir. He is looking dreamingly at a particular star, which he and Winnifred had named their own and which, they imagined kept special guard over their fate. Suddenly, the great hall door opens. A girlish figure stands there in the flood of light, gazing out into the darkness. He rises and moves slowly towards the light, and, as he does so, a batch of rosebuds falls at his feet. The flowers have fulfilled their errand. The mute apology is accepted and he hastens on to clasp Winnifred in two strong, loving arms, while the tired head droops on his shoulder, and the sad voice breathes his name.

'Oh, Edward! Edward! It is all over, and I shall never see my darling uncle again in this life!'

He has no words with which to comfort her. He merely caresses her yellow hair and showers tender, pitying kisses upon her lips. The moon casts her weird light upon them as they stand there, two untried children who have learned together the lessons of love and are now trying to read the lesson of death.

II.

It is the second morning after the funeral. Lawyers have been busily at work, vainly endeavoring to bring order out of the chaotic state of Mr. Houghton's accounts. That much has been determined, that what remains of the estate, together with the sum resulting from the sale of the house, will be used in paying the debts he has incurred. This will leave but a slender pittance, inherited from her mother, for Winnifred. Proud Winnifred, hitherto accustomed to envy and adulation, can scarcely bring herself to listen to the pitying platitudes of the old ladies who have called to offer their sympathy; and, worse than all, they openly congratulate her upon her rich fiance, and plously thank Heaven for such a dispensation of Providence. It is more than Winnifred can bear. Edward Ramsay has not seen to her to-day and on his last visit he was cold and distant. He has changed to indifference, and might not remain in which she may never revisit. She is alone with her thoughts and just at present they are not agreeable travelling companions.

The beautiful Susquehanna valley is passed, the change at Albany is made and the long journey is over at last. The rain has ceased and the sunset is clear and bright as Winnifred drives up to the door of an old-fashioned country-seat near Boston, at about seven o'clock of a summer evening. The house is built of gray stone, crowned by a gabled roof and cornices, pointed tower. The front is nearly covered with ivy, which climbs upward on either side of the door, forming a mass of living green, till at last it wreathes itself fantastically around the many-paned dormer windows. At one side is a veranda enclosed in grass and filled with cosy chairs and tables. Guns and household pets show that it is the favorite retreat of the younger members of the family. The kitchen garden is at the back, adjacent to the barns and stables, while in front are the flowers—hydrangeas, tall white lilies, sweet-scented mignonette, and a host of other old-fashioned flowers. To the right is the orchard, with fruit trees in prim rows. As the last rays of sunlight stream over the scene, lighting up the dull, red thatches of the roof and sparkling in the rain-drops that hang from the trees, Winnifred thinks it is the most home-like place she has ever seen.

The door is open; so she alights and glides timidly through the door-way to find herself in a wide hall, or rather room, for an eastern rug on the oaken floor, the quaint ornaments, antique chairs and mahogany cabinets show that it is used as a living-room. A stair-case winds quaintly up at one side, and at the extreme end of the room is a great, hospitable fire-place, guarded by gigantic brass andirons, and enriched with quaint, Dutch tiles, which, though there is no blaze on the hearth, is the centre of a family group. The father, a florid, handsome man, is seated in an arm chair with a little girl of nine years on his knee; while at his feet is a boy of twelve, playing with a hunting dog and a Scotch terrier, and a girl two years older is seated before the piano. The mother is in another arm chair, with knitting in hand.

Winnifred stands a moment undecided, and looks at the sweet-home picture before her. Then she advances to Mrs. Hamlin, a sad young figure in her black draperies, and, putting out both hands, says impulsively, 'I am Winnifred Leigh. You loved my mother. Will you not love me for her sake?'

'Indeed, I will, my dear child,' says Mrs. Hamlin taking the two cold hands into her own plump, motherly ones and kissing the earnest face before her. 'Your mother and I were like sisters and I have always been sorry that I could not know her daughter. Little May there is her namesake, and the others are Alice and Harry. Mr. Hamlin, this is our new daughter, Winnifred Leigh.'

'Let us hope you will be an eldest daughter in truth,' Mr. Hamlin responds cordially. 'You came in upon us like a ghost. I only wonder you did not frighten Mrs Hamlin into hysterics, but she was as calm as if she were in the habit of receiving ghostly visitors every day of her life. I will go out and see about your trunk, for I suppose in this instance the ghost has a trunk.'

'Yes, thank you!' answers Winnifred, taking his place as he walks to the door with great strides. Then, turning to Mrs. Hamlin, she continues: 'If I am to be your daughter, you must let me have a daughter's duties. I am not wholly ignorant of housekeeping.'

'We will attend to all that to-morrow, but just now I mean to get you something to eat, for I know you are both tired and hungry,' is the kind reply as Mrs. Hamlin bustles away 'on hospitable thoughts intent.'

The children have been watching the stranger with critical approval in their looks. Little May now creeps up to her side and, gazing at her with great, round, childish eyes which are as dark as the curly hair that is "banged" across her forehead, asks, 'are you really going to be my sister?'

'If you will let me,' this odd visitor answers, pressing the rosy little cheek. 'Do you know, I have been thinking what a pleasant home you have? Such a lovely old house, and such splendid pets as those dogs! What a noble fellow that big one is!'

Here Harry breaks in with an account of the wonderful exploits of his canine friend, which is only interrupted by the announcement that 'Miss Leigh's tea is ready.'

The days pass quickly in the summer life of Oaklands. Winnifred teaches little May for an hour or so in the morning. Then she gives Alice a lesson in music, after which she cuts large bunches of flowers and places them in vases about the rooms and the reads till dinner time. In the afternoon she drives with Mr. and Mrs. Hamlin, and the evenings are spent in games, reading aloud and lively talk. Neighbors drop in occasionally, but it is too warm for much social visiting.

One afternoon Winnifred pleads a headache as excuse from the usual drive. Book in hand, she wanders out into the orchard and ensconces herself at the foot of a wide-spreading apple tree. But she does not read, for May runs up and clamors for a story, and when it is finished the little thing puts her head down on her 'elder sister's' lap and together they idly watch the birds and insects that are so busy around them. In a pause of sleepy silence a foreign voice is heard saying, in broken English, 'Kee dis Miss Leigh?' The voice is Italian, and so is the face of the woman who stands before Winnifred with eager, questioning eyes that scan her from head to foot. The stranger wears a dusty, black velvet dress and silk kerchief tied over head. Winnifred sends little May into the house and rises to her feet, for there is a dignity about her visitor that impresses her.

'You know not who I am,' continues the low, musical voice. 'I am Beatrice, Countess Garascini. Ah! You are surprised! You tink not to see a countess travel on foot. Listen! Long ago, when I was young and happy and beautiful they told me—I had a child. Oh! He was like an angel! He was two year old when de gypsies—may evil follow them!—stole him from me. Carissimo! How I mourned for thee!'

'And did you never hear of your child again?' asks Winnifred's clear sympathetic voice.

'Never, Signorigan. My spose, de count, would not go to look for him. He loved bettare to drink de wine wid his friends and be merree. My spose died; it is five year ago; and I took all de moneys I could—no one has much in la belle Italie now—and I looked for my son in all lands. At-a-last I come to dis countree. I find an old gypsy woman dying in a wheat you call barn, and she tell me truth with her last breaths. She was one of de tribe who stole my child. He was twelve year old when they did sell him to a rich signor. He did give his name to La Zingara and she to me did give it. It ees dis—Henry Houghton, Americano.' Drawing a tiny silk bag from the folds of her dress, she takes from it a worn scrap of paper on which is written the name 'Henry Houghton.'

'That is my uncle's name. Did you know that I was his niece?' asks Winnifred startled.

'Ah! yes! I saw you at a fete—a gala—at his house. You show him—you ask him about—,' the poor mother's voice of agonized entreaty breaks into a sob and she exclaims, despairingly, 'Santa Maria! you no ask him?'

'I cannot ask him. He is dead,' the girl says, softly. 'But I will write to his lawyer for you. He never spoke to me of this boy. Where will I see you?' I mean anything of your own?'

'Ah! you will write. When I come again, in two days I suppose here. I have a lonely [illegible] [illegible]—if I find my son, he [illegible] me; if not, I die. Addio!'

Peterborough Protestant Home.

Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Protestant House was held on Wednesday last.

President—Mrs. Romaine.

Vice-Presidents—Mrs. Elder, and Mrs. T. G. Hamlin.

Treasurer—Miss Gilmour.

Secretary—Miss Roger.

Committee—Mrs. Donnistoun, Mrs. Roper, Mrs. T. W. Robinson, Mrs. Wallis, Mrs. F. W. Hamlain, Mrs. Clementi, Mrs. W. G. Thompson, Mrs. Poussette, Mrs. Robert Hall, Mrs. Gilmour, Mrs. C. Ormond, Mrs. J. F. Dranktown.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

The following report from the Secretary was read and adopted:—

The Committee of the Peterborough Protestant Home, in presenting their report of the fourteenth year of the existence of the Home, as a Home, would thankfully acknowledge the goodness of God in having brought them to the present time in such comfort and prosperity.

There have been very few inmates in the House during the past year; three have been admitted, one of these an elderly woman, the others, children, one of whom found a home in the country.

Two deaths occurred during the year, the first, an elderly woman, Mrs. Sarah Roswell, who had only been about eight months in the House, but had long lived in Ashburnham. The other, a boy, from Otonabee, about thirteen years of age, had been nearly nine years an inmate. One old pensioner of the House, who used to take shelter under our roof for the winter months, died during the autumn in Ashburnham.

Thirty-two families have been assisted during the past year, both with food and clothing.

It is a cause of much regret that so little interest has been shown in the Home for the past few years, had it not been for the kind co-operation of the Trustees of the Hall Trust, the Home must have been given up altogether, so few contributions came in. There are honorable exceptions, however. The Committee would take this opportunity of reminding those in the community who in former years helped to support the Home, that because the Trustees of the Hall Fund have placed a certain sum of money in the hands of the Committee, they are not by this relieved from their obligations towards their poorer neighbors, for as "They shall never cease out of the land," so the Christians obligations towards them can only cease with life.

We therefore earnestly urge upon our friends that they renew their annual subscriptions and donations as God has prospered them and the Committe will endeavor faithfully to dispense the same with carefulness and without partiality.

It is not necessary to refer to the public meeting so lately held, more than to name the following ladies appointed as Vice-Presidents: Mrs. Wallis, Mrs. Templeton Brown, Mrs. Gilmour, and Mrs. Jaffers; also a Managing Committee.

The Committee hope that by these appointments new life may be infused in all connected with the Home and its workings.

Thanks are due to the clergymen who kindly visit the inmates and whose ministrations are much valued; to the medical men who are ever ready when needed; to the editors, who kindly insert advertisements, lists of donations, &c., free of charge, and to the Editor of the Review, in particular, for a copy of that paper sent weekly.

Respectfully submitted,
ISABEL ROGER,
Sec. P. P. Home.

Not Quite So.

"It is among the most savage and debased tribes only that the condition and comfort of the horse have been neglected," but we believe there are many in civilized countries who are guilty of the same neglect, and without the excuse of the former; here all may avail themselves of the use of an article which has done more than anything else heretofore known to improve the condition and relieve the suffering of the horse These who will not use it will be the losers, their horses the sufferers; to avoid both use "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy," and you will be satisfied with the result. Remember the name and see that the signature of Hurd & Co., is on each package. Northrop & Lyman, Toronto, Ont., proprietors for Canada. Sold by all Medicine Dealers.

The Great Shoshonees Remedy.

The Great Shoshonees Remedy is an Indian vegetable compound composed of the juices of a variety of remarkable medicinal plants and herbs; the various properties of these different ingredients, when combined, is so constituted as to act simultaneously upon the Blood, Lungs, Liver, Kidneys, Digestive Organs, Nervous System, &c., restoring their functions to healthy action, and being purely vegetable, is as harmless as nature's own beverage. This medicine is a short breath in all, and a permanent cure in a large majority of diseases of the blood, such as Scrofula, Rheumatism, Salt Rheum, Cancer, Pimples, &c. In presenting this remedy to the public we do not claim to cure every disease that flesh is heir to, but we do claim that in the diseases mentioned above, it has never failed to effect a cure when fairly tried. RUPTURED AND DEFORMED PEOPLE.

Grand Medal and Diploma at the Centennial, Philadelphia; Grand Medal at the Universal Exhibition, Paris, France. Recommended by a large number of our leading medical men.

Charles Clothe's Patd Spiral Truss Pad has been the result of many years' study and material experience. Its perfect adaptability for Rupture is proven by the thousands now in use. Among its many advantages are a gentle, constant and even pressure; it gives to the motion of the body without friction; complete ventilation (as shown in engraving); a clamping pressure which does not open (as all oval pads) but closes the aperture of Hernia, hence only one-third pressure is required. It is this latter feature that has made this truss so eminently successful and proved a Radical Cure of from 50 to 70 per cent. of cases treated. This Truss cured persons of over 90 years of age. Only one belt round the waist, no leg straps and no springs required for its use.

Apparatus for straightening Spinal Curvature, Hip Disease, Bow Leg, Wry Neck, Club Foot, etc., made on most scientific principles. Price same as at my office.

A SPRIG OF SWEETBRIER.

BY HERBERT KNOWLES.
(A hitherto unpublished poem.)

Sprays yeare and lilies,
Look Clare and pallid,
By the sprays of old Mary bound entitled to be.
There's no rose of flowers
The prayers, pinks and bowers,
There's nought in one left's Rest like me.
Tell if the dear ones have given a flower,
'Tis a spray of sweetbrier, where blossoms the rose—
An emblem at once of their sweetness and power.

For it sometimes your face while it tickles your nose.

With a maid young and coy
If you wish for to buy,
She discloses with a fingers what would give her heart ease;
While a wisp of mattie
Resembles a nettle;
The closer you press her, the less you disclose.
Yet the wants of her sex most resemble my flower.
The spring of sweetbrier, where blossoms the rose—
An emblem at once of her sweetness and power.
For it sometimes your face while it tickles your nose.

By all hands 'tis agreed
An old maid's a sad weed,
Who forever is left to bewail that life's lot a sigh;
And the sly hand of time
Having wasted her prime,
She remains, when too late, to take pity on man.
Yet maids, wives and widows resemble my flower,
The spray of sweetbrier, where blossoms the rose—
An emblem at once of their sweetness and power.
For it sometimes your face while it tickles your nose.

PUBLIC WORKS IN PETERBORO' DISTRICT.

We find the following interesting information referring to Public Works in this district in the Report of the Commission of Public Works for the Province of Ontario for the year ending 31st. December, 1878:—

Gull and Burnt River Works.

Dams and slides have been constructed at the outlets of Stormy, Little Bear and Bear Lakes. The chain of works consists of five dams, seven side piers, six slides, as well as a quantity of rock-blasting, and the whole as a system affords a valuable storage reservoir for water, and gives facilities for getting out the timber for the surrounding district. The works are in the Townships of Glamorgan and Monmouth.

Repairs and constructions have been made at the following dams: Ke-nesecta, the outlet of that lake in the Township of Havelock; Eagle Lake in the Township of Guilford; Drag Lake, and cam and slide on the Burnt River, in the Township of Dudley; Paint Lake dam in the Township of Shelburne, Redstone Lake dam in the Township of Guilford. Repairs at Grace and other Lake dams on the Burnt River, in the Township of Monmouth, have also been made where injured by freshets, and at Mud Lake dam in the Township of Dysart.

The navigation of the Gull River between Minden and Moore's Falls, at the foot of Gull Lake, a length of about twelve miles, was obstructed by shoals of gravel and boulders in the river above Gull Lake. These have been removed by dredging with horse-power, and the necessity of a dam at Moore's Falls has thus been obviated, which is a matter of importance, as a dam at that point would injuriously affect the valuable low lands along the river south of Minden.

The river between Minden and Moore's Falls is navigated by a small steamboat, making daily trips each way during the open season, and connecting by stage with the Nipissing railway at Coboconk.

At Moore's Falls at the foot of Gull Lake, where it discharges into Moore's Lake, there is a rapid, having a fall of three feet. If a channel were cut through the rock there, and a slight additional height given to Elliott's Falls dam, in conjunction with some additional dredging on the Gull River, the navigation from Minden might be extended to Elliott's Falls dam only six miles from the terminus of the Nipissing railway at Cobocouk, and on the completion of such improvements, a larger and more serviceable steamboat would be built and placed on that route.

The dredging and excavation would be of much service to the valuable low lying farm lands extending along the river, between Minden and Gull Lakes.

A side pier has been constructed at a point known as the Dumps on the Burnt River.

The slide at Fenelon Falls was repaired in the spring, before the driving of timber commenced. The work consisted of the re-planking of the floor of the slide, and the supply of several new stop logs.

The water in Sturgeon Lake fell unusually low, so much so, as to seriously interrupt navigation between Lindsay, Fenelon Falls, and Bobcaygeon. The scarcity of water was caused by the bad condition of the works at the Lock and Dam at Bobcaygeon, the season being rather a wet one than otherwise. As a remedy the stop logs were taken out of all the reserve dams on the Gull and Burnt River waters inclusive of Balsam Lake, which was lowered one foot below the apex of the dam, and in order to enable this to be done without injury to the navigation between Cobocouk and Fenelon Falls an arrangement was made for the removal of the boulders on the bed of the channel of Balsam River between the Lock and the outlet of Balsam Lake. By these means the desired effect was obtained and the navigation was fully resumed.

Balsam Lake Works.

Complaints having been made by a number of land holders around the Lake of damages caused to them by flooding portions of their lands on account of the construction of the dam on Balsam river, a series of surveys and examinations were made to ascertain the real merits of the alleged damage, and where they were found to exist, the surveys were followed up by an examination in each case made by a gentleman in the locality but not having any personal interest in the lands affected and who carried out his work with care, skill, and judgment. On the basis of his valuations in each case compensation has been granted to the parties affected, and the awards as made have in the majority of cases been accepted by the Commissioner taking agreements releasing them from any future claims.

Improvement at Locks and Dams.

On the completion of navigation at the present time it was found necessary at the Locks at Young's Point, Lakefield, Bridgenorth, Buckhorn, Healey Falls, Hastings, Campbellford, Seymour, Percy, Grafton, Colborne, Gore's Landing, Cobourg, Port Hope, Darlington, Oshawa, Whitby, Port Credit, Dundas, Burlington, Merritton, Thorold, Port Robinson, Chippawa, Welland, Allanburg, Dunnville, Port Maitland, Port Colborne, Port Dalhousie, Jordan, Beamsville, Grimsby, Smithville, Port Dalhousie, Thorold, Merritton

The Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, FEB. 27, 1879.

MR. SCOTT AND THE FARMERS' SONS' FRANCHISE.

In another column will be found a letter from Mr. W. H. Scott, M. P. P., in which he makes an explanation which really amounts to a confession. He acknowledges that he still entertains the opinions on the Farmers' Sons' Franchise that he held when the Act was passed, and which opinions, he himself says, are represented by the observations he then made in the House. He further states his willingness to be judged by his then utterances. Now that is just the ground on which the EXAMINER's late references to him have been made; for we had feared, from the frantic efforts of his organ here, that there was a desire on its part, if not on his, to get away from those utterances. We are glad therefore that Mr. Scott and the EXAMINER understand each other perfectly so far. Indeed, the only point of difference between Mr. Scott and us appears to be upon the signification of a little phrase in an article of the Hamilton Times copied by us, of which phrase alone Mr. Scott complains. The Times commences a sentence with the words, "No longer ago than the other day." This expression we knew could not refer to the present session; and when selecting the article for reproduction, we took it to signify a time so recent as to be readily remembered. Such another phrase is, "It is but yesterday," and others of like style, quite common with writers and speakers, to present forcibly and elegantly the idea of an event of comparatively recent date. If Mr. Scott will but look at it in this light he will find that no injustice has been done him. We take it that Mr. Scott had some idea himself that the phrase might be rendered in the light in which we took it, from the fact that he states he is not in a position to complain against us. Now, if the expression had been taken by us to refer to the present session, it would have shown either ignorance or mendacity on the part of the Hamilton Times, and just as great ignorance or mendacity on our part, in copying it, understanding it as Mr. Scott puts it in the first part of his letter. He will see, therefore, that if he holds to the strictly literal interpretation of the phrase, he must either make us out intentionally unfair to him, or ignorant of what has occurred in the Ontario Legislature this session; neither of which alternatives is complimentary to us, as neither is deserved, or indeed reasonably admissable.

But to return to Mr. Scott's present opinions on the Farmers' Sons' Franchise, as expressed in his opposition to the Act in 1877; we will have to content ourselves with a few extracts from his speech as published in the Review at that time.

In the issue of that paper on the 19th of January, 1877, we find the following in his remarks:—"Why the franchise "should be conferred on farmers' sons "was a question which would have to be "explained hereafter. In his part of "the country, mechanics and merchants "had sons, and to the ordinary-minded "the question would probably arise as to "why they should not have the franchise "also. * * * * * *

"It was evident that the idea was taken "from the new celebrated Australian "If the honorable gentleman had exa "fully perused the matter he probably "noticed that it was left to the Sov "of the country, and the Parliament "Victoria, to say what should be the "franchise. The country will, the Electoral "Act will be left to be dealt with by the "Parliament of that country, and the "Governor will have to assent to it. "Now, he (Mr. Scott) would ask, was "this a question which should be left to "the Parliament of Victoria? Was it "not a question which should be left to "the Parliament of Canada? Was it "not a question which should be left to "the Parliament of Canada? Was it "not a question which should be left to "the Parliament of Canada

LOCAL NEWS.

The Market Tolls.—Tenders for the Market Tolls are to be awarded to-day.

Lent.—Yesterday was Ash-Wednesday. Divine services were held in the Episcopal Churches.

Asburnham Council.—The regular monthly meeting of the Asburnham Council will be held next Monday evening.

School Board.—The next meeting of the School Board will be held on Wednesday next, in the Board Room in the Institute.

Shaughnessy Company.—The Shaughnessy Company performed to good houses in the Opera House on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday evenings of last week.

Trotting Races.—The annual winter meeting of the Peterborough Trotting Club is announced for Thursday and Friday next, 6th and 7th of March, when $300 in purses will be competed for.

New School House Wanted.—A correspondent from South Dysart complains very strongly in regard to the state of the School House in S. S. No. 7, Dysart. He asks why the Inspector has not done his duty and enforced the erection of a new school house, the old one being badly out of repair and unfit for occupation.

The Convict Labor Question.—Nasi, in one of his late cartoons, put the whole thing in a nutshell. An honest hard-working carpenter, with his basket of tools over his shoulders, is represented as looking with satisfaction at an idle "gaol-bird" of the worst type. "All right," cries the convict, "you work for yourself and me as well, and I loaf. It is what I like."

The Power of the Press.—A Chicago burglar is credited with the statement that half a dozen newspapers scattered over the floor are a terror to men of his craft, as they dare not handle or walk over them. Thus do we have another illustration of the power of the press. Newspapers as a burglar alarm! And yet, we've been told, some people take newspapers five years and refuse to pay for them.

Thanks.—Mr. and Mrs. McDowell and the ladies and gentlemen of the Shaughnessy Company, desire to express the pleasure and comfort experienced by them during their short stay at the Huffman House, and hereby tender Mr. Huffman their heartfelt thanks for his hospitality and the kind attention shown them by the attendants of his excellent hotel. In bidding farewell, they hope at some future time to renew the acquaintance so happily begun.

Colds.—Now is the time for those who have "the very best cure for a cold" to trot out their remedy. There never was a time when the merits of the myriad cures constantly heard of could be so thoroughly tested as at the present time. A large proportion of the people one meets this week are more or less afflicted, while very many citizens have been confined to their houses. From other points of the country we see that the same epidemic of colds prevails. The Doctors and druggists must be reaping a harvest.

Church Notes.—The Rev. Mr. Turnbull preached the first of a second series of sermons on "The Millenium," in St. Paul's Church on Sunday evening last.....Owing to the sickness of the pastor, the Rev. Alex. Bell, Mr. John Carnegie read the services in St. Andrew's Church last Sabbath.....Rev. J. B. Moore, of Brantford, occupied the pulpit of the Baptist Church on Sabbath last, and Revival meetings are being held in the same Church this week. They will in all likelihood be continued during the coming week.....In the absence of the Rev. E. B. Harper, the pulpit of the George Street Methodist Church was occupied by Rev. Mr. Crossley, on Sunday morning last.

Coroner's Sales.—The following sales are announced by Mr. Chas. Stapleton, Auctioneer:

Monday, March 10th, tenement, lots of Mr. Thomas Hall, on Hall's Island, to be sold by order of Coroner.

Tuesday, March 11th, tenement, lots of Mr. Thomas Hall, on Hall's Island, to be sold by order of Coroner.

Tuesday, March 18th, tenement, lots of Mr. Thomas Hall, on Hall's Island, to be sold by order of Coroner.

Train Lists.—The evening train on Tuesday, due here at 6.30, did not arrive till 11.30 o'clock, owing to the track being blocked up by snow.

Tension.—Mr. E. B. Bowie, formerly of this town, and now of Prince Edward Island, keeps us well supplied with all the principal Lower Province journals, for which we extend to him our thanks.

Accident.—Mr. George Tanner met with a serious accident on Saturday while working about the machinery in his cabinet factory. Falling with his foot on a spike he had his ebow and nose badly cut.

Postponed.—The skating carnival announced to come off on Tuesday evening last has been postponed till Tuesday, 11th of March. We believe there are to be several new features added to the programme.

Detached.—On Tuesday while the noon train was on its way between Millbrook and Fraserville one of the couplings became detached, leaving the passenger coach on the forest about mid-way between the above places. The mishap was not noticed till the arrival of the train at Fraserville, when the Conductor promptly returned for those left behind.

Complimentary Dinner.—H. B. Morrish, Esq., was the recipient of a complimentary supper on Thursday evening last, at Fisher's Hotel, tendered him by his North Monaghan friends. H. Collins, Esq., Reeve, occupied the chair. A very pleasant and enjoyable evening was spent.

Fatal Paralytic Stroke.—We regret to have to chronicle this week the demise of Mr. Nathaniel Burke, Livery Keeper, of this town. On Thursday last he received a paralytic stroke, under the effects of which he gradually sank until Tuesday morning, when death ensued. His funeral will leave the family residence, Charlotte street, south side of Market Square, this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Pitman.—Mr. R. W. Erroll has received this week a large number of pianos and organs in anticipation of an increase of duties on such articles, which is expected to go into force next week. He will, therefore, be prepared to sell at one-half ordinary prices for cash. Those requiring either a piano or organ will consult their interests by examining this stock before making purchases elsewhere.

Accident.—On Friday afternoon last a little girl of Mrs. Chrowell, while returning from school, jumped on to an empty wood sleigh going up George street. Unfortunately she fell off and the sleigh ran over her leg, bruising it very badly, but not breaking any bones. She was at once taken to Dr. Bell's surgery, where the wound was attended to and the child removed home. She is progressing as favorably as possible.

A Truism.—An exchange says:—"Truth is mighty and must prevail, but a man can give truth an awful tussle when he goes home at two o'clock in the morning, and his wife receives herself into an investigating committee." This may or may not be so, but we feel satisfied that W. H. Robertson and his municipal economist (a quill-driver can give truth a fearful tussle by when hauling with town printing statistics; vide last Saturday's Times.

Social "Hop."—A company of young ladies and gentlemen to the number of about twenty couples, engaged in a social "hop" at the Cheste House on Monday evening last. Dancing was kept up till about 3 a. m., and all participating seemed to enjoy themselves thoroughly. A supper was served about 1 o'clock, which well sustained the good name which mine host Cheste has built up for himself as a caterer.

Skating on the Ice.—If a body meet a body skating on the ice—if a body trip a body, do you think it nice? Every laddie has her laundie, some, they say, fall twice; if they do they need not grumble, skating on the ice. Among the crowd to see one bowed, a gay bright dashing swell; turning 'round with ernest profound, my skate caught, and I fell. With graceful slide to me did glide this fine young man so nice—made me decide to be his bride, while skating on the ice.

Saturday Evening Purchases.—The Belleville Ontario, of Monday, has the following:—"The Rev. Mr. Willoughby, while making his announcements in the Bridge-street Church last evening, referred to the practice of Saturday evening purchases. He expressed a wish that the members of the Church would endeavor to do their shopping before Saturday nights, and thus enable the stores to close earlier than usual. The system of Saturday evening purchases, he said, was the means of keeping many professing Christians from the Sunday morning service.

The Pharmaceutical Journal and Science of Health for March.—Maintains its usual high standard of excellence. The subjects of this number, are noteworthy. The Notes on Science and Agriculture are as full of useful hints as ever. The educational department is also well supplied. In fact all the departments of this most valuable monthly are brimming with matters of practical interest to man, woman, and child, and every topic is presented in that clear style which adapts it to the reading of all classes. The price of this number is only 20 cents, or $2.50 a year, with very attractive premium offers. Published by B. H. Wells & Co., 737 Broadway, New York.

Morgan's Hotel.—It may not be known to many of our readers that during the past few weeks Mr. A. P. Morgan, the popular proprietor of Morgan's Hotel, on the corner of Hunter and Water streets, has enlarged the capacity of his well-known house to about twice its former size, by the addition of those rooms formerly occupied by the Peterborough Club, and by Mr. John Burnham, as law office, on the second flat, as well as converting the stable shop on Water street into a commodious and comfortable dining-room. The premises have been thoroughly refitted and refurnished throughout with handsome parlour and bedroom suites from Messrs. Heubeck & McKee's furniture warerooms. Other improvements are still being made, which, when completed, will give Mr. Morgan ample room for the accommodation of his large and increasing trade.

New Dry Goods House.—On Saturday Messrs. Munro & Alexander will open out in Dixon Bro's old stand with a full stock of staple and fancy dry goods, haberdashery, &c. Both these gentlemen are tolerably well known to the people of Peterborough—the former being for a number of years in the employ of Messrs. Doran & Gibbons, and the latter engaged as head clerk for Dixon Bros. Besides having a thorough knowledge of the retail trade, both have been for several years connected with the wholesale business. The experience which they have thus gained will, no doubt, be utilized to its fullest extent in selecting and purchasing so that they may be able to give their customers the benefit. Their stock is new, fresh and well assorted in every department, having been personally selected by themselves, and cannot fail to give satisfaction to those patronizing them. We wish the new firm every success.

The Prince of Periodicals.—For household reading, Wood's MAGAZINE, the March number of which is already before us, has justly been styled "The Prince of Periodicals." It is a well-known fact that the really smart things which make any author's reputation are but a small proportion of all his published writings. Mr. Wood's plan is to select from the world of literature only the very best articles, which are classified into about thirty different departments, comprising almost every variety of amusing, interesting instructive household topics. We are especially requested to announce that this notice will count as one dollar in payment for something which no temperance reader can afford to do without. Hence we advise every hater of rum, tobacco and opium to cut this out and forward it to S. S. WOOD, Tribune Buildings, New York City. Also enclose 10c. for sample copy of the MAGAZINE.

Public School Pensioners.—We are decidedly in favor of that amendment in the school law which proposes that teachers who have spent the prime of their days in the profession shall be eligible to the pensional allowance at some given age—say 55 or 60 years—even if they should not then be infirm enough to obtain a medical certificate not to teach any longer. Of course this is only on the understanding that they have been bona fide members during the specified time, and have duly paid in their annual contributions to the Superannuation Fund. The salaries of public school teachers, as a rule, may be sufficient for the defrayal of current expenses of existence, but provision from such a source against the necessities of the proverbially "rainy day," is out of the question in the case of those who devote themselves to Teaching as a life-long vocation, especially if they have dependent claims upon their slender revenue. It is unfair to ask teachers to contribute out of limited, and very often stinted, incomes, the tax per capita to this fund, and then cheat them out of any return from years of investment should they chance to be blessed with a husband, after a certain age has been reached. In Pakenham township, Lanark, it is only fair that the Superannuation Fund should be safe, and we have seen no one opposition in any school but which will come out with plans of simple justice to equal incomes.

Farm Stock Sale.—Mr. George Birney, being about to retire from farming, has instructed Mr. George McDougall to offer for sale by public Auction, on his premises, lot No. 4, in the 15th concession of North Monaghan, the whole of his Farm Stock, Implements and Household Furniture, on Thursday, 13th of March, commencing at 10 o'clock.

The Star Grocery.—Workmen are now engaged in fitting up the premises lately occupied by Chambers Bros., corner of Hunter and Water streets, where a full stock of provisions, wines and liquors will be opened out in a few days. The shop will be known as "The Star Grocery," and will be under the management of Mr. Thomas Rank, who will be found both obliging and courteous to his patrons. The business will be conducted on strictly cash principles, the management believing it to be the only true system on which to conduct business. Customers may therefore rely on obtaining goods at the lowest prices, as they will not be called upon to make up for bad debts caused by the credit system. Starting in such a sound basis "The Star" cannot but succeed.

Curling.—The Port Hope Times has the following:—A friendly game of curling, a return match, was played at Peterboro' last Tuesday evening, and resulted in a victory for our club, by eight shots. After the game "our boys" were "played to glorious" by the band, and entertained at "The Huffman House" by their brother "sweeps." The dinner was "skipped" by Mr. James P. Donnelly, a gentleman whose high social qualities eminently fit him for the position of presiding officer. It is needless to say that the banquet was princely, and that the programme "furnished a most pleasing entertainment of the rarest delicacies, cooked to a "tee" and "laid out" in the most inviting manner. The cloth being removed, the usual toasts were proposed. Speeches, song and general merriment were the order of the evening. The entertainment was brought to a close at 1 a.m. Never have our curlers been more graciously or more generously treated than upon this occasion and will always look back with the most pleasing reminiscences of this event.

BRIEF MENTIONS.

—"Can a clergyman marry himself?" asked an exchange. We suppose he can, but we are afraid he would not be a happy couple.

—The days are beginning to grow so much longer at "both ends" that their length is plainly perceptible to the naked eye.

—This end wall is from the Owen Sound Sun-Times, and we judge that the young man thereof had to sit on the fence and see the other fellow "go home with her": "Society is also pestered with a sprinkling of young women who are so "petted and jealous-minded, that if you are not "continually paying their crooked noses, and "admiring their dirty teeth, petted hair and "mumpy heads, they will seriously consider the "propriety of looking at the side of the street "on which you pass."

—No Society for Him.—"No, your Honor, said an old offender at the bar of justice, "don't send me back to sing Sing again. With the insurance presidents and savings bank cashiers and such, its society is getting too exclusive for me. A fellow like me can't find nobody in his own set to associate with but the keepers."

—The Williamsport (Pa.) Sun sends this poem to the world:

"What makes your lips so awful sore?"
Asked Sarah's auburn eyed pap:
And Sarah to the old man said—
It's caused by a small chap."

Then Sarah's youngest brother—
As yet unknown to fame,
Looked Sarah in the eye, and asked—
"What is the small chap's name?"

The report was received and in the meantime discussion laid over till going into Committee of the Whole on the By-law confirming appointments.

FIRE, WATER AND GAS.

Councillor Patterson submitted the following report from the Fire, Water and Gas Committee:—

1. We recommend that the Third Ward Fire Engine Company be allowed two dollars each per year. Said allowance to be for nine members.

2. We have received six tenders for drawing Steam Fire Engine and appearing to and from fires. We recommend that Mr. Robert Weber's tender be accepted at $75 a year, to commence on the 1st day of April, 1879, Mr. Weber giving a satisfactory bond to the Clerk, of one hundred and fifty dollars for the due performance of the same.

APPOINTING OFFICIALS.

On motion of Councillor Smith, a By-law to appoint town officials was read a first time. The Council then went into Committee of the Whole on the second reading of the By-law, Councillor Taylor in the chair.

In Committee of the Whole, after an animated discussion the report of the Committee was agreed upon and the blanks in the By-law filled in accordingly.

The Committee rose and the By-law received its third reading.

Councillor Deane protested against the appointments and salaries so made, believing that before the year was ended the salaries would be found increased.

LICENSES.

Councillor Mills moved the first reading of the Licenses By-law.

In Committee of the Whole on the second reading, a Rudy councillor took ghastly many unintelligible remarks in language said to be Assiniboine-Missionary language but by Councillors can to words the other. The Mayor was finally filled in as follows:—

Mr. Luke Fisher, on behalf of the dealers in coarse grains, addressed the Council, asking that they be allowed to purchase coarse grains on the Market from ten o'clock instead of eleven as formerly.

His request was acceded to, and the Committee reported accordingly.

The By-law was then passed a third time.

LICENSE BY-LAW.

Councillor Smith moved for the third reading of the License By-law.

Councillor Rutherford moved in amendment that the Council go back into Committee of the Whole on the By-law. He wished to have the hour for closing billiard Rooms on Saturday nights changed from ten o'clock to seven o'clock.

In committee, the motion to change the hour, was lost.

Council adjourned till Monday, 17th March.

THE TOWN PRINTING.

The "Depression of the Times" was practically illustrated last Saturday, when the local paper published on that day, displayed the depths to which it has fallen under pressure of its present quill-driver. It is quite likely it gratified its own natural or unnatural propensities when the editor of that sheet alluded to "our municipal affairs once more," and the "Town Printing," and it is probable also that the depression of the whole concern led to the wail that was noticeable between the lines, because of the loss of a printing contract, the establishment could not in any case execute with any degree of decency unless indeed it farmed the work out. The poor thing posts its tip, and amid tears of disappointment, sagrily sends the printing committee of the town council, because that committee as business men had to reject the absurd proposition of an incompetent. They are accused of personal enmity toward what it were an insult for any man to feel anything but contempt and loathing. This same abject pressence to assert that it has been punished because it was working for the interests of the people, when did it so work? When did it work for anything beyond the gratification of its own selfishness? Was the tender put in by the moribund concern for the interests of the people? If so, it was not a square honest tender and was properly rejected; for if not presented on a close business basis, the tender was made for some ulterior purpose. Probably it was meant to be inacceptible, in order that a pretence might be given to attack certain men obnoxious to the sheet aforesaid. But though we are politically opposed to the men attacked, we can safely say, we will suspect them as we will others, in the ratio of their distance, personally, intellectually, and morally, from the tenderer of whom we are sorry we have spoken.

As regards the idea of a tender in a lump sum for the printing of the town, no printer of character would go in for getting business on such a lottery-like style, and no respectable councillor would ask it. Since this matter has become a public question, we forwarded a copy of the tender put in by Councillor Robertson, to Mr. Barr, editor and proprietor of the Lindsay Post, a gentleman of large experience in the printing and publishing business, whose opinion even Councillor Robertson will not dare to dispute in the matter, and received the following reply:—

MR. BARR'S LETTER.

"Lindsay, Ont., Feb. 21st, 1879.

"J. R. Stratton, Esq., Examiner, Peterborough:

"Dear Sir,—In reply to your favor of yesterday, with prices for the Peterborough Town Printing, I would say that your [illegible] prices are fair and reasonable and in several cases low too low. On no other basis could the work be done neatly, promptly and satisfactorily. As offer to print sheet posters at 19 cts. per 100, based on an ad. average, could only be made on a basis of intending to pay 10 cts. on the $; or an intention to make it up by exorbitant charges on extras. Men town will give printing at fair prices without hesitation to encourage newspapers that are in typography and in editorial management a credit to the place of publication, and if from nothing else, people at a distance would form a favorable opinion of Peterborough from the appearance of the Examiner and the Review.

"Very respectfully,

"CHAS. D. BARR."

We also find the following letter in the Review from Mr. Traves, of the Port Hope Times, who is an experienced Conservative journalist:—

MR. TRAVES' LETTER.

"Office of the Port Hope "Times."
February 21st, 1879.

To Messrs. Tucker & Co.,

"Gentlemen,—Your favor of 19th inst. from your Mr. Meagher enquiring copies of tenders for Town Printing from Review and Times offices did not reach me until to-day. In reply I would say that after a careful examination of the two tenders, and consulting with my foreman and book keeper, I have come to the conclusion that your figures as a whole for the work specified, are exceedingly reasonable, while the figures of the Times office are so utterly out of all proportion to a fraction of the cost, that I cannot look upon it otherwise than as absurd. Supposing I were desirous of getting a fair contract to pay for wear and tear of material and machinery, the printing of the Times cannot think that anyone knowing anything of the printing business could offer such a tender and expect the party tendered for to accept it. It was a mere joke tender. In job work, prices may differ even considerably, but poor paper, poor work, and such a deadhead fee for doing work, never, upon account for comparison. [illegible] paper, ink, and machinery are the same in every office in the country as you are aware, and I cannot see that work would be done at the prices given in the Port Hope tender, and the party doing the work be able to pay more than a cent and a-half on the dollar, unless, indeed, the parties have lots of money and are anxious to work for fun. On the other side I take up your items seriatim.

"1.—Bills, 300, $2.50 per 100 sheets. This item is expeditiously reasonable, I pay for posting above to our bill-poster, $2.25 per 100 sheets. This I think is the regular charge for bill-posting in all parts of Canada. The charge of 25 cents in the other tender is absurd, being less than one-half the cost of paper alone. The time occupied in setting a sheet bill will vary from one and a half to 2 hours, and I think no one would be guilty of a dishonesty intentional or otherwise, as to charge less than 50 cents for the 300. The same remarks will apply to the 500 sheet bills. Where the printer has to charge 25 cents per quarter sheet bills would not pay for the ink alone.

"Item No. 2.—Your tender your tender exceedingly reasonable at $1.25 per page. The charge in the other tender of 10 cents per page, is unworthy of a consideration, as it would not pay for the time consumed in taking proofs, to say nothing of composition, press-work and paper.

"Nos. 3, 5, 10, 11, 12, 13, I do not quite understand. Is it intended that the printing of items in figures in that form, but if they are by-laws of the council printed in pamphlet form, I would say your tender is fair, but the charges in the other tender would not pay for the time lost in setting the numerical rules.

"Item 14 is a little higher than our charge would be, but not unreasonable, 10 cents per 100 words for the composition of tenders, &c., is fair.

"Items 15, 16, 17, 18.—Your prices are lower than ours and I consider fair. The others are too low.

"Items 21 22.—Your prices are low, whereas the other tender is preposterously high, and would not pay for the time lost in getting visit, &c., &c., printed to enter the rate book.

"Item 23 is fairly described to other articles.

"Items 24 and 25.—Advertising rates should be based on the circulation of a newspaper. For the circulation of the Review I would consider your prices fair, but for the circulation of the Times I presume the tender above was intended to present a fair figure for advertising in that journal.

I am, yours truly,

J. R. THAYES.

They speak for themselves.

A correspondent of the Paris Temperance says a high society ball was lately given by a Mr. Whitehead, and he had been tried a short time before for bigamy and behaved about 20 years ago for the.....

A report comes from Sudbury, that Mr. H. Cobbe, of that city, Grand Chief Templar of the Independent Order of Foresters, of the United States, Canada, &c., was a passenger by the train which left Sudbury on Wednesday last, and when it arrived at Chelmsford, a station about 20 miles west of Sudbury, he was found dead in his seat. He had been ill for some time, and was on his way to Toronto to consult a physician. He was a native of Ireland, and was about 50 years of age.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

ESTIMATES.

On Thursday, the House spent the whole of a long sitting after routine in discussing the Estimates and voting appropriations. The Minister of Education in moving the House into Committee of Supply, delivered a long and effective speech, showing how the public moneys voted for educational purposes had been expended. He was followed by Mr. Harcourt, whose speech was a thoroughly practical one, and the discussion then became general, and was participated in by members on both sides of the House. Though some slight objections were made to certain educational items, no motion was made to reduce any of them, and the same remark applies to the items for Immigration. The items for the Deaf and Dumb Institute and the Blind Asylum were passed almost without remark.

THE CENTRAL PRISON.

After routine, some discussion took place on a motion made by Mr. O'Donohoe for a return showing the number of prisoners discharged as the Central Prison since the beginning of 1878, with a statement of the offences thus punished. The mover acsalled in somewhat strong language the management of the Prison, and instanced some cases of alleged barbarity in the treatment of prisoners. Dr. O'Sullivan spoke in a similar strain. Mr. Wood deprecated such discussions, as they had a tendency to injure the dissipline of the Prison, and explained the checks imposed by the Government with a view to prevent any abuse of this kind of punishment. Mr. Scott took strong ground against such assault on the institution, and expressed the opinion that the member for Ottawa should, if he believed what he had said, have moved for a committee of investigation. The motion was carried, with a rider attached ordering copies of the Prison by-laws and of the Orders in Council relating to the punishment of flogging. It may be added that during the session many members of the House have visited the Central Prison and that, quite irrespective of political sympathies, they are quite unanimous in their praise of the manner in which the discipline of the institution is kept up. During the discussion a letter was read from the Archbishop of Toronto, expressing his satisfaction, based upon personal observation, with the attention paid to the wants of the Roman Catholic prisoners.

PUBLIC AND PRIVATE BILLS.

Several Bills amending public Acts were read a second time, only one creating much discussion. This was a Bill introduced by Mr. Watterworth, disqualifying all but residents of the Riding or municipality to which an Agricultural Association belongs from holding the position of director in the society. The second reading was carried by a majority of 49 to 24 and the Bill was referred to a Select Committee.

HOURS FOR CLOSING HOTELS.

In answer to Mr. Springer, the Premier announced that the Government had no intention of introducing a measure this session changing the hours for the closing of hotels, and that the question of introducing a measure granting aid to beet sugar factories was under consideration.

ONTARIO REFORMATORY FOR FEMALES.

A Bill for the regulation of this institution was read a second time on the motion of the Attorney-General. The institution is founded by means of a portion of the estate of the late Andrew Mercer, which escheated the Crown some years ago, and is called by his name. Under the provisions of this measure the organization and management of the Reformatory will in most respects closely resemble those of the Central Prison for male prisoners. It will be under the supervision of the Inspector of Asylums and Prisons, and under the care of a female superintendant, an accountant, surgeon, a school mistress, and such other officers as may be found necessary. All females confined in any of the common gaols of the Province under sentence of imprisonment for any offence against Provincial statutes may be transferred from the gaol to the Reformatory instead of the common gaol of the county. Justices of the Peace, Police Magistrates are not authorized to commit convicts to the Reformatory.

INDUSTRIAL REFUGE FOR GIRLS.

A measure for the establishment and regulation of a Refuge for Girls was also read a second time on the motion of the Attorney-General. The Refuge is to be located inside of the building for the Andrew Mercer Reformatory for Women, and will be under the same management and supervision, though kept quite distinct so far as association and intercourse amongst the inmates are concerned. The intention of the measure is to some extent the same as that of the Industrial Schools Act, which has never yet been put in force in any city or town in the Province. The Bill provides that any County or Superior judge may, after enquiry, order any girl under fourteen, convicted and serving a term in a common gaol, to be sent to the Refuge, either immediately or at the expiration of her sentence, to be detained there not less than two or more than five years. Girls under sixteen may be transferred from the Reformatory to the Refuge at the option of the Inspector of Prisons.

IN SUPPLY.

The sums under Miscellaneous Expenditure were readily passed after some conversation, and the item of Colonization Roads was then taken up. The discussion under this head took a somewhat peculiar turn, the members representing the back countries endorsing, irrespective of political leanings, the policy of the Government in appropriating so large a sum as $96,300 in opening up the Districts of Algoma, Nipissing, and Parry Sound, and the counties of Renfrew, Hastings, Addington and Haliburton. Mr. Deacon and Mr. Miller urged very strongly the construction of a road 45 miles long from Lake Nipissing to the Mattawa, so that a continuous carriage-way might be completed round the whole of Ontario exclusive of Algoma. Dr. Boulter admitted that the Colonization Road appropriation for his constituency had last year been well spent, but though the supplies should be, as far as possible, purchased in the localities where they are to be used. Other members on both sides of the House took the same view, the reason given in reply for the course at present pursued being the desire of the House to have supplies furnished as far as possible by tender.

Freemasonry.

A Handsome Income for an Energetic Lady or Gentleman.

The Ohio Scale Works of Cincinnati have just patented and are now introducing to the public a Handsomely Finished Family Scale, an article that has always been needed in every household, and in a communication addressed to the publisher of this paper the proprietors ask us to refer them to some reliable party, to introduce it for them to the people of this county. It is very seldom that a new article steps so readily into universal favor. Housekeepers are loud in its praise, it is always ready, there is no weights to get lost or to be hunted up, is durable, and will not get out of order. The discription of them is a handsome base surmounted by a column in which works a spiral spring so scientifically adjusted as to weigh anything up to twelve pounds with perfect accuracy, on the top of the column is the platform on which the articles to be weighed are placed, and they have an admirable indicator so that you can take the tare of any vessel you may use in weighing, giving you the exact net weight. Housekeepers at once see their value in weighing fruits, sugars and other ingredients used in preserving, cooking, etc., or in testing the weights of purchases from others.

The scales are made of Brass, are highly polished and are finished in a skilful manner. They are very attractive and take the eye of every one who sees them.

It seems to us that nearly every family in this county will want one, and is certainly a rare opportunity for some smart and energetic party to pick up quite a nice little income during the next few months. The Company has agents in other countries who are easily making from $5.00 to $10.00 per day selling them, and we would recommend parties in need of employment to drop the Ohio Scale Works, No. 125 and 127 Central Avenue, Cincinnati, O., a Postal Card, and all information, etc., will be cheerfully given them by mentioning our paper.

ONLY A TEACHER.

'Whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God."—1 Cor., x. 31.

Only a teacher, but, oh! how grand
The work his office demands,
Young minds immortal to train, partake
Twere work for an angel's hands.

To form the basis of what may be
A life whose magic thrill
Shall sway the nations of earth, beneath
The power of a potent will.

To strengthen a fancy that yet may soar
To highest empyrean heights,
Yea, up to His Glorious Author and then
Unveil its riches bright.

Into activity bringing all
The pow'rs of the mind, that they Shall aid in self-improvement and all
The ardors of life each day.

To wake in their minds conceptions high
Of the duty they owe the race;
To inspire in their hearts a love for all
That is worthy the name of grace.

Not the leave he unless but he himself
Like a "living law" will be
Their model; like, mirror-like, in them
Will his own example see.

For souls when brought in their early years
To receive the teacher's care
Are like paper blank—there, what, oh what,
Is the teacher writing there!

Then his or'ry ward, and least, and sor,
With lovingness make their naught
Cap o'er others. How momentous, then,
To teachers this solemn thought.

How great the issues out-flowing from
A single suggestive thought!
The teacher scope, but extensive minds
Of the pupils ne'er forget.

What an honor great to sow the germ
Of a life that never dies,
That shall perfection attain throughout
The ages of Paradise.

The teacher's task is arduous, but,
'Tis a great and glorious one
When all his duties have faithfully,
"As unto the Lord," been done.

And taught them to love the Saviour's name,
Those wondrous glory and worth
Make into nothingness proudest names
Of greatest heroes of earth.

Only a teacher! Ah! little some know
Of the ever wid'ning joy
Bestowing those long serving in such
A soul-exalting employ.

MIDLAND RAILWAY.

The annual meeting of the stockholders and bondholders of the Midland Railway was held at the Company's office, Port Hope, on Tuesday last, 18th inst.

Present.—Messrs. Geo. A. Cox, Dundas, Cowans, Viadis, Maloy, Hagel, Jaffray, Ross, Hon. L. Wallbridge and H. Read, secretary.

The Secretary having read the notice of meeting, the President took the chair upon motion of Mr. Hanley, seconded by Mr. Hagel.

The minutes of the shareholders' meeting, held on the 17th March, 1873, and of the special meeting held on the same day, were taken as read.

The report of the President and Directors for the year ending 31st Dec, 1878, was then read, as follows:—

PORT HOPE, Feb. 16, 1879.

REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT AND DIRECTORS TO THE SHAREHOLDERS AND BEARERSHOLDERS OF THE MIDLAND RAILWAY OF CANADA:—

GENTLEMEN,—A change having so recently taken place in the management, by the resignation of your late President, and the re-organization of the Company now to be consummated by the election of a board in pursuance to the Act recently passed by the Ontario Legislature, it has been deemed advisable by the present Board to lay before you, without comment, a statement of the receipts and expenditures for the year ending 31st December, 1878, together with the customary accounts and statements, under their various heads.

By the appointment of the new Directors now to take place, the property you are aware will virtually pass into the hands of the bondholders. Looking forward to that event and the unsettled state of matters during the past few months that have intervened since Mr Hugel's resignation, the present Board have not been in a position to deal with several matters of importance that will require the early attention of their successors in office. But realising the importance of the early completion of the line to Midland, they were unwilling that it should be longer delayed, and therefore have placed the work under contract to Messrs. Dixon and Gibson, of Port Union, who are now rapidly pushing it forward to completion and confidently hope to have the first train reach Midland by the 15th May.

The erection of three new iron bridges, in order to prevent a probable recurrence of damage to the property and delay of traffic by the spring freshets, had also to be undertaken and have been most satisfactorily completed by the Hamilton Bridge Company.

Satisfactory contracts for an ample supply of wood and ties for the coming season have been entered into, but your Board have only felt justified in undertaking matters of this nature that could not be well delayed.

The new Board will, no doubt, find it necessary to give their immediate attention to some scheme for the compromise of the large floating debt, and for extensive renewals and repairs to the property and will probably submit to you at an early date, some proposition for carrying this out, together with a full report of the conditions and requirements of the property on their assumption of its management.

In conclusion, we have to express our regret that the depression under which the country has been so long suffering has again caused a decrease of $14,805.46 in the gross earnings of the year as compared with that of the previous year.

The total traffic receipts for the year have amounted to the sum of $348,828.96 as against $363,634.30 for 1877.

The amounts and statements herewith submitted from the heads of the different departments, together with the report of auditors, will give you the receipts and expenditures in detail.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

GEO. A. COX, President.

Mr. Cox said—In moving the adoption of the Report, I desire to say there are many matters of importance touching the future interests of the Company that will demand and we doubt receive, the prompt attention of the new Board that the retiring board have not felt justified in dealing with, in consequence of the peculiar circumstances under which they so recently assumed the management, and the change on soon to take place by reason of the property passing into the hands of the mortgagees or bondholders, who are practically the real owners of it, and whose interest and object it will be to preserve and improve it in every possible way, and with the least possible delay. It is gratifying to myself personally, and I am sure to all of you, that the interest they are now evincing in their property has resulted in the presence with you to-day of Mr. Hanley, of London, who is himself a bondholder for a considerable amount, and has so long interested himself in the Company's welfare, and who comes vested with power and authority from the bondholders to act in their interest. I am sure, from the position he has already taken, that he will not delay to protect the claims of the large number of creditors in Canada at the large number of creditors in Canada who still [illegible] and charges [illegible] the management in most satisfactory [illegible] and have been [illegible] in the [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] and

A Ballad of the Mexican War.

The night is still and between the prairie lies in snow; And hark! the wolves are howling, as 'round the fort they go. Close to their guarded stable the horses snort with fear, Pile on the logs still higher, we'll give the night to cheer; While round the hearth are bustling, and others spice the wine, And some deal out the table with torches of the pine, And some bring in the red game, or pastry crisply fine.

I'll tell! tell the story, comrades, how Vera Cruz was won!

You should have seen our transports, a hundred in a row, Like stately swans they floated, majestically and slow. Two days we headed southward, out on the boundless sea, Two days gray Orizaba towered upon our lee. At last the distant city flashed on the seaboard dim; And crouched before it, watching, the lion castle grim;

Close by the beach we anchored, and with a mighty shout, The boats were launched, and oars were down, and the long line shot out. A moment in the breakers; God help the gallant band! The creamy foam is o'er them; hurra! they gain the land. The starry flag is planted, a beacon blazing wide; A hundred guns exulted, ten thousand men replied. That night we slept untented, and often waked to hear The jackal snarling near us, the foeman scenting near. With day the bands opened; a dread Sexennal roar. From fleet, and fort, and castle, balloden o'er sea and shore!

And walls we dug the trenches, still blew the fiery gale, And still above, about us, pattered the iron hail. Sudden a trumpet sounded, we looked, and o'er the crest Galloped a thousand lancers, their lances laid in rest. "Now as them!" cricded our leader; we mounted quick and bold. "One charge upon the cravens!" and in the dust they rolled. "Again!" and riding down upon them, we crushed the rabble rout As with his hounds the hunter the harvest tramples out.

The norther next assailed us; the sand in clouds arose, As when across the desert the deadly simoon blows! The tents went down like rushes when tempests hurtle by; The whizzing bombs incessant kissed viewless through the sky; And the great sun, in anger, broke redly through the haze, Like some fie ce god of battle, his armor all ablaze!

Till night the conflict deepened; and when the darkness fell, Death fiercer rode the whirlwind of raging shot and shell; From trench and fleet we thundered; the lengthened walls replied, The stout old castle answered, flaming on every side; The hum of shells enormous filled all the hollow air, And the sky blazed with comets, shaking their fiery hair.

We heard the plunge of round-shot, embrasures crumbling down, The shrieks and wails of women from out the fated town, The bells in terror ringing, the crash of falling domes; We saw the red fire leaping high over happy homes; It played on roof and steeple, it flashed from ocean's swell, Till sea and town shone lurid like the red mouth of hell!

Four days the battle lasted; four hapless nights and days; Days black with smoke of Tophet, nights lit with sulphurous blaze. The fifth beheld a ruin. Where once had stood the town Were wall and church and dwelling, in chaos tumbled down. The foe implored our mercy; and ere the set of sun, Our flag was on the ramparts. Thus Vera Cruz was won!

Ontario Legislature.

WEDNESDAY.

After routine and third readings, it was agreed on the motion of the Premier that after the close of the present week there shall be two sittings a day, the first commensing at eleven in the forenoon, except on Saturdays, on which there shall be only one sitting, commencing at the usual hour. One or two Government measures were advanced a stage, after the House went into Committee of Supply.

SCHOOL OF AGRICULTURE.

The first item taken up was the proposed appropriation for the Model Farm and School of Agriculture. The Minister of Agriculture, in moving the item gave a brief account of the experiments conducted on the farm, of the annual sales of produce from it, and of the operations of the College. The sale of last year was a gratifying success, and the attendance of students had largely increased, while the growing popularity of the institution was shown by the fact that students were eagerly seeking admission, not only from all parts of Ontario, but also from the other Provinces of Canada and from Great Britain. The reports of Farm and College would be circulated through the country for the benefit of the farming community.

The time up to recess was occupied by Messrs. Merrick, Lauder, Meredith, and Grange, who dwelt on the costliness of the institution, and raised objections to the manner of keeping the accounts. The defenders of the institution, were not averse to discussing the question, and it was noticeable that on both sides of the House there was a general expression of opinion in favour of giving it a fair trial. After the passage of the item the next taken up was that of

CROWN LAND EXPENDITURE.

The principal part of this is for surveys of new townships, and Mr. Lauder made a long and laboured attempt to show from the reports of the surveyors that much of the money was lost, because neither the land or the timber was worth anything. He hasarded the statement that the Sanfield Macdonald Government surveyed no land except what was fit for settlement, and was promptly corrected by the Commissioner of Crown Lands, who took the ground that all the new country had to be surveyed; whether the land was bad or good, and extorted from Mr. Lauder the admission that he had no idea of the position of the townships to which he had been referring. The item then passed, and the only remaining ones in the Estimates, for refunds and unforseen and unprovided expenses, were quickly voted. After a short time spent at other Government business, the House then adjourned.

THURSDAY.

After routine several Bills were read a third time yesterday, including those respecting the Reformatory for Females and the Industrial Refuge for Girls. Mr. Meredith's motion for a return of the amount of reductions made on Crown, Clergy, Common School, and Grammar School lands, under the provisions of the Acts passed in 1871 1872, authorising these reductions, created a brief but spirited discussion, in the course of which it was shown that whatever view may be taken of the policy of these statutes that policy was in all its essential features adopted by the Sandfield Macdonald Government. A somewhat opposite effort was brought up by Mr. Gibson in a motion for correspondence between the Ontario and Dominion Governments respecting the Land Improvement Fund. The discussion brought out the fact that the Dominion Government claimed a portion of the proceeds of the sales of timber on the Ontario territory, on the ground that the timber was the property of the Dominion Government at the time of the transfer of the territory to Ontario, and that the Ontario Government claimed the whole proceeds. The matter was finally allowed to stand over for further consideration.

proposition to divide Algoma into two electorial districts led to a somewhat general discussion on the readjustment of the representation and the general character of the treatment meted out to the newer portions of the country by the rest of the province. Mr. Lyon in support of his motion made a brief but pointed argument, based on the extent, population, resources, and need of the district, and his plea was endorsed by Mr. Miller who complained of the want of liberality shown by the House towards the back country generally, especially in the matter of railway accommodation. He advocated the creation of a new Province which would include Algoma and the part of the Dominion east of Manitoba. The Priemier stated that until the award of the arbitrators was ratified by the Dominion Parliament it would not be possible to deal with the matter, and after some further discussion the motion was withdrawn.

PUBLIC BILLS.

Mr Currie's Bill respecting the sale of lands under mortgage, which was adapted from an Act of the New York Legislature, came up for a second reading, and, after discussion, the motion was lost by a majority of 33 to 28. The only other Public Bills that led to much discussion were those respecting the Guelph burying ground and the incorporation of the village of Tiverton, both of which were read a second time. After advancing some minor Government measures a stage, the House adjourned.

FRIDAY.

A number of Bills were yesterday afternoon read a third time and passed, including the Government measures to extend the powers of Gas Companies, and to authorize investments in municipal debentures issued in aid of stone and timber drainage.

In reply to a question from Mr. Bell, the Attorney-General announced that it was not the intention of the Government to introduce a measure this session for the abolition of exemptions from municipal assessment, and that a Committee had been appointed to take evidence on the subject, with power to send for persons and papers. A motion of Mr. Wills for a Special Committee to enquire into the claims of the heirs of John O'Carroll, of Belleville, for losses incurred by him during the rebellion of 1837-8, was lost on division. A motion by Mr. Grange for the correspondence connected with the trial of Mr. Scott, the publisher of a Napanee paper, for circulating an election squib in the form of an address by Mr. E. Hooper to the electors of Lennox, was carried after a somewhat amusing discussion. One or two other orders were made, and the House then passed to Public Bills.

DIVISION COURTS.

A very long and spirited discussion took place on Mr. Currie's Bill extending the jurisdiction of these Courts to sums up to $200. A motion of the Attorney-General's, referring to the opinions of the County Judges, and deprecating any change at present, was lost by a majority of 35 to 33. In the course of the discussion the leader of the Opposition, who was finding fault with the Ministry for their want of a policy in the matter, was asked to state his own, but declined to do so, evidently because he had none.

THE CROWN LANDS.

(London Free Press, (Tory.)

The report of the Hon. the Commissioner of Crown Lands contains some interesting particulars respecting the nature and extent of the wild lands of the Province, the districts surveyed during '78, the quality of the soil, and the progress of actual settlement. The free grant system has not been barren of results, and the lands from which intending settlers may choose, so far as these lands have not yet been located, are surely extensive enough, as they include 94 townships surveyed and ready for settlement. This free grant system was initiated in 1868, under the Sandfield Macdonald Government. In 1871 the township of Ryerson was chosen as the section in which to try the new experiment, which consisted in clearings certain number of acres, putting the same in a proper state for cultivation, building a house, making other improvements, and then calling upon the settler to recoup the Government by instalments, according to the terms of agreement. These improvements have been pretty well completed, the lands made over to the control of the proper department, a large number of the lots taken up by settlers, and provision made to issue patents to such as are entitled under the statute to receive them.

During the last year 2,115 locations were made on 274,238 acres of land under this free grant system, and 472 patents were issued to settlers on these lands. Since the passage of the Free Grant and Homestead Act in 1868, 12,820 locations have been made, covering an area of 1,660,323 acres, while in the township of Ryerson 252 locations have been made on 43,334 acres, making a total, under complete or partial settlement, of 1,703,657 acres. These settlements are scattered through Muskoka, Parry Sound, Peterborough, Haliburton, Hastings, Addington, Frontenac, Renfrew, Algoma and Thunder Bay. The number of farms taken up, year by year, vary from 511 in 1868, to 2,115 in 1878, making, with the 252 improved lots in Ryerson Township, 13,072 locations altogether. Quite a number of grants, some 4,525, have been cancelled during these eleven years, so that the actual number of locations, up to the beginning of the present year, made under the provisions of the Free Grant and Homestead Act, will be about 9,000, which makes a very good exhibition in ten years, considering the nature of the soil, the climate, and the position of the lands on which the settlements have been made. Heavy sums have been expended on the colonization roads, concessioning, during the year just closed, to $97,000, and on the free roads between Lindsay and Bobcaygeon, and between the Canadian Pacific and former one between the Canadian Pacific and former one

MIDLAND RAILWAY.

Meeting of Creditors.

(From the Port Hope Guide.)

The meeting of the creditors of the Midland Railway of Canada, held in the Town Hall here, yesterday, was largely attended from all parts of the country through which the line runs; the special train bringing in some two hundred. The President and Directors, with their legal advisers, Mr. W. Cassels, (of Messrs. Blake, Kerr & Boyd, Toronto,) and Mr. Dennistoun, Q. C., of Peterboro', were on the platform, and the proceedings opened by a lengthy and able explanatory address from the President. After stating that since he had occupied the position of President no engagements had been entered into by the Company which had not been or would not be promptly met, and that so long as he remained in charge such would continue to be the case, he explained that the business of the meeting was to consider the difficulties of the past, how they could be best met in the interest of all parties; due consideration being given to the pressing necessities of the road, its condition being such as to give the Board much anxiety. He informed the meeting that the Board were desirous that every investigation should be made into the affairs of the Company, as set forth in the statement laid before the meeting; and with the view of doing so effectually and of consulting with the Board as to what should be done, he suggested that the meeting might think fit to elect a representative committee to examine the matter. He then fully explained the position of the mortgage bondholders, and pointed out by the legislation of last session they had made a settlement of the debts possible, by giving the Company the disposal of a certain number of bonds, similar in all respects to their own.

A long discussion followed, as to the appointment of a committee, and finally, in reply to many of the speakers, the President stated that the only definite proposition that could be made was, that the creditors should take the bonds at par for their claims, or cash at 22½ cents to the dollar.

The meeing adjourned until the evening, when the President was requested to attend again, and after further explanations, it appeared to be the general feeling that the proposal as made had better be adopted, and upon this basis a considerable number of creditors have already settled their claims with the Company.

It was gratifying to notice the confidence that was evidently placed in the statement of Mr. Cox; and his conduct and behaviour generally throughout the day, patient and courteous to all as he was, in a happy omen, and the commencement it is to be hoped, of a new era of prosperity to the Company and to all who have relations with it.

It would not be out of place to express a word of sympathy with the President and the newly elected Board of Directors, in the painful position in which they are placed, in having to deal with such an unhappy condition of affairs, in the creation of which they had no share.

Arrest of a Murderer.

The Markdale correspondent of the Owen Sound Advertiser states that recently two United States detectives visited Markdale in pursuit of a man named Nibbling, charged with murder in Cleveland, Ohio. The man was supposed to be secreted somewhere in that neighbourhood, and on their arrival the officers veiled their mission by enquiring for employment. They worked for several days chopping cord wood, keeping in the meantime eyes and ears open in order to secure a clue which might lead to the object of their search. On Friday last the man they were after walked into a Markdale hotel, and before he had a suspicion of his danger, he was thrown on the floor, manacled, and almost immediately afterwards was forced into a cutter waiting at the door, and detectives and prisoner without a moments delay, started for Walkerton. The details of the crime with which Nibbling is charged are not known, for, although frequently questioned, the detectives declined to divulge anything. It is stated that a number of the alleged murderer's relatives live in the northern part of the township of Glenelg. The detectives have been in search of him since June last. $4,000 reward as offered for his capture.

Lumber and Protection.

The following is from the Globe:—Mr. George Hilliard, member for the West Riding in Peterborough, was elected as a protectionist lumberman. But at the lumbermen's meeting at Peterborough he moved a resolution to the effect that "no change be made in the tariff which will interfere with or retard the sale of the productions of lumber and agricultural implements, and very many of the articles on which it is

GRAND JUNCTION RAILWAY.

From the Herald.

New life, apparently, is permeating the operations of the Grand Junction Railway, and we have another assurance, in addition to the many flights of imagination to which we have heretofore been aroused, that little will occur this time to stem the tide of its construction. A telegram from the officials reached here a few days ago, instructing Mr. McKeel to proceed at once with the work of getting in readiness the piers for the bridge across the Trent. These piers were imperfectly put together, and a portion of them are to be torn down and rebuilt preparatory to the completion of the bridge. The work is now proceeding; and from the authority of J. M. Ferris, Esq., we are able to state that building will commence on to Hastings as soon as the weather permits of it being done. We have the report, too, that a daily train will run between Belleville and Campbellford early next summer.

An Illinois Ghost Story.

A special from El Paso, Ill., says Timothy Donohue, section boss on the Toledo, Peoria and Wabash railroad, while working near that place yesterday saw a woman poorly clad standing upon a bridge apparently in distress. She was in her stockinged feet and wore an old faded shawl and had a handkerchief 'round her hand. He watched her five minutes and as a train was fast approaching went to her assistance when suddenly she vanished, he could not tell where. He is a sober, reliable man and tells a straight story. Upon inquiry it was ascertained that the same phenomenon has been witnessed on two previous occasions—by a farmer seven years ago, and two years ago by a woman. No one can account for it.

HANLAN IN ENGLAND.

Edward Hanlan, the champion sculler of America, arrived at Liverpool yesterday by the Inman steamer City of Montreal, from New York, for the purpose of fulfilling an engagement to row against John Hawdon, in a match over the Tyne championship course on the 5th of May next. The City of Montreal left New York on the 31st ult., and made a fine passage to the Mersey. The Canadian sculler landed in excellent health, although he had suffered a little from seasickness on the voyage, He was met by Colonel Shaw, United States Consul at Manchester, who accorded him a hearty welcome. Hanlan is a young man, apparently about 23 years old, of medium height, and strong muscular appearance, although lithe and active. He is fair complexioned, has a slight mustache, and a clear, ruddy skin. His manner is at once frank and modest. He seemed to be in excellent spirits upon landing, and took a keen interest in what passed upon the landing stage during the customs examination of the passengers' baggage. It appears that this is his first visit to the old country, and his match with Hawdon will be the first sculling match of an international character that has been pulled on the Tyne since Kelly defeated Hamill in July, 1866. Hanlan is accompanied by his trainer, James Heasley, and has brought from New York a boat which he may probably use for practice rowing in this country, although he talks of having a new one especially built for the race. In company with Colonel Shaw, the Canadian Champion and Heasley waited upon Mr. Pickard, the United States Consul at Liverpool, and were afterwards to accompany the colonel to Manchester. It is expected that Hanlan and his trainer will arrive in Newcastle about the end of the present week, with a view to assisting at the champion contest on Monday next.—Newcastle Chronicle.

Spurgeon.

Mr. Spurgeon's success was immediate and unmistakable and from his first sermon in the Park Street Chapel he has gone on increasing in power and fame and personal influence. Everybody has heard of him as a preacher. Millions have heard him preach. The Tabernacle, on Sunday, when Mr Spurgeon is in the pulpit, is one of the sights of London. It is the one church in England, perhaps in the world, whose regular congregation numbers 5,000, and which has never an empty bench. The weekly sermons have even a wider congregation than the Tabernacle will hold. They are printed from week, and circulate wherever the English tongue prevails. They have been translated into almost every language spoken by Christians; and in some of the African missionary settlements the natives read in their own tongue the homely truths, the forcible arguments, and the quiet illustrations which have been first uttered on some earlier Sunday in the Tabernacle. Mr. Spurgeon is first of all a preacher, and it is as a preacher that he is known throughout the civilized world. But he is something more than a preacher. He is one of the most tremendous workers of the day. Few people outside of his congregation, or beyond those who make it their special business to inquire, can form any conception of the proportion and extension of the agencies for doing good which Mr. Spurgeon has established, controls, and principally maintains.—London Times.

Statistics.

The records of marriage offer some curious columns. Statistics are continually forcing upon our notice a fixed percentage of repentant old bachelors that marry widows; also of young women that marry old men, and of widows that renew their vows; while the ratio of second, third and fourth marriages is very constant.

Indeed, it has most profoundly come to pass that, just as the numerous sporting [illegible] at west [illegible] disposed to a subdivision [illegible] are constituted to [illegible] very many of the [illegible] represents the fraction one half as to the probabilities of marriage, which is so vulgar a fraction that most young men of that period strive ardently to annihilate it by finding the other and better half which restores their integrity, substance and show.

Salt as a Manure.

The advantages of salt as a fertilizer are under discussion, and we submit the following from that excellent authority, the Germantown Telegraph:—"We have applied salt to our garden, say at intervals of from six to eight years, for twenty-five or thirty years. We could not discover that it had any particular effect. We believe, however, that it had good effect, besides destroying insect life. We used it almost annually on the asparagus beds, as most persons do, and know that the plant greatly thrives upon it. In wheat fields it tends to stiffen the straw and acts thus as a protection against storms, which lay low so many fields. It also attracts moisture, and in times of drought acts favorably in this way. But that it is a manure in any sense, or that it will show itself after the first crop is removed, we do not believe. It is a question for the observing farmer to decide whether or not its application will 'pay.' In England it has long been experimented with in every way, as a fertilizer, and the farmers there are as much in the dark about it to-day as they were at the beginning. The Mark Lane Express, regarded as good authority there, says that there is no clear evidence even as to its mode of action, as the results are so varying that they are "conflicting and contradictory."

The "Poor Girls."

The poorest girls in the world are those who have never been taught to work. There are thousands of them. Rich parents have petted them. They have been taught to despise labor and depend upon others for a living, and are perfectly helpless. If misfortune comes upon their friends, as it often does, their case is hopeless. The most forlorn and miserable women upon earth belong to this class. It behoves to parents to protect their daughters from this deplorable condition They do them a great wrong if they neglect it. Every daughter ought to be taught to earn her own living. The rich as well as the poor requires this training. The wheels of fortune roll swiftly round—the rich are very likely to become poor and the poor rich. Skill to labor is no disadvantage to the rich, and is indespensible to the poor. Well-to-do parents must educate their children to work. No reform is more imperative than this.

PETERBOROUGH, MARCH 6, 1879.

DIGNIFIED OPPOSITION.

In striking contradistinction to the conduct of the Ontario Opposition, and to that of the Tories in the Dominion Parliament now assembled, is the disciplined and statesmanlike position, bearing and action of Mr. Mackenzie and his followers in the House of Commons. The ex-Premier's criticism on the election of the Speaker, was an easy and gentle reminder that the Tory leaders practice is not in accordance with his former preaching. The debate on the Address, if debate it can be called, was not used for the purpose of laying party traps or getting up an acrimonious discussion on any and all subjects of political gossip; but simply as an opportunity to congratulate the mover and seconder, and then the Ministry, on the remarkable way in which they have borrowed the policy of their opponents, even at the expense of their own consistency. There could be no serious and decided objection by the Opposition, to a speech which contains no principle that might not have been put in the mouth of His Excellency, by the late Ministry as readily as by his present advisers. Of more importance was the debate on Mr. Anglin's motion in respect to the appointments to vacancies since last session. The question is one involving the rights and dignity of Parliament. The cases which raise it at the present time contain a conflict of action between the late Speaker and the present Ministry, regarding certain appointments made by the Speaker in the interval between the sessions, to fill vacancies created by the resignation of officials. Mr. Anglin contends that the Speaker is elected not only to preside over the House, but also to act as Speaker in the interim between sessions; that the right conferred on him by Statute to suspend or dismiss any official implies the right to fill vacancies; and that no one else had such right. This right he exercised in filling vacancies at the request of the Clerk, and after making close inquiries as to the necessity of so doing. The Clerk had shortly afterwards been instructed by the present Premier not to recognise these appointments, and to dismiss the appointees. Other appointments subsequently made by him had not been recognized. He held that the privileges of the Speaker, and consequently of Parliament had been usurped. Mr. Anglin presented his views in a calm, argumentative and carefully non-partisan manner. Sir John Macdonald followed, and agreed with Mr. Anglin that the Crown had no power to deal with these appointments. He, however, held that the Speakership ceased with the dissolution of Parliament, and that the power of suspension or dismissal did not imply that of appointment. He contended that these appointments should have been left to the new Speaker. He agreed that the act was inadequate, and that it should be amended. The debate was continued in an able and perfectly judicial way by Cockburn, a former Speaker, Mr. Mackenzie, Mr. Macdougall, Mr. Anglin and Sir John Macdonald making repeated remarks. The motion for correspondence on the matter passed after one of the best debates of the House, on a point worthy of study as a matter entirely outside of party considerations. And it has been the evident aim of the Reform Opposition to eschew party platforms in their discussion of matters of state, except in so far as principles are involved. They are giving the Ministry every chance to bring in their measures without factiousness; and every day's delay of the session lays it entirely at the door of the Ministry. The opposition is probably restrained from the Ministerial course by the withdrawal from the Government benches of the Quebec bleus, which left the Ministry in a minority, and by the fact that the Ministry is largely composed of Liberals.

A PRETTY PARTY PLAN.

Amid all the deputations that have waited on the Finance Minister in reference to Protection, there has been a very noticeable absence of any spontaneous demand in that direction by the farming community. Whether this has been, as suggested, because the farmers have become convinced of the uselessness, and positive injury to them of a protective tariff, or whether it be from some other cause, the fact has evidently caused uneasiness in Government circles, as effort has accordingly been made at Ottawa to rope in the agriculturists, if possible. To this end instructions have been sent by Tory members to the party organizations in their districts to draw up petitions in favor of placing on grain, stock, horses, &c., imported from the United States, the same duties levied by that country on products of Canada. The Conservative associations are to engineer these petitions and are told to be careful to have them "as numerously signed as possible by all parties, irrespective of political predilections, and forward them for presentation to Parliament." This means that as many Reformers as possible are to be captured, and committed in such a manner as to enable any who complain of the tariff to be told, "you got just what you asked for." It is a very clever dodge this circulating of petitions in set form throughout the country, with the hope that people may be induced to sign them rather than refuse their neighbors who present them. It is well known that even those farmers who would not be averse to putting in protectionist petitions, are widely divergent in their views on the subject according to the part of the country in which they live, a tariff that would suit those of one section would be injurious to residents in another district. Yet all are to be asked to blindly subscribe to a document asking for the adoption of the United States tariff, whether such be suitable to their position and circumstances or not. The purpose is plainly to relieve the government from the embarassment into which their profuse anti-election promises have got them, without any consideration whatever for the interests of the farmers who are to be asked to be themselves by signing such petitions. Why confine the preparation of petitions to Tory heads alone, if as pretended, Reformers are expected to sign them? The straight mode of procedure would be to request farmers to get up petitions of their own, if the whole plan were not a party dodge. As it is, a farmer of either party would be immensely silly to sign any petition other than that expresses his views exactly and fully, unless indeed he be ready to sink everything for the sake of the Tory party. The whole case carries with it a suggestion by its originators that the farmers are not able to look after their own interests, and are consequently to be put into leading strings, and as such, it should be resented by them, and probably it will be by all except those wholly tied down by party considerations.

This proposal for a copying of the United States tariff on agricultural products, emanating as it does from Tory headquarters, and obtaining the undoubted countenance of the Tory Ministry, is in very ill concert with the late assurance made to the lumbermen by the Finance Minister, that their supplies would not be increased in price. The farmers are to be bribed to sign petitions with a pretence that an adoption of the United States duties on their productions will give them higher prices, yet the lumbermen, as well as all except the farmers, are expected to believe that they will pay no more for these productions. Here is a paradox of which every man asked to sign a petition for agricultural protection should demand an explanation. Either an undue advantage is offered, or it is not. If so, the farmer is to be bribed with an expectation of spoils, if not where is the use of an appeal to him to favour Protection. Every high-minded and intelligent farmer will scorn as it deserves this application to him of mean and mercenary motives.

A REVENUE TARIFF.

During the campaign preceding the Dominion elections the grand point of difference between the Reformers, then in power, and their Tory opponents, was upon the principle what should govern the framing of a tariff. The Reformers held, and still hold, that the guiding idea should be the securing of revenue to meet the financial requirements of the country. The Tories, on the other hand, pressed the doctrine that the tariff should be essentially protectionist in its character; or, as in their resolution at the last session of Parliament, they went for "a re-adjustment of the tariff, to benefit and foster the agricultural, the mining, the manufacturing, and other interests of the Dominion." This was their primary idea; revenue being entirely left out of their calculation. But when the Speech from the Throne was presented to Parliament we find that they had adopted the principle of the Reformers, and placed revenue first, proposing "a re-adjustment of the tariff with a view of increasing the revenue; and making the industries they formerly were so eager to foster a merely secondary consideration. In spite of this obvious contra-distinction in principle, the Tory organs pretend to reconcile the Opposition resolution of last session with the tariff announcement of Tory Ministers through the Governor-General. To this end they supplement the utterance of the Speech by the Premier's declaration on the floor of the House, that "they" (the Ministry) "intend to fulfil their pledges." What are these pledges? Here are some of them made by Sir John Macdonald himself from the public platforms:—

"Farmers would have to submit to an increase in the tariff to encourage home industries."

"I say to the farmer, 'You must not grumble if, perhaps you have to pay a few cents more for anything we can produce in this country. You must not be hungering for strange markets to get goods at bankrupt sacrifice prices. No: you must encourage manufacturers at your own doors'."

So much for the principle of encouragement to manufactures as the first consideration! But still more Protectionist are his utterances in favor of the policy of our Yankee neighbors. Hear him:—

"If they (the Americans) are going to build a Chinese wall we will subscribe to the erection of the wall."

"If the United States will not grant us reciprocity of trade let us have reciprocity of tariff."

"Our neighbors on the other side of the line cannot be offended if we follow the American example of protection to the utmost policy."

Many other quotations might be read from the speeches of Sir John Macdonald and his principal followers, all pointing plainly to the fact that they were Protectionists before everything. They actually assured the idea of the Reformers for a Revenue tariff. Yet the Tory Ministry has to come directly back to the principle enunciated and pummeled by the late Government—"a re-adjustment of the tariff with a view to increasing the revenue!" If they stick fairly to that, Reformers will complain of nothing but their inconsistency; but their Protectionist dupes have just reason to cry out against their deceit.

THE CANTANKEROUS CONTRACTOR.

The Times of last Saturday tacitly acknowledges that it has adopted the economic role as regards town affairs as a speculation. It admits that it cannot depend on any inherent strength of right or in the justice of its cause to sustain it; and so it appeals in forma pauperis for "substantial encouragement and support." In plain English it wants money; is ready to be hired; or it may be bribed to keep still. Well, we don't for a moment imagine that anybody in Peterborough is foolish enough to hire an advocate that could only prove mischievous to its client; or buy the silence of a paper the opposition of which is rather complimentary than otherwise.

The Times wants to be considered a martyr; but it is not willing to comply with all the conditions of martyrdom. It can't get down to the humility of suffering willingly for what it tries to represent as a good cause. It would gain something to itself by the operation:—not alone the glory of righteous suffering, or the undying fame of the martyr to rectitude; but "substantial encouragement and support." It turns directly to the "beggarly elements"; and yet complains of a sneer at its poverty. True there is no crime, no dishonor, in being poor in pocket; but there is much disgrace, and much positive evil in poverty of principle and sordidness of soul,—such as is displayed by the mercenary mendicant in the martyr's cloak; and in those who deprecate allusions to their own present financial condition, and, in the same breath almost, go back to the less rich antecedents of others.

As we have said before in reference to this town printing, we say again. Mr. Robertson's tender was either presented as a business transaction or it was not. It bears evidence on the face of it that it was not. We have to the evidence of Mr. Robertson's own paper that the tender was put in for the benefit of the ratepayers; and therefore not as a business transaction on the part of the tenderer. In what way did he hope to benefit the ratepayers except by robbing other business tenderers of profits he had no hope of securing for himself? The trick was evidently that of a disappointed, envious and thoroughly unscrupulous man. His utter disregard of any calculation, other than for mischief, may be seen in the fact of his offer to do an indefinite amount of printing for a definite sum. Such an unbusiness-like offer was not unnaturally rejected; and as the committee was not bound to accept the lowest or any tender, unsuccessful contractors had no right to complain; or ask the committee and council to stultify themselves by repudiating their own award.

In conclusion we have just to remark that we will not quietly submit (however well we understand the game), to have others—even if they be political opponents—hammered at over our shoulders. Especially must we resent being made an instrument of attack when that attack is of the underhand sort; and when the clumsy, because vindictive, plotter tries to fasten an imputation upon our honor and business integrity. It may be that he would not feel such an imputation himself; but that is no reason why others should not.

A MISCHIEVOUS ATTACK.

The judicial and non-partizan manner in which constitutional questions should be discussed, and in which the Speakership appointments during the Parliamentary interregnum were discussed in the House of Commons a few days ago, has been quite disregarded by the Belleville Intelligencer, in referring to the matter. That paper as coarsely as meanly accuses Mr. Anglin with making the appointments for a partizan purpose; and declares that the Premier's cancellation of them was a fitting snub to the late Speaker. The peculiar rancour with which the Minister of Customs regards Mr. Anglin may account for this disgraceful reference, but it should all the more be promptly rebuked by the rest of the Conservative press, and also by the Conservative leaders in Parliament. Unless this be done the Intelligencer's attack on the late Speaker may not unfairly be regarded as the party manner of dealing with the subject. If such be the case the very adoption of abusive tactics and partizan resort is a good proof of the inherent weakness of the Ministerial case. Let us inquire a little closer. Mr. Anglin had or had not the power to deal with these offices. If, as he holds, he had; then Sir John Macdonald clearly did an arbitrary and illegal act in ordering the Clerk of the House to ignore the appointments. In any such case Sir John had no such right of interference as he has assumed. But if Mr. Anglin could not deal with the offices, then it is quite clear that the resignations of the officers interested are not valid; and consequently Mr. Tasse, the Tory member for Ottawa city is not legally a member of the House of Commons, being still an officer of the Dominion. As for the causes that led Mr. Anglin to make the appointments, they have been amply explained by the correspondence on the subject; and to say the least of it the conduct of Sir John Macdonald in the affair has had the effect of placing in an exceedingly awkward and uncomfortable position an old and faithful officer of the Crown, Mr. Patrick, the Clerk.

Central Prison Discipline.

Dr. O'Sullivan has again been airing his spelf in the Legislature concerning Central Prison discipline. The matter was introduced this time by Mr. O'Donoghue, the member for Ottawa, in a motion for information about flogging in the prisons. It would seem that both O'Sullivan and O'Donoghue had got the idea that some friend or friends of theirs among the convicts had been too severely dealt with. The idea cropped out that the hardly fledged person or persons was or were Roman Catholics; for a letter was read from Archbishop Lynch expressing satisfaction with the treatment of the Roman Catholic prisoners. Whether the religious element predominated in the discussion or no, at any rate Mr. Scott took very reasonable objection to the manner in which the matter was brought on. He argued that making the discipline of the prison a subject of debate in the House tended to encourage insubordination, and held that Mr. O'Donoghue should have laid his case before the members of the Government, who would no doubt have given him what information he desired. Mr. Scott's view we take to be the true one, for if only inquiries are being made they can be prosecuted without the misery of a dangerous spirit among the convicts, and if charges are to be brought they should be made directly in order that they may be fairly proven or disproven. The whole discussion, whatever harm it may effect within the prison, showed the House and country that the institution is carefully conducted; not with undue severity, nor yet with that humanitarian weakness that makes many prisons places of luxury and indolence, rather than instruments for the punishment and salutary discipline of the vicious confined in them.

THE EAST RIDING.

The opponents of the Mowat Administration in general, and our local contemporary in particular, are unceasing in their efforts to make the Electors of the East Riding believe that the Examiner is endeavoring to shirk discussing the affairs of the Local Government since the advent of Mr. Mowat to the Attorney Generalship, and that we are desirous of fighting the election out on the personal qualifications of the two candidates. Now such is not the case. We have no desire during the campaign to even refer to the personal qualifications of any of the candidates, but we are not satisfied for our contemporary to belittle the intelligence and business capacity of Mr. Blezard, on account of his occupation. The question which the electors of this constituency and of this Province will have to decide in the coming campaign, is not so much a matter of personal consideration, as a decision upon the wisdom and ability of the Mowat Administration, and the probability that better legislators and better administrators can be found in the ranks of the present Opposition. No man who has carefully watched the public affairs of this Province can have failed to recognize the care and ability which Mr. Mowat and his colleagues have bestowed upon the matters which have come under their jurisdiction. Mr. Mowat is a man of large experience in public life, who has held eminent and honorable positions at the Bar, in Parliament, and on the bench. His industry is proverbial, his honor unstained, and his record unimpeachable. His colleagues are men of ability, of integrity, and of energy, who have done all that in them lay for the benefit of the Province and for the furtherance of its prosperity. The record of the Mowat Government can be pointed to with pride, as one that has husbanded our resources, while expending millions for the benefit of our material interests, while the sister Province of Quebec under a Tory Government has been brought to the verge of bankruptcy, that of Ontario shows a record of which it may well be proud. We know the electors of the East Riding are perfectly satisfied with the Hon. Mr. Mowat, and we feel assured that they will return Mr. Blezard to give him a fair support.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Hon. E. Blake, was appointed Treasurer of the Law Society of Ontario, on Saturday.

Ald. Rivard was elected Mayor of Montreal on Saturday last, over Hon. J. L. Beandry by a large majority.

We do not see any of our Conservative exchanges protesting against the waste of time by the Dominion Parliament.

"What does that Mackenzie mean, anyhow? Why don't he talk about something, so that we can blame him for the delay?"—(Sir John Macdonald.)

Messrs Burnham and Hilliard sit on the fifth row of benches on the Speaker's right, with only three places between the latter and the rear edge of the desks.

Mr. Wm. Carling, of the firm of Carling & Co., brewers, London, died on Saturday afternoon, of inflammation of the lungs contracted at the late fire, which destroyed the brewery.

On dit—that Mr. Hilliard has written to his Protectionist friends in Peterboro' to the effect that he did not "mean" to move the motion at the Lumberman's meeting in the Huffman House, urging on the Government the necessity of leaving the tariff as it present stands, on all articles that are used in the manufacture of lumber. Bah!

Our down-town contemporary refrains from making any comments on Mr. Hilliard, the lumberman, since the election, and Mr. Hilliard the Protectionist before the election. Now, Mr. Hilliard, "what is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander," so trot out this National Policy and give the farmers the American tariff you promised them they should have if they returned Sir John back to power.

The following from a Tory correspondent at Ottawa (him of the London Free Press) may well cause uneasiness in business circles; and lead to the inquiry, "When will the suspense and injury to trade end?"

"In the present case the Finance Minister is required to recast the tariff in all its parts, inaugurating an entire change of policy, affecting every industry and interest in the Dominion. He is required to do more than this. He is placed in the position of being obliged, while so framing a tariff as to protect the national industries of the country, to raise a revenue."

Hon. Mr. Masson will probably resign his portfolio as Minister of Militia, on account of ill health. We should like to see a gentleman appointed to the position who has interested himself practically in militia affairs; such for instance as Lieut. Col. Williams, of East Durham. But probably a French Canadian member must be given the position.

The Legislature of Prince Edward Island has been convened, and the usual Speech from the Throne delivered. It states that the Province has claimed from the Dominion Government such a sum from the Fishery Award as will be in proportion to the fishery interests of the Province. Retrenchment is spoken of, and a Bill is promised providing for the abolition of the second chamber. The rest of the address refers to purely local matters.

An effort is being made, by the employment of extra sessional clerks to bring down the Public accounts of Ontario for 1878 before the end of the present session of the Legislature. This cannot include the printing of the accounts; but it is thought the formal presentation can be made so as to prevent of their distribution. This is a stroke of enterprise on the part of Treasurer Wood worthy of commendation, and we trust that those Tories who have been so loudly calling for the last years' accounts will express their appreciation, as loudly as they did their demands.

A NOVEL SUIT.

A Husband Suing His Wife for the Price of His Blessings—New York's Latest Sensation.

New York, March 1.—Samuel M. Clark sues his wife for $10,000 for marrying her. He married the divorced wife of Adolphe Dery, who was possessed of a hundred thousand dollars. He was thirteen years younger than she, but she promised him $10,000 if he became her husband. They were married on January 3rd, 1873, and travelled two years in Europe. He alleges he has often requested her to pay him the $10,000 which she agreed to give him in addition to supporting him and paying his travelling expenses, but she refused to do so. He also wants interest. Mrs. Clarke explicitly denies that she made the alleged agreement to pay Clarke to become her husband. She was forty-five when married to Clarke, and had a married daughter.

ONTARIO POULTRY SHOW.

The Ontario Poultry Show opened in Guelph on the evening of Wednesday, Feb. 26. There were 1,100 entries; this is about 200 less than the great Buffalo poultry exhibition of 1879. The display was unusually fine, both in quality and quantity. The number of entries were:—Games, 107; Hamburgs, 122; Cochins, 90; Brahamas, light, 70; Brahamas, dark, 30; Dorkings, 55; Spanish, 27; Ply mouth Rocks, 30; Polands, 46; Leghorns, 68; Bantams, 85; Houdans, 15; Turkeys, 27; geese, 62; ducks, 89; pigeons, 37; canvbas, 21; specials in fowls, 65; besides a number of other different varieties.

The See of Toronto.

Episcopalians and the general public have for several days past been watching with eagerness the course of affairs in the Synod at Toronto. It looks now as if a dead lock would be the result, as neither the clergy nor the laity seem inclined to give way. In such a matter, it would appear to an outsider that the clergy might give way a little more to those who are the financial upholders of the church. A clergy solidified against parishioners may tend to show a spirit of autocracy, but it does not help to build up a church.

Provost Whitaker's name has been withdrawn and that of the Rev. Mr. Lobeley, Principal of Bishops' College, Lennoxville, substituted by the High Church party, but with no better result, the vote on the 23rd ballot remaining unchanged.

LAKEFIELD.

(From our own Correspondent).

—Bright and warm.
—Looks like spring.
—Ice crops nearly all in.
—Ducks are plenty in the river between Lakefield and Peterboro' and ought to afford fine sport.
—It is expected that the new "Scarlet Chapter" will be opened in the Orange Hall on the 14th inst.
—Numbers of the shanties are discharging their choppers, having cut all the logs that the teams will be able to get out.
—Last Thursday night "Jack Frost" settled the fate of most of the house plants in the village, and now the ladies are lamenting the loss of their favorites.
—One of our gentlemanly and educated clergymen; at a public meeting last week, compared one of our most respected councillors, and an ex-Reeve of Smith, to a "Dutch Pig" because he chose to differ in opinion with his opponent
—A vote was taken in the Council Chamber last Friday for the repeal of the "Dunkin Act" in this village. Since the vote last year a great change of opinion has occurred, especially as it was found that the by-law could not be enforced and that the village was a loser to the tune of over $300 per annum. There was little or no excitement, the result being a foregone conclusion. About 1.30 p.m. there having been no vote polled for over half an hour, the returning officer declared the poll closed, the vote standing as follows:—For Repeal, 41; Against Repeal, 13; Majority 28.
—An adjourned meeting of the village Council was held in the Council Chamber on Friday evening, the Reeve being absent in Toronto, Councillor Garbutt, took the chair. The Council adopted a request to the Licence Commissioners that certificates be granted to such Hotel Keepers as could comply with the law, for the remaining two months of the year at one sixth the annual license fee, which was placed at $75. Thomas Hull, Village Constable, was instructed that in case the Commissioners granted the certificates, he was to see that they were at once taken out, if not to prosecute in the name of the Council. Ten dollars was granted to Mrs. Fredenburgh to assist her and family. The Council then adjourned until the second Monday in March.
—On Sunday morning about 4 30 a. m. the engine house of the M. R. R. was observed to be on fire, the alarm was at once given but too late to be of any avail as the building was a sheet of flame inside for its entire length, and in a short time was leveled to the ground, as the bells were not rang very few of our citizens were aware of the fire, not over twenty being present. It is supposed to have resulted from a spark from one of the large stoves which were kept fired up to prevent the water tanks from freezing, and in which the last fire had been made about 9 p. m. on Saturday. It is hardly probable that the engine house will be rebuilt at present, but a new tank house will most likely be constructed at once, as most of the water for the use of the trains is obtained at this station. Loss, $1,000; insured for $650 in the Royal and Phœnix Insurance Companies.
—The numerous friends of R. B. Hall, late merchant of this village, learned with regret of his death in Toronto on Sunday morning. During his residence here he made a large number of friends both in the village and country, and his death in the prime of life has cast a gloom over those who were intimate with him. The members of Clementi Lodge F. & A. M. with a large number of personal friends went down to Peterboro on Tuesday to pay a last tribute of respect to their Brother and friend.
—Word has been received of a melancholy accident which occurred at "Jack's lake" in the township of Burleigh on Saturday. Mr. James Tighe, (a former resident of this village) and a young man named Lynch, were engaged in falling a pine, it struck a dry "stub" which being broken off fell back, and the snow being too deep for the men to get out of the way were caught by it, Tighe being killed and Lynch badly injured. Tighe only removed back about two years since and was fast getting over the first trials of a bush woods settler's life and into a position of independence. He leaves a wife and young family who have the sympathy of the people of this village in their affliction.

A Joke Carried too Far.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I see in the Poultry Herald a clipping taken from the Review, to the effect that some feathers that had fallen out of a Leghorn rooster's tail, at the late exhibition here, had been gummed on again to enable the owner to be better able to compete for a prize. Now, a joke is a joke, when not carried too far, I don't consider this one at all, for the facts are entirely wanting. Although the item referred to does not mention the name of any person, it might as well have done so. Now, what I want to say is that it is a complete falsehood, and in my opinion only done to injure Mr. Sproule's reputation. The story was got up for a joke, but nothing more, and if the reporter was so hard up for matter for the daily as to publish as facts what was not the case, the public will know what reliance to place on matter coming from that source. If the reporter had examined the bird he would have found the feathers lying in the coop. Now, I think it but fair and just for the Review to contradict the same. But then who can expect honesty from them.

Yours truly,

PETERBOROUGH, MARCH 6, 1879.

LOCAL NEWS.

Counterfeits.—Counterfeit four dollar bills of the Dominion Bank and counterfeit five dollars of the Bank of Commerce are in circulation.

Vital Statistics.—The number of registrations made at the office of the Town Clerk, during the month of February, were as follows:—Births, 28; Marriages, 6; Deaths, 16.

Convalescent.—We are pleased to learn that Mr. Bosanko, Dentist, has entirely recovered from his recent illness. His office was re-opened on Saturday last and is now running as usual.

The Rink.—Numerous complaints are being made as to the state of the ice on the Rink. No doubt if the matter is brought under the notice of the Directors the cause of complaints will be removed.

Young Canadians.—The regular monthly meeting of Young Canadians L. O. L., No. 1326, will be held in the Orange Hall next Tuesday evening. A full attendance is requested as business of interest will be brought before the meeting.

The Market Tolls.—On Thursday last the Market Tolls for the coming year were awarded to Mr. John Doherty for the sum of $1,317. Mr. Edward Green, the former Market Clerk, was the only other tenderer, but was $117 lower than Mr. Doherty—his tender being $1200.

Joking.—The Review reporter, on Thursday, while lamenting a scarcity of topics to get off a "lugicrous" joke on the EXAMINER Almanac. Who will now say our almanac is not read, when even reporters study it for information and data. As our contemporary has not issued a "weather indicator" this year, we are denied the pleasure (?) of perusing it.

The Lottie Combination.—"Uncle Tom's Cabin" drew a large house in Bradburn's Hall on Wednesday evening of last week. "Little Eva" and "Uncle Tom" took their parts very well, especially the former, whose acting was loudly applauded. Judging from the remarks of those present, the entertainment as a whole was not equal to what had been expected.

Worth Considering.—The Cobourg Sentinel has the following suggestion which might be worth considering in other towns:—"Those who attended the meeting of the Council on Monday evening must have been highly pleased with the proceedings, as the Councillors did all in their power to make the large audience comfortable. We think it would be a good idea for the Council to charge an admission fee, that is if there is going to be so much fun at all succeeding meetings, and devote the proceeds towards the benefit of the poor of the town.

Railroad Signals.—Notwithstanding the fact that so many people travel about in the cars, few are acquainted with the whistles and signals which regulate the movements of the trains. It sometimes happens that it is very important to know them. The following is the signification of these most commonly used: One whistle, "Down brakes;" two whistles, "Off brakes;" three whistles, "Back up;" continuous whistling, "Danger." A rapid succession of short whistles is the cattle alarm, at which the brakes will always be put down.

Newspaper Directory.—We are in receipt of a copy of Messrs. Geo. P. Rowell & Co's American Newspaper Directory, which contains accurate and full lists of all newspapers and periodicals published in the United States and Dominion of Canada. It is a handsome volume of over 300 pages and contains a very large amount of valuable data, systematically and concisely arranged, making it invaluable to the man who advertise extensively. We congratulate Messrs. Rowell & Co. on their success in publishing this their best directory.

Improved Churn Dasher.—Farmers and those interested would do well to read the advertisement in another column of Ellsworth's Pyramidical Atmospheric Churn Dasher, for rights of which Mr. A. W. Tully, of Smith, and Mr. W. Toole, of Peterborough, are sole proprietors in this county—the last named gentleman being engaged in the manufacture of the Dasher. It is very simple in construction, and is adapted to all the old fashioned round, tub, or crock churns. The proprietors guarantee the dasher to churn and gather the butter in from four to ten minutes, and turn out ten per cent. more butter than can be obtained from any other dasher.

Canada Life Assurance Company.—It is agreeable to observe that our foremost Canadian life company proposes to take a step in the interest of the insured, in making application to Parliament to be empowered to give its policyholders a change of its profits, increased from the 75 per cent. they have hitherto got to not less than 80 per cent., and correspondingly reducing the shareholders' share from 25 per cent., to not exceeding 20 per cent. So liberal a concession to policyholders must find the directors of the Canada have their interests as well as the prosperity of the Company at heart. Another change in the proposed amendments to its charter is to enable the Canada, when its capital die to Dominion or the States, to pay their claims with our foreign bills to the benefit of holders as otherwise, when they have already been the Canadian Government securities. This seems to step in the right direction.

Post Office Hours.—A new post office has been established at Indian River, and the post office at Round Lake has been closed.

Odd-fellowship.—The Post says the Lindsay Oddfellows contemplate a fraternal visit to the members of the order in Peterborough next Thursday.

St. Peter's Church.—The second of the summer course of lectures will be delivered on Sabbath evening next by Rev. E. F. Torrance. Subject: "The First Resurrection."

Bishop of Toronto.—As we are to press we learn that a compromise has been effected resulting in the election of Arch-Deacon Sweatman to the vacancy.

Carter's Blended.—We learn from the Lindsay Warder that Mr. J. D. Flavelle has won the Carter's Medal in that town, which if held for three years becomes his property.

Poultry Association.—A meeting of the Poultry Association will be held in the room adjoining the Council Chamber this evening at 8 p.m. A full meeting is requested as matters of importance will be discussed.

The Recess.—The winter meeting of the Peterborough Trotting Club comes off to-day and to-morrow on the Little Lake. In addition to the races published for to-day, the sport is to be supplemented by a dog race, for which two prizes are offered.

Fur Farmers.—Those in need of choice samples of wheat, peas, oats and barley should read Mr. McMillan advertisement in another column. He has also on hand a lot of Fresh Ground Lime Plaster, and Best Gedderich Salt, which will be sold cheap.

Information Wanted.—A correspondent from Warsaw writes us asking why the Government License Inspector and the local magistrates are not enforcing the law in that village. A fine some time ago was inflicted it is stated, but not as yet paid, and a further information lodged but no action yet taken.

Ho! for Nebraska.—Mr. Hamilton Spence, of Dummer, accompanied by twelve others, left here on Monday, for Wisner, Nebraska. They were accompanied to the station by a very large number of friends. Mr. Thos. Menzies, agent in Peterborough for the Grand Trunk Railway, furnished the party with tickets.

Obituary.—Mr. Robert B. Hall, whose illness was mentioned in former issues of this paper, died in Toronto on Sunday last. His remains arrived in Peterborough on the noon train on Tuesday, and were interred with Masonic honors—deceased being a member of Clement's Lodge, A. F. & A. M., Lakefield.

Stapleton's Sales.—The following sales are announced by Mr. Chas. Stapleton, Auctioneer:

THURSDAY, March 13th, important sale of horses, cattle and implements belonging to Mrs. Sarah Hamblin, Lot 26, in the 2nd Concession of Dummer. Sale to commence at 11 o'clock.

THURSDAY, March 6, unreserved credit sale of farm stock, implements, &c., of Mr. Wm. Yates, on his premises, Lot 8, in 8th Concession of the Township of Douro, on the old Carnegie Farm. Sale at 11 a.m.

Enterprise.—Mr. S. C. Hill, believing that good times for a circus are coming is getting prepared for an increase of business, and is repairing his bill boards throughout the town. The old one on the corner of Hunter and Water streets is being replaced by a new one erected out of tongued and grooved lumber, and will make a valuable addition to those already erected. We are frequently informed by travelling men in that Peterborough possesses the best bill board accommodation of any town in Canada. Mr. Hill, however, is not yet satisfied, and is continually adding to the number.

Church Notes.—Rev. J. B. Moore occupied the pulpit of the Baptist Church on Sunday morning.....Successful revival meetings are being held in the Baptist Church every evening, commencing at 7.30 p.m. All are invited.....In the absence of Rev. Mr. Bell, Rev. Mr. Muldhern preached in the St. Andrew's Church in the morning. There was no service in the evening.....Services in St. John's Church were conducted morning and evening by the Rev. P. Clementi Smith, Assistant Minister—the Rev. Mr. Beck being absent at the Synod.....In the absence of Rev. Mr. Bradshaw, Incumbent of St. Luke's Church, services were read both morning and evening by Mr. John Burnham, Church Warden.

The Masquerade.—The last masquerade skating carnival of the season will come off on Monday evening next, 10th inst. The Committee have arranged with Mr. T. A. Williams, of New York, who has been giving exhibitions in Toronto during the past week, to be present both afternoon and evening; in the afternoon from three to five o'clock and at the carnival in the evening. He will also be one of the judges in the evening. Special arrangements, we understand, are being made for having several new features at the masquerade, which is expected to excel in point of variety and interest the last one. The Band will be present both afternoon and evening.

The Princess Louise's Charity.—We are informed by reliable authority that Mrs. Hurst, an elderly lady of this place, and probably well known to many of our town readers, through her eccentricities, has lately been the recipient of three pounds sterling from Her Royal Highness, the Princess Louise. The grant was given in response to an application made by Mrs. Hurst, through one of our principal merchants, setting forth that she was the daughter of an English Admiral, but was now in reduced circumstances and in need of assistance. Such acts of charity and kindness on the part of Her Royal Highness cannot but cement the ties of affection and loyalty existing in the hearts of Canadians towards the daughter of their beloved Queen.

The Christian Guardian.—We have received the first number of The Christian Gleaner and Illustrated Missionary News, published by W. H. Butt, Port Hope. It is an unsectarian monthly journal, containing missionary intelligence from all parts of the world. It is not published in the interests of any particular church or sect, but is devoted to the welfare of all evangelical churches and associations and aims to bring before the people the doings of Christian missionaries both at home and abroad. It has a profusion of interesting illustrations, and is issued at the low rate of seventy-five cents a year. Every one interested in the mission work should at once subscribe for it. Address The Christian Gleaner, Port Hope.

Proverbs.—This is a new and interesting way to play this game. A well known proverb is divided among the players, each taking a word, with the exception of one player, who leaves the room whilst the proverb is selected. When all the arrangements are made this player enters the room again and stands before all the others, who should be arranged in a semi-circle. He then inquires the number of words of which the proverb consists. One player, who acts as leader, then gives three distinct beats with his hand, as if directing a concert; and at the third beat each player utters his own word, so as to produce a kind of mixed roar. This must be repeated three times, and if the proverb be not guessed the outside player has to retire again. If he succeeds in guessing it he can transfer his office to any other player whose particular word he can detect. Of course, the proverb must be a well known one, or otherwise to guess it would be an impossibility. No one who has not tried this mode of playing at proverbs can form any conception of the extreme difficulty of discriminating the simultaneously uttered sounds.

AN OUTSIDE OPINION.

The following from the Lindsay Warder, in reference to the Town Printing, sets forth pretty clearly how Councillor Robertson's tender is looked upon by outside, and disinterested parties:—

PETERBOROUGH TOWN PRINTING.—We have taken some interest in the newspaper war at present raging in Peterborough over the printing contracts of that municipality. It is to be greatly regretted that any councillor should encourage Mr. Robertson in this matter. We are in no way interested in the Peterborough town printing, but when we find a man offering to do the work at the foolishly low figures of the Times tender, we cannot help thinking that the proprietors of that journal, whether they are aware of it or not, are being made tools of by some one, and for some purpose. No man labor for nothing, or that they are possessed of very large fortune which they wish to distribute in order to relieve the pecuniary wants of others during the present depression. To do the printing at the rates they offer, some one must suffer, and we leave the public to judge whether it would be the proprietors of the third paper in Peterborough or their creditors. If the latter, the council of that town should be slow in encouraging such one of their number to perpetrate a fraud. What would one town council think of a man who would offer to print decent sheet bills, that is half sheet bills, for 50 cents per hundred? We fancy they would think him insane, or that he meant by his labor and material to cause bankruptcy in no other way, and they would have nothing to do with him. If the town council of Peterborough act wisely they will pay a fair price for their work and have it done properly, for if the work would not be turned out in better condition than the average specimen of the Times received at the office, then, we suppose it would be done at 25 cents per one hundred sheets, as the black power would be inexhaustible. The Times sheet last week said that the town work for the year would be turned out at the office for $25, therefore, the printing bills of over $3,000. Why, the Times could print the whole of the Peterborough town work for the year, and have enough left to keep the Examiner and Review staffs employed, and then not have to pay for the paper. We trust that Mr. Robertson will see the folly of his conduct in this matter, and that the Peterborough people will not stand supinely by and see their money squandered in such a manner. Mr. Robertson says it will be very convenient to pay for the work in monthly instalments, but we fancy that the town can do better than that. Mr. Robertson is a member of the Masonic fraternity, and as such we presume he is in favor of the principle of charity, but we fancy that the ratepayers of Peterborough will not be inclined to look favorably upon the charity which would impoverish the town. We would have nothing to say if the Times were not a perfect success, but as it is, we trust that the ratepayers will see that the town work is done at fair prices, and not be willing to have it done at ruinous rates.

SCHOOL BOARD.

The regular monthly meeting of the School Board was held on Tuesday evening last. Present—James Stevenson, Esq., Chairman, and Messrs. Edwards, Romaine, Carlisle, Cook, Toole, Errett, Shaw, Edmison, Dumble, and Wrighton.

The minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed.

ENQUIRIES.

In answer to Mr. Shaw, the Secretary said the Insurance on the Shade as recommended by report of Finance Committee at last meeting, had not as yet been effected. He understood the committee were to have attended to it.

COLLECTION OF FEES.

The Secretary said he had collected last month the following sums as fees, viz:—From the Institute $26, and from Non-residents in the Public Schools $8.50.

BALANCE SHEET.

In answer to Mr. Shaw, the Secretary said he had the general balance sheet prepared and laid the same on the table.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From Jennie F. Brown, asking that a substitute be put in her place from April till end of June, so as to enable her to attend the Normal School.—Referred to Committee on Appointments.

From the Education Department informing the Board that the apportionment to the High School for the last half year was $287.50.—Received.

From the Department, showing the status of the different Schools throughout the Province.—Received.

PRINCIPAL'S REPORT.

The following report from the Principal of the attendance during the month of February was read:

	on Roll.	av.
Institute	206	155
Central School	420	341
3rd Ward school	140	123
South Ward	224	194
Asbern	70	51
	1060	859

In Latin there are 24 pupils; Greek, 13; Mathematics, 76; English, 76; Junior English, 39; Junior Mathematics, 69; French, 89; German, 5.

A communication from the Principal was read setting forth the progress the School had made under his management having risen from a third to a first grade school and also asking for an increase of salary.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

Mr. SHAW, as Chairman of the Finance Committee, reported recommending the payment of the following accounts:—

John McClelland	$23 45
Telfer & Co	9 75
W. H. Robertson & Co	2 40
Wilson & Davis	29 20
Wilson & Davis	11 25

The report drew attention to the omission of contract existing by the Chairman of the Committee all bills and accounts in their charges.

It also called the attention of the Property Committee to the necessity of [illegible] part in writing of the conditions and character of the buildings, repairs and improvements to be made during the current year and report at the regular meeting in April, in order that the Committee may be able to make out the estimate for expenditure.

The report was then on motion adopted.

COMMITTEE OF APPOINTMENTS.

Mr. DUMBLE, as Chairman of the Committee on Appointments, reported that Miss Turner had been engaged as teacher for the vacancy in the Primary Department, at a salary of two hundred dollars.

ADDING NAMES TO COMMITTEES.

On motion of Mr. ROMAINE, Mr. Errett's name was added to the Property Committee.

Moved by Mr. ERRETT, seconded by Mr. ROMAINE.—That the names of Messrs. Shaw and Wrighton be added to the Committee on Appointments.

The Board then entered and took the oath.

Mr. ROMAINE strongly objected to our old, delapidated water-closets Committee. He was a strong promoter of the removal of the nuisance, and was determined to make a move in the right direction. He was afraid the Board would get themselves into trouble by this tinkering with committees.

Mr. EDMISON also objected and raised a point of order on the submission of the resolution.

The sense of the Board was taken on the question, and eight voting for the submission of the motion the Chairman ruled it in order.

The resolution was then put and carried.

BOOTES MCLELLAN.

Mr. DUMBLE said as Doctor McLellan was present, he could give the Board information on some questions at present under their consideration. With the permission of the Board he would like to submit the following questions:—

1.—Would it be advantageous to the town to establish a Model School; and if so, what would be the advantages?

2.—Would there be any pecuniary advantages in separating the High and Common Schools?

3.—Would Common School education be advanced thereby?

4.—Where, if anywhere besides in Peterborough, are the two systems of the High and Common Schools?

5.—Do the unions work well?

6.—Would you in view of your experience of the working of our Schools, recommend a separation in "our village"?

7.—Where there is a separation of the High and Common Schools, does a Union Board of Trustees work well?

Mr. SHAW said he would be very glad to hear Mr. McLellan's views but thought the questions of such importance, that it would be difficult for him to give answers in detail without due consideration.

Mr. MCLELLAN agreed with Mr. Shaw that he would be unable to give all the required information off hand, but would be happy to give any information he could. The Model Schools he thought were generally looked upon as favorable to popular education. Personally he could not say what effect they would have on some counties were more liberal than others. He thought a change in the Department in reference to bonusing Model Schools would be made. It was considered that $160 was not enough. Counties too would perhaps be compelled to give more liberal aid. He thought those who established such Schools should receive $400. Pupils attending the school would most likely be charged tuition fees, which he considered would not be a hardship. In reference to separation of the Boards he said he always favored separation, but since the establishment of the Entrance Examinations he did not consider it so essential. He believed our schools were exceedingly well managed, and that if a separation took place it would cost from $600 to $1000 a year more for teachers in the Public Schools. Formerly the Public Schools were only machines for grinding out material for the High Schools, but under the present regulations this evil had been disposed of. Where there are large High Schools, it generally takes the whole time of the Principal, but much depends on circumstances as if the Principal is a good thorough teacher and has the support of a good staff a union may be conducted as satisfactory and with less expense. All of the best schools in the Province were under Union Boards. One necessary essential for success was perfect harmony, for without it success was impossible. In some places a separation has worked well; in others a rivalry had sprung up between the two schools which was productive of evil effects. His answer to the questions so far as Peterborough was concerned would have to be modified by a knowledge of how the Schools were working. He believed so far as he had seen that the Peterborough Schools were doing good work, and if so, any change might prove disastrous. It would be false economy to have over lapping, or in other words, teachers in both schools doing the same work. In cases where Head Masters of the High Schools were competent men and capable of doing Public School work he would not favor separation. He had examined the lowest class in the High School that day and was surprised at their efficiency. The results would have astonished Prof. Young, and bore evidence of a thorough course and careful preparation in the Common School.

In answer to a member of the Board, Mr McLellan said from what he knew at present, and from reports from his colleagues, he thought the school would not be improved by separation as it was doing good work at present. As to salaries they ranged from $1,200 to $2,100, Whitby paid $1400; Port Perry, $1200; Lindsay and Cobourg, $1300; St. Catharines, $1600; Brantford, $1700; Toronto, $2100. In answer to another question he doubted whether they could do with one teacher less in the High School: in fact he thought they needed one more.

REDUCTION OF SALARIES.

On motion of Mr. TOOLE, the notice of motion as submitted by Mr. Errett at the January meeting in reference to reduction of salaries, as well as the reapplication of the Principal was referred to a select committee consisting of Messrs. Shaw, Cox, Wrighton, Errett and the mover, with instructions to consider the whole question and report to this Board at its next meeting.

Mr. EDMISON objected to the notice of motion as it affirmed certain facts which were not so.

Mr. DUMBLE thought it useless to refer such business as resolutions to committees. It was only a waste of time.

Mr. SHAW thought so much discussion out of place. If any of the teachers were paid too low salaries, let the matter be considered by the committee and when the report came up, let discussion then follow.

After a great deal of sharp cross-firing the motion was put and carried.

MR. HAMILTON'S CLAIM.

Mr. WM. HAMILTON was heard before the Board in reference to objections to his account.

In the course of the discussion it transpired that Mr. Hamilton had signed the contract under protest regarding some of the items.

The matter after thorough ventilation was referred to the Property Committee with power to act.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Mr. DUMBLE drew the attention of the Board to several articles needed in the schools and the matter was referred to the committees having supervision of the same.

The Board then adjourned.

BRIEF MENTIONS.

—This is the time to get your rubbers half-soled.

—The sunshine gets the better of Jack Frost during the day.

—The January thaw appears to have arrived only a little late.

—This warm weather has brought out the street corner loafers in full force.

—An exchange has come to hand with the information that "winter is lingering in the lap of spring."

—If this soft weather continues much longer it will send the ice in the river down bossing. A good heavy rain would greatly expedite matters.

—Plans for spending the coming summer are now being laid by far-seeing sportsmen. The amount of fishing and hunting that is to be done is something wonderful.

APOLEY.

(From an Occasional Correspondent.)

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—A man by the name of James Tighe, who has been employed all the winter at Messrs. Ullyott & Co's. shanty, Jack's Lake, (Mr. James Lynch, foreman,) was killed on Saturday last, at about half past eleven o'clock, in the forenoon, in the following manner:—The deceased had gone out to chop some firewood about three hundred yards from the shanty, and had chopped down a small cedar tree, and in falling, the tree had struck a small dead maple, about eight inches in diameter, when a piece of the maple about 15 feet long broke off, and falling struck him on the top of the head, killing him instantly. A man of Mr. Jas. Lynch that fourteen years old was standing on one side of Tighe at the time, looking at him chopping, and the top of the same piece of maple grazed him on the shoulder and glanced down by his hips, leaving his arm and hip very badly bruised. Had it not been for the maple striking a cedar lying across the road which broke the fall, Tighe's head must have been badly smashed, but as it happened he was not disfigured in any way. Tighe never moved after the maple struck him, he must have been killed instantaneously. The deceased was not chopping in the deep snow but on the side of the main road where the teams had been drawing logs all the winter, and had plenty of chances to move out of the way, had he received any warning. A team was immediately despatched from the shanty for the Coroner, Dr. Clegg of Apsley, who issued his warrant to Mr. Thomas Giles who proceeded at once to the shanty to summon a jury. The body was taken to the residence of Mr. Chauncey Tuttle (about one mile from Tighe's residence) where the inquest was held, and the following jurymen were summoned viz:—Chas. Booth, James Lynch, Wm. Stedman, P. Hudson, R. Wrixon, J. Stedman, H. Burke, John Cambell, Jared Bidwell, (Methodist), Edward Carney and John Carney. Chas. Booth was chosen foreman. After hearing the evidence a verdict was given of accidental death. Mr. Tighe had only left Lakefield with his family some eighteen months ago, and had taken up land in Burleigh near Smith's Lake, and had a house built and cleared, and a comfortable shanty as it. He leaves a widow and four young children to mourn his loss. The sad affair has cast quite a gloom over the shanty, and his neighbors, as the deceased was a very inoffensive man. Mr. Lynch, R. Walton, Wm. Sanderson and John Conroy, were unremitting in their kindness, as were also all the men in the shanty, and did everything that could be done in this sad affair.

ASPHODEL.

ACCIDENT.—On the 21st of February, while Mr. Chas. O'Reilly, of Asphodel, was loading firewood on a sleigh for the purpose of drawing it to a sawing machine, one of the logs slipped off rolling on his leg, and breaking it below the knee. Dr. Sinclair, of Hastings, was called in and set the leg and we are glad to hear that it is now progressing as favorably as could be expected.

Ontario Legislature.

MONDAY.

A large part of the day was taken up with private Bills, the discussion on that of the Toronto Gas Company being long and spirited.

ELECTION LAW AMENDMENT BILL.

The Premier moved the second reading of his Bill amending the law respecting the election of members of the Assembly. The first seven sections have reference to the time of holding elections, especially in Algoma, one object being to prevent the occurrence of certain possible complications dwelt upon by the Opposition when the duration of Parliament was under debate. The next three sections refer to the electoral affinity of towns and villages situated on the boundaries of electoral districts. Sections 11 and 12 are an attempt at a more satisfactory definition of the offence of "treating" at elections. Sections 13 and 14 have reference to the oath to be taken by the voter. The next three sections have reference to the marking of ballots by the returning-officer and the voter, and section 18 provides for the prorogation of the House without any particular day to which it is prorogued. Mr. Fraser's Bill amending the Voter's Lists Act was also read a second time.

CONCURRENCE.

The House concurred in a few undisputed resolutions from Committee of Supply, the great majority being allowed to stand at the request of the Opposition.

THE GRAND JUNCTION RAILWAY.

In speaking of the progress of the Grand Junction Railway, the Belleville Intelligencer states that the contract for the Campbellford bridge has been let to Mr. J. W. Dinwoodie, of Campbellford, to be finished by the first of June. The structure, as at present designed, is to be built of wood on the Howe truss principle, and its length will be 420 feet. It is, however situated on a curve, and Mr. Bickford states that, provided the City Council of Belleville will extend the time for the completion to Hastings for six to eight weeks, he will build an iron bridge with stone piers, and alter the location so as to place the bridge on a straight line. The erection of the iron bridge would require the extra time specified, and as it would be a great advantage to the road, the matter will, we trust, be carefully considered by the Council. The contractors say, however, that they are determined to earn the bonus, and that if the Council refuses to accept their proposition they will proceed with the wooden bridge and complete the line to Hastings by the 1st of August. The road is to be built in first class style throughout, and laid with steel rails, of which Mr. Bickford has 1,500 tons now on the way from England, and a portion of the iron rails now on the road will be taken up and replaced with steel.

A deputation from Madoc had an interview with Mr. Bickford, the result of which was that it was agreed that the Council of that Township shall at once issue and place in the hands of the Trustees debentures to the amount of $37,300 representing the $30,000 bonus and $7,200 interest accrued during the four years previous to the 1st of October last. This arrangement is to be given effect to by a clause to be added to the Bill now before the Legislature. The contractors agree to open the road and operate it at the earliest possible time, but it is impossible to do so as yet. An attempt was made recently; but, owing to the great depth of the drifts and the density and hardness of the snow, four engines with a first class snow plough proved unequal to the task. After having run off the rails fifty-two times, the track was cleared to the junction, where the plough was stuck and still remains, is having to be abandoned. As mild weather may now be expected, the opening of the line may be expected to be accomplished at an early date, when, we are given to understand, trains will be run regularly between Belleville and Madoc.

Fashionable Footlessness.

There is no modern fashionable notion quite so absurd as the generally received idea that to be beautiful and attractive a woman must possess a wan, spirituelle face and a figure of an sylphlike proportions—a frailty in nine cases out of ten the result of disease. By many fashionable ladies it is considered a special compliment to be spoken of as frail and delicate. They forget that the naturally delicate face and perfect figure are very different from the pale and diseased-looking creatures that throng the city thoroughfares, look out from the luxuriant carriages of wealth, and glide languidly through our crowded drawing-rooms. Where unfashionable, as it ought to be, not a lady in the land but would take every possible precaution to secure the fresh, blooming face and well-rounded

"Confidence" and "Credit."

[These lines were written in the year 1826, and are not inapplicable to 1878.]

The day was dark, the markets dull,
The Change was thin, Gazettes were full.
And half the town was breathing;
The countenings of cash was "Stop!"
Bankers and bankrupts shut up shop,
And honest hearts were aching.

When near the beach, my fancy spied
A faded form with hasty stride,
Beneath grief's burden stooping;
Her name was "Credit," and she said
Her father, "Trade," was lately dead,
Her mother, "Commerce," drooping.

The smile that she was wont to wear
Was withered by the hand of care;
Her eyes had lost there lustre;
Her character was gone, she said,
For lately she had been betrayed,
And nobody would trust her.

That honest "Industry" had tried
To gain fair "Credit" for his bride.
And found the lady willing;
But, ah! a fortune-hunter came,
And "Speculation" was his name—
A rake not worth a shilling.

The villain was an mischief bent,
He gained both dad's and mam's consent.
And then poor "Credit" smarted—
He diddled her fortune and her fame,
He fixed a blot upon her name,
And left her broken-hearted.

While there poor "Credit" seemed to sigh,
Her cousin "Confidence" came by—
Methinks he must be clever,
For when he whispered in her ear,
She checked her sigh and dried her tear,
And smiled as sweet as ever.

TEN DAYS IN LOVE.

It was a cold night in January. People were hurrying along through the blinding snow storm, battling with the wind that howled and moaned out by turns its story of woe.

Hugh Remington and his friend Williams, glad to be out of the storm, had settled themselves in gown and slippers for a quiet evening at home. The shutters were closed and the curtains drawn, and on either side of the hearth was placed the favorite chair of each. These friends had lived together in their bachelor quarters for more than two years. Everything in the apartment showed refined taste and wealth. 'Some said that it all belonged to Hugh and that he made it a home for his friend. No one, however, knew this to be true. Hugh was quiet and reserved, seldom spoke of his affairs to any one, never laid any special claim to anything, but allowed it to appear that all things were equally shared. After the evening papers had been read and discussed, the two sat talking of days gone by, of little episodes in their lives. Hugh was in a talking mood and had told several good stories of his past life; stopping suddenly, he exclaimed:

'Did I ever tell you of my love for the widow?'

'No,' replied Williams. 'Let's have it.'

'Well,' said Hugh, taking another cigar, and looking very serious as he leaned back in his great easy-chair, 'I met her in Paris.'

'Met whom?'

'Oh, never mind whom. Be content that I am telling you the story, and don't ask for name. I thought of her as 'the widow.' It is a sufficient title.'

'Well I won't interrupt. Go on.'

So Hugh continued:

'I was calling on my old friend, Mrs. Lee, and while waiting for the servants to take my card, an odd piece of bric a brac standing in the corner of the room attracted my attention. I got up and went over to examine it. While thus engaged, the door opened. I turned, thinking it was Mrs. Lee, when oh! what a beauty met my sight!—so small that she looked like a child, large deep blue eyes that came out from under a mass of light golden curls, a small nose, and a rose-bud of a mouth. She was dressed in deep mourning, and I thought, as I looked at her, that I had never seen a more beautiful picture. She didn't see me until I made a slight movement, which startled her. Coming forward, I said, 'I frightened you, did I not?'

'Yes; I was not aware that there was any one in the room. You are waiting for Mrs. Lee?' And she gave me the sweetest of smiles, showing a most perfect row of teeth.

Before I could answer, Mrs. Lee appeared, and introduced us. Mrs. ——— was making Mrs. Lee a short visit prior to her departure for America. I was glad of that, as I should then have the pleasure of seeing her again.

'The evening passed only too quickly, and I arose with an apology for staying so late. Mrs. Lee invited me to dine with them informally the next day. She said her friend preferred being quiet, so they should be quite alone. You may be sure that I accepted the invitation, and was there promptly at the hour. The widow was more charming than on the previous evening. I longed to stop the hours from rolling on. Having been in the habit of dropping in at Mrs. Lee's at all hours, my frequent—almost daily—visits were not noticed as any thing strange or unusual. Mrs. Lee thanked me for coming to them in their loneliness, and the widow would give me one of her sweet smiles, and I was thankful in my inmost heart that they were lonely, and that it fell to my lot to cheer them. So the week passed, until the time came for the departure of Mrs. Lee's friend.

Now I had intended passing a month or two in England before coming home, but when I found that the widow was to return in ten days, I began to think that my duty called me back to my business. The more I thought of it, the more important it seemed to me to go.

'Do you know of any one going on the 15th?' the widow asked me, one evening, in her dove-like way.

'No one but myself,' I answered. 'Business has called me sooner than I expected.'

'How delightful!' from the widow; while Mrs. Lee exclaimed, 'Oh, Mr. Remington, I am so glad! I couldn't bear the idea of my friend going entirely alone, and you of all others will know best how to take care of her.'

We then began to make our plans. Mrs. ——— intended making a visit of a few days to some friends in London. I was going direct to Liverpool. Mrs. Lee and I drove down to see our friend off, and I looked forward to the pleasure of meeting her on board the steamer. My last days in Paris were spent in saying 'good-bye' to old friends, and buying presents for sister Nell and the children. I got every souvenir that I could find, and felt well pleased with my selection. At last I was on the steamer, and stood looking at the ship move away. By my side was the widow, and I thought that I had never seen her look so lovely. I exulted in the knowledge that she knew no one on board. I was her only friend, consequently I should have her all to myself; this was (so I said to myself) what I had for weeks been longing for. Was I in love? That question had not occurred to me. I felt supremely happy, and thought the situation delightful. I was ready to do anything for this fair creature. She had only to command; I was all eagerness to obey. I soon had opportunities of showing my devotion.

The following morning I came out on deck very early, and was surprised to find my little lady already there. She looked very miserable and very pretty. The morning salutations over, I asked her how she had slept.

'I haven't slept at all,' she said, in a fretful, childish way, which I thought charming. 'Such a noise all night,' she continued, 'I could not get to sleep; and the smells are simply dreadful. I must have another room. I'd rather sit up here all night than sleep in that horrid place again. Don't you think, Mr Remington, if you asked the captain, or somebody, he could give me another state-room?' and her big eyes lighted enquiringly into mine.

'Certainly,' I said. 'I will go at once and enquire it, and if there is no other, you shall change with me. Take my room, which is a good size, and as I don't mind either noise or smells, your room will suit me well enough.'

Here Hugh paused over his cheir to knock the ashes off his cigar, and spill on his hand; 'I said to myself, 'Now will be the opportunity, and I will then give them to you.'

'Charmed,' I said. 'There is no time to go to steward's room. Allow them until I come up again.'

[illegible] I had been [illegible]

fate was sealed, and that I should take the coins and the smells.

The next thing that I discovered was that my lady had no one chair. There was only one left, and that had been spoken for; but I paid double the amount and the chair was mine.

'You are so kind, Mr. Remington,' she said 'I don't know what I should have done without you. I am not fit to travel alone,' she added, in childish tones.

I longed to press her to my heart and tell of my love; and if she would but let me, it would be the joy of my life to care for her. I looked all this; I am sure I did. But there were too many people around for me to speak. She sat with her hands folded in her lap, and looked divinely unconscious.

The third day out the weather became bitterly cold.

'I am almost frozen,' said Mrs. ———. 'What shall I do? I have nothing to wrap around me, and shall have to stay below, and, oh dear! it is so uncomfortable there!' The face turned up to mine was that of a spoiled child.

Now I had a fine English rug, which I had used at night, for you know everything at sea is so horribly damp. It had been a great comfort to me, and I knew that I should miss it. But what of that? I couldn't see the woman I loved suffer. So I got it, and tucked her all up in it. Her delicious smile repaid me for the sacrifice.

'Oh, how nice!' she said, as she put her hands under the warm rug. 'It seems to me Mr. Remington, that you have everything to make one comfortable. I never heard of such a man. I am so glad that I came under your care!'

I was so love-stricken that I did not reflect upon her apparent unconsciousness of the fact that I had deprived myself of these comforts in order that she should be made comfortable. She seemed to take it for granted that I was a sort of a travelling missionary, with extra wraps, state-rooms, chairs and anything else that one might need; and I was such a slave to her fascinations that, had she asked me to do the impossible, I should have attempted it.

Every day I had it upon my lips to tell her of my love. Each day courage forsook me. We walked the deck day after day. She would put her little soft hand on my arm in the most confiding way, look up from under her curls, laugh her low, sweet laugh, and ask the most childish, innocent questions.

We were walking this way on the sixth day out. I had carefully rehearsed my part, and was about to tell my story. Her conversation seemed to lead to it, for she said,

'You will come to see me when you are in New York, won't you, Mr. Remington.'

'Nothing,' I said, 'would give me greater pleasure.'

'You will come often? Promise to dine at our house once a week. You won't forget me?' and the blue eyes sought mine.

I looked into them, and my look told what my tongue had refused to say. I pressed the little hand close to my heart, and after a pause said, below my breath, 'Forget you!' and I was about to pour forth my love when she gave a little scream, and cried, 'Oh, my veil! There, sure enough, was the confounded blue thing sailing before the wind, and all the passengers, it seemed to me, after it. Of course I had to go too, and make believe try to capture it. I never hated anything so much as I did that yard of blue gauze. I couldn't go back and continue my story from where it was so suddenly broken off, and indeed the widow seemed quite shy of me.

The incident had given the passengers an opportunity to speak to her, and when I joined her (without the veil, for it had, I hope, struck bottom) she was surrounded by a group of people. I had no chance that day, nor the next, to get her to myself. I tried to think of something that I could do or show her that would amuse or detain her. It seemed as though I had exhausted all my resources, when at last a brilliant idea occurred to me; I would show her the presents I had brought for sister Nell. They were all in my little sea trunk, and I knew that she couldn't resist their attractions. She came up on deck bright and beautiful as ever.

'Isn't it delightful,' she said, 'to think that to-morrow we shall be at home? I can hardly wait for the time to come; and yet'—and her voice dropped into the dearly loved soft tone —'the voyage has been a most charming one owing to your kindness,' she added, brightly.

I longed to launch forth my tale of love, but thinking it more prudent to wait until I had secured her wholly to myself, I asked her in the most ordinary manner, if she wouldn't enjoy looking at some little trinkets that I had picked up in Paris. Her eyes sparkled.

'Yes, indeed,' she said. 'Nothing could be more delightful than to get a glimpse of Paris while at sea.'

I went below and got all my pretty nouveautes and brought them up to her. Placing a chair in a quiet corner, and well hid from the other people, then drawing mine up beside her, I began showing one by one my collection of odd things.

'Where did you get them, Mr. Remington?' I hunted all over Paris and found nothing half so pretty. What exquisite porte bonheurs! and she slipped one after another of my carefully chosen bracelets on to her little plump wrists, and turned them first on one side and then on the other.

I knew Nell's taste and had searched for something uncommon, and was well pleased with what I had bought. But Nell and everything were forgotten with this bewitching creature by my side, and when she made a move to take them off I said, laughingly, of course, 'Oh, don't disturb them; they look as well where they are, and it is so pleasant, you know, to get a glimpse of Paris while at sea.'

She kept them on and I opened the other boxes. There were rings, crosses, medallions, chatelaines, and many other ornaments of curious design. The widow decked herself, and was in high glee. A child could not have enjoyed it more. I watched her with loving eyes, told her where each one came from, and helped to fasten them on.

'I feel like an Indian princess,' she said, 'and ought to have a throne and a crowd of kneeling courtiers, and the picture would be complete.'

'Can't you imagine a throne?' I said, 'and take me for kneeling courtiers. Wouldn't my love compensate for the admiring crowd?'

She looked up quickly and was about to answer, when one of those eternal old bores that, no matter when you cross, are always to be found on shipboard, came up and began telling of his early reminiscences: what the sea was twenty years ago—as though the sea had ever changed—and how when he had first crossed, his friends never expected to see him again. He had made his will and they parted as though he were to be forever lost to them. I assure you that I silently wished in my heart that he had never turned up again. Without saying a word, I got up, took my books and left my Indian princess. I was thoroughly angry with the old fellow for interrupting our tete-a-tete, and seriously annoyed with Mrs. ——— for listening to and answering him. I made up my mind that that game had been played long enough. I would ask her the simple question the first chance I got and know my fate at once. But the chance did not come as soon as I expected it would.

She went to her room with a sick headache, so she said, and I passed the dock alone. We were a lone way up the harbor when she made her appearance the following morning. She said that she had boasted with her pushing, thinking that we were never going we really were to the city.

'Oh, Mr. Remington, I had an opportunity of extending your [illegible] and so I pushed them with my head. But you can [illegible] you know, in love will be in the following, and I will then give them to you.'

'Charmed,' I said. 'There is no time to go to steward's room. Allow them until I come up again.'

Is Health Worth Having.

If it is, protect it. It is a jewel as easily lost as virtue, and in many cases as difficult to recover. In this climate, and more particularly at this season of the year, people are very apt to take cold and suffer from sore throats, coughs, spitting of blood, and pulmonary complaints generally, which if not checked immediately lead to serious consequences. The question arises, which is the quickest and most effectual remedy? Bryan's Pulmonic Wafers have been before the public for twenty years, have always given perfect satisfaction, and invariably effect permanent cures when taken in season. Sold by all medicine dealers and country stores at 25 cents a box.

Mitchell's Bellandona Improved India Rubber Porous Paster.

There never has been a time when the healing of so many different diseases has been treated by outward application as the present. It is an undisputed fact that over half of the entire population of the globe resort to the use of ordinary plasters.

The principal ingredients used in making these Plasters are Gum Olibanum—or better known as the Frankincense of the Bible—Rubber, and Burgundy Pitch which, when scientifically compounded, is full of electricity and when combined with the pure medicinal gums, is found to be one greatest healing mediums ever brought before the human race

They are acknowledged by all who have used them to act quicker than any other Plasters they ever before tried, and that one of these Plasters will do more real service than a hundred of the ordinary kind. All other Plasters are slow of action, and require to be worn continually to effect a cure; but with them it is entirely different; the instant one applied the patient will feel its effect.

They possess all the soothing, warming, supporting and strengthening qualities of all other Plasters. Many who have been relieved of RHEUMATISM, TIC DOLOREUX, and various other pains in the KIDNEYS, BREAST or SIDE, and believe it is solely done by the electrical qualities which the Porous Plasters contain, and which is imparted to the system, thus restoring them to a healthy condition.

They are very soft and pliable, still very adhesive; and a sure cure for WEAK BACKS PAINS IN THE SIDE AND BREAST, and are invaluable to those who have a COLD or long standing, and often prevents CONSUMPTION. Some even tell us they believe they were entirely cured by the use of them of a long seated Consumption.

PETITT'S EYE-SALVE.

An Infallible Remedy for all Diseases of the Eye (acute or chronic), Cessation of the Lids, Ulceration of the Lachrymal Glands, Films, and Weaknesses of the Vision from any cause.

THE AMERICAN EYE-SALVE is presented the public with the assurance of its efficacy as a curative of the most diseases of the eye acute or chronic Inflamation whether induced by cerebrum origin or otherwise, weakness or defect of vision, diminished tone of the optic nerve, or a diseased state of the tissues constituting that organ Also for all persons whose vocation requires an incessant action of the eyes, the Salve will act as a charm in restoring a uniform healthy action, where weakness, pain, and misery may have long threatened a termination. It is the most simple, safe, and effective remedy ever discovered. The materials or which it is made are pure, perfect, and costly, compounded with chemical care and cautious skill in its application, being used externally, and, of course, knowing the pain and danger which necessarily attends the introduction of knife and eye-cutting. Internal and Old Chronic Sores, of scrofulous origin, or resulting from whatever cause, yield to the AMERICAN EYE-SALVE. It is used successfully for Piles. Its searching effect is manifest, permanent cure follows but a few applications. The proprietors of "Dr. J. Petitt's AMERICAN EYE-SALVE" while making new and improved remedies ever for making a name perfect law for the Eye-Salve, have complied with the Trade Mark on the outside of the package, in accordance with the Act of Parliament, and any infringement will be regarded as [illegible]

Receipts.

ROLL JELLY CAKE.—Two eggs, one cup of sugar, one cup of flour, one teaspoonful cream tartar, one-half teaspoonful soda, pinch of salt. Make two cakes, spread thin on long tins. As soon as done spread on jelly, and roll up immediately. This will not break on rolling unless there is too much flour in it.

PINE APPLE CUSTARD.—One can of pine apple, cut fine, two cups of milk, four eggs, one tablespoonful of butter; beat the eggs, then stir in the butter, sugar and milk; add the pine apple, then bake in a moderate oven. This will make two pies.

HAM OMELET.—Chop up fine one half pound of cold boiled ham; add to it four eggs, well beaten, with a little salt and pepper; then place in a pan a small piece of butter, and then turn in the eggs and ham, and brown.

A good disinfectant for a sick room is to burn ground coffee on a hot shovel.

In frying buckwheat cakes rub the griddle with half a raw turnip, and the cakes will come of nicely and make no smoke.

BREAD FRIED CAKES.—Take any bits of bread you may have left after meals; soak them in milk, or milk and water, until perfectly soft; mash fine; add two eggs, pinch of soda, salt to taste, and enough flour to make them fry nicely; drop the eppoonfuls into hot butter or lard. These are inexpensive and good, and a better way to use dry bread than in puddings.

DUTCH CAKES.—Set a sponge same as for bread, using about two pounds of flour and a cup of yeast for the purpose, at night, the next morning add four eggs, half pound white sugar, about quarter pound of fresh butter, cinnamon and a few raisins; then add enough milk (kneading with the hands) sufficient to form a thick batter. Pour this mixture into tins; let them rise, and bake in a moderate oven. This will be sufficient for two large cakes.

GRAHAM PANCAKES.—Wholesome and most palatable pancakes may be made as follows: Using one-half wheat flour and one-half graham, mix with sour, or buttermilk and soda (small teaspoon of soda to one quart of milk); add a pinch of salt, and if desired, one egg; have the batter a little thinner than when wheat flour is used alone; bake immediately on a hot griddle.

GINGERBREAD.—One cup of molasses, a tablespoonful of butter, one cup of boiling water, flour to make a stiff batter, a tablespoonful of ginger.

FARMER'S JELLY CAKE.—One cup sour cream, one cup of sugar, one egg, one small teaspoonful of soda; beat the egg and sugar together; add the cream, and flour enough to make a thick batter. Bake in round tins and spread jelly between.

ODD SCRAPS.—A small piece of charcoal, in the pot with boiling cabbage removes the smell.

Tumblers that have had milk in them should never be put in hot water,

A spoonful of stewed tomatoes in the gravy of either roasted or fried meats is an improvement.

Persons troubled with feet that perspire or smell offensively can effect a cure by bathing them every night or oftener in a strong solution of borax. Two or three weeks of this treatment will probably be found sufficient.

General News.

D. L. K. The Licensed Victuallers' Association want to keep their saloons open until 11 o'clock Saturday night. It is a shame that an oppressive Government will not allow these open-hearted people to do what little they can to prepare people for the Sabbath.—Grip.

The economical Government at Ottawa still continues in the good work of oppressing certain clerks, door-keepers, and messengers. Twelve extra clerks were asked for, and seven only have been appointed. At these men draw $4 per day each, the difference in the sum total for the session will amount to quite an item. The pay of the twelve men required would amount to $48 per day, and for a session of ten full weeks $2,880. The cost of the sixty is $360 per day, $1,800 per week, and $14,400 [illegible] sessions of ten weeks, making a difference of $11,440, which amount is cheerfully thrown away. About fifteen doors and [illegible] were found enough last year, but this session it required in the neighborhood of $400, although three hundred [illegible] to fill the offices originally of these seven, and of only ten [illegible] leading [illegible] but [illegible] and their [illegible] Government can do them. RUPTURED AND DEFORMED PEOPLE.

Grand Medal and Diploma at the Centennial, Philadelphia; Grand Medal at the Universal Exhibition, Paris, France, Recommended by a large number of our leading medical men.

Charles Clothe's Patd Spiral Truss Pad has been the result of many years' study and material experience. Its perfect adaptability for Rupture is proven by the thousands now in use, among its many advantages are a gentle, constant and even pressure; it gives to the motion of the body without friction; complete ventilation (as shown in engraving), and a clamping pressure which does not open (as all oval pads) but closes the aperture of Hernia, hence only one-third pressure is required. It is this latter feature that has made this truss so eminently successful and proved a Radical Cure of from 50 to 70 per cent. of cases treated. This Truss cured persons of over 50 years of age. Only one belt round the waist, no leg straps and no springs required for its use.

Apparatus for straightening Spinal Curvature, Hip Disease, Bow Leg, Wry Neck, Club Feet, etc., made on most scientific principles. Price same as at my office.

CHARLES CLUTHE,

Surgical Machinist, Hamilton, Ontario, will visit Peterborough again about the month of June. Date announced shortly.

MANHOOD:

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

The Weathercock.

Sir John he went just to Westminster to cure
The deepness, all dark and truly;
But the weather was badly worse than then,
And he wished to come—nearly.

October, November, December came on,
As if determined our friends to fill off;
"Oh yes, the Conservatives," said Sir John,
"I'll cure it—with the chill off."

And another new year is now rolling along,
The depression still unpenetrating,
"Oh, give us some time, friends jolly Sir John,
"I'll cure it—weather permitting."

But Grip says to Sir John:—"It's plain you'd no plan.
Though a plan you long swore you did know,
Now, get out for a weathercock, give us a man,
Who will cure it—weather or no.
—Grip.

RESTORING THE DEAD.

The Experiment Successfully tried with a Man just Hanged.

The body of Merrick, who was hanged for murder in Indianapolis last week, was taken from the gallows directly to the medical college there and temporarily restored to life by artificial means. An account of the treatment will prove interesting.:—

The body was drawn upward at full length by the head until the toes rested in the tub in which it had lain. Instantly the assistants rubbed the body briskly with towels for two minutes, and then wrapped it from the shoulder down, with a warm blanket. Then the head and neck were manipulated in every way to set the dislocated joint. After this the body was returned to the table, the wind-pipe opened and a tube inserted to which a bellows was attached. Some of the veins opened to draw off the coagulated blood, and a jar of defibrinated sheep's blood was produced to be injected when all should be ready. The Indianapolis Herald tells what occurred next:

And now came the trial which all awaited in breathless anxiety. The professor of anatomy took charge of the jars of blood and milk, and was to turn the stopcocks to let it flow into the jugular vein, and thence into the heart, as the professor of physiology was to empty the blood from the head with the aspirator at the same time. Another student was to inflate the lungs with the bellows by a slow, easy motion, not more rapidly than eighteen times a minute. Another assistant was to move a scape valve on the bellows tube, so that when the lungs were filled it might empty itself of bad air, without blowing back into the bellows. The other assistants stood by the batteries to make the connections at the word.

At the word 'now,' every well trained head and hand began to work—all in harmony—and quietly. No sound at first but the wheezing of the bellows, and the measured thud, thud, of the piston of the air pump. The clotted blood from the heart poured into the receiver at first like a brown jelly, which after a few moments, was thinner, at last a stream of thin, warm blood. It was noticed that the blood mixture in the jar was lowering. The professor of physiology withdrew the aspirating needles, and stood with dilated pupils and flushed face. The chest of the dead man was moving regularly. He grasped the pulse and said in a whisper, "A tremor! tremor!, and then applying his ear to the chest for a moment, he sprang up and cried out in an excited manner, : 'By G—d, it moves.! I can feel its pulse!' A shout went up from every one, but followed in a moment by deathly stillness, for the swollen eyes of the dead were seen to roll in their sockets, each one looked at the other as much as to say, 'What have we done in restoring this man to life and suffering?' The battery at the heart and abdomen were now disconnected and all the semblance of life was observable. Nearly two pints of blood mixture had entered the veins. This was now cut off and artificial respiration kept up. The pulse could be counted, irregular, and over 100 per minute. The face of the subject was no longer livid but rather pale. The eyelids were half closed, and the eyeballs rolling; the pupils were discovered contracting and dilating according as it was exposed to the light. Some nitrate of amyl was held to the bellows for breathing was not through the mouth and nostrils, and instantly the heart beat more steadily, the face became of a better color, and the chest jerked as it there was a desire to cough. At this juncture the professor of physiology said:

"Gentlemen,—Our experiment thus far are successful. This man is living again, but can have no thought because the mass of brain is too nearly severed from the cord. No act of will, at least, can be performed. The spinal cord is itself the motor centre of the body, and as long as we keep up artifcial breathing the body will live.'

He then proceeded to drill several holes, as large as a sewing needle, into various parts of the skull, and touched the brain with the galvanic points, which caused the legs to jerk, the hands to clench, the eyes to roll, open, shut, and the tongue protrude. A full description of the anatomical points and physiological observations was carefully taken down, and will, doubtless, appear in the medical periodicals.

The experiment concluded by withdrawing the bellows and closing the opening in the windpipe by adhesive plaster, and all were startled by a sudden cough from the dead man, and a rolling of the head, with moaning sounds like one exhausted by suffering. This was followed by a convulsive action in the limbs, a fixture of the eyes and an appearance of a second death. The body became cool in twenty minutes. The whole experiment lasted from 11.30 p.m. to 12.20 a. m., Thursday, or 50 minutes.

THE ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

WEDNESDAY.

The forenoon sitting was occupied chiefly in advancing a number of Bills a stage. The greater part of the evening and afternoon was occupied with a debate on the motion to concur in the item for civil government. Mr. Deacon moved an amendment proposing a reduction of the salary of the Deputy Attorney-General from $2,800 to $2,500. Mr. Meredith moved as an amendment to this amendment a motion to make a general reduction of $500 in the salary of each Cabinet Minister, and of 10 per cent. in all Civil Service salaries over $800. In speaking to his motion he went briefly over the ground already so often travelled over by the Opposition during the session, including the bugbear of direct taxation. Mr. Mowat replied by pointing out how easy it would be for the Government to meet such a motion, either by simply concurring in it or going further in the same direction, but he held that it was imperative on the Government to have regard to the efficiency of the Civil Service, and maintained that the salaries are now as low as they can be put without impairing that efficiency. Mr. Morris, delightfully oblivious of the fact that he had been the first member of the House to introduce Dominion politics, by means of his amendment to the Address, censured the Premier for his jocular allusion to the expectations of better times as the result of the introduction of the "National Policy." Mr. Wood called attention to the fact that the motion was aimed chiefly at laymen, while there was no effort made to reduce the tariff of taxable fees for lawyers. By a reduction of ten per cent. on Civil Service salaries there would be a saving of $16,000 a year, but by a reduction of ten per cent. on taxable legal fees, which are under the control of the House, there would be a saving of $100,000 to the people. After some further discussion the amendment was voted down by a majority of 47 to 31.

Mr. Meredith and his lieutenants then moved some fifteen other resolutions proposing special reductions in Civil Service salaries, all of which were voted down by majorities varying from 15 to 19. On the motion to concur in the item for miscellaneous expenditure an amendment was moved by Dr. Clarke proposing to reduce the salary of the Inspector of Registry-offices from $2,000 to $1,500. A few supporters of the Government voted for the amendment, and by their assistance the Opposition succeeded in making the reduction. Some discussion ensued on the charge made by Mr. Scott that the Government supporters were bent on sacrificing a political opponent, the reply to the charge being that, on the testimony of the Inspector himself before the Public Accounts Committee his services would be sufficiently remunerated at a salary of $1,500. An analysis of the vote shows the absurdity of the charge of political animosity, as the Ministry and the great majority of their supporters treated this salary like the rest, nearly every member of the Opposition voted to cut it down. Of the 43 who voted tor the reduction 29 were members of the Opposition, and only 14 were Ministerial supporters; while of the 35 who voted to retain the present salary, $33 were supporters of the Government, and only two members of the Opposition.

The House, after concurring in the whole item for miscellaneous expenditure, adjourned at half-past one.

THURSDAY.

The first and a part of the second, sitting yesterday were occupied with the consideration of Mr. Mowat's Election Bill. The only part that created much discussion was the section providing that the electors of the village of Blythe shall at the next election be allowed to vote as they did before their recent incorporation. The Opposition signally failed to furnish any show of proof for the charge that the provision was prompted by political motives, and the necessity for its insertion in the Bill was made quite apparent by a reference to the fact that the uncertainty at present existing as to which riding of Huron it should be annexed to would probably lead to an attempt to controvert the next election if the doubt were not settled. The afternoon sitting was taken up with the discussion of the School Bill in Committee, when several amendments were made. Just before the adjournment of the House, which took place at six, Mr. Mayor MacIntosh, of Ottawa, came in for a somewhat severe snubbing from both sides of the House for an attack on Mr. Deacon contained in a circular which he had the presumption to lay on the desks of members. The dispute arose out of a Private Bill affecting the the city of Ottawa and its Street Railway Company.

FRIDAY.

After spending a considerable time in Committee on the School and Election Bills yesterday, the House took up consecutively in the items for Legislation and Administration of Justice. In connection with the appropriation for legislation, the Speaker's salary was, at his own suggestion, reduced from $1,500 to $1,250, the Opposition having been defeated in an attempt to cut it down to $1,000. There were thirteen divisions taken in all, nearly all of them at the instance of the Opposition, the majorities in the party votes ranging from 12 to 16. The pairs for the evening were Mr. Bethune and Dr. O'Sullivan, Mr. Bruder and Mr. Finleyson, and Mr. Purdon and Mr. Deacon. By a very decided expression of opinion, the House, while concurring in the payment of the $1,600 extra to each Superior Court Judge now on the Bench, affirmed its desire to throw that burden, incurred on this Province by the Dominion Macdonald Government, on the Government of the Dominion. With respect to salaries in the Superior Courts, the Opposition members favoured a reduction of ten per cent., as in the case of the Civil Service. The House adjourned at half-past twelve.
